NORWICH TOWN

STATE HUMANE SOCIETY CITES THE NORWICH BRANCH

The Connecticut Humane society, in its latest report, says: Last week the society offered a special reward of $50 for the identification of people who threw a bag containing three kittens from a swiftly moving car in the town of Bloomfield and left them by the side of the road to starve. Fortunately an officer of the society came along as the car drove rapidly away and rescued the kittens.

Last year the society humanely destroyed over 11,000 stray and unwanted cats and its agents are always ready to perform this service for anyone. The record shows that the people of this state are depending upon this agency more and more.

The Norwich branch, under the direction of F. H. Wyant, 24 Town street, Telephone 1890, is alert to answer every call of the city and the surrounding country in cases of distress or need, cruelty or abuse, abandonment or the legitimate disposal of any kind of animal.

Very soon its agents will be busy at the agricultural fairs throughout the state which are always under their investigation to prevent the illegal exhibition of animals and competitions under merciless managers who have often-times been very cruel to the participants. This has been the case in the pulling contests; but due to the society's constant insistence upon the operation of humane rules most of the abuses have been eradicated and the contestants are found to be very willing to co-operate with the humane officers.

The family department of the society has also been kept busy during the summer with its investigations of child welfare and conditions of neglect in old age. Many very trying and serious cases have come before it for adjustment during the last few weeks, involving knotty problems and serious legal complications. Some of these will not be solved until the next general assembly has an opportunity to enact legislation which shall prevent some very flagrant abuses that are now common in the state, such as child labor in the tobacco fields.

The pastor of the Norwich Town Methodist church, Rev. George Warren Potter, used for his sermon Sunday morning the text from I Cor. 1:25, "The foolishness of God is wiser than men." Doris Rose was organist in the absence of Mrs. Lewis Aldrich, who is attending Willimantic Camp meeting.

Helen L. Haviland of Pine Grove, Regina Hanaway and Mary Winters of Columbus, Ohio, were callers at the Methodist parsonage Sunday afternoon.

It's as difficult for some people to talk when they have something to say as it is for some others to keep silent when they have nothing to say.

JOHN H. WALKER LOGICAL CANDIDATE FOR SUPERIOR COURT APPOINTMENT

Indications are that John H. Walker, assistant clerk of the superior court of New London county, will be named to succeed George E. Parsons, whose retirement as clerk of the court becomes effective September 1st. Although there are two other names which are mentioned as candidates dates for the office, members of the legal profession and others feel, it is understood, that Mr. Walker is the logical candidate for the appointment. He is thoroughly familiar with the many exacting duties of the court clerk, having had nearly six years experience as assistant clerk of the court, and is in every way qualified for the appointment. The other two candidates mentioned are Attorney Hibberd R. Norman of this city, former assistant clerk of the court and Attorney Lewis Crandall, of New London, clerk of the court of common pleas of New London county.

It is probable that the appointment of a temporary clerk will be made early next month when the superior court convenes for the September session. Judge Allyn L. Brown, who will preside at the September term of the criminal court will probably make the temporary appointment.

The permanent appointment has to be made by the judges of the superior court of the state. As the judges generally accept the recommendations of the county judges in appointments of this nature, it is probable that whatever recommendation is made by Judge Allyn L. Brown of this city and Judge Christopher L. Avery of Groton will be adopted at the judges' meeting. As the next regular meeting of the superior court judges is not scheduled until June of next year, a special meeting may be held to appoint a permanent clerk.

Mr. Walker, for the past five and a-half years has been assistant clerk of the court under an appointment from the judges of the superior and supreme courts. He has held the position here since that time, and has become thoroughly familiar with the workings of the court, under the direction of the retiring clerk, George E. Parsons. On many occasions Mr. Walker has conducted the office, during the absence of the clerk, and at the present time is acting clerk of the court.

For three successful campaigns Mr. Walker was confidential secretary to the republican state committee of New Hampshire when Senator Gallinger was chairman. Shortly after becoming associated with Senator Gallinger, Mr. Walker was tendered the appointment of clerk of the U. S. District court for the district of New Hampshire, which he declined.

At Washington, D. C., he held many responsible and high political positions among which was clerk of the senate committee on the District of Columbia. In addition to his duties as clerk of this committee, Mr. Walker also held the position of clerk of the senate office building commission and Washington representative of the American Railway Business association. As clerk of the district committee, Mr. Walker handled the details of the big volume of district legislation that passed through the committee.

At one time, previous to going to Washington Mr. Walker was private secretary to Prof. J. W. Sanborn, president of the agricultural college of Utah.

Mr. Walker resigned as clerk of the senate committee after seven years service, to take a responsible position with the American Woolen company in New York city. At the end of three years' service he resigned his position of assistant secretary of the American Woolen company of New York, where he had charge of the correspondence and advertising departments, in order that he might gratify a life-long ambition to study law.

JOHN H. WALKER.

Mr. Walker attended Yale law school and at the same time his son was attending Yale academic. Mr. Walker entered the Yale Law school in 1916, completing his course in 1918. He was one of 11 out of about 40 candidates who passed the bar examinations in December 1918, and was admitted to the practice of law before the Connecticut bar, by the late Judge Case at Hartford in January, 1919. He took special law courses at Columbia university and the University of Chicago.

At New London Mr. Walker later opened a law office. He continued his law practice until January, 1923, when he accepted an appointment to his present position of assistant clerk of the superior court for New London county. Ever obliging, of a ready wit, Mr. Walker has made a wide circle of friends since he has taken his present position and made Norwich his home.

Hibberd R. Norman, forer assistant clerk of the court, who has been mentioned as a candidate for the appointment, is, it is understood, not inclined to take the appointment. He has an extensive law practice and is also county health officer.

Mr. Norman was assistant clerk under Clerk Parsons for approximately 15 years. Since he resigned the position nearly six years ago he has conducted his profession as an attorney and also the duties of county health officer.

The remaining candidate, Attorney Lewis Crandall of New London, clerk of the common pleas court, it is pointed out, has had no clerical experience in the higher court. The position of clerk of the superior court also carries with it the title of clerk of the supreme court of errors for this county. Furthermore as the clerk's office is in this city, the practical seat of the county, the feeling in this section of the county among the lawyers is that it should go to a Norwich man.

A TWO WEEKS' MISSION FOR ST. PATRICK'S PARISH

The parable of the Good Samaritan, Luke 10, 23-37, was the gospel read in all the Catholic churches of the world Sunday, the twelfth Sunday after Pentecost. The day's epistle was 2 Corinthians 3, 4-9.

In his announcements during the 7:30 low mass which he read as usual, the rector of St. Patrick's church, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May stated a two weeks' mission to be conducted by priests of the Passionist Order would open in the church the first week of October.

Monsignor May announced that the parish Holy Name society would receive communion in a body the coming Sunday at the 7:30 mass.

He referred to the fact that the weekly revenues of the church are increasing in a gratifying manner since the system of each individual increasing his or her Sunday offering has been adopted.

Monsignor May was assisted by Rev. Myles P. Galvin in administering holy communion to a large proportion of the congregation, the Rosary society receiving the Eucharist in a body.

CHAMBER INQUIRES ABOUT VETERANS' HOSPITAL SITE

In a letter sent to A. D. Hiller, assistant to the director, D. S. veterans bureau at Washington, with regard to the proposed sites in this section for the new $1,000,000 veterans hospital, which is to be located somewhere in southern New England, Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the chamber, has the following to say:

"It has been a considerable time since we had any word from you regarding the United States veterans' hospital project.

"Naturally we are interested in knowing whether either of our proposals—the Gager property or the Winslow Williams property—have had your consideration.

"Have we still got a reasonable chance? It may be that some action on our part would greatly facilitate matters for the government.

"Please feel free to call upon us at any time."

ROBT. D. SAGE TO BE GIVEN THREE MONTHS' VACATION

Robert D. Sage, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Sage, of Cedar street, Norwich, who for over two years has been private secretary to the manager of the Atlantic Refining company, stationed in Venezuela, near Maracaibo, writes his parents that he is to have a vacation. Starting Sept. 29th he will sail for home and will have three months' leave of absence. Early in the new year he will return to his duties in Venezuela.

Mr. Sage was graduated from Temple university in Philadelphia. While the climate in Mayacaybo is hot, the employes of the refining company have comfortable quarters, with every modern device for refrigeration, etc.

TAFTVILLE MEN LEAVE ON 10 DAYS AUTO TRIP

George Weller, Sr., and Henry Kendall, both of Lisbon, Edward Burdick of New Bedford ad Hugh Copeland of Taftville left Sunday morning for a ten days automobile trip. The trip is being made in Mr. Kendall's automobile and will take them through New Hampshire and Vermont into Canada. The return trip will be made through New York state. The party is to stop and visit the various interesting points en route.

TO ENFORCE LAW AGAINST AUTO STICKERS

Strict enforcement of the law against stickers and pasters on automobile windshields and windows has been requested of the police of Connecticut by Robbins B. Stoeckel, commissioner of motor vehicles. In a letter to all chiefs of police he calls attention to prohibited view obstructions such as advertising signs, travel pasters, the "Guest of Canada" signs, college and other pennants, and stickers used by manufacturers, no matter how small or how well placed, regarding the operation of a car.

"No abnormal condition brought about by the use of any and all obstructions to sight ought to be tolerated," says the commissioner. "This is not a mater for the sake of enforcement of the law alone, but also a matter of protection to the operator of the car, for it will be readily understood that if a car with an obstruction to sight does injury the claim may be that the damage was caused by reason of the obstruction of the sight line by the paster."

Everyone in traffic would benefit by strict enforcement of this law, Commissioner Stoeckel says. His request for execution of the law is emphatic. "I would like to see the police, if such a course is not contrary to present policies, insist on the observance of this law to the letter. It seems to me absolutely essential to safety that this matter of carrying stickers and signs be stopped at its inception and not allowed to progress and become more dangerous than it now is."

The statute referring to this offense is Section 40 (e) of the mootr vehicle laws, which provides that "no article shall be attached to any motor vehicle in such manner as to interfere with an unobstructed view of the highway upon which any person shall be operating such vehicle." A fine of $50.00 may be imposed for violation.

Letters have also been written to registrars of motor vehicles in various Canadian provinces suggesting that there might be a way of notifying hotels, bureaus and distributing agencies that "Guest of Canada" signs create a situation where the person attaching them to his car may be prosecuted when he gets back home. If this fact is drawn to the attention of distributors, he says it may be the case that a good many persons who put them on with a very pardonable spirit of pride in having been "Guest of Canada," will escape prosecution for neglect to take them off when they cross the Connecticut border.

In presenting additional reason for his opposition to the use of window stickers, it is pointed out that manufacturers provide as much sightline as possible on all cars. Posts which support the top and the enclosures are all put in with that point in view. As soon as an operator attaches extra articles he is interfering with normality by changing conditions to which he is accustomed and under which he can drive safely. In asking for enforcement of this law the department is recognizing that there are already on the highways extreme cases which ought to be punished, and many others well meant but tending towards a practice which ought to be discontinued.

ROSARIO PATTI KILLED—CAR BREAKS THROUGH RAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug.19—Rosario Patti, 17, son of Anelo Patti, residing with his sister, Mrs. Thomas Frank, 23 Prospect street, Pawcatuck, was almost instantly killed tonight shortly after 7 o'clock in an automobile accident in Stonington, on the Voluntown road off the Norwich road, near the North Stonington town boundary line.

The accident was reported to have occurred when the Buick touring car driven by Patti from Voluntown to Westerly went off the road and through the guard rail to the brook near Shunoc river in an attempt to pass two other cars.

H. J. GIBBS WILLING TO RUN FOR CONGRESS

Hermon J. Gibbs of Yantic, William N. Citron of Middletown, minority leader in the general assembly at the last session, and Robert O. Snow of Willimantic, prominent in the democratic party, have announced their willingness to run for congress from the second congressional district on the democratic ticket. Mr. Gibbs served this district as senator in the state legislature from 1922-1924 and in 1926 was nominated congressman from the second congressional district. The Yantic man ran against Congressman Richard P. Freeman of New London, republican. Mr. Gibbs, who is station agent at the C. V. depot, Yantic, is a member of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, of which he is general chairman. In 1927 he was a delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention at St. Louis and next November will go to New Orleans, where he is to be present at the A. F. of L. convention.

LISBON ANGLERS GOT RECORD BASS CATCH

A party of three, Edward Thoma, George J. Meyer and Theodore Kendall, all of Blissville, Lisbon, caught a record creel of large mouth bass Sunday morning in the Voluntown ponds. They returned with 28, the fish averaging in size from a pound and three quarters to three quarters of a pound. A picture of this string on the Norwich pamphlet ought to act as an incentive in attracting people to Norwich and vicinity for the sport.

Judge Libby also ordered Green to post a $250 bond to insure his payments of the support. Green was arrested Friday evening by Officers Henry Fenton and Patrick Shahan.

GARDNER LAKE SERVICE HELD BY REV. G. W. POTTER

"The Foolishness of God" was the theme used for the sermon given by Rev. George Warren Potter at Gardner Lake Methodist church, Sunday afternoon. The text was from 1 Cor. 1:25. "The foolishness of God is wiser than men." Rev. Mr. Potter said "It would not be wise for a lesser man than Paul to use this phrase. 'The Foolishness of God' for it might savor of thoughtlessness, or lack of reverence. We must always be calm when we talk of God. If you were talking about men you would not hesitate to use the word foolishness. Every man is at times foolish—some more so—some persistently, some only occasionally; but foolishness is goods we all have in stock." Rev. Potter quoted many things that have been said by men in their criticism of how God runs the universe, and he sought to show how these things in their apparent foolishness is wiser than anything man could do.

Miss Dorothy Gillingham led the singing and Jack Larshaw was organist.

The congregation that filled the church was made up of campers from Cadaho camp, Camp Tohaci, Camp Juanita, Camp Adajuan and the New London Girl Scout camp.

Woodworth of New London near the Lower Occum switch Friday evening, and drove away. Irons was arrested by Deputy Sheriff John J. McGuire of Baltic. A witness in the case was Louise M. FEAR STOCKHOLM FLIGHT HAS ENDED IN DISASTER

As Time Passes Without Radio Signals Fram Hassell and Cramer, Their Backers Are Becoming Anxious—The Plane Greater Rockford Was Due to Reach Mount Evans, Greenland, Sunday Morning—The Coast Guard Cutter Marion Has Been Ordered to Search For the Missing Aviators.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20—(AP)—Their radio signals unheard for more than 36 hours, grave anxiety was felt tonight by the Rockford, Ill., backers of the good will flight from Rockford to Stockholm, Sweden, of Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer.

The most optimistic including relatives of the aviators believed that the flyers, last heard from Sunday morning at 4 o'clock, Chicago daylight time, may have made a forced landing somewhere in Greenland when they failed to attain their objective at Mount Evans. In this case days might elapse before the two men fought their way to a point where they might communicate with the outside world.

Steps were taken during the day to search for the airmen when the coast guard cutter Marion, now near the route they were expected to take, was ordered to take up the quest. The Marion is off Cape Chidley and the radio report from the monoplane "Greater Rockford," picked up Sunday morning indicated the plane's position at that time as about 75 miles off this cape.

The flyers who left Reckford on Thursday after once failing to get away, made the first leg of their journey to Cochrane, Ont., without incident, and left Cochrane Saturday noon on the second 800 mile lap to Mount Evans. Intermittent radio reports giving their position were heard until 4 o'clock Sunday morning when the signals indicating the position off Cape Chidley were picked up.

The plane was due at Mount Evans a few hours later but did not land and no further word has been heard from it. Relatives of the flyers manifested their concern today when Hassell's mother and brother motored from Rockford to Madison to ascertain if radio operators there who had been picking up signals had received further word.

Hassell's wife last night refused to believe that the plane had fallen, declaring that if it were to have suffered such a fate, it would have happened earlier in the flight. Today she had no comment to make and secluded herself in her home at Rockford with her three children.

LITTLE HOPE FOR PLANE IF DOWN IN OPEN WATER

NAIN, Labrador, Bowdoin Harbor, Aug 20—(By radio to the Associated Press)—If the monoplane Greater Rockford, bearing Pilot Bert Hassell and Radio Operator Parker Cramer, is down in open water there is no possibility of them getting ashore, Comdr. Donald B. MacMillan said tonight.

Weather conditions here have been beautiful for the past few weeks, with light south winds and but little sea. The weather is not so good today and a change is probably forthcoming, with indicated winds from the east which will be favorable for the plane.

If the plane is not seaworthy, Commander MacMillan, in charge of the Rawson Field Museum expedition here, and Arctic explorer, believes "it is all over."

"If they are down in the vicinity of Cape Chidley we may not hear from them for several weeks," Commander MacMillan says, "as the fishermen are now leaving in their schooners. Some of the bays are deep, and efforts to walk to safety would be almost impossible for one not knowing sites of the Eskimo encampments."

Nain, Labrador, is about 325 miles south of Cape Chidley where Operator Crane is reported to have been when he sent the signal R at 3 o'clock central time Sunday morning. The signal R designated the plane as "75 miles off Cape Chidley," according to a pre-arranged schedule.

Bowdoin harbor where Commander MacMillan and the expedition are located is about 25 miles north of Nain, or within easy radio distance of where the Greater Rockford dispatched its final signal.

"We are keeping a sharp lookout for any signals which may come," Commander MacMillan said.

"Ice conditions on and near Labrador this year have been most unusual. We have not seen a pack of ice since June 15. Old fishermen have never seen anything like that.

"Scarcity of any ice for footing ends a hazard which the fliers might otherwise use in making their way to and."

Commander MacMillan in his message disclosed plans for the expedition's departure south tomorrow. It is due to arrive at Wiscasset, Maine, during the next few weeks, after a year in the sub-Arctic area for the Field Museum expedition, which is also co-financed by Frederick H. Rawson, Chicago capitalist.

SCENE SET FOR SMITH'S SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 20—(AP)—Leaving preparations for his notification ceremony Wednesday evening to others, Governor Smith put in a lengthy turn at his office today, with his mind chiefly on state business. His main concern seemed to be to clear his desk for the action of the campaign, which will get under way with the delivery of his acceptance speech.

Unless the weather man serves up a bad storm, the notification exercises will take place at dusk on the east steps of the capitol, otherwise in the assembly chamber where the nominee years ago got his first round of political training.

Flags and bunting were draped today over the stands and flood lights, which will be used to illuminate the capitol front and adjoining park as darkness is falling Wednesday, were placed in position.

Every now and then a voice would boom out, as the amplifying apparatus was tested. When he addresses those massed about him, the governor's voice will not only be carried to the far fringes of the crowd, but to the far corners of the earth through a radio hookup of around 100 broadcasting stations.

Officials in charge of arrangements for the notification have figured that 144,000 persons would be able to get within sight and hearing range of the governor during his speech, and they are predicting that the throng actually will top 100,000.

Special trains, boats and buses, together with thousands of automobiles, will bring in visitors from out of town.

Within the space of two hours Wednesday, 18 special trains will arrive on the New York Central alone, most of them coming from New York city. Other railroads also have arranged special train service.

With hotels unable to handle the expected crowd, chamber of commerce officials have appealed to citizens to open their homes, and many persons are being assigned sleeping quarters in nearby Troy and Schenectady.

COMPLAINT AGAINST WAR MINISTER OF BULGARIA

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 20—(AP)—Difficulties created by Macedonian revolutionists, which led to a recent joint notice from France and England that Bulgaria must take steps to wipe out the comitadji, are finding an echo in cabinet circles.

A. D. Duroff, foreign minister is said to have demanded of Premier Liaptcheff the resignation of General Ivan Volkoff, minister of war. The foreign minister accuses his fellow cabinet member of having relations with the Macedonian revolutionaries and thus being largely responsible for the Anglo-French protest.

General Volkoff has been denounced also by former Premier Zankoff, who charges that the general accepted bribes and was a party to the plot that resulted in the assassination early last month of General Alexander Protogeroff. The latter was a Macedonian leader and his death was followed b the killing of Ivan Michailoff.

Demand for the resignation of General Ivan Volkoff as minister of war in the Bulgarian cabinet is the second recent instance in which his name has been with the Macedonian revolutionaries.

On July 18 it was reported that his position had become untenable and that he had fled to Italy. Two days later the Comitadji situation became so acute that it caused a dispute between Jugoslavia and Bulgaria and the former closed the frontier.

REAR ADMIRAL JAMES PROVES TO BE FICTITIOUS

ANSONIA, Conn., Aug. 20—(AP)—Thomas Marshall James, retired admiral of the British navy, is not a person in real life and never was, but Mrs Priscilla Schweppe Schneller created him for listing her home telephone in Greenwich, Conn., under his name, she says in a letter to her attorney, because it would probably deter burglars from giving the manless household a scare.

Mrs. Schneller wrote from London, England, to throw light upon a situation which developed over the will of her former husband, George O. Schneller manufacturer of this city, whom she divorced in Paris in 1924, and in which Judge John L. Gilson was asked to interpret the words "his wife" which, when the will was drawn in 1920 meant Mrs. Schneller. It was stated in court that Mrs. Schneller apparently had remarried one Thomas Marshall James, presumably identified at Greenwich as a retired admiral. The former Mrs. Schneller had transferred parcels of realty there under the James name.

PALLOTTI NOT CANDIDATE FOR SECRETARY OF STATE

HARTFORD, Aug. 20—(AP)—The possibility that Secretary of State Francis A. Pallotti might again accept the republican nomination for his present position on the state ticket, was dispelled here today when he issued a statement definitely removing himself as a candidate for the secretaryship.

"I am not a candidate for secretary of state nor will I accept the nomination for secretary of state," Mr. Pallotti said in a statement given to the press this afternoon.

In response to an inquiry relative to his attitude toward the lieutenant governor nomination, Secretary Pallotti said:

"I will cross that bridge later. At the present time I am in the hands of my friends."

While Secretary Pallotti's statement removed him from the list of candidates for that post, it automatically projected the candidacy of Dr. William L. Higgins, of Coventry, who announced several weeks ago that he would seek the nomination for the secretaryship if Secretary Pallotti was not again a candidate.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(AP)—Paul A. Siple, 19-year-old Eagle Scout of Erie, Pa., today was selected as the Boy Scout to accompany the Byrd Antarctic expedition. He will be special assistant and orderly to Commander Richard E. Byrd.

The entire scout field had been given an opportunity to nominate scouts between 17 and 20 years of age who had certain specified qualifications and experience.

A special committee of Boy Scout officials reviewed the applications of the 88 boys and selected 17. These were rated by another committee and six were chosen for the final competition.

TOOMBS APPEARED BEFORE REFERENCE IN BANKRUPTCY

CHICAGO, Aug. 20—(AP)—Under the protecting arm of a federal writ preventing his arrest and removal from Illinois, Roy C. Toombs came out of seclusion today and appeared before a referee in bankruptcy for examination into the affairs of his brokerage firm, Toombs and Daily.

At the same time counsel for the Chicago broker, banker and insurance man was at the state capital in Springfield opposing his extradition to St. Louis under charges of grand larceny growing from alleged misappropriation of securities belonging to his insurance company, the International Life.

The hearing at Springfield was concluded with a recommendation sent to Gov. Len Small who honored the requisition for the extradition.

Toombs appeared before the federal referee, Garfield Charles, voluntarily and was not accompanied by counsel. While he was being examined four policemen were waiting outside with warrants for his arrest but Mr. Charles warned them not to molest him while the examination was in progress.

Toombs denied any unlawful intentions in connection with his financing as president of his two companies, the insurance and brokerage firms and blamed his troubles on his attempts to straighten out the affairs of the insurance company.

He said he thought the insurance firm was in good condition when he purchased it, but found that it was "practically insolvent." A minority report of insurance examiners, Toombs said, revealed the actual condition of the insurance company but had not been filed with the majority report on which he based his purchase.

Facing this situation, Toombs said he tried to bolster up the insurance company by using securities of his brokerage firm and had hoped to tide the company over. He said he had planned a whole reorganization but was unable to carry it out when the company was thrown into receivership.

J. J. Lemen, assistant circuit attorney of St. Louis who is here with two detectives to extradite Toombs, told Referee Charles no attempt would be made to take Toombs in custody until the examination was completed. Charles said the hearing would require several days.

INVESTIGATION OF NIGHT CLUB PATRONAGE CLOSED

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(AP)— While New York's social, financial and theatrical leaders were waiting in a grand jury anteroom to be quizzed about their night club patronage, United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle today returned from a vacation and abruptly closed the investigation.

Norman J. Morrison, special assistant attorney general representing Mrs Mabel Walker Willebrandt, arrived this morning from Washington to question the 125 witnesses subpoenaed by the grand jury. Mrs. Willebrandt is assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement.

"The subpoenaes were issued while I was out of town," said Mr. Tuttle. "When I returned and sized up the situation I realized that it wasn't right to subject all these New Yorkers to pitiless publicity that was unnecessary. The inquiry will be continued but along other lines."

Mr. Tuttle stopped the investigation after a conference with his assistant in charge of prohibition enforcement, Thomas E. Kerwin, Mr. Tuttle insisted that he was acting on his own responsibility.

"I don't think I better say anything about that," he said when asked if he had been in communication with Washington.

Among those called before the grand jury this morning, Mr. Tuttle said, were Philip M. Plant, Stepson of former United States Attorney William Hayward; E. C. Onet, broker; Mary Blumberg, bookkeeper for Luigi whose Greenwich Village restaurant was raided, and J. P. Silo, auctioneer.

Morrison answered all questions with the assertion he had a "gentleman's agreement" with Mr. Tuttle whereby the latter was to issue all statement.

An attorney was there for William B. Leeds, Jr., son of the late tin plate king. Leeds, he said, was in Europe and "might return" if Morrison insisted.

LEGAL ACTION MAY PREVENT NEW YORK-TO-ROME FLIGHT

HARTFORD, Aug. 20—(AP)—A New York doctor of Italian birth, who said he had advanced $12,000 to Count Cesare Sabelli on the latter's promise to take him as a passenger on the proposed New York-to-Rome flight of the Roma, cast the dark shadow of possible legal difficulties over the plans of the count today, as the great airship lay in a hangar at Brainard field! being prepared for a test flight.

The doctor, Dr. Leon M. Pisculli, of 235 Second avenue, New York city, who is an ardent aviation fan, and if taken, would be the first passenger to make the New York-to-Rome crossing if the proposed flight should be successful, has engaged New York and Hartford lawyers to recover the money he is alleged to have advanced to Count Sabelli. In the advent that the money is not forthcoming, the sheriff is empowered under the writ he holds to attach the airplane and hold it at Brainard field until the case is disposed of in court.

Dr. Butler's Letter Written to Repub.

Sixty-Third Disagrees With Hoover Stand on Naval Program and the 18th Amendment.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's opposition to the prohibition and armament views of Herbert Hoover, as set forth in a letter to the New York Times today, was expressed by the Columbia university president "as a republican and as a member of the party organization."

The letter by the educator, long prominent in the party whose standard Mr. Hoover now bears, caused something of a sensation in political circles. Dr. Butler disagreed with the republican nominee's stand on the naval program of the United States and on the eighteenth amendment, repeal of which the Columbia president favors.

When asked whether his letter was to be construed as meaning that he would support Governor Smith, Dr. Butler replied with this statement, which he declined to amplify:

"Reading of my letter to the New York Times this morning ought to make it perfectly plain that the position I have taken has been taken by me as a republican and as a member of the party organization."

Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, acting chairman of the republican state committee, through whom the statement was given out, said she herself had "no statement of any kind" to make on her father's position.

Leaders of both parties declined to discuss the Butler letter. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Senator Joe T. Robinson, democratic vice presidential nominee, however, made brief comments.

The secretary, returning on the Leviathan from a European vacation, said:

"I do not think Dr. Butler's statement will have any effect on the campaign."

Senator Robinson said he was "very glad" to read the educator's letter and "to know that he is dissatisfied with some aspects of political questions presented by Mr. Hoover."

The letter asserted that Dr. Butler wished to disassociate himself "quickly, publicly and completely" from Mr. Hoover's positions on armament and prohibition. It said the writer was confident that "literally millions of earnest republicans throughout the country" were in full agreement with him.

Dr. Butler took issue with Mr. Hoover's assertion that "adequate preparedness for defense" was a factor for peace and said the contrary was true.

Mr. Hoover's "troubles begin" on the prohibition question, the letter said, when the candidate opposes repeal of the eighteenth amendment, for he accepts "the formula of that paid band of agitators and lobbyists which calls itself the Anti-Saloon league."

"The facts being what they are," Dr. Butler asserted, "to declare for law enforcement in respect to the eighteenth amendment is to declare for lawlessness and for a continuous and organized assault, under official protection the letter said, when the candidate opposes repeal of the eighteenth amendment, for he accepts "the formula of that paid band of agitators and lobbyists which calls itself the Anti-Saloon league."

"The facts being what they are," Dr. Butler asserted, "to declare for law enforcement in respect to the eighteenth amendment is to declare for lawlessness and for a continuous and organized assault, under official protection upon the foundations of our government."

HOOVER TRAIN NOW SPEEDING THROUGH IOWA

HOOVER TRAIN EN ROUTE TO WEST BRANCH, Iowa, Aug. 20—(AP)—Speeding through the home state of his running mate today, Herbert Hoover received assurances that the defenders of this republican stronghold were determined to roll up one of the greatest majorities in November that the party has won in years.

Brought first by party leaders who boarded the train at Dodge City, the first stop in the Sunflower state, the candidate received new indications of enthusiasm for the republican cause as his caravan stopped at the cities which rose at intervals upon the rolling prairie lands.

Bronzed, overalled farmers, fresh from the corn and wheat fields, stood with their wives in a broiling midwest sun while the republican nominee thanked them from his train platform for their interest in his cause. Then they joined in rousing cheers for Hoover, paid alike by business men and professional men.

At Hutchinson, where several thousand persons had gathered to greet him on his passage to the eastern political battle front, the nominee asserted that he must attribute a part of their enthusiasm to "that great citizen of Kansas, Senator Curtis," who is his partner on the ticket.

With Kansas City, Mo., as the last scheduled stop for the night, Hoover turned his thoughts to his birthplace at West Branch, Iowa, where tomorrow he will renew associations of his childhood and revisit familiar scenes.

SENATOR ROBINSON MAPPING OUT ITINERARY

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(AP)—Expressing confidence as to the solidarity of the south for the democratic ticket when he arrived today, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the party's vice-presidential nominee, put in a busy day mapping out a speaking itinerary which probably will call for his appearance in eight southern states in the early stages of the campaign.

He declared emphatically that the word he brought to the democratic national committee as to conditions in the south was encouraging and that there had been a "tremendous change in public sentiment" since his visit to New York shortly after the Houston convention.

He contended that republican claims of strength in the south had aroused the democrats "as I have never seen them aroused before" and predicted that the popularity of Governor Smith will grow as the campaign progresses.

Further than to say that after his notification in Hot Springs, Arkansas, Aug 30, he proposed to speak in Dallas and Cisco, Texas, on Sept. 3 and 4, the senator declined to discuss the itinerary under consideration.

George B. Harvey Died At Dublin, N. H.

Eminent Statesman and Publicist Was Stricken With Heart Disease at His Summer Home.

DUBLIN, N. H., Aug. 20—(AP)—George B. Harvey, publicist, diplomat and maker of presidents, died suddenly today at his summer home here of a heart attack. A month ago he had sought relief from an attack of asthma in the high altitudes of New Hampshire and until today it had appeared that he was recovering his health. He was 64 years old.

Colonel Harvey came here on July 24 from Elmhurst, L. I., to spend the remainder of the summer at Shallcrest on Pumpelly Hill, an estate which he had leased for a summer home. In spite of his physical condition he maintained close touch with the progress of the republican presidential campaign and frequent conferences were held at Shallcrest by eastern party leaders. William M. Butler, former senator from Massachusetts and former chairman of the republican national committee, and Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire were among his guests here.

Last Thursday he suffered a recurrence of asthma but the discomfort passed and members of his household believed he was returning to normal health, until today when a heart attack caused his death within a few seconds. Plans for the funeral had not been completed tonight but it was announced he would be buried at Peacham, Vt., his birthplace. The ceremony will be simple and attended by few other than members of the family.

George Harvey, one of the foremost publicists of his time and ambassador to the Court of St. James in the turbulent post-war days, attained the singular distinction of having had a large share in the making of two successive presidents, one a democrat and the other a republican.

The editor and publisher was generally credited with having launched Woodrow Wilson upon the political seas when Wilson was head of Princeton university. He later became one of Wilson's bitterest foes.

He had a part in the selection of Warren G. Harding as the compromise republican presidential nominee at Chicago in 1920; aided Harding materially in his campaign and was reputed to have formulated the issue of anti-Wilsonism and opposition to the league of nations that dominated the Harding-Cox contest for the presidency. His reward was appointment to the highest diplomatic post within the gift of the new president, that of ambassador to London.

Born during the Civil war, February 16 1864, at Peacham in rock-ribbed republican ermont, Harvey originally was a republican. After attending Peacham academy, Vermont and Nevada universities and Middleton and Erskine colleges, he turned to newspaper work and changed his political faith while so engaged.

Harvey started his career as publicist on the Springfield Republican. Later he was on the staff of the Chicago Daily News when Melville E. Stone, one of the founders of The Associated Press was editor. Then he turned to the strongly democratic New York World, of which he became managing editor.

Leaving the World in 1893 to become president of several electric railways which he built, Harvey found the lure of the publishing world irresistible and six years later he bought the North American Review, which he edited almost continuously until he sold it in October, 1926 when he retired from active work. Besides the North American Review, Harvey also was president and editor of Harper's Weekly, the magazine he used to further the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson for governor of New Jersey and president and the enthusiastic support of which became the direct cause of the estrangement between the fiery editor and the presidential candidate.

TWO WARRANTS FOR TOM MIX, SCREEN COWBOY

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Two warrants for the arrest of Tom Mix, screen cowboy star, were issued at the city prosecutor's office late today following complaints sworn to by Miss Midgie Miller, wife of Will Morrissey, stage and cabaret comedian.

Miss Miller, her left eye covered with a bandage, appeared alone at the prosecutor's office. Her husband, she said, was "flat on his back from the booting Mix gave him," and was suffering from a slight concussion of the brain as a result.

Miss Miller reiterated a previous charge that Mix made an improvoked attack upon her husband at a house warming party given by a friend at Playa Del Rey. The special charge in the complaint was battery.

She admitted Morrissey had handed Mix some "left handed compliments" before the fists began flying.

Mix, in statements issued today, denied that he had started the battle. He said he had struck Morrissey only in self-defense.

Morrissey and his wife were arrested today following the fight on a charge of inebriety.

Miss Miller later appeared in court and was released on a $20 bail. Morrissey did not appear, however, his attorney testifying that he was in bed recovering from the effects of the fight.

Miss Miller declared that a civil suit against Mix would be filed.

FINANCIAL AID FOR THE STRANDED MIDSHIPMEN

BOSTON, Aug. 20—(AP)—Elmer R. Jones, executive secretary of the American Nautical Schools, Inc., said today that additional funds will be cabled to the commander of the school ship "Albatross" reported stranded in Hamburg, Germany, without sufficient funds to get back to the United States with the 100 midshipmen she has aboard.

Mr Jones said that the decision to cable the money came after a meeting of the trustees of the corporation and that Captain Connelly, commander of the school ship, had asked for the additional money when the ship's budget proved insufficient owing to an extension of the cruise itinerary.

The Albatross left Boston on July 12 with 100 prospective midshipmen aboard. The middies are in training for the merchant marine service and have visited several ports in Europe. Mr. Jones said that he had been advised that all were well aboard.

GOV. SMITH RESENTS ATTACK OF EDITOR WHITE, KANSAS

Democratic Standard Bearer Declares That the Criticism of His Legislative Record Was Slanderous, Unfair, Un-American—Accuses National Republican Committee of Openly Associating Itself With White's Personal Attack—Gov. Smith Particularly Denounced Accusation of Protecting Immorality.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 20—(AP)—Training his guns on William Allen White and other critics of his public career, Governor Smith declared tonight in the course of a detailed and lengthy review of his stand on social legislation as a member of the New York assembly that his record "as an opponent of immorality is fixed and secure."

The democratic presidential nominee's statement, made public after several weeks had been spent in its preparation, was aimed particularly at the Kansas editor, who recently charged that the governor, as a legislator, favored the saloon and organized vice.

It assailed also the republican national committee for "openly associating itself with this personal attack," and was intended to include in its scope among others Dr. John Roach Straton, New York Baptist minister, who has been outspoken in assaults on the governor.

As for Mr. White, the nominee said that the editor's statements about him and his legislative record were "slanderous" and that the attack on him was "unfair, unmanly and un-American."

In formulating his reply to White the governor, who on Wednesday evening will accept formally the democratic presidential nomination, studied dozens of old legislative journals and records, and to refresh his memory examined in detail scores of proposals listed by the Kansan.

"I am glad to have this matter out of the whispering state and put in the open," he said, "once and for all I shall meet it now. I regard it as purely political, and when the campaign begins I do not propose to have the issues of that campaign befogged by controversy over irrelevant things, such as the discussion of my votes as a legislator some twenty or more years ago."

Declaring that "publicly and by many letters in my possession, the late Rev. Canon John L. Peters, when chairman of the committee of fourteen, the leading anti-vice society of New York, repeatedly thanked me for my cooperation with that organization," the governor went on:

"No one in all the 25 years of my public life has ever dared to make the vile suggestions which emanated from Mr. White, with the approval of Henry J. Allen, publicity director of the republican national committee. What a cowardly course the republican national committee pursued. It issued a slanderous statement through its official publicity bureau, then after its general publication in the press, attempted to evade responsibility by the childish claim that it had been given out by accident. That is not fair play."

In this connection Governor Smith referred to White's cablegram from Europe last week denying that he had "retracted" those charges against the nominee dealing with gambling and prostitution and which, the governor added, was given to the newspapers as an "official release" from the republican national committee.

The governor said there had been a "deliberate attempt" to show that his votes "dealt with a far greater number number of so-called liquor bills than in fact they did." He also charged that the intent of various proposals had been misrepresented, and he recalled that republican leaders in the legislature frequently had lined up as he did on them.

With regard to commercialized vice, the governor referred to his vote against a bill first before the assembly in 1910 which sought to regulate the renting of rooms in hotels and which, he contended, was "unquestionably unconstitutional and unworkable."

As for gambling, Mr. Smith said all the bills referred to by Mr. White dealt with betting at race tracks. At a regular session, the nominee recalled, he voted with Governor Hughes "against the race tracks," but at a special session later "voted the other way" as a protest against "the unjustified action of the governor in calling the legislature back into extraordinary session after the matter had been fully thrashed out and disposed of at the regular session."

"I have been called by my party to leadership in a great campaign," said the governor in winding up his statement. "I am hoping to be put in a position to do for the people of this country what I have accomplished for the betterment of the government of my own state, and from now on I shall refuse to be drawn into any further discussion of these matters."

200 PERSONS KILLED BY STORM IN HAITI

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Previous reports that 200 persons had been killed in the tropical storm which swept the southern peninsula of Haiti early las week, were confirmed today by offices of the United States naval tug Woodcock which returned after a second relief trip to the stricken area.

They said that 10,000 persons were temporarily homeless, that the crops, particularly the coffee crop, in the area were badly damaged, and that the material loss would exceed $1,000,000.

The hurricane first stuck on a line fom Cavallion to St. Louis and then to Aquin on the southern side of the peninsula, devastating an area 20 miles wide. Then it spread fanwise northeast and northwest across the peninsula, covering an area of more than 70 miles wide on the north coast from Miragoane to Jeremie.

At St. Louis only one of 20 houses remained standing. A fishing craft was carried three city blocks inland. At Grand Boucan and Petit Trou 50 per cent. of the houses were razed and at Aquin 50 per cent. were wrecked. The Gendarmerie building at Barraderes, 20 feet feet above the level of the town, was invaded by four feet of water, and in other towns the inundation was from eight to twenty feet.

That for Connecticut, however, is the only one which has been agreed upon so far.

FOREST FIRES IN THE WEST GENERALLY UNDER CONTROL

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20—(AP)—Forest and brush fires reported from various parts of the west, which for a time seemed most threatening, today were believed generally to be under control. The extent of the damage thus far has not been estimated.

Three fronts of the San Bernardino mountain fire in California, the worse in several years, yielded to the efforts of the fire fighters and fresh crews were thrown onto the north front where the blaze was eating its way through Cleghorn Canyon. This fire apparently is headed toward the desert and, even if not halted, would endanger little valuable timber unless it changes its course.

Two fires being fought in the Sequoia and Sierra national forests in California were virtually under control. Another fire in the King's River country was reported sweeping up the Creek Canyon in the direction of Hume. Fifteen rangers were sent to backfires in the hope of stopping this blaze.

The big brush fire southwest of Coalinga, Calif., that has raged in the coast ranges for ten days, was reported to have crept out of Fresno county and crossed the ridge into Monterey county. The fire was headed in the direction of the towns of Cholame and Shandon, but it is not believed these are endangered.

It was reported from Kellogg, Idaho that 200 men were fighting a fire five miles southwest of that town. All forest fires in Jackson county, Oregon, were under control. Flames have swept over 5,000 acres in the Goldhill district since last Wednesday, destroying several mountain homes.

AVERAGED 150 MILES HOUR ON CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(AP)—Beating the previous record by almost eight hours, Art Goebel and Harry Tucker today completed a non-stop flight across the country, accomplished at an average speed of 150 miles an hour.

They took off from Los Angeles at 12:06 yesterday afternoon, western standard time (4:06 eastern daylight time), and the wheels of their Wasp motored Lockheed Vega monoplane touched the turf of Curtiss field at 11:04, eastern daylight time, this morning, making the time for the 2,700-mile flight just 18 hours and 58 minutes.

It was the first non-stop airplane flight from the west coast to the east and the time was better by seven hours and 42 minutes than the previous non-stop trans-continental record, which was established in 1923 by Lieut. John A. MacReady and Oakley Kelly, flying from east to west.

LOCAL MERCHANTS TO PUT ON CO-OPERATIVE SALE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 20—The three big Opportunity Days' sale, a cooperative movement on the part of over 50 merchants has been officially announced by the Willimantic Business Men's association for Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The three-day sale virtually is a clearance sale of seasonable goods made in union by nearly every line of business in the city. As result of this effort the merchants plan to attract wider attention on the part of shoppers and therefore be enabled to offer values far in excess of any that could normally be offered with individual sales. Stores taking part in the event are highly decorated with posters, price cards and various other material announcing the "Opportunity Days' Sale" which is the official title of the sale. During the three days shoppers will be given an opportunity to take advantage of many unusual bargains some of which will be on standard stock and others on special articles brought in for the specific purpose of giving values.

Arrangements have been made for plenty of parking space and people driving in from sections of Greater Willimantic will be saved the trouble of time limits. Main street and all other streets in the business section will be available without time limit. With the exception of a few certain designated sections and observance of the law with regard to cross-walks, theatre and hotel frontages, the fire district on Bank street, etc., automobile drivers can park most anywhere without fear of time limit regulations.

DANIELSON

HEAVY BUSINESS FOR TOWN COURT MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 20— The largest grist of cases in the Killingly town court in a single day in a long time were disposed of this morning, Judge W. Fenner Woodward presiding. Each of the seven young men picked up here early Sunday morning for boisterous conduct by Chief John McFarland and Officer John Gebert were fined $5 for breach of the peace, with costs of prosecution. They were John Mendolo, Joseph Scorpio, Earl Tomasso, Joseph Bruno and Domenico Mielle, all of Providence, and Everett R. MacCluggage and John McCarthy of Jewett City. In additional fine of $1.00 was assessed against Mielle, driver of the Providence youths' car, for operating the machine without having his registration with him.

Leon J. Noel of Plainfield came to court to pay a fine of $5, for a violation of the motor vehicle regulations pertaining to lights, and Paul Maki of Foster was fined $5 on a similar charge and an additional $5 for operating without having his certificate of registration.

Still another case was that of John Allen Navin, faced with a charge of operating a motor vehicle while he was under the influence of an intoxicant. He pleaded not guilty, was found guilty and a fine of $100 assessed. Through his counsel, Attorney William A. King of Willimantic, Navin appealed to the superior court. He is a resident of North Windham.

The high school and the graded schools throughout the town of Killingly are to reopen for another school year on Tuesday, September 4. Supt. W. E. Parker, who is away on a vacation, is expected to return here the coming week end to make such final preparations for the beginning of another school year as may be necessary. During the summer attention has been given to various school buildings of the town. Notable improvements have been made at the school in Dayville. Repairs also have been made to the Killingly Center school, which was considerably damaged when struck by lightning a few weeks ago. While there will be several new teachers on the town's teaching staff when the schools reopen, the majority of the instructors were numbered among those teaching in Killingly the past school year.

Failure of the interested parties to make some arrangement for fire hydrant service in the Connecticut Village section of Danielson will likely result in an advance in insurance rates on property in the area, it is indicated in a letter received by the town from the New England Insurance exchange. The letter has been turned over to borough officials.

Inquiry today failed to establish that any recent progress has been made on the project to organize residents in the area for the formation of a fire district or borough zone. It appears that the matter has been dormant for several weeks. Property owners up there were a bit perturbed this afternoon when they learn that they are facing a prospect of paying more insurance, and wondering whether it would not be cheaper, as well as better in other respects to get together on some arrangement for insuring a continuance of the fire hydrant service.

It has been previously pointed out that if it is not desired to form a fire district that a borough zone could be established and that residents within the area would only be taxed for such special public service as they receive, and not pay the full borough tax rate.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Helen Yunhold

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home in the Bush Hill section of the town of Brooklyn funeral services for Mrs. Helen Yunhold were conducted by Rev. John R. Pratt of the Brooklyn Congregational church. Burial was in the South cemetery at Brooklyn, Rev. Mr. Pratt reading the committal service. The bearers were Edward Moran, Frederick Woodward, Frank Harrington, Robert Ray, James Gorman and Herbert Tibbits. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Albert A. Baker, 16, of Plainfield was brought here today by state officers and held to await a hearing in the Plainfield court on a charge that he broke into and entered the restaurant of Edward Harrington in the Flat Rock district of that town.

In view of the fact that a special effort is to be made in Killingly this fall to interest more women in becoming electors, especially that they may take part in the national election in November, it is anticipated that many new voters will be made, more than in any recent year. There will be at least the normal number of new male voters. Republican women voters, newly made, likely will be more numerous than democratic, if present activities are indicative of the probable enrollment.

An announcement from Wauregan is that F. E. Colvin of Maple street, who has been manager of the Wauregan store there for many years, as well as manager of the Quinebaug store here, has resigned and that A. M. Tracy of Wauregan, long at the Wauregan store, has succeeded him. The Quinebaug store here recently was closed permanently by the mill company. Mr. Colvin's resignation is understood to be in the interest of his health. He has been an unusually successful manager of both the stores under his direction.

In its first real test since completion the worth of the newly installed drainage system through a part of School street and through sections of Furnace and Cottage street has proved its value. While parts of School street and adjoining thoroughfares were awash in a severe series of thunderstorms on a recent evening, there was no accumulation of water under the Cottage street bridge and the brook into which the drain runs carried off the rush of water nicely.

Remodeling of the interior of the Orpheum theater is now advancing satisfactorily and the prospect is that the work will have been completed within a month. The theater will then be a better appointed house than Danielson has known. It will not only be exceptionally attractive, but also newly and more comfortably seated than in the past. The work being done is being hurried to completion as rapidly as possible.

PUTNAM

LOCAL POLICE CHIEF MAY BE WITNESS IN CANADA

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 20—Capt. William Jarvis of the Putnam police has received volumes of correspondence relative to the underhanded actions of the two Canadian government officials, R. P. Clerk and former Commissioner of Customs Farrels, who were dismissed from service because of their connection with the mysterious disappearance of a stolen Studebaker sedan, the property of Guy Zito, a Putnam taxi driver.

As previously stated, the car was stolen from Mr. Zito's garage in April, 1928, and several weeks after was abandoned in Quebec by the thieves. It was taken into the custody of the government and marked as confiscated property. Captain Jarvis and Mr. Zito left on a mission to Canada to endeavor to secure the car. Both customs officials informed the Putnam men that the car was at a storehouse and might be had, if they could prove it theirs. The police captain and Mr. Zito failed in their efforts and returned to Putnam.

Through the work of a private detective, Clerk and Farrels were discharged and arrested, brought to trial and were made to pay the value of the car to an attorney employed by Mr. Zito, who in turn retained the funds for his personal use.

Today Captain Jarvis was in receipt of a copy of the transactions at the trial of the customs officials, and in many instances he stated that their testimonies were false. He has also received other precepts of the trial which he believes are untrue regarding the manner in which they held the car from sight when Mr. Zito made the trip to Canada.

In September Mr. Zito's attorney is to be brought to trial, with a charge of forgery to be pressed against him. This hearing may necessitate Mr. Zito and Captain Jarvis's appearance in court as witnesses if restitution of the stolen funds is to be gained by Mr. Zito.

Plans are now being made for the state convention of the 28th senatorial district, which comprises Putnam and surrounding towns. The call for the convention of republican delegates from the towns in the district was issued today by John F. Reardon of North Grosvenordale and Miss Katherine Byrne of Putnam, members of the republican state central committee. The convention will be attended by delegates nominated at the town caucuses to be held on Aug 27, and the preliminary gathering will be held at the Putnam Inn at noon (standard time) on Friday, Aug. 31.

The purpose of the district convention, as announced by Miss Byrne today, will be to elect two delegates-at-large, to represent the district at the state convention in New Haven to be held on Sept. 5 and 7. Miss Byrne and Mr. Reardon will entertain the delegates at luncheon before the meeting opens.

AN ELECTION BAROMETER

It has long been the custom to look upon the Maine state election, which comes early in September, as a political barometer which serves to indicate the trend of sentiment throughout the country. Political prognosticators focus their attention upon the figures from Maine and draw from them such conclusions as they may regarding the national election in November.

The Maine state election is on September 10, when the voters will cast their ballots for a United States senator, four congressmen, a governor and the balance of the state ticket. Leaders of both parties, with an eye to the future as well as to the present, have proclaimed their belief that an endorsement of the presidential candidates will be indicated by the way the votes are cast in the state election. It is declared that the democrats have an unusually well filled campaign chest and will make special efforts to poll a large vote, but their hopes have received a rude jolt in the defection of Judge Pattangall, long a leader of the Maine democracy, and Mrs. Pattangall, who has been a member of the democratic national committee for nine years. Both the judge and his wife have declared for Hoover and are urging Maine democrats to vote republican in both state and national elections.

Predictions from republican sources are not lacking that the party majorities in September will run to big figures. Percival P. Baxter, a former governor, puts it at 40,000, which he says will be "a sure sign that the east is for Hoover and Curtis and that democratic argument and Smith picturesqueness make no appeal to New England republicans." Four years ago in the state election the republican majority was 36,655, but in 1926, which was an off year, it was 20,028. The vote in a presidential year is always much heavier than in an off year. Naturally enough any such figures as Mr. Baxter predicts would be hailed with joy by the republicans and would bring a corresponding feeling of depression to the democrats. When the votes are cast and counted, we shall know, but until then predictions of the outcome are interesting matters of guess-work.

THE IMMIGRANT QUOTA SYSTEM

Mr. Hoover's views on immigration are of general interest. He sets them forth with reasonable clearness in his acceptance address. The principle of restriction as embodied in the present law is accepted by him. Two changes in that law, neither of them at all radical, are, however, suggested. In the first place, Mr. Hoover favors an amendment "to relieve unnecessary hardships upon families." This means an amendment designed to reunite families divided by accident or lack of money at the time of their separation. Congress already has legislated in this spirit and for this purpose, and relatively little remains to be done toward solving the problem of "unnecessary hardships."

In the second place, so far as the basis for the national quotas is concerned, Mr. Hoover recommends the repeal of the provision for the adoption of national origins as the basis in lieu of the present basis—the census of 1890. As a member of the commission that was charged with the duty of determining the national origins of the country's population, Mr. Hoover, like his fellow-commissioners, found the task impossible by reason of incomplete early records, changes of name, with or without judicial sanction, and similar causes. Application of the proposed new quota basis has had to be postponed, and Mr. Hoover thinks it is unenforceable. Repeal of that provision would effect no change whatever in the actual immigration situation.

The present law is sufficiently restrictive, as is shown by the figures of recent net increases in population through immigration. In the fiscal ended June 30, 1927 the net increase from that source was 284,493, while the net increase for the last fiscal year was 226,275, or over 20 per cent. less. Obviously the thing to do with a reasonably satisfactory immigration law is to improve it and keep it. That is precisely what Mr. Hoover advocates in the case of the present immigration law.

ITALIANS ABROAD

The Italian government is apparently alarmed over the results of a recent census showing that 9,000,000 Italians are living in foreign countries, 53 per cent. of them in the Americas. Of these latter, 3,700,000 live in the United States. Presumably many of them—particularly those living in this country—are naturalized. If so they have renounced all allegiance to Italy and are not accountable to her government, or subject to it. All of the 9,000,000 are said to "work to enrich foreigners."

The purpose of the Fascist government, as given in a recent publication in which the figures are set forth, is to "keep Italians Italian." And that of course, means that they are not expected to become Americans—and will not be permitted to do so if the Mussolini regime can prevent it. But the effect to stop this process of assimilation will probably meet with little success. If it should by any chance succeed, there would be nothing for it except for this government to exclude Italians as non-assimilable, which is the ground on which we have excluded the Chinese and Japanese.

We have had our troubles with hyphenated Americans. Fascist Italy would, so it is said, wipe out the hyphen, and with it the American in this descriptive form. Italians are to be Italian and nothing else. The programme is a manifestation of that impudence which seems to be inherent in the Fascist system. It involves an interference between foreign governments and people living within their borders, many of whom are naturalized citizens of those countries. Of course, no such policy can be acquiesced in by the United States or any other self-respecting government. Fascism has and can have no jurisdiction over Italians living in this land. To claim it is to exhibit to the world an insufferable arrogance.

CUTTING THE COSTS

Although the federal bureau of standards is only getting a start toward standardization of national products, it estimates that such savings as it has been able to bring about amount to $300,000,000 annually. To aid in this work there has been set up a division of simplified practice. Where it is felt that manufacturers are producing more varieties than the consumers need, the representatives of such products are called in and agreements reached to reduce the number.

Many different fields have been covered. As an example of what has been accomplished, metal lath workers report a saving of $2,000,000 a year by discontinuing some of their lines. In the manufacture of range boilers the sizes and types have been reduced from 130 to thirteen. Standard fittings make it possible for pipe to be cut ready for use and installation in about half the time formerly required. Paving bricks were reduced from 65 designs to five, face bricks from 75 to two, milk bottles from 45 to four, mattresses and springs from 78 to four, steel windows from 42,877 to 2,244 and grinding wheels from 715,200 to 254,400.

"The elimination of needless variety in sizes, dimensions and types of every day commodities," says Director Burgess, "means a more intelligent utilization of our national resources, more efficient production with smaller costs, greater productivity and higher returns to the workmen and correspondingly greater purchasing power to buy commodities of other lines; the whole effect of which tends to keep business on a higher level and maintain a higher standard of living."

ANOTHER AIRPLANE TRAGEDY

It is to be feared that another ambitious attempt to span the Atlantic from west to east by the air route has ended in tragedy and disaster. Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer made an auspicious start by winging their way successfully over the first leg of their journey, 800 miles from Rockford, Ill., to Cochrane, Ontario, but now they are long overdue in arriving at their next stopping place in Greenland.

The venture was promoted by a group of people of Scandinavian birth or descent living in and near Rockford, who saw in recent aviation progress a means of linking their old and new homes. They wished to prove that Rockford is not so far from Stockholm, but principally they wished to show the world that Rockford is great and becoming greater. The two intrepid airmen were provided with a ship embodying all the latest principles of design, the route was studied long and diligently and the navigators had the personal qualifications to get all out of the ship that her constructors had built into her. After landing in Greenland, there was to be a stop in Iceland before the final hop to Stockholm, thus making all the distances well within the cruising radius of the plane. The over-water flights were designed to be as short as possible and there seemed to be no reason, except the chance of misfortune which menaces every distance flight, why the Greater Rockford could not find its way to Stockholm in less than a fifth of the time possible by any other means.

The two aviators were imbued with the idea that they were to blaze a new trail showing a short, safe air route to the northeastern part of Europe, and the interest of every American inland city was aroused by the boldness of Rockford in proclaiming itself a port in the new world of commerce. There will be universal regret if the ambitious attempt is to result in the loss of the two aviators.

UNCLE HENRY

I was coming from the hen house with Bunny, kicking amiably, under one arm and the morning's "catch" of eggs, as Herb calls them, under the other, when I spied him coming up the lane from the garden, a little bent old man, peering out from beneath a tattered straw hat, and lugging his flabby suitcase as though it had drawn the last of his waning strength. He waited for me at the gate.

"Hello," said I.

"Hello," said he.

"You must be Herb's Uncle Henry," said I. "Herb said you might drop in on us."

"I guess I be Uncle Henry," said he, and he gave me one of those sweet, sudden smiles that make you like people whether you want to or not. And from the first I had rather wanted to like Uncle Henry.

On the shady front porch he sank into a chair with a contented sigh. Dicky Boy, who has infinite faith in his own powers of persuasion, crept toward him, his Mother Goose book hidden behind his small self. "Can you wead?" he asked engagingly.

"Well, now, I guess so," said Uncle Henry and held out his arms. When I came back from the kitchen with a glass of milk and a plate of cookies, their heads were bent over the tattered Koran of my son's youth, and their voices were mingled in a chant of "There was an old woman went up in a basket, nineteen times as high as the moon."

A farm is a busy place, especially when you have two kiddies, and I honestly did forget Uncle Henry till Herb came whistling into the kitchen and asked: "Who's that on the front porch?"

"Why, that's Uncle Henry," said I from the depths of the pantry. And a moment later I heard Herb's voice mingling with the treble of my Dicky and the husky chuckles of the old man.

We didn't notice it then, but as we think back it was uncanny how quickly Uncle Henry slipped into the life at Hillcrest farm. We were greenhorns, Herb and I, lured from the city to the smiling lakelands of Minnesota. With gentle graciousness Uncle Henry took charge of us and became our guide, philosopher and friend. A quiet kind of person, he talked little—how little we scarcely realized until afterward.

It was Uncle Henry who weeded the onions and poled the beans, who fixed the cover of the cistern so Dicky could jump on and down on it and listen to the hollow thunder of the "dwum," as he called its subterranean echo. It was Uncle Henry's patient finger, loaned to Bunny, that taught her to walk, his all-night vigil that brought Cinderella through calving, who drove to town for supplies when things got broken and who pulled the bristles from Tramp's nose when he went hedgehog hunting. It was autumn before we even began to wonder how long Uncle Henry intended to stay.

A still, blue and gold Sunday afternoon in September, Herb and I were sitting on the porch listening to the talk and laughter of Uncle Henry and the youngsters.

"Where will your Uncle Henry go when he leaves us?" I asked casually. Herb sat up and gave me a startled look.

"My Uncle Henry? Why, Marty, he isn't my uncle. I never saw him before. I thought he was yours."

"But Herb, my Uncle Henry is a missionary in China." We sat and stared at each other in wordless amazement. The put a-put of an automobile down the lane broke the spell, and a moment later the driver stepped up on the porch.

"Hello," said he.

"Hello," said we.

"I'm from the county farm," he said. "I am looking for an old man, Uncle Henry Barnes. He strayed away last spring and we've been scouring the country for him all summer. Some one told us he cleared this farm twenty-five year ago—I thought maybe he might have—" Across the grass came Uncle Henry, a youngster dangling from either hand.

"Hello, George," said he. "I'll go back with you." He turned gravely to us. "I ain't really your blood relation uncle, Herbert. Nor Marty's either. I knew you'd find me out some time, but every night when I went to bed I prayed it wouldn't be tomorrow."

Herb's eyes met mine. They were saying, "Shall we?" I smiled back at him and he knew it meant, "Let's!" He stepped down and put his hand on the old man's shoulder.

"We haven't enough Uncle Henry's to go round in this family, Dicky Boy and Bunny need one. You better stay.

So that is how we came by "our" Uncle Henry.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

TAKING THE FEVER OUT OF HAY

By Burton Haseltine, M. D., Chicago Member Gorgas Memorial.

Every hay fever sufferer knows that his trouble is not primarily in the nose itself. Between attacks he is generally free from nasal trouble, at least during the first few years.

Both patients and doctors have now come to know that treatment directed to the nose, either in the form of applications or operations is useless and often harmful. It is well established that the attack of hay fever is brought on by certain substances carried in the atmosphere which do not affect normal people, but which are poisonous to the tissues of people in what we call a sensitive state. This sensitive state varies in different people and in the same person at different times.

There are two ways by which the hay fever patient can be prevented from having attacks. One is by protecting him from exposure to any of the substances to which he is sensitive. These are usually well known but, as they are carried in the atmosphere in certain localities at certain times of year, the only practical method of escaping them is to move away from such localities at such times. For many people this is of course impossible. The other method is by giving the patient such treatment as will lessen or remove his sensitiveness to these substances so that exposure to them will no longer cause his distress.

Methods are now known by which this can be accomplished, but the practical difficulty is that time is required, and treatment must be given before the patient is actually suffering from the attack. We have here a curious situation in which we might say it would be better if it were somewhat worse. Few people after several months of perfect comfort are willing to submit to a troublesome course of treatment to escape a trouble which, as they perennially hope, may not be so bad next time. Usually it is only when it has ceased to be merely seasonal, when it becomes the all-the-year type, or when the inevitable asthma has supervened, that the patient sets about the serious business of getting well. By this time the problem has enormously increased in difficulty and the resources of medicine are severely taxed, but even for these patients the outlook is no longer so gloomy as it has been. If right methods are employed it is possible to give most of them lasting relief.

CHILD TRAINING

THE RUDEST BOY IN TOWN

Willis and Lenora Bailey

"Would you believe it, Mrs. White had the nerve to tell me that David is the rudest boy in town," said Mrs. Elliot, who was taking Mrs. Shirley out driving in her new car. After a few minutes' silence due to traffic demands she continued, "But I'm not sure her beloved little Jack is any better."

She had forgotten how frank Mrs. Shirley was until she heard her saying: "I do not agree with you in regard to Jack. Mrs. White's children are deservedly called the most courteous in town."

"Oh, dear! I know David is bad, but I don't thank any one for telling me so. We try to make him mind. I know we punish him enough."

"That is true, Mae, but at the same time you frequently say in David's presence that you cannot control him. You call him incorrigible, yet when David can't get along with the other children at school you listen to his story and uphold him while you censure the others. Then when he played in the little band, he really was the cause of its disbanding because the other little boys would not come to practice and be roughly and rudely treated by David. You listened to David and felt sorry that all the boys dropped out without good cause when Mr. Wood did so much for them."

"Mercy me! is that all true, Lois? I know I have always tried to see as much good as possible in David, for his faults are so big and glaring, I couldn't fail to see a great many of them. What shall I do with him? I'm sure I am trying."

"You are, indeed, and if punishing is trying you try hard, for you certainly do punish him severely—but I fear I cannot say it is always judiciously."

"I do not understand what you mean."

"Well, a few minutes ago when you stopped the car and made David get out and walk two miles back to town, the punishment was deserved, but from the way you gave it he will always think it was because he hurt you, physically, when he so rudely illustrated in detail what Bill had done to him."

"Why, I made him get out not only because his actions were crude but because by grabbing me around the neck so suddenly he might have caused me to wreck the car."

"All true enough, dear, but you were angry and he knew it and thinks it was because he hurt you. As he trudges back he may even find it in his heart to be glad he did it because you hurt him."

"Well, what else could I have done?

"Controlled yourself absolutely, first. Self-discipline must come first if we would control others. The great trouble with David is he has never been punished except by an angry parent. He draws this conclusion: When angry, strike and hurt someone. So he does it.'

"I didn't have time to think, when he acted as he did a while ago, but I might have been calmer in appearance."

"It will take more than appearance. It must be real, true calmness to be effective. Children see through pretense at once. David's offenses are so outright, usually, that you could soon show him that he needs discipline for his own sake, and that you are not giving it just because you are angry."

With the assistance of this frank friend of the family, David soon became thoroughly manageable.

It is surprising but entirely true that very many so-called incorrigible children have been made so by parents who use poor judgment in controlling them.

Little Talks on Thrift

Moral Equipment Strengthened by Thrift Practices

No one, at the beginning of life, ever expects to fail. The lamp of hope burns brightly when one is young. But hope alone cannot bring success. There must be concrete action along right lines. Steadily, step by step, the desired ends must be attained. Where there is persistent effort, with freedom from wrongful methods of conduct and living, there can be no such thing as ultimate failure.

Thrift keeps one constantly within the bounds of prudent living. Failure in a general way, moral soundness, as well as economic stability, therefore, are inevitable accompaniments of thrift practice. Thrift is a character tonic. It develops the will and strengthens the moral fibre. Through it one is better able to forego those habits of life that are harmful. It equips us both for the temptations and the vicissitudes of life.

No man can practice thrift without being not only independent financially but a better citizen in general. It is these aspects of thrift which should appeal strongly to parents and to all persons engaged in educational duties.

Let us send forth young men and our young women into the world with a thorough appreciation of the moral as well as the material values of thrift. Success in life is not to be measured by material standards, but by moral ones. Learn the value of thrift. No better safeguard against failure can be provided than such an equipment.—S. W. Strauss, President American Society for Thrift.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Cubby Changes His Mind

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

To me 'tis more than passing strange
How easily some minds can change.
—Old Mother Nature.

Cubby Bear stopped abruptly and sat down. Facing him were two funny little bob-tailed spotted kittens. Their ears were laid back, the hair along their backs was standing on end, and they were spitting and snarling as only two kittens can. Cubby was filled with surprise and wonder. He had never seen these little people before. He straightway forgot all about Chatterer the Red Squirrel. He cocked his head on one side and looked at the kittens in the droollest manner.

Cubby was of two minds. He had a notion that he would like to play with these little strangers. At the same time it occurred to him that he was much bigger than they and that they might make good eating.

The kittens were backing away. Not once did they stop spitting and snarling. Not once did they turn their backs to him. Cubby took a few steps forward. One of the kittens struck at him and pricked his nose with her sharp claws. Cubby didn't like that. He decided then and there that he didn't want such playmates. He growled. He would teach them a lesson.

And right then and there Cubby changed his mind. He changed it with great abruptness. He lost all interest in those funny little bob-tailed kittens. He suddenly discovered that he had business in some other part of the Green Forest. There was need of great hurry to get to that other part of the Green Forest. He couldn't waste a second. He simply turned and bounded away without even saying goodbye to those funny little kittens. He didn't want to say goodbye to them. He felt as if he never wanted to see them again.

Have you guessed why Cubby so suddenly changed his mind? Well, he had made a discovery. Yes, sir, Cubby had made a discovery. It wasn't at all a pleasant discovery. Peering over that old log was as savage a looking face as ever Cubby had seen. It was a face not unlike the faces of those kittens, but bigger and very, very fierce. The lips were drawn back,

There was need of great hurry to get to that other part of the Green Forest showing sharp teeth. The ears were laid back so that that head looked almost round. Cubby never had seen it before, but he didn't have to be told whose head it was lifted just above that old log. It was the head of the mother of those two little kittens. It was the head of Mrs. Fowler. Do you wonder that Cubby suddenly had business somewhere else? Big as he was, he had no desire to get in a fight with Mrs. Fowler the Bobcat.

As for Mrs. Fowler, she was quite satisfied to give Cubby a scare. She on her part had no desire to fight a half-grown young Bear. But she did want to scare him, and she succeeded. You never heard an uglier sounding snarl than Mrs. Fowler gave as she sprang out over that old log and pretended to chase Cubby. Looking over his shoulder, Cubby saw her coming. He thought he was running as hard as he could before, but he found that he was mistaken. He went crashing away through the brush, regardless of who heard him or who saw him. Mrs. Fowler made only a bound or two after him, but Cubby ran and ran and ran until he couldn't run any longer. Such is the power of fear.

The Stars

We wait all day unseen by us, unfelt;
Silent they hide behind the day's full glare;
And we, who watched the dawn when they were there,
Thought we had seen them in the daylight melt.
While the slow sun upon the earthline knelt,
Because the teeming sky seemed void and bare,
When we explored it through the dazzled air,
We had not thought that there all day they dwelt.
Yet were they over us, alive and true,
In the vast shades far up above the blue—
The brooding shades beyond our daylight ken—
Serene and patient in their conscious light,
Ready to sparkle for our joy again—
The eternal jewels of the short-lived night.

—Mary Mapes Dodge.

The Last Tourney

I shall go forth one day to joust with death;
The brittle little chains that hold me tied
To rusted hopes, to visions cracked and dried,
Shall break, and I shall hear the trumpet's breath
Go clamoring across the barren heath,
And for a flaming moment I shall ride
The lists' brief course to meet the Undefied—
And take the blow that I shall fall beneath.
Each day I make this single fervent prayer:
May then the blood of Bayard be my own;
May I ride hard and straight and smite him square,
And in a clash of arms be overthrown;
And as I fall hear through the evening air
The distant horn of Roland, faintly blown.

—Frederick F. Van de Water.

SUNBURN VICTIM IS GRATEFUL TO RABALM

I don't believe anyone has tried more remedies than I have, but with them all I have had to stand my share of suffering, I can tell you. That is, with all except Rabalm. Since a friend recommended Rabalm, the pain of sunburn has no more terror for me. I never saw anything like the way it soothes the skin. Its benefits begin the moment it is applied. While it is several days before the redness is all gone, the pain and smart go almost instantly. And since I have used Rabalm my skin has never blistered."

If you also suffer from sunburn, you, too, can obtain quick relief with Rabalm. It requires no painful rubbing in. Will not stain clothes or bed linen. Pleasantly fragrant. Two sizes, 50-cents and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

COUNTY FAIR SOCIETY HAS RAISED $11,000 TO DATE IN $50,000 CAMPAIGN

The campaign committee of the New London County Agricultural society, Secretary Louis M. Crandall, chairman, reported at a meeting of the committee Monday evening in the Y. M. C. A. building, that the committee has raised $11,000 in the $50,000 financial campaign, which was recently launched. The $11,000 already secured includes a number of memorial gifts. The following are the donors.

Town of Montville, Cinder drive from the New London turnpike to the horse stables and Salem road; Mrs Harriet Mitchell, memorial gates on Salem road; Leonard Main and family, North Stonington, memorial flag pole and flag; John A. Avery and Dr. Ier J. Manwarring, memorial gates on New London turnpike; Henry Armstrong, River avenue, large flag for exhibition hall; A. H. Beebe and Charles E. Willard removal of condemned grandstand; Miss Jane Bill, $100 for the shrubbery fund; Max Hanover, $100; Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson, $100.

Chairman Crandall explained at the meeting that 400 people in the county had received from the fair association a list containing the names of people in their respective districts. Those who received the lists were asked to interview the people and secure contributions for the campaign. He explained that if each person obtained $100, the total sum derived in this way would amount to $40,000. With this sum the fair association would be able to pay the bonded indebtedness and other bills against the association, leaving it free from debt. It is a vital matter, he said, that we raise this amount in order to keep the fair going. A report by the chairman of the special gifts committee, Dr. Manwarring, was then given and was followed by talks by President F. S. Armstrong and Allison B. Ladd of Sprague.

The speaker of the evening was Judge Arthur M. Brown of Jewett City, who opened his talk by saying that a wide gulf prevails between a lawyer and a farmer, but he had become much interested in the campaign and fair association. He paid a glowing tribute to the county, mentioning that "it is as fine a county as there is."

Judge Brown continued in part as follows: In my boyhood days three things stand out: The picture of Uncle Tom's Cabin, Barnum's circus and the New London county fair association. I shall never forget how the people enjoyed visiting and talking over things at the fair. In those days the farmers did not have the telephone and radios as they do today. They were "holed up" in winter. The county fair was a great visiting day. The people got together and had a fine time.

It is an institution that ought not to be allowed to die as it has been an educational force and a means for wholesome entertainment for many years. It would be lamentable to see the institution topple over. It is like a man who has been in the limelight in the community. Something happens and he goes out like a light. It would be a catastrophe to let the county fair die.

All that is necessary is to get the people of the county thinking about it. If the people are vitally interested I don't see why the campaign can't be a success. It ought not to be a difficult thing to raise this money. It is a crime to let the county fair go. I believe in the importance of keeping the county fair going. You are engaged in a noble work and I hope you will go on to success. I believe you will, he said in closing.

"BOOTS" LARRY AND FERRA TO TRY COMEBACK AT DUWELL AMATEURS

The second of the Duwell outdoor amateur boxing shows scheduled for Friday night at the Duwell field will mark the return to the ring of two of the most prominent of local amateurs, Larry Ruffo (Boots Larry), and Frankie Ferra. Both boys, big favorites here watched the first Duwell outdoor show held two weeks ago from the sidelines. At the time they had no intentions of returning to the squared circle, but the smell of the rings, the yelling crowds and the thud of leather against human flesh proved too much for them, and as a result, a few days later found them both training hard for a comeback. The two boys have plugged faithfully for over a week and are gradually nearing the proverbial pink of condition. Each boy is of the whirlwind slugger type and on numerous previous occasions have had the fans gripping the edges of their seats while one or the other was battling furiously with some opponent equally as willing to mix it. At the present time, Larry is nearing the 130-pound mark, while Ferra scales at 150.

As has been the custom in the past, Friday's bill will be made up of at least ten bouts with Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island boys furnishing the competition in several of the scraps and some high class Massachusetts teams featuring.

At the present time the Duwell boxing committee is angling for a team that has a nation-wide rep and sure will prove a big attraction if brought here. Word was received from A. A. U. authorities in Massachusetts last night to the effect that definite information regarding the mentioned team will be given out tonight. Should the Duwells succeed in bringing the team to Norwich it will indeed be a real feather in their cap.

The entries of the Westerly scrappers, including that of Charles Benvenuti (Young Chape), who took a beat-breaker on a foul at the recent show, were received yesterday. Chape, one of the gamest and squarest boys among the simon-pures, always goes big with the local following, but for some reason or other usually meets up with tough breaks in Norwich. Last summer it was he that really started amateur boxing booming here with his sensational work against Vic Foley, who is now sojourning among the professionals.

To that amateur boxing here is still popular was evidenced at the Duwell show two weeks ago when over 3,000 fans crowded into the Duwell arena in spite of the threatening weather that prevailed at the time. The local club still holds the only A. A. U. sanction in the state and intends to show its appreciation of the fact by giving the fight following in this vicinity a good clean brand of boxing.

Entry blanks or information in regards to the coming show may be had by applying to 'Sports," Duwell A. A.

WILSON'S SINGLE IN NINTH WINS FOR CARDS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 20—(AP)—Jimmy Wilson's single with the bases full in the ninth inning gave the Cardinals a 2 to 1 victory over the Brooklyn Robins here today and kept St. Louis only two points behind the Giants in the National league pennant race.

The St. Louis victory broke the winning streak of Dazzy Vance, who had won seven games in succession. His last defeat was at the hands of the Cardinals with Jess Haines today's winning pitcher, in the box. Haines came in to relieve Fred Frankhouse in the eighth with the score tied and got credit for the victory.

Wilson's double, Thevenow's sacrifice and Frankhouse's grounder which Bissonette fumbled gave the Cardinals a run in the third inning. The Robins tied the score in the sixth when Gilbert beat out a grounder to Frankhouse, went to third on the pitcher's wild throw and came home on Bancroft's single.

Three of the four hits off Frankhouse were infield scratches. He walked six men, hit two and struck out six.

BRAVES BEST PIRATES IN SLUGGING MATCH

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 20—(AP)—Boston took the first game of the series from the Pittsburgh Pirates this afternoon 14 to 11 in a battle which lasted for two hours and fifty-eight minutes, although it was settled in the regulation nine innings.

Burleigh Grimes and Bob Smith were the opposing hurlers through the greater part of the conflict but the Pittsburgh ace was relieved after five and one third frames by Dawson. Tutwiler and Fussell also saw service before the thing was over.

Boston went into the last half of the last half of the seventh with a lead of eight runs but Pittsburgh came back with seven in the same inning. Art Delaney eventually stopped the uprising with the tying run on base. Score:

LOUSKI FLATTENS SMITH IN FOURTH ROUND

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(AP)—Back in the form that made him a terror among the light heavyweights a few months ago, Leo Lomski, of Aberdeen, Wash., knocked out George Smith, of Newark, N. J., in the fourth round of a 10 round match at Dexter park tonight.

Lomski weighed 170 1-2 pounds; Smith 164 1-2.

The Pacific coast slugger went after Smith at the bell and battered the New Jerseyite from pillar to post until the final blow—a hard left to the chin—after 50 seconds of fighting in the fourth round.

In the third, just before the bell, Lomski floored Smith for a count of nine and the Newark boy could offer but little defense when the next, and as it turned out, the final round began. Several weeks ago Lomski had great difficulty scoring a decision victory over the man who gave him no trouble at all tonight.

In another ten rounder, Marty Farrell, of New York, knocked out Al Settle, Jersey City, N. J., Negro, in the fifth round. Settle claimed a foul as he went down but it was disallowed. Farrell scaled 170 pounds; Settle 169 3-4.

BROWNS GIVE ATHLETICS A VERY BAD JOLT

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns gave the Athletics' pennant hopes a sad blow today when they scored nine runs in the last three innings to win the first game of a series here by a 9 to 2 score. The defeat put the Athletics 5 1-2 games behind the Yankees.

Jack Ogden held the Philadelphians to four hits, one of which was a triple by Jimmy Foxx in the fourth inning that accounted for both of the Athletics' runs.

The Browns fell on Howard Ehmke and Joe Bush, who went into the box in the ninth, for 18 hits. Frank O'Rourke and Heinie Manush led the attack with four hits apiece, each getting three singles and a triple. O'Rourke was knocked unconscious in the last inning when he crashed into Manush while both were chasing Bing Miller's fly to short left.

The Silvers annexed their only tally in the third on a pass to Marks an infield out and Mulcahy's single while the Finishers renewed their scoring activities with one in the fourth on Fineski's double to score Enright, who had reached base on an error, two in the fifth on hits by Dabrowski and Dugas and an error and a hast two in the sixth on singles by Fineski, Crowe and Dabrowski and a pass to Burrelle.

Dugas pitched nice ball for the winners, holding the opposition to two doubles and three singles.

The sun bothered the third baseman and left fielder considerably during the game, its rays just slanting down that section of the diamond. Two of the Bleachery runs were the result of this sun when Cummings and Gibbs lost the ball in the glare. The score:

Richmond's Chance Tonight

The Richmond Radiators, champs of the league and up until a few days ago the odds-on favorite to win again this season, meet the lowly Polish club team this evening at the Academy in the Dusty league. The game starts at 6.15. The Richmonds must win tonight to stay in the running for the title but the Citizens, who last week knocked the Thermos Bottlers out of the pennant scramble will give the Ironmen plenty of trouble. They have won but two games all year but one of these was from the Richmonds. If the Richmonds lose they will be close to fourth place and the second division.

Here are the figures on the race:

Present standing of leaders:

	W	L	Pct
U. S. F.	7	3	.700
Y. M. C. A.	7	4	.636
Richmonds	8	5	.615

A Richmond win tonight will result:

U. S. F.	7	3	.700
Richmonds	9	5	.643
Y. M. C. A.	7	4	.636

A Richmond loss tonight will result:

U. S. F.	7	3	.700

GIANTS RETAIN LEAD BY BEATING CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, Aug. 20—(AP)—The Giants retained their lead in the National league pennant race today by pounding out a 5 to 3 victory over Cincinnati here today. The breaks as well as the hitting helped the Giants win. The second run came in when Dressen, trying to catch Welsh at the plate, hit him with the ball.

New York's scoring was confined to the third, fifth and sixth innings after the Reds had sent two runs over in the first. Three successive singles in the second accounted for the first run and Dressen's error for the second. In the fifth, the Giants went into the lead when Reese scored on a single, a steal, an infield out and another single by Lindstrom.

Cohen's triple to right in the sixth with Terry on first practically settled the game by putting New York two runs ahead. Andy scored the Giants' fifth run in the same inning on a single by Genewich.

Cincinnati made two more double plays, bringing their total for the season up to 156. Score:

DUSTY LEAGUE DOUBLE SCHEDULE CHANGES

BEAUREGARD FIGHTS MAIN BOUT AT WESTERLY SHOW

Al Beauregard, hard hitting little Frenchman of Taftville meets Joey Duggan, the poker-faced Irish boy from New London, in the main bout of eight rounds that features the new talent show of the St. Michael's K. of C. at the Stillman avenue arena on Wednesday evening. Duggan who took a decision over Pete Anguinaldo at Ne London recently is fighting the best of his career and should give Denny McMahon's boy a busy evening. Beauregard, famed as the hardest hitting boy of his weight in New England, is pitted against the skill and craft of Duggan. Duggan also punches hard and wastes very few blows.

The semi-final of six rounds finds Jimmy Clinch, another of McMahon's boys and a protege of Kid Kaplan battling against Walter Alaire of Providence. Clinch is exactly the same type of fighter as Kaplan and is set up about the same.

Mush Moriarty is the local Norwich boy on the card. Mush meeting Billy Burke of Westerly in one of the three four-round preliminaries. The other two prelims bring together Young Liszio of Westerly against Jimmy Wilde of Providence in the curtain raiser and Tom Hartley of the Coast Guard against Roscoe Davis of Hartford. This bout is the only one of the light heavy class on the card.

MILLER AND MORTON TIE FOR FIFTH LOW GROSS

HARTFORD, Aug. 20—(AP)—The Hartford district withstood the assaults of invaders from Massachusetts and Rhode Island in the New England P. G. A. amateur-pro tournament at the Sequin Golf club today.

Tied for lo gross were two Hartford teams, Louis Chiappetta, Sequin professional, teamed with Frank Ross, Sequin amateur and former Connecticut amateur champion, to bring home a best ball of 72-68—140. Syd Covington, Wethersfield pro, and George Smart duplicated that total with a 69-71—140. Two other pairs tied for second gross, two strokes behind the leaders. They are Arthur Reid of Farmington and his son, Kenneth, who had 71-71—142 and Willie Ogg, of Worcester and Wilfred Crossley who posted exactly the same figures. The scores:

Arthur Reid, Farmington and Kenneth Reid, 71-71—142; Louis Chiappetta, Sequin, and F. D. Ross, 72-68—140; Val Flood, Shuttle Meadow, and R. M. Grant, 70-73—143; J. G. Curley, Stony Brook, and J. A. Simmons, 76-68—144.

TAFTVILLE A. A. TO PLAY NO MORE TWILIGHT GAMES

On account of the inability to play over four or five innings Taftville has decided to call off the rest of their twilight games for the season, and confine their baseball activities solely to their week end encounters. The shades of night start to crawl around so soon these days that the game is just getting interesting when it must be called off.

The management of the A.'s have arranged a game with Kensington for Saturday and this encounter will bring to town one of the best teams in the circuit, as the fans that have seen them play before will testify.

A FLURRY IN CALL MONEY RATES HALTED RALLY IN THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(AP)—Speculators for the advance, who have been endeavoring to bring about a general rally in the stock market on the strength of improving business conditions, encountered strong resistance again today as a result of another flurry in call money rates. Final quotations were irregular but disclosed a preponderance of gains. More than a score issues were elevated to new high levels for the year, or longer, despite persistent selling of some of the recent industrial favorites.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent and advanced, in easy stages, to 7 1-2 in the late afternoon. Banks called $35,000,000 in loans, presumably to strengthen their positions at the federal reserve bank, and replacements were slow in making their appearance. The U. S. treasury called for the withdrawal of nearly $30,000,000 in deposits tomorrow, of which more than one-fifth will be from the New York Federal Reserve bank.

There was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. Publication of a relatively poor U. S. Rubber Co. semi-annual report was offset by the excellent statements in the part of several smaller corporations. Directors of the United Cigar Stores Co. voted to increase the annual cash dividend from 80 cents to $1 and omit the previous quarterly payment of 1 1-4 per cent in stock.

Pools, having become accustomed to violent fluctuations in call money rates were active in a number of assorted issues. New peak prices for the year, or longer, were recorded by American Can, Continental Can, Corn Products, Paramount Famous Lasky, Sears Roebuck Co., Best & Co., Columbia Gas, Commercial Investment Trust, Eaton Axle, Union Carbide and Mathieson Alkali.

With the exception of Central Alloy, which was bid up 2 points to 37 1-2, the steel shares were heavy on profit-taking. Motors displayed considerable irregularity. Resumption of the advance in Chrysler was offset by the heavy selling of General Motors. Pierce Arrow issues were in brisk demand but Hudson and Hupp were heavy.

Renewed accumulation of National Cash Register, which sold within a fraction of the record high established last week, was based on reports of rapidly increasing sales of new business machines. Packing shares also showed increasing activity and strength on reports of improved business. Cudahy duplicating the year's top mark. Light Candy established another new high record on merger rumor.

Fresh selling of Manhattan Electrical Supply carried that stock down more than 6 points to a new 1928 low of 37, which contrasts with a record high of 132 a year ago. Selling pressure also was apparent in such recent favorites as Allied Chemical, American Smelting, Atlantic Refining, Motor Wheel, Motor Products and Republic Iron & Steel.

Rails displayed a strong undertone. The first two July earnings reports to make their appearance showed conflicting results. Erie reporting a moderate gain while Kansas City Southern disclosed a slight loss in net operating income. Recent buying of the rails has been based on exceptions of better crop movements this fall.

Time money was slightly firmer at 6 1-4 to 6 1-2 as against 6 to 6 1-4 in the closing days of last week. Prime commercial paper rates held steady at 5 1-4 to 5 1-2.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet with price changes narrow and irregular. Sterling cables were slightly easier around $4.85 5-16.

Improved Australian crop prospects were largely responsible for the drop of more than 2 cents a bushel in wheat futures. Cotton showed little change on the day. Coffee and sugar prices held fairly steady.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(AP)—Prices held firm in light trading on the bond market today despite rising money rates. Call money advanced to 7 1-2 per cent, and time money to 6 1-4-6 1-2 per cent, as banks called upwards of $35,000,000 in loans preparatory to balancing their reserve positions tomorrow.

The steadier undertone of the market evidently was a reflection of the strength of the stock market and railroad liens, like railroad stocks, were among the stronger issues. Industrials suffered rather severely in the recessions which followed the increase in loan rates. Utilities were firm under continued demand.

Gains in the railroad group generally were small, although Peoria & Eastern 4s advanced more than 3 points, New York Central-Lake Shore 4s and Burlington 5s more than a point each. Missouri Pacific 5s, Baltimore & Ohio first 5s, "Big Four" 6s, Great Northern 4 1-2s and Frisco 4 1-2s eased late in the day, closing at slightly lower levels.

Coppers were among the strong issues in the industrial group. Anaconda 7s and Tennessee Copper 6s gaining a point or so. Kayser & Co 5 1-2s, International Cement 5s, U. S. Rubber 5s held their gains of around a point. However, Keith Corporation first 6s were pounded more than 3 points, and Ajax Rubber 8s, American Smelting & Refining 5s, Fisk Rubber 8s, Liquid Carbonic 6s and others made smaller declines.

Utilities were strong. Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s advancing more than 2 points to a new year's high at 126 1-4. Columbus Gas 5s scored 1 1-2 points.

The foreign list lost its early strength and closed irregularly lower. U. S. government obligations also were irregular.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—(AP)—Treasury receipts Aug. 17 were $7,557,546.61; expenditures, $9,009,919.78; balance $263,953,940.29.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(AP)—The curb market opened with bullish demonstrations in various groups today, but steady advance in the call loan rate to 7 1-2 per cent brought considerable liquidation and nervousness in the afternoon.

Renewed activity in utilities was a feature of the proceedings, and a number of issues in this group made wide gains. American Gas & Electric advanced nearly 5 points, while American Superpower A and B, Electric Bond & Share, Empire Power, Southwest Power & Light, and United Gas Improvement were in demand 1 and 2 points higher.

Deere & Co. was a sensational feature of the industrials shooting up 35 points to a new high at 450. Anchor Post Fence was a new high at 29 1-2. Checker Cab at 45 3-4, Grasselli Chemical at 56 1-2 and National Rubber Machinery at 32 3-4, although it later lost its gain. Midland Steel rose about 12 points in sympathy with the rise of the preferred on the stock exchange. Bancitaly continued its rally with a 4-point advance, and Warner Brothers "B" gained nearly 3 points. Weak spots were Mavis Bottling, at a new low at 13. Bullard Machine Tool and General Baking.

COUNCIL DOES NOT SECOND MAYOR'S TAX MOTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 20—The city council held a meeting for two hours this evening, 35 minutes taken up by a committee meeting and the reading of previous meetings. It was proposed to lay a sewer in the Riverside park section, but objection by councilor Whilton sent the matter over to a special meeting. Many of the streets through which it is proposed to lay the sewer are not accepted streets and trouble might be experienced with the levying of assessments. Councilor Streeter objected to any delay, saying that the situation was imperative. Mayor May joined with him and said that sewers were laid in the city in streets that were not accepted and public utilities not installed with them. A motion for a delay until a special meeting was carried 5 to 2, Streeter and May voting against.

Mayor May brought up the subject of methods of tax collection, recalling that he summoned a special meeting last week, which was attended by only one member. He could get no second for his motion and it failed. Councilor Streeter was opposed to the methods pursued by the tax collector and said that he was persecuted for four years when he came in. He declared that one-half the back taxes were uncollected and predicted that the payers would get a good banging. He wanted all the taxes collected, but was opposed to persecuting an honest man, who was unable to pay his taxes at present, but meant to do so. Mayor May referred to adverse criticism in one of the local newspapers on his views of collection of taxes and said he brought up the matter of the tax collector causing the confinement in the county jail of a young man who owed the city approximately $40 for personal property tax. It was because of the arrest of the young man that the special meeting of the council was called but which could not be held because of a quorum not being present. He said the tax collectors in pursuit of tax collecting methods were repugnant to everybody else. He intimated that the method of jailing was in the nature of blackmail, the course pursued so as to frighten others into payment. In offering his motion which was not seconded, he asked that the matter and method of endeavor to collect back taxes be referred to the administration committee for consideration, they to report their recommendations at the next regular meeting of the board of councilors, the city officials in the meantime to defer the jailing and condemnation of either real or personal property of any taxpayers, because of the fact that they were unable to pay at the time of demand.

Attorney Nathan Belcher, in a written statement to City Clerk Julian D. Moran, has declined the nomination to the board of school visitors, due to the fact that he now holds several semi-public offices and cannot see his way clear to further accept more public duties.

At a meeting of the New England City Managers' association, held Saturday in Boston, City Manager William A. Holt of this city was elected chairman for the ensuing year.

Mrs. Catherine Viera, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Duthrie, of Lewis street and Joseph Silva, son of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Silva of Cohanzie road, Waterford were married Saturday night at the parsonage of the Second Congregational church, by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee. The groom is employed at a local bakery. After a short honeymoon trip they will reside at 85 Winter street.

Eight hundred and twenty-one new voters were made Saturday by Selectmen Lawrence S. M. Cook, William L. White, Ralph W. Wetmore and City Clerk Julian D. Moran, between 9 a. m. and 8 p. m., out of a list of applicants that totaled around 2,500. Owing to this number another meeting of the board will be held Wednesday between 1 and 8 p. m.

The United States Coast Guard destroyer Cummings, which has been at the plant of the New London Ship & Engine company for several weeks undergoing repairs, left today for New York where she will be further repaired at the navy yard. The craft will be given a thorough cleaning and painting of her bottom.

In automobile hearings today before Inspector Philip E. Devnew, four drivers had their licenses returned. They were John S. Henry of 7 Summit avenue; John Maria, Jr., of 867 Bank street; G. M. Richardson of the Neiseco hotel, Groton; Bernard Kouf of Ashaway, R. I.

THREE MORE ACCEPT CITY OFFICE NOMINATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 20—City Clerk Julian D. Moran today received three more acceptances of nominations for city offices. One was for the council, Freeman Kenerson, and two for the board of school visitors, Henery Holt Smith and Charles J. O'Connor.

Walter S. McDonald of 15 Highland avenue, Montclair, N. J., figured in a near-tragedy yesterday afternoon, when his speed boat crashed into a rowboat carrying five persons. The accident occurred while McDonald was adjusting the outboard motor of the boat. Unguided and going at a high rate of speed the craft bore down upon the rowboat party, crashing into it and as its prow was half out of the water, literally leaped over the slower movin gcraft. In doing so its propeller ripped a hole in the side and tore out part of the gunwale. The rowboat contained Mrs. Charles O. Parker and daughter Eloise, Mrs. Andrew Pomeroy and son Richard and Mrs. Marshall Nazro of Milton, Mass. The Pomeroy boy was the only one injured. As the speedboat bore down on the party they shouted to the pilot. However, owing to the noise of the motor he did not hear them and the craft rushed straight on. When it was seen that a collision was inevitable, the Pomeroy boy was seized and hurled to the bottom of the boat just as the two came together. Injuries sustained by the boy were caused by being forcibly shunted from the impending danger.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

Showing today for the last times is A Captain's Courage taken from James Oliver Curwood's story. The Courage of Capt. Plum also Dolores Del Rio and Victor McLaglin in Loves of Carmen, coming tomorrow and Thursday.

What is declared to be the most dramatic and authentic courtroom scene ever filmed is one of the climactic features of "The Blind Goddess." Jack Holt, Ernest Torrence, Esther Ralston and Louise Dresser form the strong quartet of featured players.

In the picture, which was adapted from the popular novel by Arthur Train, Louise Dresser is arrested for the murder of Torrence, a powerful New York political boss. Torrence' daughter, Miss Ralston, is engaged to Jack Holt, a brilliant young lawyer attached to the District Attorney's staff.

Called on to prosecute Miss Dresser against whom the police have built up a perfect case based solely on circumstantial evidence, Holt refuses to do so. To the amazement of the District Attorney and the chagrin of Miss Ralston he affirms his belief in the woman's innocence, and at the trial appears as lawyer for the defense.

Breed Theatre.

Two film stars turned firemen recently. Cornelius Keefe and Edward Hearn, co-starred in the masculine leads in F. B. O.'s production, "Hook and Ladder No. 9," starting a two day run tomorrow at the Breed theatre, rode trucks of the Los Angeles Fire department to a number of blazes in order to get first-hand experience which would prove valuable in making the picture.

Keefe and Hearn were active participants in the hurry-calls of the Second and Western avenue fire houses and the hazards of a fire-fighter's daily routine were brought right home to them. This experience no doubt was largely responsible for their faithfully accurate portrayal of their parts as two young fire-fighters in "Hook and Ladder No. 9," a film glorifying the activities of the fire department.

The production is said to be a thoroughly human story, but one of intense thrills and fast-moving action and is a remarkable tribute to fire-fighters the world over. The sweetest of love themes is inter-twined, lending a beautiful air of romance.

Supporting Keefe and Hearn are such well known screen figures as Dione Ellis, in the feminine lead, Lucy Beaumont, Mary Gordon and Thomas L. Brower. F. Harmon Weight directed the production, which was adapted from John Moroso's original story.

Broadway Theatre.

"Smilin' Thru" the fantastic comedy written by Allan Langdon Martin which brought world renown to Janie Cowl as an actress and which was a sensation throughout this and foreign countries, was presented last night by the Garrick Players at the Broadway theatre.

Moving along swiftly, it carries that rare vein of human interest from climax to climax, until the happy ending. It is the story of a woman who, the victim of a bullet in the hands of one of her lovers on the night of her wedding to the man she loves, promises that she will come back to him. "Smilin' Thru" the mist that separates the life here and the hereafter.

This afternoon there will be a matinee and tea party to all those attending. Miss Helene Wesley, leading lady of the company, will act as hostess. The last performance of this play will take place this evening.

The Garrick Players have in preparation for next week the most sensational mystery drama ever written, "Spooks." This play that made Grant Mitchell, the favorite New York actor, famous has more thrills than "The Bat," more chills than "The Cat and the Canary" more laughs than "The Gorilla," more gripping than "Dracula" and more sensational than the "Silent House."

For reservations call 1020.

Palace Theatre.

"The ideal lovers of the screen!"

Director Wellman was referring to Fay Wray and Gary Cooper, who have the leads in the picture.

Miss Wray is a medium blonde with deep blue eyes and of medium height. Cooper is strikingly handsome, and a perfect masculine physical type. He was reared on the open ranges of Montana. Miss Wray is also a westerner, having been born in Canada, and living the greater part of her life in Arizona, Utah and California.

Cooper, enacting the role of a Washington newspaper reporter, is assigned to "cover" the Embassy Ball by his paper. He takes Miss Wray, with whom he is deeply in love. After declaring his love during a dance intermission, she accepts him, and it is then that some very romantic love scenes follow with the moon hovering over the Potomac as a background.

Cooper discovers his new found love is unfaithful and in a moment of despair, chucks his job as a reporter, and joins up with the legion.

He becomes a dare-devil aviator and wins decorations. Many exciting scenes follow of air battles, actually filmed thousands of feet above the ground. These scenes, until now impossible to properly set on the screen, are remarkable.

His love enters his life again in a most unusual way. Explanations and understanding follow. There is love again! Something to live for!

There is little doubt in the mind of Paramount that the team of Fay Wray and Gary Cooper will be proclaimed by fans, wherever the motion picture is shown, as being the ideal loving pair. They come from a romantical setting, and it is only natural to assume their work will be interpreted to perfection on the screen.

NOANK

LOCAL LEGIONNAIRES AT MIDDLETOWN CONVENTION

Ten Legionnaires of the village, members of Richard Morgan post, No. 55, left by automobiles Saturday morning to attend the convention in Middletown. Getting into the city around noon, they met some of their buddies with whom they marched side by side in the World war. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the big parade got under way. The Fifth district men, fourth in line, were carrying little umbrellas. They wore white shirts, blue trousers and black ties, with the gold and blue Legion caps. The colors were flying to the breeze and the 50 strong got a good hand from the crowd that lined Main street. About 7,000 Legionnaires and members of the auxiliary from all over the state, also 20 bands, were in line. Good snappy music, mostly wartime pieces, filled the air. The Legionnaires were singing "Over There," "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and others. The parade was two miles long, the best and biggest parade ever held in that city. All the stores were dolled up for the big time and signs along the streets read "Welcome, Buddies." At the headquarters of the American Legion a French village was set in the building and the six young girls in French costume, who were in charge, made some of the ex-soldiers think they were back in Sunny France. In the evening, there was dancing. Stretch Morrison met his buddy whom he has not seen in seven years—his double, the same height and the same laugh. He was known as "Stretch's Twin Brother." The Legionnaires returned to the village early Sunday morning and reported a good time. The convention is to be held in Hartford next year.

The Dance Hall Nine team came back after a trip to Fall River, Mass., to play on their own field again, taking on the fast New Haven Speed Boys, Sunday afternoon, before a crowd of 300 fans at Dunn field. Umpire Rollin Rathburn was behind the catcher to call the balls and strikes. Coach Billie Crane for the Dancers sent Spitball Pitcher Slim Carr to the hill and Catcher Mike Passi to catch, while Coach Sam Crawford for the Elm City team picked Bullet Sterry Hanson to serve them over and Oil Carman to catch. Up to the sixth inning it was a pitchers' battle; each side had only two hits and no runner had reached third base. Flash McDonald's one-hand catch of a hard driven ball from the bat of Dash Cummings of the Speed Boys, with two men on bases in the eighth inning, saved the game for Noank. At the end of the ninth, the score was 0 to 0. With their suppers getting cold the fans sat firm for an extra-inning battle. It was the 17th inning when H. Bracci on third base made a dash for home and made it, winning the game. Dance Hall nine, 1; Speed Boys of New Haven, 0.

Rev. John P. Kennedy of New Haven came to take the place of Rev. T. F. Mooney, transferred to Bridgeport, at St. Joseph's church Sunday morning. A large congregation from Groton Long Point and the village crowded the church. The lawn fete given by the Ladies' Aid society of this church last week cleared $88 in only one night.

Carl Ebbetts of New York spent the week-end in the village.

Miss Rose Lawler of Springfield, Mass., is passing a two weeks' vacation at Rose cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Fish and daughter, Jane, of Troy, N. Y., are making Mrs. Addie Fish a month's visit.

Jack Steele of New York is with Noank relatives for a week.

The Rainbow club, with 15 members, went over to Crane's dock and held an all-day outing. The trip was made by truck. Chief Eddie Morgan called for kitchen maids and four young ladies put on aprons and gave Steward Morgan a hand. While the dinner was getting done, the married men and the single men had a six-inning baseball game, the winner to receive a loving cup or a $10 gold piece by Umpire Raymond. Rathbun's married men picked Roy Abate, who had a razor ball, to pitch and Alfred Reimo to catch; while the single men were waiting for Lefty Daniel Robertson to show up and pitch a few over with Catcher Smiling Walter Buddington behind the plate. The married men got two men on bases when Sharpshooter Bill Nagle laid down a bunt and Catcher Buddington made a double play, making two men out in the fourth inning. Paul Grant a sure hitter but with not much wind hit the ball to the corner of the lot, that looked good for a homer but he ran out of wind between second and third bases and was tagged out. Harry Johnson called to know if he wanted a wheel chair to make home plate. Late lean year single men put the game on ice in the sixth inning when Abate's razor-ball was knocked to all pieces of the field. The final score was sad for the married men. Single Men 10; Married Men 0. The bachelors took the loving cup. Cook Morgan said: "Come and get it" and it proved a Front street fish chowder, baked crabs and clams, with green corn and pineapple punch. After the big meal the races took place—50-yard swimming race with four fast boys in it. Near the finish line Stretch Morrison fell over a stone and lost the race by a few feet. Harry Roberston won; Morrison was second. The back-diving contest was won by Billie Fitzgerald with Rollin Rathbun second; 100-yard swimming race was copped by Ben Chesebro with R. Sweet second; back flip race, turning twice in the air, was won by J. Bracci with Eddie Ellis second. The club on returning to the village reported the best kind of a time for their first outing.

Eugene Butson is working nights as head cook at Mrs. Pieslins'.

Miss Muriel Carpenter is spending a few days with friends at Lynnbrook, L. I.

Eddie Ashby has returned from a short visit in Montville.

SALEM AUTO ACCIDENT RESULTS IN TWO SUITS FOR $6,000 DAMAGES

As the result of an automobile accident in Salem a year ago, Walter N. Murawski, submarine base, Groton, and Abraham and Harry Parsky of Hartford, have been made defendants in two suits asking total damages of $6,000. One suit is brought in the superior court for this county by Dorothy Oldfield, a minor, through her mother, Norma Oldfield, of New Haven. The girl asks damages of $5,000 and the Mrs. Oldfield, the plaintiff in the second suit, asks damages of $1,000. The papers in the two suits were served Monday by Deputy Sheriff J. H. Tubbs, and are returnable to the superior court the first Tuesday in September.

The suits were brought as the result of an automobile collision at 12:10 o'clock on the morning of Sept. 6, 1927, between a car owned and operated by Murawski and one owned by Abraham Parsky and driven by Harry Parsky on the New London-Hartford turnpike in front of the Salem court house.

Dorothy and her mother were passengers in the Murawski car. The former received lacerations of the forehead and one eye, the latter alleged to be permanent, while the mother suffered severe bruises to her body, head and limbs nad also sustained considerable damage to her wearing apparel.

TWO NORWICH LAWYERS FIGURE AT STATE DINNER

The current issue of The Catholic Transcript (Hartford) prints in full the speech of Judge Arthur F. Ells, of the superior court of this state, as delivered at the recent annual dinner of the Connecticut Bar association, at the Hotel Elton, Waterbury and printed in the July Connecticut Bar Journal. This is of special local interest, since the toastmaster was Judge Arthur M. Brown, of Norwich and Jewett City, the new president of the association. And when Judge Brown had concluded his presentation of the speaker, Judge Ells began with a reference to another Norwich member of the Bar association, as follows:

"I want to talk very briefly about circles. It is a family subject but most of us do talk in circles, most of us think in circles, and I am one of these individuals. The first circle is inspired by Judge Allyn L. Brown, Judge Brown is a very inspiring personage."

FIREMEN FAVOR THE TWO-PLATOON SYSTEM

The members of the Norwich fire department are in favor of the two-platoon system, which provides for a day and night shift. According to a member of the board of fire commissioners, the matter is under consideration. As yet no action has been taken by the commissioners.

The new system would allow the firemen 12 hours away from the station. At the present time they remain at the station 24 hours a day, while on duty, taking an hour off for each meal. A vacation of ten days is given them, with several days off each month.

A conference of the captains of the various fire companies and the fire commissioners was held recently relative to the two-platoon system.

BEAUTIFUL CARDINAL BLOOMS BORDER HALLVILLE POND

The fact that so many motorists avoid the rough places near Norwich state hospital where the new highway is being built, going through Hallville, has brought unexpected pleasure to local botanists. Across Hallville pond the great mass of cardinal flowers are in bloom, and especially when reflected in the pond the sight is a marvellous one.

Waller of the court of common pleas gave judgment in favor of the husband, Thomas, to collect of his wife the sum of $1,037.36, which represented half of a bank account, which had been in the Chelsea Savings bank in their joint names. When Mrs. Parsons had the account transferred entirely in her own name, the husband sued for his half.

Mass of Intercession

The drummer's handshake is but a press of business.

IMPROVEMENTS AT NORTH STONINGTON FAIRGROUND

Patrons of Connecticut fairs between August 30th and October 12th will have an opportunity to see something new and more appealing this year, according to a preliminary survey recently completed by the state department of agriculture. Final work entailing an expenditure of over $40,000 is being rapidly rushed to completion for the opening date. Many fairs when their gates are opened this fall will present to the public a modernized fair ith a new buildings and more elaborate grounds.

The $40,000 being expended is largely for permanent improvements. Included among some of the larger expenditures are $22,000 for new cattle barns and more extensive parking facilities at Danbury fair; $5,000 for a general cleaning up and repairing of buildings at the Connecticut state fair at Hartford; approximately $5,000 for new main exhibition hall at Durham fair. Stafford fair will spend approximately $8,000 piping water to all the cattle barns, main buildings and placing fire hydrants throughout the grounds. The track which attracts some of the leading horses of the Bay State circuit has been put in almost perfect condition while extensive repairs on buildings will be completed by the opening date.

Rockville fair is spending $500 for general repair of the plant and replacing the old board fencing with wire. Hamburg fair has provided for the convenience of its visitors by piping water to the grounds, representing an outlay of some $400. North Stonington fair, not to be outdone is also equipping her grounds with running water at an expense of $300. Haddam Neck fair has installed a complete electric water system at an expense of $300.

The survey made by the state department of agricultural shows that while some fairs are fortunate in not having to spend large sums for improvements, the general tendency throughout the state is to invest surplus money in making permanent improvements to the institution where it will do the most good for the community.

An appropriation of $35,000 for this work was written into the rivers and harbors bill passed by congress.

BOOTLEGGER SENT UP FOR SIX MONTHS AND FINED

Found guilty of transporting liquor, Carlos Duarte, 35, Portugese, of No. 121 Summit street, was given a six months sentence in jail and fined $200 and costs at the Monday morning session of the city court. He claimed that about eight quarts of liquor found in his automobile by the police was given him by a man whose name he did not know. Duarte, also known as Charles Smith, said the man gave him the liquor to return for a ride he (Duarte) had given him from New London last week.

Duarte's arrest followed a complaint made Sunday by Charles Montanero of Bridgeport that his sister, Lena Montanero, 20, was living with Duarte as his wife at the Summit street address. The police found the girl at the house and then lay in wait for Duarte. He drove to the house in a Stevens automobile and when he saw the officers ran from the machine and into the woods. Sergt. Myron O. Morgan and Officer Clifford Crary set chase after him and Officer Crary fired two shots in the air in an effort to halt him. Durate was finally arrested in the woods at the point of a gun.

A search of the machine revealed the liquor and glasses, jugs, coloring material, etc., were found in the house. Memorandum books found in Duarte's possession were used as evidence against him. The girl was allowed to return to her home in Bridgeport with her brother.

WALTER MAGRUDA IS BACK IN JAIL AGAIN

Four days after he escaped from the New London county jail, this city, Walter Magruda, 37, of Jewett City and R. F. D. No. 4, Norwich, was rearrested by Officer Henry Viegard of Jewett City in that town. The Jewett City man was serving 20 days in jail, a sentence imposed upon him in the Griswold court by Judge John T. Barry for driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Magruda, a trusty, was in the garden at the jail Thursday afternoon and slipped away. Jailor Oscar H. Main went to Jewett City Monday and brought the man back to this city, placing him in a cell.

FISH PICTURES ENTERED IN CHAMBER CONTEST

Several pictures have been received at the Norwich chamber of commerce office of various catches of fish caught in and about Norwich. The prize, however, is not for the best picture of fish so much as it is for the best photograph which can be used for publicity purposes.

In this connection what is wanted in the picture is a combination photograph of the fisherman and the fish. For instance, one picture which is published in the Maine booklet, shows a little boy with bare feet standing on a rock, with an old fishing pole and a can of worms and a half dozen trout. Another one shows a picture of a man in mid-stream struggling with a fish. Any good photograph taken along side of a stream would be attractive

The chamber of commerce is offering a prize of $5 for the best photograph presented. The publicity committee of the chamber will act as judges. The contest is open until Saturday, August 25th., so there is plenty of opportunity between now and that time for those who wish to compete to bring in pictures or have new ones taken.

Renewing Norwich Friendships

Renewing acquaintances with old friends in his native city is one of the pleasures which Stuart Douglass of New York is experiencing while he and his wife are in this city for a week. Mr. Douglass is now head of a big furniture store on Fifth avenue and is one of the boxing commissioners of New York city, having always been greatly interested in sports.

MAKING PROGRESS ON WEST MAIN ST. JOB

Men in the employ of the Connecticut company and the street department have made rapid progress in their work on West Main street, which is to be macadamized between the rails and twe feet outside. The Connecticut company men have ripped up the ties and rails from the First Baptist church to the city line and have begun to lay new ones. A short stretch of trap rock has been put down by the street department employes from the top of the hill and a small portion of trap rock, two feet outside of the rail, has received a coat of tar.

Has Filed Appeal

Notice of appeal to the supreme court of errors from a judgment rendered by Judge Charles B. Waller in the court of common pleas has been filed in the $300 civil action brought by the Hanover-Curland company against Herbert M. Hitchon of this city.

Judge Waller recently gave judgment in favor of Hitchon, who claimed that he took a $259.50 radio on approval, while the plaintiff claims that Hitchon bought the radio.

SMITH RESTING BEFORE NOTIFICATION CEREMONY

Democratic Standard Bearer is at he Home of Norman H. Davis at Stockbridge, Mass.—The Ceremony This Evening Will Get Under Way at 5 P. M. Eastern Standard Time—Acceptance Address Will Be Delivered About 7 P. M.—Predictions Are That 100,000 Persons Will Be Within Sight of Gov. Smith and Amplifiers Will Carry His Voice to the Fringes of the Throng.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 21—(AP)—A round of golf and dinner with friends in the quiet surroundings of the nearby Berkshires appealed to Governor Smith more than politics on the eve of his notification ceremony.

So he slipped away today to the summer home at Stockbridge, Mass., of Norman H. Davis, one of the cogs in the Wilson administrative machinery, and did as he pleased.

Anxious to be fit as a fiddle for the hour at dusk tomorrow when he will take command of the forces of democracy for the presidential campaign, the man who 'came up from the streets" dismissed political cares at noon and by motor, with Mrs. Smith at his side, took to the road, his destination 40 miles to the southeast.

After an evening visit at the Davis home, the presidential nominee planned to return to the executive mansion where tomorrow, in advance of the delivery of his acceptance speech, he will welcome to his family circle four guests—Senator Robinson of Arkansas, his running mate, and his wife, and Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, who will break the news of his nomination to the governor, and Mrs Pittman.

Asked today, as he faced an enlarged group of newspaper writers, whether his house guests would number only four, the democratic standard bearer said, "Yes." Then observed: "You know my family has grown since I first came to the executive mansion."

A half dozen blocks away, at the DeWitt Clinton hotel, such close friends of the governor as John Raskob, his campaign manager, and William F. Kenny, William H. Todd, James J. Riordan and other cronies, who call him "Al," will be quartered. There also will be the headquarters of democratic national committee members and other big-wigs in the party invading Albany for what probably will be the greatest celebration in the history of this old city.

DeWitt Clinton stands at the corner of the state capitol grounds which tomorrow evening, if the weather man has a kind heart, will be thronged with men and women bent on hearing at first hand the message of the democratic nominee on issues of the campaign. Predictions are that more than 100,000 persons will be within sight of him.

Like dozens of other buildings in the business section, the hotel today was draped with flags and bunting. Similar decorations gave a touch of color to the wooden stands built around the east steps of the capitol where Governor Smith will speak to the nation, with a chain of 100 or more radio stations lending a hand.

The ceremony will get under way at 5 p. m. eastern standard time, but at least half an hour will be taken up with preliminaries. Mr. Raskob will preside and Mayor Thatcher will make a brief address of welcome, then Senator Pittman, probably about 6:30 o'clock, will deliver his notification speech, and the stage will be Governor Smith's. He has prepared an address which he hopes to complete within an hour.

Amplifiers will carry the voice of the nominee to the far fringes of the crowd, and it was to test this apparatus that the governor walked down over the steps from his office today for a brief rehearsal. As he faced a battery of cameramen, and several hundred persons who, ranged below, broke into applause, he thanked everyone who had a hand in preparations, carpenters and wire hangers with as much enthusiasm as the mayor.

Someone brought up a box so the governor's head could be raised well above obstructions, and then came command of photographers for gestures, and they got them.

After the show was over, the governor hurried out to the automobile where Mrs. Smith, and her friend, Mrs Mary Collins of New York, had been waiting to start the trip to Stockbridge. In a twinkling they were off for the home of Mr. Davis, who when Wilson was president, was for a while assistant secretary of the treasury and later under-secretary of state.

When the governor held his daily press conference so many reporters had showed up from Washington and New York that they could hardly squeeze into the nominee's office. As usual cigars were passed, the governor remarking that he received so many as gifts that they would dry up if he didn't give them away.

The nominee said he had not had an opportunity to read messages received as a result of his reply to William Allen White's attack on his legislative record and declared nothing definite had been done toward arranging his stumping itinerary.

WHITE DIDN'T QUESTION THE HONESTY OF SMITH

PARIS, Aug. 21.—(AP)—William Allen White in a statement given out tonight denied that he had assailed Governor Smith personally in his "roll call" of the governor's legislative record.

The statement, which commented on Governor Smith's recently published reply to the roll call, declared that "In every statement I made I carefully declared my faith in his honesty."

IN QUEST OF FEAR THAT POSSESSED SLAIN DOCTOR

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 21—(AP)—Detective tonight were scanning meagre bits of evidence in an effort to lear what fear possessed Dr. Harry R. Dapper, 27 year old physician, as he went on a fatal ride into the country with an unidentified stranger who said his wife was ill.

Dr. Dapper never returned from the nocturnal ride. On a secluded road he was shot to death and his father, Henry J. Dapper, vice president of the Fort Pitt Brewing company, was struck across the head. The father said their assailant leaped in Dr. Dapper's automobile.

When the stranger called at Dr. Dapper's office in Carrick, a suburb, last night, the doctor, while apparently not reluctant to accompany him, was afraid, for he telephoned his father and asked him to go along. Mr. Dapper today said his son had never made a similar request before.

While Mr. Dapper was in a serious condition at his home, suffering from shock and lacerations about the head, detectives questioned him repeatedly in an effort to lear the reason for his son's fear.

Some color was lent to a robbery theory when Mr. Dapper reported losing a wallet, containing valuable papers but no cash.

Authorities also investigated the possibility that some one with a grievance against the doctor might have committed the crime.

The dead man's youthful widow, nearly prostrated by her husband's death, told detectives a boy died recently while under Dr. Dapper's care.

She said however, that relatives of the boy, of foreign parentage, took their loss calmly and made no complaint.

Meanwhile search went on apace for "a foreigner about 35 years old," the description furnished by the slain physician's father.

W. H. WHITING NAMED SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 21—(AP)—With a brief message of appreciation for his services as secretary of commerce and with "best wishes" for him in the "broader" field to which he has been called, President Coolidge accepted today the resignation of Secretary Hoover from the cabinet.

Turning to his native New England for a successor to the republican presidential nominee, the chief executive appointed William F. Whiting, an old friend from Holyoke, Mass., to head the commerce department.

The latter, who arrived in Superior this morning, took the oath of office in Mr. Coolidge's presence.

BULGARIAN WAR MINISTER RESIGNS FROM CABINET

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 21—(AP)—War Minister Ivan Volkoff tonight resigned from the cabinet as the result of charges by some of his colleagues in the ministry that he was connected with the Macedonian revolutionary movement.

Announcement of the resignation brought forth a protest on the part of the majority of the members of parliament, who declared the charge unfounded. It is feared that a cabinet crisi may result.

Dispatches from Sofia yesterday carried the report that A. D. Burroff, foreign minister, had demanded of Premier Liaptcheff that Volkoff be forced to resign. Another report said that Volkoff had been accused by Premier Zankoff of accepting bribes and of being a party to the plot that resulted in the assassination early last month of Gen. Alexander Protogeroff, a Macedonian leader.

SUIT AGAINST THE POLI BUILDINGS IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Aug. 21—(AP)—John Ford, representing Joseph P. Kennedy, executive head of the Keith-Albee-Orpheum Theatre corporation, in a statement given to the Hartford Courant today denied that the Keith organization was prepared "at any time" to buy the Poli circuit at the price asked by S. Z. Poli as is alleged in the writ of attachment for $1,000,000 filed against the Poli theatrical holdings in this city today by the Hancock Co. of New York.

The writ, the largest attachment ever filed in Hartford, alleges that the Hancock Co. was commissioned by Mr. Poli to secure a purchaser of the Poli properties and, acting on these instructions, they secured the Keith corporation and the Stanley Co. of America as purchasers of the circuit for $25,700,000 and that commissions totalling $986,000 were to be paid to the Hancock Co. for its negotiations.

Search Expands For Lost Aviators

Ships of Four Countries and the Eskimos of Greenland Join in the Quest.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(AP)—The ships of four countries and the Eskimos of Greenland joined tonight in combing the wastes of the north Atlantic and the icy barrens of Greenland in an attempt to determine the fate of two American airmen who disappeared Sunday while on the second lap of a good will trip from the United States to Sweden.

The search on land and sea developed into a possible race with death for if the flyers, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, made a forced landing in Greenland, those familiar with the north were agreed the aviators could not long survive cold and exposure. If they fell into the ocean, there was little hope that the searching ships would find other than bits of wreckage of their monoplane, Greater Rockford, but the hunt continued in the hope of ending the uncertainty. The flyers left Rockford, Ill., last Thursday and disappeared after starting from Cochrane Ont., Saturday on the second leg of their trip with Mount Evans, Greenland, as their goal.

Scores of radio operators throughout the country listened for possible calls from the wireless equipment of the Greater Rockford and the Federal radio commission ordered stations using wave bands that the plane might use to desist to give better opportunity to the listeners to pick up the flyers signals. Last authentic radio signals from the airmen came Sunday morning when it was believed the plane was off Cape Chidley but a Connecticut operator believes he picked up an S O S call from the ship Sunday night.

The United States coast guard cutter Marion, and Danish, Canadian and Newfoundland vessels were searching the north Atlantic for the flyers or traces of their monoplane while if they made a forced landing in Greenland it was hoped that Eskimo hunters might find them.

At Rockford, Ill., which sponsored the flight and from which the start was made, relatives of the airmen had not given up hope that the flyers yet will be found alive and pointed to the survival of Arctic explorers who had been lost for long periods in the northland.

BAD WEATHER FOR SEARCHING FOR HASSELL

MAIN, Labrador, Aug. 21—(By Radio to The Associated Press.)—A heavy rain and falling barometer tonight indicated bad weather for those searching for Pilot Bert Hassell and Radio Operator Parker Cramer, of the monoplane Greater Rockford, last heard from at 3 a. m., Central standard time Sunday morning when they signalled their passage over Cape Chidley, 325 miles north of here.

This information from Commander B. MacMillan of the Rawson-Field museum expedition of Chicago was coupled with the declaration from the noted Arctic explorer "that if there is anything we can do to help out in any way let me know."

"Our ship The Bowdoin is loaded and ready to start for home Wednesday. It is raining hard here tonight and the barometer is dropping."

Since the Greater Rockford signalled the letter Sunday morning, its designated code for Cape Chidley, Commander MacMillan has been standing by at his radio listening for signals from the plane, but so far heard no reports from the flyers enroute to Mount Evans, Greenland and Stockholm, Sweden.

Republic Of Albania Becoming Monarchy

Ahmed Zogu, President of the Republic, is to Be Proclaimed King.

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Aug. 21—(AP)—Transition of Albania from a republic into a monarchy is being rapidly consummated, according to reports from Tirana and frontier points, which state that Ahmed Zogu, president of the republic, is to be proclaimed king within a few days.

One report, coming by way of Scutari, is that the change will be observed as a national feast day.

From the capital of Albania came word that the ministerial council has decided that Ahmed Zogu's title as king shall be Scanderbeg III. The first ruler of that name led the Albanians in a successful revolution against Turkey in 1444 and he has been a popular idol in the country for several centuries. Announcement that his name was to be perpetuated in the new dynasty was said to have been received enthusiastically by the people.

Politicians here are wondering to what extent Italy, which in a special sense is Albania's mentor, has encouraged the kingly aspirations of Ahmed Zogu, and other European powers are expected to join Jugoslavia in looking askance upon the change.

The Albanians themselves are said to be divided on the question, although no statement to that effect has been allowed to cross the frontier except by indirect methods. Albania is divided into three main sections comprising the Roman Catholics of the north, the Moslems of the center and the Greek Orthodox Christians of the south.

Ahmed Zogu is a Moslem and it is considered doubtful whether the other elements of the country are wholeheartedly for him as "King Scanderbeg III."

The population of the country is about equal to that of the city of Cleveland, Ohio. The area is somewhat smaller than that of West Virginia. The country is mountainous and is strongly impregnated with the influence of Albanians who emigrated to the United States, saved most of their wages and then returned to live on tidy competences in their native country. Albanians still in the United States remit about $150,000 to relatives and friends at home each month. This American influence, it is considered here, may also have an effect upon the future of the country as a kingdom.

TOOMBS IN CUSTODY OF FEDERAL REFEREE

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(AP)—Roy C. Toombs remained under the jurisdiction of a federal referee in bankruptcy today while an examination into the affairs of his brokerage firm, Toombs and Daily, was continued with questioning of the broker and insurance man.

Toombs, for whom St. Louis authorities have obtained extradition papers under charges of grand larceny, described his activities as president of the brokerage firm and president of the International Life Insurance company of St. Louis. He has been blamed for causing the failure of both companies by manipulating their assets and warrants, charging him with converting securities to his own use, have been issued for his arrest.

He said part of his troubles were due to an over-issuance of 13,000 shares of stock in the insurance company, authorized by him in an effort to reorganize. He said he planned to recall the issue but circumstances prevented before the failure of the company.

Stock certificates for 5,000 shares of the insurance company stock were accounted for by Toombs by saying James Bruce, a New York banker, held one certificate for 2,000 shares while the other for 3,000 was still in St. Louis.

He listed assets of his brokerage firm worth $450,000, including property and bonds.

The hearing was brief and will be resumed tomorrow. Aslong as Toombs is appearing as a witness in the bankruptcy proceedings he is immune from arrest on the warrants against him.

AGRICULTURAL CONFERENCE IS PROPOSED BY HOOVER

Would Have Frank O. Lowden and Other Farm Leaders Participate in Search For a Common Ground of Action For Farm Relief—Mr. Hoover Did Not Indicate Whether It Would Be His Purpose to Call the Conference Before or After His Inauguration—Yesterday Mr. Hoover Had Breakfast in the Cottage Where He Was Born at West Branch, Ia.

WEST BRANCH, Ia., Aug. 21—(AP)—An agricultural conference, in which Frank O. Lowden of Illinois and other farm leaders will be asked to participate in the search for a common ground of action for farm relief, was proposed here tonight by Herbert Hoover in his homecoming address in the heart of the corn belt.

"In formulating recommendations for legislation to carry out the proposals of the party," the republican presidential candidate said, "I trust that we may have the full assistance of the leaders of agricultural thought. I am not insensible to the value of the study which sincere farm leaders have given to this question of farm legislation. They have all contributed to the realization that the problem must be solved. They will be invited into conference. Outstanding farmers such as Governor Lowden will be asked to join in the search for common ground upon which we can act."

The calling of such a conference naturally is predicated upon Hoover's election, but the nominee did not indicate whether it would be his purpose to call it before or after his inauguration. His democratic opponent has announced that if he should be elected he would invite the farm leaders in immediately after November 6.

Former Governor Lowden is the foremost exponent of the equalization fee plan of farm relief, and after the republican convention at Kansas City rejected that plan he announced his withdrawal from the race for the nomination which went to Hoover on the first ballot.

In his home-coming address the G. O. P. standard bearer reiterated the declaration made in his acceptance speech that the republican platform proposal for farm relief did not contemplate either putting the government into the control of the business of agriculture or subsidizing prices of farm products by paying the losses thereon from the federal treasury or by a tax or fee imposed on the farmer.

"We propose with governmental assistance and an initial advance of capital," he added, "to enable the agricultural industry to reach a stature of modern business operations by which the farmer will attain his independence and maintain his individuality."

Expanding his previous statement regarding the development of the Mississippi and the building of a great lakes to the Atlantic waterway as a means of furnishing lower freight rates on farm produce going to the seaboard, Hoover said the engineers had recommended the St Lawrence route to the Atlantic, but that if negotiations with Canada for the construction of this route failed, alternative routes would have to be considered.

"In any event, the completion of this great system of barge lines on the rivers and connecting the lakes with the gulf and of opening a ship way from the lakes to the sea," he continued, "will make an effective transportation system of 12,000 miles in length penetrating twenty midwest states. And this means more than the mere saving upon the actual goods shipped on these routes. If part of your crops can move to market at a seven to ten cent saving per bushel, the buyers' competitive bidding for this portion of the crop will force upward the price of the whole crop."

CANDIDATE HOOVER VISITS SCENES OF HIS CHILDHOOD

WEST BRANCH, Ia., Aug. 21—(AP)—Herbert Hoover lingered for a while today with the kindly people among whom he was born before turning again into the rising sun to wage battle for the presidency.

While hundreds of interested adherents to the party he hopes to lead to victory in November scrambled for vantage points from which they could catch a passing glimpse of him, the nominee moved about the town where he spent his childhood. Old friends greeted him along with hordes of new ones but he tarried among the old ones to talk of the experiences that crowded the boyish days of his Quaker youth.

During the day he breakfasted in the little cottage in which he was born, paid a visit to the neat little cemetery on a nearby hill in which are buried his father and mother and again trod beneath the big trees in the yard about the house that was his Uncle Allan Hoover's in the days when that relative took the orphan boy under his roof.

But as the cool evening shadows lengthened across the little town nestling in the valley "Bert" Hoover, grown-up boy who had been enjoying for a day the sentimental recollections of his youth, become again Herbert Hoover, presidential candidate.

He turned back to a further discussion of the farm relief problem, which he regards as the most important before the next administration, expanding upon this section of his acceptance speech at Stanford university ten days ago. A vast radio hookup carried his message over the greater portion of the country.

The candidate found in the little midwestern village much to impress upon him the opportunities afforded the average boy in an American town. Contrasting them with the limitations imposed upon the youths of other countries of the world, he concluded that American boys have a limitless future ahead of them while those of many other countries are born simply to carry on the tasks laid down by his father.

As he visited with boyhood friends, the candidate received news that President Coolidge at Superior, Wis., had accepted the resignation Hoover had filed some time ago as secretary of commerce. At the same time came news of the appointment of Edward F Whiting a Holyoke Massachusetts paper manufacturer and a graduate of Amherst college as his successor.

Although the long heralded appearance of the candidate had brought hundreds of persons to the little Iowa town who hailed him at every turn, the high spots of his visit were the moments he spent among his friends and relatives in comparative seclusion.

The candidate and Mrs. Hoover held a reception in the high school buildings greeting old friends along with hundreds of other persons who strolled past to extend their felicitations. As the nominee's former schoolmates pushed forward, Mrs. Carran took a position beside him and his wife and presented each of her former pupils by name.

Bert Coombs, Eddie Smith, Reta Enlow and Charlie Coggeshall all passed in turn, some to bring a smile of instant recognition to his face, others to be greeted by a perplexed wrinkle.

Lew Penrose the former seat mate of Hoover, now a Muscatine, Ia., business man, had to introduce himself while another schoolmate, Ed Armstrong of West Branch, failed to remember Hoover.

The reception ended, the Hoover family journeyed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Yoder for lunch. Mrs. Yoder is a second cousin of the candidate. The afternoon was spent in the headquarters set up in a high school building through which streamed hundreds of well wishers and friends. Later he dined with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bronson, also relatives of the Hoover family.

The candidate broke into his afternoon of relaxation for a conference with more than a hundred newspapermen, including the score who have journeyed across the continent with him. Later he also visited the tents set up for the evening's speech to be given a hearty greeting by the thousands who had sat through several hours of speech making by almost a score of corn belt political leaders, among them Senator Smith Brookhart of Iowa, who defended the candidate's activities toward the farmer during the World war.

After spending tonight here as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Yoder, the Hoover party early tomorrow will move to Cedar Rapids, Ia., where the nominee will confer with a group of editors of farm papers and various other agricultural leaders over the farm problem.

NINE PERSONS KILLED AND $3,000,000 DAMAGE BY TORNADO

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 21—(AP)—Nine persons were killed, more than 100 were hurt, some seriously, and property was damaged to the extent of $3,000,000, in the tornado which swept through the town of Austin, two southern Minnesota counties and near the Iowa border Monday night. A survey of the area developed the information tonight that two separate tornadoes caused the damage outside of Austin, then finally joined in striking that city, where six persons were killed and more than 50 were hurt. Property losses there were estimated at $1,000,000. Three additional deaths were reported from near Rockwell City, Iowa. Throughout today records were increased on the injured list until more than 100 names were enrolled. The remaining $2,000,000 in damage was to farm and town property throughout the area.

MALT EXTRACT IS NOT AN OUTLAW PRODUCT

BOSTON, Aug. 21—(AP)—Federal Judge James M. Morton ruled today that malt extract from which beer might be manufactured is "by no means an outlaw product" when he dismissed a petition of the government seeking the forfeiture of the stock of the New England Malt Products Co., which was seized by prohibition agents.

Malt extract was purchased at the store by agents who testified that Jacob Goldberg, the proprietor upon their request, gave them really a recipe for making beer from it. Later the entire stock in trade was seized and a forfeiture petition filed. Judge Morton's opinion said in part:

"While no doubt a good deal of what is sold goes into illegal beer, a good deal of it does not. It is by no means an outlaw product but is one of many common food substances which can be used in making alcoholic liquid."

DR. PISCULLI TO BE TAKEN ON THE FLIGHT TO ROME

HARTFORD, Aug. 21—(AP)—Dr. Leon M. Pisculli, New York doctor, will be the fourth person in the cabin of the "Roma" when the big Bellanca airplane starts on her proposed trans-Atlantic flight to Rome, Count Cesare Sabelli, flight commander, said this afternoon. The plane is at Brainard field, being groomed for the flight.

"We will take him," said the count, exhibiting the contract binding him to take the doctor as medical observer, after the doctor had paid $13,000 to help the Italian airman pay the bills for the construction of the plane.

Dr. Pisculli was assured of going on the flight after he had brought a claim for $13,000 against Count Sabelli and the North Oceanic Airways corporation, joint owner of the plane, and had it attached by a local deputy sheriff. The attachment is still on the plane, and it is expected that the attachment will be removed tomorrow.

MERCHANTS PREPARING FOR BIG THREE-DAY SALE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 21—Main street was taking on colors today and a general appearance of activity as the merchants of the city prepared for the three Opportunity Days sale that will start Thursday and continue Friday and Saturday. As a strictly merchandising effort the three days promis to be the most successful ever attempted here. Over 80 merchants have combined in staging a city wide clearance sale that will be independent with unusual values and bargains galore. Posters and pennants are prominently displayed in the show windows although they are not with the purpose of decoration as much as to do business on a large scale with seasonable goods offered at bargain prices. The merchants have sent out invitations to the people of Greater Willimantic through this newspaper to take advantage of the opportunity days.

In their desire to make the event a real opportunity in every way possible the merchants are to give away next Monday night an Essex coach. Smith-Randall

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Randall of 163 Valley street was the scene of a pretty afternoon wedding at four o'clock today when their daughter, Miss Irma A. H. Randall and William J. A shortage of high grade and well appointed rents in Willimantic is announced by the chamber of commerce as the result of a survey conducted in preparation for the reception of new industries in the city. The board of directors discussed the matter this week and it was decided to ask owners of present vacant rents to begin at once to make alterations and modernize their rents to make them more attractive. "There are 247 vacant rents in Willimantic" said Secretary Arnold this morning, "but I venture the opinion that there are not five rents of the type that the committee must have providing our anticipated new industries move here." The chamber considers the situation quite serious as fair and even high class rents will have to be made available for the employees and executives of new industries.

It was made known today that Rev. Alfred E. THREE ARE FINED IN COLUMBIA TOWN COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 21—A long session of the Columbia town court was held Monday night when four cases were heard by Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins with Grand Juror Joseph N. Clarke as prosecutor. Court convened at 9 o'clock and did not adjourn until 1 o'clock this morning. All four of the defendant swere convicted and two of them appealed to high court.

Harold Colburn of Mansfield, whose car collided with one owned by Henry Collins of New York city on the Columbia highway July 15, last was presented on a charge of failure to give the right of way, amended from one of reckless driving. He was fined five dollars and costs, the fine being remitted. Colburn paid $11.58. Colburn testified that he had been forced out of his path by the presence of a boy in the road. He had paid $69.50 covering the damage to the Collins car and his own damage was $35.

Maurice L. Fay of Hartford, arrested by State Policeman Frank A. Starkel last Sunday when he attempted to pass a string of three cars near Katzman's corner in Colombia was charged with reckless driving. John Loverett and Kenneth Willard, drivers of the other cars testified that Fay was driving recklessly. Fay said that he had followed the cars for over a mile and that they were moving slowly. He believed that he had plenty of room to pass when Everett allowed his car to follow the center of the road causing a confusion. Fay was fined $25 and costs, $15 of the fine being remitted, leaving an assessment of $29.58. Fay gave notice of an appeal to the superior court.

Arthur J. Dubreuil of this city was charged with reckless driving and allowing children under 16 years of age to ride on a motor vehicle in danger of injury or loss of life. He pleaded not guilty through his attorney, W. A. King. The charge of reckless driving was dismissed and on the second count a fine of $5 and costs, was imposed. An appeal was taken to the superior court.

Raymond Keefe of Waterbury was charged with breach of the peace as a result of the shooting of Carl E. Blank of Hartford, a camper at Columbia lake on Wednesday evening, August 8, at the Erdoni farm, near the lake. Blank testified that he, Donald Ford and William Kumpel, also of Hartford, were guests of Mrs. Helen Keefe, wife of the defendant, at dinner. Suddenly Mrs. Keefe cried out, "Beat it boys! My husband is coming." The trio made a hurried exit and ran down through an orchard. They could hear loud talking in the house. Blank was afraid that he might be accused of wrong doing by Keefe and going back rear the house he called to Keefe to come out and talk it over. Keefe replied, "Get the h—— out of here or I will shoot." Keefe then picked up a gun and fired it. Blank did not know in what direction the shot had gone but he left the premises and the next morning he complained to the authorities.

Keefe told of his unexpected return from Waterbury and of seeing the three men run out of the house. He said that upon Blanks return he fired the shot in the air to scare Blank away. Keefe said that Blank had been a previous visitor at the house and things had occurred three months ago that displeased him. He had notified Blank to keep away. At the dinner there was also present another woman, a resident of Providence and two children. Justice of the Peace Collins said that he could see many reasons for Keefe's provocation but the admission of firing the gun could not be overlooked by the court. Keefe was then fined the minimum of $10 and costs amounting to $28.33 which was paid.

The funeral of Miss Angeline Maclare was held from the late home, 30 Jackson place this morning with a requiem high mass in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. E. A. Mathieu was the celebrant. Mrs. Joseph F. Caudreau was organist. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal prayer was read. The bearers were Joseph Barry, Arthur Labonte, Hector Marien, Joseph Nouette, Alfred Daigneault and Victorian L'Anglais.

Three truck drivers of the Arute Construction Co. of New Britain, which has the contract for the North Coventry-Mansfield Depot road, were arraigned in the Coventry town court Monday evening and charged with operating overloaded vehicles. They pleaded guilty and were each fined $50 and costs amounting to $67.80, which was paid. The drivers were Leonard R. Arute, Peter Pernaquitel, Clinton Daniels, all of New Britain. The arrests were made by State Policeman Starkel.

LATE VACATIONS

June, July and August are accepted as the vacation months, largely because the public schools are not in session. Hotels, mountain and lake resorts and other establishments that cater for the vacationist realize that the bulk of their profits is made from the average man and his family. The extremely rich often have places of their own. The extremely poor do not take vacations. Generally speaking vacations and hot weather go together, so that the season limit begins ordinarily about the first of June and ends rather abruptly with Labor day.

In some quarters arguments are raised for a late vacation, for it is urged that crowds are this inevitable consequence of the summer months, along with top rates for board and lodging. One crowd begets another, so the vacation caravan winds its way across the country, to distant mountain or seashore, or to such attractions as nature offers nearer at home.

To the man who likes solitude the late vacation will appeal. Weather records show that September is a warm month in this latitude, and although the days have grown shorter, the water continues warm enough for swimming and the fish continue to manifest an interest in whatever the angler has to offer. Children must go to school, so the vacation will be taken with their enjoyment in mind, which brings the time before September, but for the man who can arrange it the late vacation presents a strong appeal. There are persons who would rather ramble in the woods when the leaves are turning and feel a crisp bite in the air, than fight mosquitoes at a summer resort and sleep in a cubby-hole called a bedroom. For those who answer roll-call in that class vacation time is just ahead.

LORD HALDANE AND THE WAR

When the war clouds gathered in 1914 they obscured the reputation of one of the most distinguished British statesmen then on the scene. This was Richard Burdon Haldane, Viscount of Cloan, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, an outstanding member of the liberal party, who withdrew from the British ministry the year after the war began. Sentiment toward him changed after the close of the war, but he never regained his old influence and death has now ended the period of his long political retirement.

Lord Haldane was a visitor to the United States about eleven months before Germany declared war and at that time his views on international relations, particularly as to his admiration of the German character, were the occasion of much discussion. He made the error of holding the conviction that mutual toleration and confidence would enable the nations of the triple alliance and of the entente to go on living harmoniously together. Such an opinion seems less blameworthy now than it did in war days. To his credit Lord Haldane had seven years of work as British secretary of state for war, during which he is judged to have brought about those military reforms which enabled his country to place a considerable military force on the continent early in the war. He believed in working for the promotion of peace and mutual confidence among the nations of Europe, but at the same time he believed in the provision against the eventuality of war. He sought a mutual agreement between his country and the German empire on naval limitations. His ideas were not so greatly different from those that prevail today after the experience of war. He failed in his endeavor to avert war in 1914, but it does not appear that his failure handicapped in any way the conduct of the war by the country and the side on which he loyally stood. On the contrary, present opinion accords him the credit of having rendered his own nation better able to play its inevitable part in the conflict.

THE ANDREWS FIND

There were giants in those days. This familiar scriptural quotation comes to mind with the report that comes of the finding of the fossil remains of a prehistoric monster in the Gobi desert by Roy Chapman Andrews who has headed an expedition for the American Museum of Natural History. This was a monster indeed, for Mr. Andrews compares its length with the height of the Woolworth building in New York, which is 792 feet. The head weighed 500 pounds it is estimated, and as the heads of the earlier monsters usually were small, in comparison with the rest of their bodies, something of the size of the beast may be imagined. Andrews had the hope when he set out of finding the link between ancient and modern man for he has been convinced for years that the cradle of the human race was in that part of Mongolia, but the dispatches from Peking do not report that he has been successful in this search. What he has found is important enough of its kind, for he appears to have unearthed a monster new to natural science. He dug up the fossilized bones of a behemoth in the Gobi desert three years ago. Such research work as science has done has developed few theories that prehistoric man was any larger than his descendants of the present. He was without firearms and presumably lacking in intelligence, but the mammoth creatures were even less intelligent and equipped with extremely small brains. Prehistoric man seems to have had the better of the arguments, despite the size of the animals he encountered.

FOREST FIRES

The forest fire season, which usually opens about the middle of July, was somewhat delayed this year, but the amount and the distribution of the destruction seems to be about normal. Fires are reported in California, Washington and Idaho. Western Canada seems to be suffering more than usual.

The average annual loss from these fires in the United States is about $35,000,000. The federal government maintains fire guards in all the larger national parks, and during the dry season holds large forces of extra men at central points to help if fires get beyond the control facilities of local groups. Government rangers report that not more than ten per cent. of these fires are started by lightning or other natural causes, but most of the loss is attributed to careless campers, cigars and cigarettes carelessly thrown into dry grass along roads through forests are now regarded as the cause of most fires. To diminish this hazard as much as possible some states, in which Connecticut is included, clear up the roadside of weeds and shrubbery which have grown through the summer and this work is now going on along Connecticut highways by employes of the state department.

Canada has adopted the drastic measure of closing its forests to tourists during dry seasons, but the United States has done this in only rare instances. Connecticut has found it necessary at times to suspend the hunting season licenses in the fall when unusual dryness in the woods made the danger of fires much greater than ordinary. From the fact that federal rangers report approximately 33,000 fires a year, it looks as if the government would never be free of the menace, but since the principle source is tourist carelessness, there is good ground for improvement.

A PERMANENT PRINCIPLE

Not only did Mr. Hoover, in his acceptance speech, put himself on record as opposed to governmental entrance into the field of private business enterprise, but also, with regard to the regulation of business by our government, he set down a general principle of limitation. "It is the duty of government," he said, "to avoid regulation as long as equal opportunity to all citizens is not invaded and public rights violated."

Inevitably this must be considered a leading and very far reaching statement of public policy. Had Mr. Hoover made no other reference to the relations between government and business, that statement alone would mark him as a statesman of independent thought and of high capacity for economic leadership. It may sound simple enough in Mr. Hoover's matter-of-fact phraseology, but in operation it commits our government to a definite yet general principle of self-limitation of powers in a vital and permanent domestic matter. It is one thing to affirm that our government should regulate private business when public rights are manifestly violated and when equal opportunity to citizens is invaded by it; it is a far more comprehensive utterance to say that only in those two cases should the government resort to actual regulation. The announcement of such a doctrine is extremely important for in our domestic affairs such a doctrine is as important as is, say, the Monroe doctrine in our foreign affairs. For it is of the utmost importance that there should be a definition of the limits of governmental regulation to serve as a basis for future legislation. If no such principle exists, the door is open on the one hand to the strictest of strict and narrow constructions of constitutional powers, and on the other hand to progressively greater degrees of governmental regulation on various special pretexts and to thereby laying the foundation of socialism. But with such a principle firmly established, a bulwark of liberty under law is measurably assured to the people who are its constant beneficiaries.

RELATIVELY DISTURBED

"Whew!" said the bachelor uncle seeking the welcome solace of his club. "Whoo, I'm all in!"

"Go on," resignedly said the man in the next chair, whom he had disturbed.

"Nieces," said the bachelor uncle in an explanatory tone "Pretty nieces who listen when you talk to 'em and act as though they were intelligent and then turn 'shifty' and make big eyes at you and the same as say, 'Whatchu going to do about it.' Verbena came to spend a month with me while her parents went to California and I confess, that while I have known, in a general way, that the world was overrun with young men, still too green to be plucked by a sensible hand, they have not annoyed me because they were quite outside my orbit. Immediately after Verbena's arrival 99 per cent of them camped out on my doorstep in a firm and indomitable manner which augurs well for their future business success. She seemed to be making a collection of them, because, without doubt, she was not in love with any of them. Then why,' I inquired of her after one of them had smoked up all my imported cigarettes and borrowed the book I was reading, 'do you bother with 'em at all, Verbena, when there are so many really interesting things in the world to do?'

"She seemed to consider the question and then, smiling at me, shook her head in a pitying manner. She said she was afraid I could not understand if she tried to explain, but that a girl might just as well be dead as not have a train of admirers. It's quantity, not quality, at that age, you see!

"After a few of Verbena's alibis I ceased staying awake nights until she came in. The first time she arrived at 4 o'clock I was in the last stages of hysteria trying to plan the telegram to her parents — and she was quite annoyed at me What on earth did I expect one was to do after a dance but hunt up some other place to dance and have supper over again? Nobody, she pointed out patiently, wanted to go to bed at 1 o'clock except the aged, decrepit and hopeless old fogies.

"Why should I worry when she had Clarence with her? This was almost an insult to my intelligence. One look at Clarence would make you understand my feelings.

"Today was the day set for me to put Verbena on the train for California. I could hardly wait for the time to come. I am a methodical man and so I explained to Verbena that her train left at 8 and that we would start sharp at 6 because we had quite a drive to the station and a large mess of luggage to hunt up and check.

"'Oh, how nice!' said Verbena sweetly. 'Then I'll have time to go to that tea Petunia is giving and see all the boys and girls and tell them good-by! Goody! Clarence wanted to take me!'

"She flew to the phone and Clarence arrived so quickly he might just as well have popped down the chimney. I repeated my instructions.

"Verbena was to return at 5 sharp. At 5.30 I began looking out of windows in both directions. At 5.45 I went out and got my engine started, leaving the car in the garage. I didn't want to be held up at bridges and by traffic and miss the train. At five minutes to 6 I got into my overcoat and held my hat in hand.

"My affection for Verbena was completely drowned in a wave of blackest wrath. Did she think tickets and berth to California were a mere trolley trip? At 7 o'clock I dashed madly out of the front door, because I had to have air and space. Three rods down the curb was parked a disreputable little roadster, which looked familiar, and I ran to it.

"Inside sat Verbena and Clarence, gazing into one another's eyes. When she saw me she smiled with a lovely, girlish smile until my chatterings and wavings impressed her with the fact that I was perturbed.

"'Wherever have you been uncle??' she inquired agilely. 'I have been waiting for you to drive around here in your car for quite a few minutes, haven't we, Clarence? I thought it would save time.'

"'Hop in,' said Clarence, with sad scorn. 'No time to get your car now—I'll make the train for you!'

"I hopped. Obstructions meant nothing to Clarence. He either jumped them or went through them. We retrieved Verbena's traveling bag and left the rest of the baggage for a later train and then Clarence dropped me here at the club.

"Even then I was not yet able to talk intelligently, and what do you suppose that young sap had the nerve to call after me as he dashed away? 'Good-by, uncle! Now, do you actually suppose he meant anything? Oh, that Verbena!'"—Exchange.

Arm Chair Journeys To Other Lands

Albanians Buy Wives To Do Work

WASHINGTON—Japan's pointed warning to Manchuria not to throw in its lot with the Chinese nationalists who dominate China south of the Manchurian wall has yet undetermined possibilities of trouble in it for not only the United States alone but for London, Paris, Rome and other capitals where the theory of non-impairment of Chinese territorial integrity and an open door in China for all nationals on equal commercial and economical footing is given at least lip service in formulating national Chinese policy.

Just what Tokyo's insistence that Manchuria stand aloof from nationalist China may portend that could threaten that cornerstone of American Chinese policy is not clear as yet. And unless there be such a threat it is not likely that Washington will intervene.

Under the late Chang Tso-lin, Manchurian dictator, isolation of Manchuria politically from the rest of China was more or less maintained. He was a picturesque figure, dating back to his bandit days in the Manchurian hills. It was there the Russo-Japanese war found him and from that humble start and via no greater an original post than that of chief of police in Mukden, he grew to his dictatorial power in Manchuria, presumably with Japanese aid.

It is to be doubted, however, that Tokyo fostered his ambitious hopes of making all China his by conquest. Tokyo statesmen must have realized that it might seriously complicate the situation for them in Manchuria, as it has, should he fall and that all the traits of Chinese character went to point to failure. He was a wilful, autocratic leader in his later years, hard to control by advice.

But Old Chang is dead by an assassin's bomb as he fled from Peking and Young Chang rules in Manchuria in his stead. Young Chang and the younger commanders of his military government have all along cherished a liking for the Young China movement south of the Great Wall, built up there by men of their own age and also of westernized education and outlook. Their turning to a rapprochement with the Nanking nationalists, now that the domineering Old Chang no longer lives to block such a movement, was certainly anticipated in Washington.

For Washington and other western capitals, in the event Young Chang should ignore Tokyo and carry out an alliance with Nanking, the question of what Tokyo would do about it would be highly important. The language of warning served upon him is stern. It implies almost any drastic Japanese steps of coercion. If those steps constituted any actual move toward disruption of Chinese territorial integrity, and that means Manchuria is as much a part of China as is Shantung, the international diplomatic pot would begin to simmer with a vengeance.

YOUR HEALTH

HEALTH LAW VIOLATIONS

By W. V. Gage, M. D., Denver, Colo.

Neither sorrow nor tears nor wailing nor passionate supplication are of the slightest avail in nature's court. You must pay a just and equable penalty for every infraction of her laws but, on the other hand, no earthly power or potentate can in any manner approach nature in the matter of lavish gifts, as a fitting reward to every good and faithful servant.

Every good thing which the world has to offer is the heaped up and running over reward of all those who do not transgress nature's laws. If you are looking for bodily and mental betterment in yourself, you may know fully that there is one way, and one way only, whereby you may be absolutely assured of the attainment of your desire. Obey the immutable laws for health and perfection, laid down by God or nature, according to your belief, which demand that both mind and body must approach perfection, the same laws whose observance compel perfection in every growing tree and every blade of grass on earth, and the laws which spell peak function in every species of drumb animal.

In the past the laity has come to the conclusion that it was, in a way, justifiable to sin carelessly against nature, and then to seek a physician, hopefully looking for a potion which would erase entirely, or at least cover up, the scars of past misdeeds.

Physicians are more and more coming to realize that their duty demands that they, as advisers, instruct their clients how to avoid habits which lead to conditions of disease, rather than, by sinning, to be compelled to pay the inevitable penalty for transgression.

When we all reach the point in advancement and evolution where all and sundry regard every acquired departure from a perfect physical normal as humiliating and somewhat disgraceful and worthy of condemnation rather than sympathy, the vast army of folks who get real joy from the recounting of their various abnormalities is going to be reduced to a very tiny minimum.

Taking the most prevalent and common, as well as the most easily preventable and most expensive maladies as an example, let us refer to the common cold. We may be sure that the time is fast approaching when general education will demand that the individual with a cold be made to "herd by himself" until he is well. He is an unnecessary menace to society, and has so become for the reason that he has shamefully neglected his body. He is simply advertising that fact when he appears with a cold.

Chatterer Watches and Shivers

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

True mother love makes gentle e'en
The fiercest natures ever seen.
—Old Mother Nature.

Perhaps you remember that Chatterer the Red Squirrel had escaped from Cubby Bear and from the kittens of Mrs. Yowler the Bobcat by darting into a little hole in the ground. He certainly was a scared Squirrel. He really hadn't had a good look at those kittens. He didn't know that Mrs. Yowler had any babies and so he really didn't know just who the enemies were who had given him so great a fright.

Chatterer ran along a little underground gallery. It was an old gallery that had been made by Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. In places it was a little small for Chatterer, but he could squeeze through, and he did. By and by it led up into an old stump. Chatterer felt better then. Up it led until finally Chatterer poked his head out of a little hole several feet above the ground. It was good to peek out. It was good to get the fresh air. But Chatterer did no more than peek out. He didn't take any chances. He had had too great a fright for that. Yes, sir, he had had too great a fright for that. He didn't even poke his nose out any farther than he had to in order to see.

At first Chatterer didn't see anything out of the usual, but a moment later a faint rustle of the leaves caught his quick ears. He looked in that direction. Then he almost swallowed his breath. There was a kitten. There was no doubt as to what it was. But it was a kitten with only the tiniest stump of a tail. Even as Chatterer noted this there was a rush and another kitten pounced on this kitten. Then over and over they rolled in the leaves. They pretended to bite. They cuffed each other. They kicked with their hindfeet. Suddenly one of them got to his feet and scampered off. In an instant the other was after him. They were playing. Yes, sir, they were playing. It was rough-and-tumble play, but it was play just the same.

They chased each other around the trees. They played hide-and-seek. They played as only two kittens can play. And they played hard. Chatterer was so interested in watching them that he poked his whole head out. Who they were he couldn't imagine.

But Chatterer didn't have to wait long to find out whose babies these were. Out of the shadows stepped Mrs. Yowler the Bobcat. You may be sure that Chatterer drew in his head hastily. She stretched out on the ground lazily, all the time fondly watching those kittens. They pounced on her. They tumbled over her. They played with her ears. They played with her twitching stub of a tail. She rolled them around with her big paws. Now and again she licked one of them. It was plain to see that Mrs. Yowler was very fond and very proud of her babies, as, of course, a mother should be.

For a long time Mrs. Yowler and the kittens played together. Then the kittens grew tired and curled up against their mother for a nap. She herself blinked sleepily. Somehow or other, she didn't look the fierce hunter that Chatterer knew her to be. He thought of this as he watched her. And then a thought came to him which brought with it a feeling of panic. These kittens would grow up. Already there were Mr. and Mrs.

In an instant the other was after him

Yowler hunting nightly through the Green Forest, and with two more of these fierce hunters, life would be very hard, indeed for the little people in the Green Forest. Suddenly Chatterer wanted to get away from there. He wanted to get home to his own part of the Green Forest, over near the Old Orchard, at Farmer Brown's. He wanted to be where he would not be likely to have Yowler and Mrs. Yowler and these little Yowlers as neighbors. Without thinking, he dug his claws into the wood. They made a little sound. In an instant the fierce hungry eyes of Mrs. Yowler were staring straight up into his own.

Fur coat, $335 — ruined by MOTHS.

$1 and 1 minute could have saved it

This fur coat was going into cold storage this summer. In the early spring it hung unused for a month or more in steam-heated house in New Hampshire. Winter and summer are all the same to moths in modern homes. The moth worm is ravenously hungry at 60° and over. It is the worm and not the flying moth that does all the damage. It hides deep in furs and woolens—in folds and paddings. A can of Expello—$1—and the minute it takes to hang the can in a closet would have saved this fur coat. Expello is a heavier-than-air vapor in crystal form. It penetrates all fabrics. It kills moths—that's guaranteed. No spraying—no moths escape.

Get Expello from your drug or department store. Also comes packed 8 handy bags to tin for cedar chests, etc. Read labels on cans. The Expello Corporation, Dover, N. H.

Robin is First and Last

The robin's song is the first dominant note of the dawn. It leads the orchestra and is heard through most of the day. At dusk, after many of the other birds have gone to bed, the robin's rich evening carol rings. Robin is an industrious gleaner of worms. A bird student, experimenting with young robins, found that each bird could eat more than 60 earth worms daily—that is, each bird ate 41 per cent more than its own weight in 12 hours. Man at that rate would consume 70 pounds of flesh in a day and drink five or six gallons of water.

THREE MACHINES DAMAGED IN CRASH--POLICE HOLD LOCAL DRIVER

Following a collision in which three machines were damaged on North Main street, shortly before 9 o'clock Tuesday evening, Harold W. Botham, 23, of Montville, was arrested by the local police and booked on three charges, driving while under the influence of liquor, driving without having the registration of his car with him and driving without having his driver's license with him. He was held under bonds of $400 for his appearance in the city court this (Wednesday) morning.

The accident occurred near Dick's Service station on North Main street, about 8:45 o'clock, and the machines involved in the crash were an Essex coach, owned by Jacob Goldblatt of No. 432 North Main street, a machine operated by Philip Nadeau of No. 26 Devine street, Jewett City, and a Durant roadster operated by Botham.

Officers Peter Sullivan and Val Luppert investigated the crash and as a result arrested Botham. Botham could not produce the registration for his car and his driver's license. He claims he has both. It was surmised from his appearance that he had been drinking and a local physician was summoned to examine him. The result of the examination was that he was booked for driving under the influence. It is understood that he admitted having indulged in two bottles of beer.

At police headquarters Botham claimed that Nadeau's machine collided with his machine while he was driving on the right hand side of the road, the crash causing his (Botham's) machine to collide with the Goldblatt machine which had been left parked by the curb.

Botham's machine was badly damaged. The right rear mudguard was twisted, left front mudguard crushed, left front tire blown out and right hand running board damaged. The other two machines were also damaged.

At police headquarters Botham stated that he gave one of the other drivers $30 in settlement for the damage to his car. Asked how he happened to part with $30 if he were not at fault, Botham said, "See this lump on my forehead? I didn't know what I was doing." He had a good-sized lump on his forehead.

BLACKSTONE PERKINS' BOAT SECOND IN WEEKAPAUG RACE

The Elf sailed by Russell Boss was victor in the regular Class B event of the boats of the Weekapaug Yacht club held on the pond Sunday afternoon. This is the first race that this craft has won during the present season.

The Hornet with Edmund Blackstone Perkins of Norwich in command was the second craft to finish. The Hornet has stood well up in each of the races of the miscellaneous group in the August division. Third place Sunday was taken by the Jolly Roger, sailed by Dr. John Rowley.

The result of this race was to put the Hornet, which has been leading the other boats in the standing for the monthly series into a still greater lead. The Hornet now has a lead of 59 points in the seasonal series over its nearest competitor. This boat was the winner of first honors in the July series for miscellaneous entries with a large margin. So far it is leading the other boats in the August series by 13 points.

With but three more races included in the season's schedule for this class of boats it is probable that the Hornet will be victorious in both the series for the entire season and in the August events. This boat is also one of the leading crafts in the Class A division being led up to the time of the race Tuesday afternoon by the Wasp, sailed by Dwight Ellis, by only one point.

NORWICH MAN STARTS SUIT FOR $10,000 DAMAGES

Michael Tataska of this city has brought suit for $10,000 damages against The Norwich Window and House Cleaning company, the New England Window and House Cleaning company, Louis Cuprak, Dmytro Galysh and Paul Gulak, all of this city. According to the complaint the four men mentioned, on May 17th of this year entered a partnership agreement for the purpose of window and house cleaning, with the understanding that each man was to do his share of the work and the profits were to be divided accordingly. On or about Aug 1, Tabaska claims that he retired from the firm, which left Cuprak, Galysh and Gulak to carry on the business.

The revenue of the firm from its regular trade and business during the full calendar month next preceding the date of the plaintiff's said retirement was in excess of $10,000 it is alleged.

Under the agreement, according to the papers, there is due and owing to Tabaska, from the defendants the sum of $6,000.

Besides asking $10,000 damages, Tabaska also seeks a full report of all receipts, expenses and business transactions of, for and with either the Norwich Window and House Cleaning company or the New England Window and House Cleaning company and the defendants as co-partners up to and including Aug. 1, 1928.

"WOLF-STONE" FOUND IN SAFFORD CEMETERY

A so-called "Wolf-stone" has been found in the Safford cemetery, Preston City, a half mile from the residence of Harold Muttart. The inscription upon the stone is not discernible, but the writing was deciphered by stenciling. The date on the stone was found to be "1736", which makes it 192 years old.

The cemetery, which is located on the Voluntown turnpike, the old stage coach road from Boston to New York, does not have the appearance of one as it is all grown up with brush. The turnpike mentioned is better known as the Bee-line road to Providence and is being urged as a state highway to the Rhode Island line, leading into Providence.

The inscription follows:

"Here lies the body of Mr John Safford, who died March 29 1736, aged 73 years. You are but dust and die you must."

SUPERIOR COURT DENIES WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

At a session of the superior court in this city Monday afternoon Judge Edward M. Yeomans denied a writ of habeas corpus brought by Lester Bendett of Norwich against his wife, Blanche. Bendett sought to obtain the custody of their two children, which he claimed his wife had taken into her control without right and has detained and confined them and refuse to allow him to have any custody or control of them. Judge Yeomans suggested that Bendett pay the sum of $8 a week for the support of the children and also made suggestions as to the proper times when he may see them.

At the hearing it was brought out that Mrs Bendett had left her husband's household, taking with her the two children and leaving a note explaining why she left.

Mrs. Bendett said that she would not live with her husband again, although she admitted he was a hard worker. Her husband, according to her story, did not use the best of judgment in investing his money, after he had made a little. Mr. Bendett conducts a gasoline station on North Main street, near the plant of the G. & E. department.

As stated in the letter, she said that her husband did not keep her for a wife, but for a servant, and she had much work to do, with very little pleasure.

Mr Bendett said he did as much for his family as his means would allow. The petitioned related to the court the reverses he had encountered with his gasoline station. Previously he had a 60-foot front for his station but County Commissioner George Bradford informed that it was necessary to add another 30 feet. As a result of this, he was forced to purchase an adjacent building, and the rearranging of the station cost him more money than he could really afford.

He objected when his wife wanted to take the children to New York city to live on the grounds that he desired to have the children near him, and where he could see them. At present Mrs. Bendett is living on a farm in Lisbon, with her mother, for the summer.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 21.—Last night was cooler than those preceding and particularly helpful in making it a good night for sleep at the camp ground.

Rev. F. O. Burnett of Hockanum was the leader of the morning watch service at 8.15 o'clock this morning. He spoke particularly upon the Holy Spirit as the source of power to the Christian.

Rev. H. H. Critchlow of Willimantic spoke at 9.30 on the subject, Good Stewards of Our Possessions. He spoke some plain words. He urged that the church has too long been trying to evangelize the world on a copper and nickel basis. He told of one church in New York city which found in its collection one evening 755 pennies. If we are good stewards and handle our possessions as God's own, we must not support His work by niggardly offerings. Mrs. Florence Manuel sang with expression A Charge to Keep I Have. An informal discussion followed in which several participated.

Dr. Frink attracted his usual large audience in the tabernacle at 11 o'clock. His subject was Finding God In Living Things. Among other things he said: Life is just as much of a mystery concerning its origin as it was centuries ago. The time was when there was no life, either vegetable or animal. Life appears first in protoplasm but protoplasm is the most complex substance knokn to humanity. He said there are 600,000 species of living things and each of these expresses an idea. God has endowed every living thing with self-preservation, self-defense, and the power of reproduction. The speaker pictured many of the wonders which appear in the study of living things.

At 1 p. m. the Stafford Springs house prayer meetings were opened with Rev. Frank Chamberlain as the leader. He spoke upon Paul's prayer for the Ephesian church found in Paul's epistle to the Ephesians.

At 6 p. m. the second of these services was held with Rev. W. D. Woodward as the leader.

At 7 p. m. Rev. Dr Spaulding gave the third and final number of his series of illustrated lectures, this one being The Land of the Incas, Peru and Bolivia. This course of lectures has been greatly appreciated by the large audiences which have been privileged to listen to them.

The Woman's Home Missionary society was in charge of the service at 2 p. m. Mrs. M. E. Genter presided. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Jerome Greer. The speaker was Miss Susie May Kimball, superintendent of the Immigrants' Home, East Boston. Miss Kimball told many interesting experiences connected with her work. The purpose of this home is to aid unfortunate people from other lands who arrive in Boston and who for various reasons cannot get to their final destination in this country. Sometimes their relatives fail to meet them. Sometimes they have lost the address of their people. Sometimes there are questions about their admittance to the country and they are detained. In many such cases they have no money and no friends. This home often affords a place for them to stay and hare many courtesies are shown them. Miss Kimball by her anecdotes showed in a lifelike fashion the great value of this work in creating a spirit of good will and friendship.

The committee on decorations is responsible for a beautiful floral display on the pulpit platforms of the tabernacle and the outdoor auditorium which will remain the entire week. This includes potted plants and many bouquets. The committee includes Mrs. W. J. Stephens, Mrs. M. E. Genter, Mrs. S. M. Dunstan, Mrs. Albert Boardman, Mrs. Frank Allen, Mrs. William Elwood, Mrs. Clarence Jeffers, W. G. Darby, L. P. McLennon and Mrs. J. H. McCarthy.

The boarding house is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Zabriskie of Norwich Town. They have their force organized as follows:

Cashier, William Burdick of Norwich Town; ice cream and candy department, Mrs. Florence Aldrich of Norwich Town. The dining room is in charge of Miss Marion Bentley of Westerly, R. I., with the following as assistants, Miss Janet Steadman of Westerly, Miss Margaret Cassel and Miss Beular Buck of North Grosvenordale and Mrs. Mildred Slocum of Pawtucket, R. I. The kitchen is in charge of Mrs. Evangeline Barnes of Preston and Mrs. May Bentley of Westerly, R. I.

LAST ADD—WILLIMANTIC pastor.

Friends who knew of the illness of A. D. Zabriskie at the boarding house on Monday will be glad to learn that he is better and is again at his post of duty.

Courtland E. Colver and family of the submarine base at Groton are at their cottage on Wesley circle for the week.

Rev. and Mrs. Frank Chamberlain of East Thompson are spending the month of August at their cottage on Simpson avenue. Their friends will be interested to know that Mrs. Chamberlain, who had the misfortune a year ago to break her hip, is now able to get about with the aid of a cane.

The program for Wednesday presents the following attractive features. At 8:15 a. m., Rev. George Warren Potter of Norwich Town will lead the morning watch service. At 9:30, Miss Helen Haviland of South Manchester will lecture on "Recreation and Religion." At 11 o'clock, Dr. Frink will give the third sermon in his series on Finding God. The subject will be "In Human Personality." At 2 p. m., there will be the tri-county W. C. T. U. medal contest. At 7:30, a moving picture will be shown by Supt. R. W. Vining of New Haven.

The children's services continue each day at 3:15 p. m. and the Stafford Springs house meetings at 1 and 6 p. m.

Mrs. W. S. McIntire and her daughter, Miss Frances McIntire, have been occupying their cottage on Haven avenue the past two weeks.

Mrs. H. M. Randall and her four children of Port Jefferson, L. I., are in their cottage for a few days. Mrs. Randall is the widow of Capt. H. M Randall, who was for many years an influential member of the executive committee of the camp meeting.

Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Phreaner of Manchester spent the day on the ground Monday. Mr. Phreaner is an honored retired minister who has served several churches in the Norwich district.

Interesting recreational activities prevailed at the playground Monday afternoon. An interesting lineup of reds and blues played games of volley ball and baseball. The reds won in the volleyball and the blues in the baseball.

The Stafford Springs House association will hold their prayer meetings at 1 and 6 p. m. each day and the first one will be held Tuesday at 1 p. m.

WEDDINGS

Morgan-Crumb

Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey in Mystic, Miss Ella Louise Crumb was united in marriage with Frederick G. Morgan, by Rev. George P. Jones. They were attended by Mrs. William Harvey, aunt of the bride, as matron of honor and Earl Stenson as best man.

The bride wore white flat crepe and carried tea roses. She wore a pink picture hat. She received gifts of cut glass, linen, silver and money. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan will reside in Mystic.

Guests were present from New York, New London, Groton, Stonington and Ledyard Center.

FLIERS GOEBEL AND TUCKER CALLED ON MAYOR WALKER

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Colonel Arthur Goebel and Harry Tucker, who flew from Los Angeles to New York in 18 hours and 58 minutes, called on Mayor James J. Walker at city hall today.

"You've brought Los Angeles an hour nearer to New York than Chicago is by railroad," the mayor remarked.

Colonel Goebel replied that on their return trip next month as contestants in the transcontinental air derby, they honed to do still better.

After meeting the mayor the fliers prepared to be interviewed on the radio at station WOR by Frank Tichenor, editor of Aero Digest and their New York host, at 7.45 p. m.

Goebel and Tucker plan to fly tomorrow to Hartford, Conn., to have their monoplane Yankee Doodle overhauled in preparation for the race.

SACCO-VANZETTI MEMORIAL MEETING IN NEW YORK TODAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Police Commissioner Joseph A. Warren said today that his department expected no trouble at a mass meeting to be held in Union square tomorrow to commemorate the first anniversary of the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti at Boston.

The meeting will be held without interference from the police, Commissioner Warren asserted, but no parade will be permitted. The number of extra patrolmen assigned to keep order at all public gatherings will not be increased for the demonstration.

The commissioner said there was no foundation for printed reports that 1,000 policemen with riot guns and ear gas bombs would be assigned to the meeting.

AUTOMOBILE INJURIES FATAL TO MERIDEN MAN

WATERBURY, Aug. 21—(AP)—Joseph Audette, 70, of 10 Franklin street, Meriden, died in St. Mary's hospital at 5 o'clock this morning of injuries suffered in an automobile accident on the new Southington Mountain highway at 1 o'clock this morning. Acting Medical Examiner Dr. Walter L. Barber, Jr., viewed the body and pronounced death due to concussion of the brain and reported the case to Coroner John T. Monzani. It is the second fatal accident to occur on the new mountain road.

ROYAL CANADIAN YACHT CLUB CREW IS LEADING

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 21.—(AP)—The members of the Royal Canadian Yacht club crew led the Eastern Yacht club crew by four points here today at the end of the first of the three-day bi-annual series of races. All of the day's events were sailed in Q class boats, the Canadians scoring 12 points and the Americans eight in two races.

CARRIER PIGEON WAS COMPLETELY EXHAUSTED

HARTFORD, Aug. 21—(AP)—A carrier pigeon, registration NA14769 R25, flew through the kitchen window of the home of Thomas Demio at 138 Martin street at 4.30 o'clock this afternoon. The bird was completely exhausted, and could not move, Mr. Demio said. A brass tag on one leg was worn so that the number was illegible, but a silver tag on the other leg bore the registration number.

Mr. Demio, who owns 12 homing and tumbler pigeons, put the tired bird with his own, and will care for it until the owner is found.

Farm Horses Will Be Needed.

During the last 12 years the number of horses in the country has been cut one-third through the introduction of various forms of mechanical power. In the main, this substitution has been economical and for the most part justifies the reduction in the number of horses, but the present rate of breeding will not be adequate for the demands of the farms in the course of a few years. It is reasonable to believe, however, that an average of two horses for each farm in the United States will not be adequate for economical power supplies in the future. While there are now about 20,000,000 horses and mules in the country, only enough colts are being raised to maintain the number at about 11,000,000. It is true that the present market price of horses and mules is not encouraging, but the trend has been upward during the last year, and on the basis of present information there is an indication that prices will continue upward for the next 5 or 10 years.

Shackleton Tomb Unveiled.

On little Georgia Island, in the Antarctic, a memorial to Sir Ernest Shackleton, the great explorer, was unveiled with impressive ceremony recently. The ceremony was performed at the village of Grytviken, where Shackleton was buried. Arnold W. Hodson, governor and commander-in-chief of the Falkland Islands, unveiled the stone and a guard of honor was provided from the R. S. S. William Scoresby. Wreaths of red and yellow roses, which had been brought from England, were placed on the memorial by the resident magistrate and his wife.

BOSTON TEAM SIGNED TO BOX AT DUWELL AMATEURS FRIDAY NIGHT

A four man team of amateur boxers from Boston composed of the most prominent almon pures in the game has been signed for the Duwell amateur boxing show to be held at the Duwell field Friday night according to an announcement made last night by the committee in charge of the boxing conducted by the local organization under the only A. A. U. sanction in the state of Connecticut at the present time. The Hub City contigent will include Frank Gallo, 126 pounds, Sammy Manco, 135, Joe McCurtoy,

FRANKIE ADAMS

147, and Harry Allen, 160. The signing of the Boston team which has played so prominently in the east during the past year is indeed a stroke for the local club and is further evidence of the Duwells claim that they are striving to give Norwich the best in amateur boxing business.

The signing of the Boston team was made possible largely through the efforts of J. Frank Pegey, secretary of the New England Association of the A. A. U. who has been doing everything within his power to help the local club out over boxing here. While it is not known at the present time just who will oppose the out of state scramers the entry list for the coming bill, the largest yet, shows plenty of good boys, capable of giving the big timers a busy evening.

Included in the entries received last night is the name of Frankie Adams, local light weight, who at the present time is at the camp of Bobby Mays at Gardners lake getting into shape. Another of the Bobby Mays camp who made a hit at the last Duwell show and is listed to appear again this week is Chick Mara, hard hitting welterweight who kayoed Arthur Miller of Jewett City in his initial appearance here. In addition to the mentioned couple of scrappers the Duwell boxing committee has the entries of at least six other Norwich boys and over twenty other entries from Westerly, Jewett City, Danielson and Taftville.

At the present writing everything points to the biggest and best card ever presented in Norwich, the entry list is large, the boys are generally known and the main attraction is one of the best to be had.

Work on the erection of the arena at the Duwell field will be started tonight and completed before dark Thursday. Anticipating the largest crowd ever to gather for a boxing show here before, the Duwells are planning to install several hundred additional seats for their second outdoor bill of the current season.

WILLOUHGBY PROVES MASTER OF THE CHICAGO CUBS

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(AP)—The fight hard shoots of Claude Willoughby puzzled the crippled Cubs again today and Philadelphia took its sixth straight victory over Chicago 3 to 1.

Willoughby allowed the Cubs only five scattered blows, while his mates collected 10 from the offerings of Sherrill Blake and Hal Carlson. Cliff Heathcote, who took the place of Hack Wilson in centerfield, stole some of the National home run leaders' stuff by getting a homer, giving the Cubs its only score. Wilson is under a three days suspension for umpire baiting. Captain Charlie Grimm of the Cubs is also out of the game with a bad leg.

Thomnson was the batting hero of the Phillies, getting three singles in five times to the plate. Score:

Another Opponent for Peterson

BOSTON, Aug. 21—(AP)—Jack Sharkey's inability to fight because of an injury will not cause postponement of the fights here Thursday night at which the Boston sailor boy was to have met Big Boy Peterson, Minneapolis. Robert McCurdy, matchmaker of the Arena A. A., announced tonight that another opponent will be signed for Peterson who has been in Boston for the last five days.

McCurdy said he hoped to get either Pierre Charles of Detroit, or Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, as Peterson's foe, but that he had not received word from either of the fighters.

REDS HALT PENNANT MARCH OF GIANTS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 21—(AP)—Cincinnati stopped New York in its mad pennant flight here today when the visitors were shaded by 3 to 2 in a hard fought game.

The Reds bunched four singles and a sacrifice on Fred Fitzsimmons in the second for all of their runs and the Giants never could fight their way quite up to even terms. Singles by Fred Lindstrom and Travis Jackson followed by a double steal for one marker in the fourth and Bill Terry's twelfth home run in the ninth represented all of the scoring the visitors managed at the expense of Red Lucas, who gave up only five hits.

Lucas was struck in the face and painfully injured by a drive from Russell Wrightstone's bat with two on and two out in the seventh. The ball was deflected from Lucas's cheek bone to Dressen who threw out Wrightstone. Red Lucas remained in the game.

Wrightstone had batted for Fitzsimmons, and Jim Faulkner finished out the stripe without incident. Score:

YANKEES BEAT BROWN TO HOLD THEIR ADVANTAGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(AP)—The Yankees held onto their lead of five and one-half games in the pennant race by defeating the Browns 3 to 1, in the opening game of the series here today as the runners-up slaughtered the Cleveland Indians by 12 to 4. The New York game was a pitching duel between Waite Hoyt, who won his sixteenth game, and Sammy Gray, the St. Louis ace.

The Browns combed Hoyt for one more hit than the Yanks collected from Gray, but the New York right hander neatly spaced the enemy drives while the champions concentrated four of their seven safeties in the second and the third when all the home team's runs were scored. Bengough drove in two with a single in the second, while Meusel sent one more across with a double in the next frame.

The game was rapidly played and was marked by smart fielding. The Browns flashed three double plays and the Yankees two. Score:

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21—(AP)—Pittsburgh evened the Boston series by winning the second game 6 to 2 here today. Ray Kremer won his sixth consecutive victory although hit freely by the Braves. Pie Traynor was the hitting hero for the champions with three singles and a double in five times at bat. He also scored half of the Pirate runs.

Manager Rogers Hornsby of Boston will be out of the game for about a week, it was announced today because of a leg injury suffered in yesterday's contest.

ATHLETICS ON BATTING RAMPAGE BEAT INDIANS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21—(AP)—The Athletics slugged a quartet of pitchers for sixteen hits today and trounced the Cleveland Indians 12 to 4.

The Mackmen batted the length of the lineup on Billy Bayne in the first inning, gathering six runs that proved enough to give Jack Quinn, the ancient spitball pitcher his sixteenth victory of the season. Max Bishop led the assault on the Indian pitchers with three singles, a double and a pass that gave him a perfect day at bat. Score:

MCWEENEY HOLDS CARDS TO THREE SINGLES

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21—(AP)—Douglas McWeeny delivered a made-to-measure batting slump right at the door of the Cardinals this afternoon when he held the home forces to three anemic singles while the Robins were running off with the second game of the series by 6 to 1. The Cardinals are the Red Birds saved first place for the Giants, who lost to Cincinnati, but who remained two points ahead of the St. Louis entry.

Brooklyn pounded Flint Rhem for twelve safeties of varying dimensions, but the South Carolina boy was careful to spread them at decent intervals. After stepping aside for a pinch batsman in the eighth, Rhem turned over a deficit of only 2 to 1 to Sylvester Johnson, who promptly removed the last lingering doubt regarding which team would win.

Against the sort of ball McWeeny served, a lead of 2 to 1 was as large as one ten times that great, but Johnson tossed in four more Brooklyn runs just for good measure. This feat was accomplished simply enough with two doubles, two singles and an intentional pass. The free ticket treatment paved the way for Flowers to go out but worked porly against Bancroft, who singled, and Deberry, who doubled to emnty filled bases.

The Brooklyn victory evened the series at one triumph for each team. Ernest Orsatti, the Minneapolis recruit, was the only Cardinal regular whose batting average did not suffer. He got two of the three hits, with the other going to Rhem. Score:

Fitchville scored in the fourth when Cummings doubled and went to 3rd on Couture's sacrifice to run in on a squeeze play with Burns batting. They scored again in the eighth with two out when Burns doubled and scored on Kozinsky's single.

Pennock Has Sore Arm

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(AP)—Herb Pennock, star of the Yankee pitching staff, was forced to lie upon a rubbing table in the clubhouse and receive treatment for a pain in his $100,000 left arm today as the Yankees opened their series against the Browns. Waite Hoyt went to the mound in Pennock's turn as the star southpaw placed his pitching arm under a baking lamp. Physicians did not make public their diagnosis of Pennock's ailment.

ROTARY TEAM ADVANCES TO WITHIN HALF GAME OF JUNIOR LEAGUE LEADERS

The Rotary club moved to within one half game of first place in the Junior Twilight league last night when they gave Jewett City a setback 7 to 4. Their defeat puts Jewett City practically out of the race, leaving Taftville and the Rotary to fight it out for first place. The game was hard fought, but two big innings in which the Rotary scored three runs each proved enough for them to win.

Weisbrabber twirled for the Rotary and although hit rather hard, wonderful support by his mates cut off several runs at the plate and kept the score down. He allowed 9 hits, and fanned 10. Bernal was on the mound for Jewett City and although he allowed but five hits in four innings he was not so fortunate in receiving good support as his rival, his supporting cast making no less than 7 costly misplays. Vachon pitched the last inning for Jewett City and allowed three hits and one run.

The Rotary jumped off to a good lead in the opening frame. Murray was hit, stole second and took third on a single by Quinn. Riley lifted a long fly to left and when Vachon muffed the ball, Riley made the circuit, both Murray and Quinn scoring ahead of him. Jankowski singled to center but was out a moment later when he tried to reach third on Abugel's hit to left. Abugel was caught trying to steal third for the final out.

Jewett City came back with two runs in the second. Beaulieu, the leadoff man singled inside third and scored when Salinsky hit a long home run to left. Wolkowski popped to Abugel, Kusek walked but was forced by Vachon, who in turn was caught stealing 2nd for the third out. There was no further scoring until the fourth when the Rotary added 3 more. Weisgrabber walked as a starter and went to second on Murray's single to left. Quinn laid down a bunt and when Bernal threw the ball into left field in an attempt to catch Weisgrabber at third, all three men scored. Riley kept up the attack with a double to left and Jankowski was safe on an error by Kusek. Abugel hit a short fly to right, and Jankowski was doubled off first. Drew popped to Wilemsky for the final out. In the fifth, the Rotary added another on a triple by Johnson and a double by Weisgrabber.

In the sixth, Jewett City brought their total to four, scoring twice on a home run by Beaulieau, a tremendous clout to deep centerfield, and a hit batsman and a double by Kusek. With two out in this frame, Umpire Mullins was forced to call the game on account of darkness, the score remaining at 7 to 4.

Beaulieau continued to slam the ball at a terrific clip, collecting a home run and two singles out of three tries. Drew's work behind the bat was another outstanding feature of the game.

Tonight's Game

Tonight's game in the Junior circuit will be between the league-leading Taftville Legionnaires and the Elks. At this stage of the race, every game is an important one, as a defeat for the leaders would bring them down to even terms with the Rotary who are in second place. Although, on account of their past performances, Taftville is a strong favorite to win tonight's game, the Elks may come through with the unexpected and give the Legionnaires a beating.

The probable batteries are Paradis and Fontaine for Taftville and Reardon or Fuller and Dugas for the Elks.

DEMAVE SIGNS TO FIGHT JIM MALONEY

BOSTON, Aug. 21—(AP)—Jack Demave, New York heavyweight, today agreed to fight Jim Maloney, of Boston, for the Argonne A. A. at Braves field on September 11. The pair met here recently when Demave broke his hand in the fifth round after knocking Maloney to the canvas eight times.

Eddie Mack, Argonne matchmaker, said that the club's last outdoor show was scheduled for Braves field on September 18. After that it would conduct weekly boxing shows in Mechanics building, until the new Boston Madison Square Garden, for which Mack is matchmaker, opens late in November.

Mack plans to open the Garden with a bout between the victor of the coming Bruce Flowers-Honeyboy Finnegan show, slated for next Tuesday night and either Jimmy McLarnin, or Sammy Mandell.

MISS WILLS WINS EASILY IN FIRST TITLE MATCH

(By F. G. Vosburgh Associated Press Sports Writer)

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 21—(AP)—In just 22 minutes of woefully one-sided tennis, Helen Wills made her bow today in defense of her national championship.

It took the young world's champion that length of time to polish off her opponent, Mrs. J. Saunders Taylor of New York, 6-0, 6-1 and the rest of a long afternoon crowded with tennis, good and bad, was devoted to reducing the singles field to 16 survivors and starting play for the doubles championship.

The eight seeded players advanced to the third round where all of them are matched against unseeded opponents tomorrow. Miss Wills is to take on a double assignment, playing Mrs. L. A. Harper, of Los Angeles and pairing with Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman of Boston against Mrs. C. E. Muhl, New York, and Edith Tough, Berkeley, in her first doubles appearance.

Although about half the entrants have followed the prevailing mode and cast aside stockings in favor of greater coolness, Miss Wills continues to take the court duly bestockinged and the fad as yet has not the stamp of her indicated approval.

Sharing interest with Miss Wills first tournament match of the season on the stadium turf, was the continued advance of the older element as represented by Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory and Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, all three duplicating their feats of yesterday in scoring in straight sets and tomorrow Mrs. Bundy and Mrs. Wightman are to clash in a third round match that must result in elimination of one.

Away back in 1911 this same pair met with a national championship at stake between them. Mrs. Bundy, then Miss Sutton, had just returned from her second title winning triumph at Wimbledon yet Mrs. Wightman downed her in a memorable match, 8-10, 6-1, 9-7. Now, 17 years later, Mrs. Bundy stands out as favorite on the basis of her play this year.

Mrs. Wightman today defeated Clara Greenspan of New York, 6-4, 6-3, and Mrs. Bundy beat another veteran and former champion, Miss Eleanor Sears of Boston, 6-1, 6-1.

Helen Jacobs, young Californian who has shown considerable improvement this year, is seeded in the same half of the draw and won by the same scores as Mrs. Mallory from Mianne Palfrey of Boston, thereby qualifying for a match with Mrs. Lillian Scherman Hester of Brooklyn in the third round.

Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin, victorious over Mrs. Andre Russell of Cleveland today, 6-0, 6-2, takes on Miss Clara Zinke of Cincinati, in

OFFICER CASTAGNA RECEIVES BROKEN LEG IN COLLISION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 21—State Officer Emil Castagna of the Danielson barracks was taken to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam just before 6 o'clock tonight suffering with a broken leg and other injuries as the result of colliding on his motorcycle with a heavy automobile driven by Robert I. Pratt of Brooklyn, the accident happening at Dayville Four corners. A later check-up of the accident showed that the officer was south bound on the Putnam road and en route to the barracks at Danielson when the accident occurred. It is established that his view of the cross-over of the Putnam-Danielson road and the Dayville-East Killingly road was obscured by another machine but having the right of way proceeded and was cut down by the machine driven by Young Pratt who is a son of Rev. and Mrs. John R. Pratt of Brooklyn and who was coming from East Killingly toward Dayville. The officer's motorcycle was left hanging on the front end of Pratt's Cadillac after the accident. State Officer Castagna's home is in Canaan.

SO. KILLINGLY TO HOLD OLD HOME DAY ON SEPT. 3

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 21—South Killingly will have its usual Old Home day observance at the usual time—on Labor day—this year. A. E. Hall is chairman of the committee that has the arrangements in charge. Advance announcements relative to the event indicate that the plans for it will be much the same as for several years past. An effort will be made to have many former residents return for the day, and many of them will need no great amount of urging, if experiences of the past indicate anything. Old Home day will be preceded on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 2, by a religious service at "The Little White Church on the Hill Top", and Rev. William S. Beard will administer the sacrament and preach the sermon. King George Jacques is to prepare the clambake fixed as a feature of the Old Home day observance. On that day the program will provide for musical numbers, short talks and reports on the work that has been done at the church the past year.

That Killingly may be represented by a very large delegation of republicans when the mass meeting is held at Woodstock on September 15, preliminary steps are being taken for the formation of a Hoover-Curtis club in this town. The committee that has the matter in charge is made up of Attorney E. L. Darbie, Judge Sabin S. Russell, N. Lorne Greig, Dayville, and the discussion stage, but there was assurance that it will be perfected in time to have the towp well represented at Woodstock.

Other activity in republican circles here this week has to do with the effort to enroll as many women as possible on the party caucus rolls. Mrs. Ida Armington, vice-chairman of the republican town committee, pointed out that all applications to be made voters in time for the town election on the first Monday in October must be on file not later than September 5. All of this group of applicants will be examined as to their qualifications as electors and admitted as such, if qualified, on September 15. Thereafter the canvass for additional voters to participate in the national election in November will continue. Mrs. Armington stresses the fact that many Killingly women who are fully qualified to become electors have not embraced the privilege, and it is her hope to interest them in so doing.

There is no foundation at this time for the story that the Quinebaug company is to remove its general offices from Providence to Danielson it was stated this afternoon at Providence by J. Arthur Atwood of the big manufacturing concern. The story that such a change is to be made has gained considerable circulation here within the past twenty-four hours and there have been rumors to the same end for weeks. Mr. Atwood said this afternoon that officials of the company have not even taken up the talked of change for consideration.

For years the Quinebaug company, the Wauregan company and the Ponemah company of Taftville, closely allied concerns, have maintained general offices in Providence. Even a rumor that the Quinebaug company with its plant here, should be contemplating a change in office headquarters to Danielson is of very special interest in Danielson, and a change that people here naturally would like to see made. However, it must remain as one of the possibilities of the future, for it may be definitely stated that the company has not arranged to make any such change.

Borough police have made it clear that there will be no more consideration for young men who start singing contests and vaudeville performances in the streets here during the early hours of Sunday mornings, as a finale to a night of hilarity, whatever fancy may have called them for the week end. The clean-up made last Sunday morning will be duplicated as often as may be necessary to suppress such unseemly conduct. Youths have figured exclusively in the noisy parties, and in instances have done so with a rather brazen disregard of what the punishment might be.

There is the promise that the state will supply additional shipments of pheasants for release in territory hereabouts in the near future. This restocking of the woodlands and fields will be well in advance of the open season for hunting these birds, which will have developed to maturity by the opening of the shooting season. It is also of interest to sportsmen that reports have it that pheasants have done well since the hunting season closed last fall and appear to be numerous in various localities within a few miles of Danielson, a condition that promises interesting days out of doors this fall for the hunters.

An interesting phase of the political situation is that that there promises to be no dearth of democratic candidates for offices this fall. Members of the party who are convinced that their national ticket is going big in eastern states in November are looking forward with more interest than is usual to getting nominations for representatives and senators in the state legislature. It has not always been thus. Occasions have been many when the office had to seek the man.

Only a few days more will elapse before the one-way traffic rule that has been in force at Attawaugan for weeks will have been abrogated and vehicles enabled to move normally over a stretch of a little more than a mile of highway where concrete has been put in. One entire side of the improved section is now in use and the other side will be reday to bear traffic in short order. The fact that a new bridge is to be put in across the Assawaga river at Attawaugan will in no way hamper the use of the new highway, because the ne concrete span will be located a few feet to the east of the present bridge.

From a New Hampshire resort Howard Hutchins has written to his parents, telling them of the fine fishing he is enjoying at a camp owned by his uncle, Leon Hutchins, for years superintendent of the Backus hospital at Norwich. Mr. Hutchins, who motored to the camp with Arthur Pradel of Danielson, has been taking some fine bass.

Abel R. Gingras of Chicago is visiting here with his parents Mr. and Mrs. S. Gingras of Broad street.

Misses Mary Weaver and Mayme Dunn of the operating force of the central telephone office are having their summer vacations.

Cards were received here today from Deauville, France, from Miss Kathleen Burns of Hartford, formerly of Danielson.

Killingly and Brooklyn democrats have caucuses scheduled for Friday evening of this week to name delegations to state, congressional and senatorial districts conventions.

Mrs. Frank J. Gorman and son, Gerard, of Cottage street have gone to Groton Long Point for a stay and later will be at Watch Hill.

At the parsonage in Goodyear last Saturday afternoon Miss Louise Terwilliger of South Killingly and Allen H. Oatley of East Killingly were united in marriage by Rev. Charles A. Downs.

Recently members of the Order of Amaranth and friends enjoyed an unusually pleasant evening at the camp of Mrs. A. E. Withington on Orient Heights. A weenie and corn roast with baked potatoes, doughnuts, coffee and cheese was a feature. Whist was played later in the evening. There were guests from Jewett City and other nearby towns. A considerable sum of money was realized for the Amaranth treasury.

Henry C. Bellevue of Burlington, Vt., is visiting with relatives in Danielson and nearby places for a few days.

Albert Leonard Cole, 80, who was struck a few days ago by an automobile driven by Mrs. Antonia Page of Maple street Danielson, has a concussion of the brain. The accident happened near Smith's store in the town of Foster, on the Danielson-Providence highway.

Miss Helen Cronin of Academy street, member of the faculty of Plainfield High school, is visiting with friends in New York for a few days.

Davis park continues to be littered up every day and made unsightly by people discarding newspapers and other materials on the lawns.

Among the officials that Killingly will be called upon to elect this fall is a judge of probate. There is no apparent opposition to the re-election of Judge Sabin S. Russell, who has filled the office for years and who has had nominations from both the republicans and the democrats.

Cards coming through from members of the Service battery who are at Tobyhanna, Pa., for training tell of the cool, bracing nights being experienced at the encampment.

F. E. Bitgood was a visitor today with Supt. W. E. Parker of Killingly's schools at the latter's summer place on Shelter Island.

Beauty stood to win awards tonight when there are contests having to do with pulchritude for men at Kum-Along-Inn on the West Side and for ladies at Wildwood park.

The hope has been expressed that Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, republican vice-presidential candidate, may find it possible to attend the important party gathering to be held in Woodstock on September 15.

Dr. Alden Bush of Toledo, O., arrived Saturday, called here by the illness of his father, Rev. Allen S. Bush, now said to be improving.

Misses Winnie Turner and Elizabeth Strickland of New London were guests of Miss Sarah T. Latimer Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Frost and son, George, Jr., motored here the last week to spend two weeks at their summer place on the Bluff.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt entertained at dinner Sunday a family party which included the latter's mother, Mrs. Charles H. PUTNAM

BILLINGS-McCAULEY WEDDING IS LARGELY ATTENDED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 21—St. Mary's church was the scene of one of the most attractive mid-summer weddings this season, when Miss Kathleen McCauley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. McCauley of Church street, and John A. Billings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Billings of Dayville, were united in marriage by Rev. Joseph D. Casey, curate at the church, at 9 o'clock this morning.

The bridal party entered the church and marched down the main aisle to the sanctuary of the church, where the ceremony was performed. During the processional march the organist played the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin."

The bridesmaid was Miss Bessie McCauley a sister of the bride. She was becomingly attired in a green taffeta gown and wore a yellow maline hat and gold satin slippers and stockings to match. She carried a large bouquet of roses, arranged in shower effect.

The bride was charming in a gown of white silver satin and long court train, with her tulle veil arranged in Juliet cap shape caught at the sides. She wore white silver slippers and stockings to match, and carried a shower bouquet of Madame Dreux roses. John H. McCauley, a brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Following the wedding ceremony, Father Casey celebrated a nuptial high mass in honor of the couple which was largely attended by the host of friends and relatives of Mr. Billings and Miss McCauley. At the close of the mass a wedding reception was held at the McCauley home on Church street.

Mrs. Billings is a graduate of Putnam high school and is employed in the office of the Waterman Worsted Co. Mr. Billings is employed at the Assawaugа company in Dayville.

The couple left immediately after the reception for a wedding trip through Maine and New Hampshire. For this event Mrs. Billings was attired in a very becoming sport ensemble.

Mrs. Celia Gagne, for a number of years a resident of this city, died at her home this morning at the age of 83 years. Mrs. Gagne is a native of Canada but has lived the greater part of her life in Putnam. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Frank Benoit of Putnam.

POLICE SEARCHING FOR MISSING AUTO DRIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 21—A warrant was issued Monday afternoon by the Putnam police court officials for the arrest of Joseph Martineau of Putnam, now a fugitive from justice for three days. Martineau was involved in an accident on Park street early Sunday morning and it is alleged he was intoxicated at the time of the collision. Officer Joseph Page of the Putnam police was summoned to the scene to obtain information regarding the smash of the two cars. While he was jotting down necessary data from Michael Robuski, operator of the car struck by Martineau, the Putnam man disappeared. As Officer Page approached the Martineau car, he was informed that the driver had fled into the Carpenter lot on Park street.

A thorough search was made of the lots, nearly three acres, but the police gave up the tramp shortly before daybreak, with Martineau still missing. The police today believed the man had sought refuge at the home of his brother in Willimantic. Captain Jarvis of the Putnam police was in communication with Willimantic police officials, who informed him that a search of the city would be made for the missing driver. Martineau was employed as a laborer at the exclusive Howe-Marot school in Thompson. He was before the local police court in June, charged with intoxication, was found guilty and fined.

If arrested and returned to Putnam he will be charged with operating under the influence of liquor and also charged with failure to carry with him an operator's license.

"Liz," the unofficial police patrol wagon of the night squad of the Putnam police department, will today retire to private life, according to its exclusive driver Sergt. George Liard, and will be supplanted by a brand new spick and span "prisoners' taxi." The little Ford, that has for so long served its master with such loyalty and has never shirked its duty, "warm or cold," is to leave the dusty roads at the end of Sergeant George's beat Wednesday morning and at 6 p. m. of the same day a new five-passenger patrol wagon, that may and may not bear "Police Department" on the hood, will try its hand in assisting the night chief to maintain law and order in the city.

In this column Tuesday an item relative to Frank Hopkins of this city being arrested Saturday evening appeared. Mr. Hopkins was before the city court Monday morning upon a summons from Officer James Carmody of the Danielson state police barracks and was not placed under arrest. Mr. Hopkins was charged with violation of the motor vehicle lawe. An alibi which he proved in court before Judge Geissler resulted in his being found not guilty.

The near fatality of Nora Connely, the ten-year-old Fresh Air child who nearly lost her life in the "Five Mile" swimming hole in East Putnam has brought word from the committee in charge to those having care of the children while they are in Putnam, urging that a better vigilance be kept over the New Yorkers while they are swimming or engaging in other pleasures that are dangerous. The committee has reported that every child guest in Putnam is enjoying the benefits of the country life.

Statistics indicate that, in proportion to its size, Putnam has temporarily adopted more of the Fresh Airs than any other city in the state. The number in Putnam for the two-week period is 89.

PROVIDENCE ST. BRIDGE IS DECLARED UNSAFE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 21—The large iron arch bridge spanning the Quinebaug river on Providence street is rated by engineers as unsafe, according to information received here today. About a year ago the bridge was examined by a competent engineer, who found that the large iron beams supporting the structure are rusted and a few of them have rusted completely through and are in danger of collapsing. The bridge is constructed of iron and has been in use for a period extending over 40 years.

To adequately overcome the existing hazard at this gap, a new concre etarch bridge similar to that now known as Memorial bridge on Pomfret street is suggested. An estimate for such a bridge would cost about $30,000.

Today workmen were engaged in shoreing the bridge up at both ends, but whether this method will recondition the bridge so as to insure safety is only a question.

City Engineer George W. Perry today advised the selectmen of the town of Putnam to confer with the state highway commissioner relative to securing plans for the erection of a new bridge to supplant the present span, which in reality is unsafe.

Capt. John J. McGarry and Sergeants Bove and Perry of the headquarters company, who have been at Camp Trumbull in Niantic for the past six weeks, returned to Putnam today. Captain McGarry and the detail of two men have been attached to the commissary department of the camp.

Miss Annie McDonnell of Pomfret is spending a two weeks' vacation with relatives in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. King and son, Nelson, of Center street were at Pleasant View Sunday, visiting with Mr. and Mrs. George A. Rawley. Nelson King remained at the Rawley summer home for a longer visit.

Mrs. Charles P. Wagner of Ann Arbor, Mich., is visiting with her mother, Mrs. Marshall Kenyon, of Grove street.

STOCK MARKET STAGED ONE OF THE BROADEST RALLIES OF THE SUMMER

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(AP)—Shaking off the restraint previously imposed by tightening credit conditions, the stock market today staged one of the broadest rallies of the summer. Nearly two score rails and industrials were lifted to new high records on gains ranging from 1 to 10 points. Total sales aggregated nearly 3,000,000 shares.

Encouraged by improving business conditions, particularly in the steel, copper, packing, and other basic industries, operators for the advance bought heavily and succeeded in attracting a large public following. Call money renewed at 7 per cent, as against 6 yesterday, and then advanced to 7 1-2 as banks called more than $30,000,000 in loans. Higher call money next week was predicted in some banking quarters but this failed to discourage pools, who based their campaign on the large current earnings and bright prospects of leading industrial and railroad enterprises.

Railroad shares were heavily bought in anticipation of unusually heavy crop movements this fall. Texas & Pacific ran up nearly 7 points to a new high at 189 7-8, as against a low of 99 3-2 earlier in the year, and St. Louis Southwestern moved up 5 3-4 points to a new top at 105. Rock Island common, St. Paul preferred and a few others also topped their previous 1928 highs, while substantial gains were recorded by Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Canadian Pacific and Pere Marquette.

"Bear" traders, who have been stubbornly contesting the advance, were driven to cover by the avalanche of buying orders which poured into the market from all sections of the country. There were only a few soft spots, and these failed to cut much of a figure. Renewed selling of Manhattan Electrical Supply forced that issue down more than 7 points to 31 1-4, the lowest price in several years, and 100 points below the high record established last year. Most of the other declines were held to a point or so.

Mail order shares again changed hands in large volume, Montgomery-Ward soaring 9 1-2 points to a new peak at 202 3-4 and Sears Roebuck moving up nearly 3 points to a new top at 132 7-8. Tobacco shares also attracted a large following. Schulte Retail Stores touching the best price since last June on buying reported to be for the account of the Cutten interests. Revival of activity and strength in Standard Commercial Tobacco was based on reports of large current earnings and report of an increase in the dividend rate next month. Tobacco Products climbed more than 4 points.

New peak prices for the year, or longer, also were registered by American Can, Best & Co., Outlet Co., Cudahy Packing, Allis Chalmers, Paramount among Lasky, Loft Candy, Union Carbide, National Power & Light, Otis Steel, Continental Insurance, S. S. Kresge, Grand Union common and preferred, Pierce Arrow preferred, Mathieson Alkali, National Dairy Products and several others. U. S. Steel common was in brisk demand, climbing 3 1-2 points to 151 7-8 or just 2 1-8 points below the year's high. General Motors also received better support, showing a net gain of 2 3-8.

Time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

A jump of 10 points in Japanese yen to 44.50 cents was the only change of consequence in the foreign exchange market. European rates moved within narrow and irregular limits, with sterling cables ruling a shade easier at $4.8[illegible] 5-16.

Commodity markets were mixed. Wheat dropped about 1 1-2 cents a bushel and cotton rallied around $2 a bale. Sugar and coffee quotations showed little change.

CATS HAVE A FISHFEST WHEN CAP. C. T. POTTER COMES

Capt. Charles T. Potter comes down from Norwich every Monday with his green basket under his right ram. The cats of Riverside avenue will start for the bus station to meet Capt. Potter and escort him to his cottage. Then getting out his fish pole and sitting on the end of the dock with the cats all around him he catches fish for them. He has a name for each cat as soon as a fish is hooked one of the nine cats gets it. For hours Capt. Potter will fish and give the cats a good meal. The captain is a former Noank resident and spent his boyhood along the shores of the fishing village, moving to Norwich many years ago he pays a visit once a week to the village and owns two houses on Riverside avenue. Noank was the port he sailed from in his fishing days. His cats will shake "bye-bye" to Capt. Potter, in their own way as he is leaving for the bus, bound for Norwich

The swordfish season is about over. Boats of the fleet are coming home with only 2 and 3 fish. They find plenty of fish, but wild as a cowboy shooting a 48 after cattle thieves. The sword fish will only come about 60 feet from the boats Several boats did not make expenses, while others went over the top making the season the best they ever had. Some of the fish weighed 650 or 700 pounds that were taken down to the Georges banks.

Boat Spark Plug came into port on Monday afternoon and tied up at the town dock with 4 large fish. Mate Ecko Balestrini told the story of a whale that chased the boat trying to have a battle with the sword fish. Captain Buddington was hauling but Mate Balestrini was at the wheel and got his captain safe aboard the good ship Spark Plug. Both fishermen did not want the monster of the sea to perhaps hit the boat with its tail. The whale looked about 68 feet long and weighed a ton. It is the first one the fishing fleet has seen this season as it is late for them. Capt E. Francke, an old time lobsterman says that whale means something about the weather—maybe a late fall or not many snowstorm and a mild winter.

Miss Stella Ashcraft has returned from a two weeks' visit with Lynn, Mass., relatives.

Men are in Mystic in the interest of the new directory of Stonington, Mystic and Noank, to be published this fall.

Scoutmaster Dennis LaVarge of Mystic deaf troop No. 32, with his father David and brother Lawrence, spent the week end in New Haven for a visit at Savin Rock. They returned Saturday night to their home in Norwich.

The Village Improvement society held its August meeting in G. A. R. hall, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Desley of Old Mystic and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roche of Westerly motored to Webster, Mass., and visited Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Burrows of Old Mystic had a family gathering in celebration of the birthday of Oliver Burrows of New London Saturday evening.

The Cereals.

What was the origin of the cereals now cultivated by the world as indispensable to human life? Wheat, rye and barley are supposed to be the result of long and painstaking judicious effort. Their beginnings were hard. Human ingenuity, spurred to effort by the imperative demands of life, was tried to the extremity before any grain was seen in the condition first noted by ancient chroniclers. The agronomical engineer of Caifta, Palestine, has published some interesting information in this respect. During his explorations and researches in Syria and Palestine he found growing spontaneously among the wild grain of the field prototypes of the barley, wheat and rye of the world's commerce. This is of importance to all who believe that the alimentary grains originated in the Holy Land.

The wild grains found in the fields of Syria and Palestine show the characteristic peculiarities of the barley, rye and wheat of the commerce of the western world.

The wild wheat found in Syria grows in sunny places where the ground is rocky, thin and poor. It develops most rapidly where the soil is most arid. Wild rye and barley prefer ground less difficult of assimilation.

Everything found so far goes to prove that the early fathers of agriculture were tempted to renounce their thankless task many times before they succeeded in producing species of grain enduring enough to be sent out for diffusion through the world. Many generations of experimenters, hard-working agriculturists of the patriarchial ages, must have come and gone before the wheat, rye and barley were made to flourish as food products under conditions that our modern agriculturists would call climatically impossible.

School Marks.

Good marks in school "run in families," if the grades of a 100 brothers and sisters in the University of Oregon are any testimony. The record of related students selected from the period since 1919 were examined by Dr. R. R. Huestis, assistant professor of genetics, and T. P. Otto to test the principle that individuals of the same heredity brought up in the same environment react in the same way. Brothers showed greater divergence than sisters while the girls had consistently higher grades than the boys, Dr. Huestis wrote in a report of the test to the Journal of Heredity.

118-inch wheelbase • • Styled like a million dollars • • Powered like a pursuit plane • • A straight eight with everything but wings

IN the midst of all the excitement over the new Chandler Six "65" at $895, Chandler now steps forward with another and even greater sensation.

A new straight eight at a price that's literally dumfounding for a straight eight so large, luxurious and powerful.

A straight eight as debonair as ever eyes could hope to see .... beautifully lengthy and low .... today's zenith of grace and charm.

And it's a wonder on wheels the way it purrrrrforms ... Smooth as a silkworm all the way from 5 to 75 ... A car whelming with power ... Shoots up the hills like a rocket ... Quick as a tiger cat in getaway.

Yes, sir .... here's an AUTOMOBILE to be spelled entirely in capitals.

A perfect dream of a car to handle. Westinghouse Brakes for quick, safe, "cushioned" stopping. Finger-tip steering ease. An easy-riding 118-inch wheelbase .... and the great "One Shot" centralized lubricating system keeps the whole chassis in a prime state of well-oiled efficiency.

You've never laid eyes on such a value as this in all your born days!

Come in and inspect it. Take one out and play with it. You'll want to bid your old car good-bye the moment you see and drive this new Royal Eight "75" by Chandler!

ROBT. MOORE PEQUOT AV. PROPERTY SAID TO BE SOLD AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 21—The Robert Moore property on Pequot avenue, one of the handsomest and largest places there, will pass to new owners in a few days The property has been sold, but the deed is awaiting certain formalities before it is transferred to the new owner. Waldo Cook bought the place some years ago and has held it since as an investment.

JAIL FOR DELINQUENTS NOW THOUGHT TOO SEVERE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 21—The method of collecting personal taxes by putting delinquents into jail is still the subject of discussion wherever men assemble and it is probable that the subject will be a matter of city council discussion at meetings yet to be held The sentiment is growing that the harshest measures should not be resorted to in order to collect a tax of a comparatively few dollars. There are certain residents in the city who are classed as "beats" and who should be made to settle to the penny and without the consideration that may be shown others. It is agreed that Councilor Streeter was close to the line of wisdom and right when he discouraged resort to jail penalization for the collection of a tax that is said not to exceed $20.

Hoover and Smith lithographs are beginning to appear in the windows of residences about the city.

As soon as the deeding of land along the route of the proposed sewer in the section about Connecticut college can be accomplished, a special meeting of the city council will be held to accept the streets through which the sewers is to be laid. There are scores of streets in the city that have never been accepted as such, though all the public utilities have been placed in them. It is proposed now to correct this oversight by accepting the streets.

Boys are causing the police considerable work of late. Today two complaints were received. William Hogan, a contractor who is erecting a house on Thompson court, said that boys are doing damage to the partially constructed building. Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray made an investigation and found that the damage was trivial. Frederick S. Hitchcock, principal of Chapman Technical high school, reported that shrubbery in the school grounds is being greatly mutilated by boys and requested that the police put an end to the destruction.

MRS. A. M. BRIDGES HELD AT DANVERS HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 21—A woman believed to be Mrs. Alfred M. Bridges, wife of Captain Bridges, 78 West street, this city, is under arrest for safe keeping at Marblehead, Mass., for she is believed to be suffering from aphasia. Because of her condition she is now a patient at the State hospital, Danvers, Mass., for observation; her stay will be indefinite. The woman was arrested early yesterday when found roaming about the streets by Patrolman Benjamin Dolliver. When he approached and questioned her, the woman refused to reveal her identity. When she was taken to police headquarters the woman's handbag was searched and a letter was found addressed to Mrs. Alfred M. Bridges, signed by Captain Bridges. The letter was mailed at Thomaston, Me. Captain Bridges is master of the yacht "Galatea." The yacht hails from Marblehead and at present is cruising. Mrs. Bridges has been absent from her home here several days and neighbors do not know where she went. They declare that Mrs. Bridges is of a highly nervous temperament and it is believed that she went to Marblehead to visit her husband, believing that the yacht was at that port. The New London police have not received inquiry from the police of Marblehead as to the positive identity of the woman in custody in that city.

TIMOTHY SWEENEY DIED IN MUNICIPAL BUILDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 21—Timothy Sweeney, about 65, of 68 Harrison street, died suddenly at the municipal building last night or early this morning. His lifeless body was found this morning when the building was opened. Death was caused by heart disease. Mr. Sweeney died without being able to summon assistance, for the building had been locked for the night when he was stricken. Mr. Sweeney, who was the son of John and Bridget Sweeney, is survived by two brothers, Thomas and Edward M. Sweeney, and a sister, Miss Hannah Sweeney, all of this city. He was well and favorably known, having been interested in politics practically his entire life. He was a democrat and had been a deputy registrar of voters many years. Mr. Sweeney yesterday appeared in excellent spirits. Last evening he went to the municipal building, where he attended the bi-monthly meeting of the city council. After the meeting it is believed that he experienced nausea, a condition that frequently precedes an attack of the heart, and went to the lavatory, where he eventually suffered the attack and expired. At 6:40 o'clock this morning when John Duffy, janitor of the building, made an inspection there he found the lifeless body of Mr. Sweeney and had the police notified. Patrolmen Henry Sylvia and John Clifford went to the building and took charge of the body until the arrival of Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman. After he examined the body and determined the cause of death, the body was removed to an undertaking establishment.

The continued case of John F. Sullivan, Blinman street, charged by his wife with breach of the peace, was again continued, this time until tomorrow.

John Leverore, 28 Tilley street, was charged with reckless driving. His case was also continued until tomorrow. Leverone was driving his delivery truck from Tilley to Bank street last night and in a manner that, it is claimed, resulted in a near-collision. State Police Officer John Smith arrested him.

The case of Hallett N. Norman, 77 Bliss street, Burnside, Conn., driver of one of the buses of the New England Transportation Co., charged with blocking traffic, was continued until tomorrow. Norman was arrested yesterday afternoon by Traffic Officer William Corcoran when, it is alleged, the driver while passing through State street with a Norwich-bound bus, by his driving caused a congestion of traffic that compelled the officer to leave his post and remedy the jam.

William C. Neilson, 105 Huntington street, was charged with failing to give a signal when driving from the curb, and Howard E. Bass, United States coast guard destroyer Morris, state pier, was charged with reckless driving. Their cases were continued until tomorrow. Both Neilson and Bass were arrested last night by Patrolman Edward Skoczylas after their cars had crashed, corner of Church and Union streets.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

The heartsome, mirthful, tender, exciting story of an old time song-and-dance-man, his pal, and his orphaned daughter.....a play to see and to remember—is "Good Time Charley" which heads the double feature bill to be presented at the Breed theatre today and Thursday. Warner Oland, the finest character actor of the generation gives his most superb performance and Clyde Cook, master of humor is at his best. Helene Costello, as the dancing daughter has an opportunity to act and to dance, and does both with distinction. Michael Curtiz has directed the production with the marvelous authenticity for which he is noted, and the atmosphere of the stage world where the action takes place is true and glamorous. Charley's daughter has become famous as a dancer, before he finds out the person who was responsible for her mother's death, half-blind, he gropes his way to wreak vengeance, but the fates planned otherwise. There is an unexpected and dramatic ending—and audiences leave with more belief in humanity—and with the sense of having gained new friends—friends never to be forgotten.

Probably the most true-to-life production of the fire department ever filmed is "Hook and Ladder No. 9," which is booked as an added attraction on today's program at the Breed. The F. B. O. picture, unlike a number that have come before, seems to ring true entirely—to be decidedly human. Nothing of the impossible appears in the film, which is a thoroughly interesting and intense melodrama.

The central theme is based upon the love of two young fire fighters, lifelong friends, for the same girl. The friendship turns into hatred, but bonds of love and hate are snapped by the urgent sense of duty brought on by a most dramatic climax.

Some remarkable photography is to be seen in a number of fire scenes which form one of the high points of the production. The action is fast-moving and well sustained.

Strand Theatre.

The ever bothersome question as to whether the prospective bride or groom should furnish the new home, is brought up by Eleanor Boardman in John M. Stahl's production of "Memory Lane," the current attraction at the Strand theatre.

In the story, the husband, played by Conrad Nagel, takes his bride to a home already selected and furnished by him, regardless of his wife's tastes or wishes. Miss Boardman, the bride, is highly indignant over such a policy and expresses herself in no uncertain terms.

"The average man knows little about the outfitting of a house, and the things that add the 'homely' feeling, and after all it is the wife who spends most of her time in the home, not the husband.

"If the man allows the woman to run her own household as she pleases, she should not interfere with her husband's business, or try to 'help' him."

William Haines is the third member of the trio of featured players in "Memory Lane," which Louis B. Mayer is releasing through First National.

Palace Theatre.

A new field of endeavor has been opened to directors of motion pictures, with the era of aviation pictures. William Wellman, who directed "Wings" and "The Legion of The Condemned," the latter production now showing at the Palace theatre, is the first director to become known as the "air-director."

With the exploits of Col. Charles Lindbergh, and others, the country has been awakened to the possibilities of aviation, and the subject of air defence has been brought home with a forcible character.

To begin with, Wellman is an air man. He served overseas with the Lafayette Escadrille, the most famous aerial organization born of the war, and was invalided home in 1915 because of wounds. J. Monk Saunders, himself an aviation instructor during the war, and who is an author of no little repute, wrote a story entitled "Wings," and Paramount produced it.

So encouraged with the results was Paramount, that permission was given to the two men to produce a second aviation picture, and this, "The Legion of The Condemned" is the result. With experience gained from their previous work, the latest air picture is said to rival closely the master production.

Gary Cooper and Fay Wray play the leading roles in the picture, and are said to have registered one of their greatest successes of their careers.

Searchlight and Fog.

It will be noted that on a foggy night the beam of a searchlight seems abruptly to come to an end if the light be pointed upward. On the other hand, if the beam be directed horizontally, it will gradually fade away into nothing. Why should the vertical beam behave in this curious way? The reason is not far to seek.

Where the end of the beam seems to be at just that point does the fog end, for the beam cannot be visible to us unless there are small particles in its path. This circumstance is of great assistance to sailors in judging the state of the weather, since they can determine the thickness or depth of the fog. They can also tell, by throwing the beam horizontally, whether the fog is of great extent or whether it exists only in patches. If the fog extends a great distance, then the beam will become gradually more and more dim. If the fog exists only in patches, then the beam is lighter in patches and if it proceeds through a place where there is no fog at all that part of the beam will be black or invisible.

Diving Without Hose.

Hose for conducting air from the surface to the diver under the water has heretofore been considered indispensable. An elaborate outfit of pumps operated either on land, or in boats was necessary to force fresh air continuously through a great length of hose to the man below the surface. Now the inventive brain of man has conceived and put into successful operation an ingenious device which will probably in time do away with the old apparatus for diving.

By this method the diver carries on his back two steel bottles containing highly compressed oxygen. Another cylinder contains chemicals for absorbing the carbonic acid exhaled from the lungs. A system of piping carries all the impure air breathed out to a chamber containing the absorbing chemical. In this compartment the deadly carbonic acid gas is entirely eliminated. A small amount of oxygen, just enough to renew the air, is added to the changed and regenerated exhalations and passed on to a compartment in the helmet, where it can be inhaled through the nose or mouth. By this system the vitiated air is continually being made over into new.

It is thought this device will do away with the accidents and sometimes loss of life which have occasionally happened through defects in the diving hose or pumping apparatus so long in use. But while the diver may carry his atmosphere, as one does his wardrobe, along with him he cannot yet quite disconnect himself from the outer world, as the signal line is still necessary for means of communication.

STONINGTON RECTOR FAVORS REPEAL OF THE PROHIBITION AMENDMENT

Rev. F. R. Sanford, rector of Calvary Episcopal church, Stonington, believes that the prohibition amendment to the Constitution of the United States should be repealed. In his opinion, as expressed in a 160-page book, Prohibition as We See It, published by the board of directors of the Temperance society of the Episcopal church, Rev. Mr. Sanford says that his feeling on the prohibition question is that prohibition does not and cannot prohibit. He brands the amendment as "anti-social" and says it should be repealed. The clergyman says the prohibition law is inherently weak and he does not favor a law that calls for immoral and criminal enforcement.

Rev. Mr. Sanford is one of a half dozen Connecticut clergymen who have expressed opinions on the prohibition question in the book. Chauncey B. Brewster, bishop of Connecticut, feels according to his opinion, expressed in the book, that such a law as the prohibition amendment does not belong in the federal Constitution. The bishop favors light wines particularly for the sake of the foreign-born population of the country. He says that on the whole the law is accomplishing good among the poor class of people but is not working effectively with those who are better situated financially.

Bishop Brewster's complete statement follows:

"From the beginning it has been my conviction that such a law did not belong in the federal Constitution. Moreover, for the sake, particularly, of our foreign-born population, I have wished, and have publicly expressed the wish, that there had been allowed light wines, to them so innocent.

"As to the working of the law, I should say it is, on the whole, accomplishing good among the so-called 'laboring class,' but not working effectively with those financially more fortunate, and with their young people particularly, producing ill results.

"To me it would seem to let the trial of the present law go on a while longer, to a perhaps clearer demonstration rather than to force the issue with uncertain results just at this juncture. If the thing were now precipitated, the champions of prohibition would make most strenuous efforts to rally a tremendous vote, low large one could not tell."

Without exception the Connecticut clergymen who have contributed opinions in the book strongly denounce the prohibition law as it operates at present. Besides Bishop Brewster, those clergymen from Connecticut who aired their views in the book are Rev. Charles C. Scoville, Trinity church, New Haven; Rev. James B. Werner, Grace church, Norwalk; Rev. Glenn B. Coykendall, St. Andrew's, Thompsonville; Rev. Paolo Vasquez, St. Paul's Hartford; Rev. Arthur F. Lewis, Naugatuck; Rev. George E. Quaile of Salisbury school, Salisbury, and Rev. John D. Skene of Norwalk.

The hostess served a delicious clam chowder and there were basket lunches carried by the guests. The president, Mrs. H. E. Langworthy, presided at a short business meeting. After the business session the party went for an auto ride on the island passing many beautiful places enroute.

INTERESTING NOTES FROM THE LYME ART COLONY

(Special to The Bulletin)

LYME, Aug. 21—Guy Wiggins, president of the Connecticut Academy of Fine Arts, and winner of the Gedney Bunce prize at the spring show, is a member of the Lyme Art association. This summer he is conducting an art school in the Hamburg section of the village of Lyme, Conn. James Goodwin McManus, of Hartford, is assisting him. Both men are members of the Lyme artist colony.

A small town in Florida, Monticello by name, far from the madding crowd of tourist resorts, so fascinated Gregory Smith, who spent a short time there last winter, that he is planning to return this year for a long stay. Although he expects to paint diligently, for he is enthusiastic over the paintableness of the region, he says that he must find time to acquire the bucolic art of whittling if he is to gain admittance to the masculine society of the village. All the men there, he says, are expert whittlers and spend a large part of their time sitting on the street outside their shops busy with blocks of wood and jack knives.

Frank A. Bicknell of the association naturally gravitates to his native state of Maine for at least a brief period in the summer. This year he found so many outside interests at his Lyme home that he was oblized to go to Ogunquit for a time in order to get any painting done.

Two monkeys, two African finches, three parrakeets, two racoons, and three snake eggs constitute the present menagerie of Jack Hoffman, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Hoffman of the artist colony. Jack, who rounds out his eighth year this autumn, is an enthusiastic naturalists, and also gives strong evidence of following in the footsteps of his artist parents.

Recently he executed, as a gift for his grandmother, a two by four foot canvas in oils, "The March of the Jungle," containing a variety of strange animals, so well composed and painted that grown-ups who saw it found it difficult to believe that he had done it with no assistance from his parents, which was, however, the fact.

Mr. Hoffman, who is a member of the association, accompanied William Beebe on some of his expeditions to tropical waters where he obtained material for many charming underseas paintings which he has exhibited. He and Mrs. Hoffman are also enthusiastic naturalists. As for the "Zoo" it has at different times included a goat, a crow, a gray fox, turtles, nine snakes and various other inmates which young Jack collects, studies for a time, paints, and then, in the case of wild creatures, sets free. At one time the family, returning from abroad, astonished the customs officers by bringing in twenty birds which they had bought at the bird market in Paris. To the great entertainment of the vendors there Mrs. Hoffman chose these birds purely for a color scheme. Unfortunately an intruding cat eluded the family watchfulness and devoured a number of them, which disaster, added to the gifts of several to friends, has reduced the flock to the present five.

Before returning to the colorful country around San Antonio, where he painted last spring, Lucien Abrams of the association, will give an exhibition of his work at the Montross Gallery in New York, from October 29 to November 10. Mr. and Mrs. Abrams are so enthusiastic over the colorful southwest with its Spanish atmosphere and sub-tropical vegetation that they have bought a house in San Antonio, where their daughter, Ellnor Frances is studying.

STATE COMMERCE CHAMBER AS CLEARING HOUSE

The Connecticut chamber of commerce has sent to the secretaries of over 60 local chambers of commerce throughout Connecticut a letter suggesting that the state chamber act as a central clearing house for information relative to questionable solicitors who from time to time obtain money from local business men under deceptive pretences. The letter follows:

"From time to time questionable solicitors appear throughout Connecticut and obtain money from the local business men under deceptive pretences.

"Several local secretaries have suggested that it would be very helpful if each secretary hereafter would forward to the state chamber any information he secures on such solicitations that this information could be broadcast promptly to the other 60 local chambers in the state. Then each secretary could take steps to protect his own business men.

"As in other matters, the state chamber will be glad to act as a central state-wide clearing house for this information.

"Hereafter, please send the state chamber as promptly as possible any information which you secure as to questionable soliciting schemes and the like so that we may redistribute this information and warn the other chambers.

"By this plan the other fellow will help you just as much as you will help him. Today you may send the state chmber information which will help the other chambers; tomorrow one of them will send us information which will help you.

"We have discussed this matter with the state police department and they have expressed a strong interest in this arrangement. They have assured us that they will gladly co-operate in every possible way with the state chamber and the local chambers in apprehending solicitors of fraudulent schemes. By working closely together, the combined efforts and facilities of the state police department, the state chamber and the local chambers should reduce the losses to Connecticut business men.

"Cordially
"CLARK BELDEN,
"Executive Vice-President."

As the first step in the proposed campaign to eliminate this practice of fraudulent solicitation, the state chamber enclosed with the letter to the secretaries a warning issued by Secretary Ford of the Burlington, Vermont, chamber against a fake collection agent who had been operating in that city and who is now believed to be operating in Connecticut.

RAIN FORCED AN INDOOR NOTIFICATION OF SMITH

Ceremony Was Conducted in the Assembly Chamber of the Capitol at Albany—Desks Were Ripped Out and Doors to the Lobby Removed to Give the Crowd More Play—Scores of State Troopers Guarded the Doors and Kept Order—The Exercises Started at 6:14 E. S. T. — With Practically No Gestures the Democratic Presidential Nominee Read Slowly His Prepared Speech—He Was Frequently Interrupted by Salvos of Applause—Gov. Smith Finished at 8:20 After He Had Been Speaking an Hour and 15 Minutes.

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 22—(AP)—Plans for his notification ceremony knocked topsy-turvey by rain, Governor Smith came back to the assembly chamber in the New York state capitol where he got an early schooling in politics to accept the democratic nomination for the presidency.

At the last minute, a switch was made in arrangements. A steady drizzle which had set in early in the morning made it out of the question, in the governor's judgment, to go ahead with the planned exercises at the foot of the east steps of the capitol. Reluctantly and plainly disappointed, the nominee gave the word, half an hour before the ceremony was to start, that the scene was to be shifted.

The chamber, to which nearly a quarter of a century ago the governor came as an assemblyman from New York's East Side and later served as his party's leader and speaker, had been quickly transformed for the occasion.

Desks of the 150 assemblymen had been rooted out. Doors to the adjourning lobby were taken off to give the crowd more play. Tables were rigged up in the well of the chamber, directly in front of the speaker's dais for nearly 300 newspapermen. Wire stringers and workmen were rushing about, increasing the confusion, as they sought to get things in shape for the start of the ceremony on time.

To one side of the chamber were dozens of photogranhers and movie men, anxious to get "shots" of the nominee as he outlined his views on the campaign issues of the day.

In a jiffy a microphone was placed directly in front of the speaker's desk, making it certain that the plans for broadcasting Gov. Smith's address throughout the land would not be upset.

Scores of state troopers, guarding all doors and corridors, permitted only those with working or special guest credentials to get near the assembly chamber. Dozens more fought back those who squeezed by through the lobby and into the chamber itself, and with difficulty kept them within bounds.

Virtually everyone in the hall, except working newspapermen and a few of the distinguished guests were forced to stand, wedged one against the other some fifty feet away from the place reserved for the nominee.

There was a great deal of shouting as experts tested the amplifiers and radio equipment, and cries of "how's that?" increased the din as the time arrived for the start of the ceremony.

Tucked away in a gallery at one corner of the chamber was a band, but it kept silent for some reason, and finally walked out.

It was 6:14 eastern standard time when buglers of the Fort Range American Legion Drum corps, of Albany, sounded "assembly." Everybody hopped to their feet and there was a craning of necks, but those who expected the governor were disappointed.

In a moment, Mrs. Smith came in through a door to the left of the rostrum. She was dressed in king blue, with a large blue hat to match trimmed in velvet. With her were all her children. The family was greeted with a burst of applause which continued for a minute.

After a brief lull, there was a wild shout as Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic vice presidential nominee, showed up. With his wife he took seats on the rostrum. At the same time Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland, came in, finding himself a place to sit, or stand, directly in front of the space reserved for Gov. Smith. Alongside him was William F. Kenny, of New York, Smith's old crony who contributed liberally toward financing his pre-convention campaign.

A bald-headed man whose voice resounded through the hall, announced "you will now hear the Smith Glee club of Jersey City." They gave a short concert, one of their numbers including a few bars of "How Dry I Am."

It was 6:23 p. m., when Smith himself came into the chamber. A band was playing a lively air when the crowd spied him. There was a deafening burst of cheering which continued with recurring intensity as the band swung into "The Sidewalks of New York."

The presidential nominee wore a blue serge suit, and a striped bow tie. He finally hushed the crowd by waving for silence, frowned jokingly when some one tried to start things off again with "three cheers for Al," and with the tip of his fingers to his lips, he got over his appeal for order. The demonstration lasted four minutes.

Surrounding the governor on the speakers dais were Senator Robinson, John J. Raskob, the new chairman of the democratic national committee, who was to preside, and Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, chairman of the notification committee.

Mrs. Smith had taken a seat directly below her husband, with her family to her left and Governor Ritchie and Mr. Kenny to the right.

Cameramen, who had been unable to fix up lights for the ceremony, resorted to flashlights, but orders were quickly passed that there were to be no more flashes because their smoke could interfere with Gov. Smith's delivery.

On scheduled time, 6:30 p. m., eastern standard time, when the vast radio hookup for the event got into motion, Raskob arose to start the ceremony, but the Tenth Infantry band of the New York National guard succeeded in getting in another selection before Canon John L. Binney of All Saints Episcopal cathedral, Albany, was introduced to pronounce the invocation.

After the invocation Mayor Thatcher, of Albany, delivered a brief welcoming address. He paid high tributes to the nominee who, he said, had been "tested in many a bitter struggle, in many a grave and serious crisis."

Mr. Raskob introduced Senator Pittman to whom fell the task of officially advising Gov. Smith of his nomination at Houston nearly two months ago.

Reading his speech, the Nevada senator, who was chairman of the platform committee at Houston, told the nominee that he had been made "commander in chief of the hosts of democracy, with full confidence that you will carry our banner to victory."

There was a wild outburst when near the end of his speech, Senator Pittman declared that in studying the qualifications of the New York governor for leadership the democrats "saw a happy man, a liberal man, of broad vision, a man of courage, without intolerance, prejudice, or hatred; a man morally and mentally honest, who has the courage to express and act upon his convictions; a man who loves his country, his fellow man, his family, and his God."

It was a few minutes after seven p. m., eastern standard time, when the democratic nominee, stood up on the dais where more than a decade ago he presided as speaker of the assembly.

With a glass of ice water which he frequently sipped, at his elbow, the governor read slowly from his prepared speech, which lay before him under a desk light. The first burst of applause came when he declared that "I accept your summons to the wider field of action."

Again there were cheers and handclapping when the nominee declared war on "the forces of corruption and favoritism." And, a little later, at his reference to the idealism of Jefferson, Cleveland, and Wilson.

With practically no gestures but with great emphasis at times, the governor was greeted with a round of cheering when he said the democratic party was "pledged to continue those standards of unblemished integrity which characterized every act of the administration of Woodrow Wilson."

There was deafening applause which continued for a moment when he promised to live up to his oath of office "to the last degree" in enforcing prohibition. The crowd seemed to have been waiting for this part of the speech, and many were in the mood to applaud.

When the governor served notice that he would recommend, as president, such changes in the law and constitution he deemed "necessary or expedient," he stirred up an outburst which echoed through the capitol.

The governor's voice held up well, and aside from its usual huskiness, there were outbursts when he promised war veterans justice, and when he assailed the fixing of immigration restrictions on a census thirty-eight years old.

Slowing up a bit for emphasis, he declared he owed his nomination for president "to no man or set of men." This brought wild cheers from the crowd, but the din became even more deafening a moment latter when he said he would not be influenced in making appointments he would not be influenced by a man or woman's prohibition views, residence or church affiliations.

At 8:20, eastern standard time, after he had been speaking one hour and fifteen minutes, the governor reached the end of his speech. There was a wild burst of cheers, silenced only when Raskob called for quiet so the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Joseph A. Delaney of the cathedral of the Immaculate Conception the church at which the governor worships here could pronounce the benediction.

Charges Of Criminal Libel By The K. of C.

Order is to Prosecute Circulators of a Bogus Fourth Degree Oath.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 22—(AP)—Charges of criminal libel will be placed against at least six persons and organizations alleged to have published and circulated a bogus fourth degree "oath" of the Knights of Columbus.

The supreme council of the order today promised immediate prosecution of the offending circulators.

Millions of copies of the spurious oath have been distributed throughout the country, particularly in the south within the last three months, according to a report made today by Luke E. Hart, supreme advocate of the order.

"Our standing reward of $25,000 to anyone who can prove that the 'oath' ever was a part of the Knights of Columbus ritual or obligation is not sufficient to deter this libel, nor apparently is the tons of literature we have been publishing," Hart's report stated.

"Nothing short of criminal prosecution and the threat of imprisonment appears to be sufficient to stop it, and we will proceed forthwith against those whom we can identify," he declared.

Though no formal action upon Hart's report was taken, the delegates appeared to be in accord with his proposed measures against the pamphleteers.

Conditions in Mexico, where priests, nuns and other church officials have been excluded from the country, were brought up for informal discussion.

Re-election of five supreme directors was carried through without a dissenting vote as follows:

John H. Reddin, Denver, Colo.; John F. O'Neill, Jersey City, N. J.; Francis P. Matthews, Omaha, Neb.; Dr. Claude Brown, London, Ont.; and John E. Swift, Boston, Mass.

No supreme officers are to be elected this year, as all offices were filled last year for a two year term.

LAW MAY TAME "BOSSY" MAYOR OF NEWBURYPORT

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Aug. 22—(AP)—The mottled career of Andrew J. Gillis, this city's "bad boy" and its mayor as well, was reviewed by Judge Nathaniel N. Jones in district court today as "Bossy" was sentenced to serve 330 days in the house of correction and ordered to pay fines aggregating $1,140.

"Bossy", who defied the city authorities by opening a gasoline station in the residential part of the city, heard Judge Jones issue a bitter denouncement of him but at the conclusion of it, he simply said:

"I appeal."

He was released on his recognizance for trial in the superior court at Salem next month. "Bossy" declared he was confident he will be victorious at that time.

Four charges, containing 13 counts, were brought against the mayor and he was found guilty on each one. Seven counts of illegally storing gasoline resulted in fines of $700 and 210 days in jail. Four others of illegally selling gasoline added $400 and 120 days in jail to the sentence. The mayor was also found guilty on two counts of changing the grading of a street and fined $20 on each count.

"Bossy" resplendent in a new brown suit, said little at his hearing. He interrupted Judge Jones only once to ask whether he could say anything, but the question was left unanswered.

Judge Jones said that the defendant was no stranger in court.

"The mayor," he said, "began his career in court early and progressed as his ego increased. I hoped that when Andrew became mayor he would change his ways. Now he has not only lowered the standard of his office, but has set a bad example to young persons.

"He's an outlaw; that's what he is an outlaw. Some communities would know how to handle him. They'd banish him; get rid of him."

"Bossy's" face became red when he heard this but said nothing.

Another Election Slaying In Chicago

Leigh Di Bernado, Wanted as Witness, Was Shot to Death in His Automobile.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22—(AP)—Assassins' bullets removed another figure from the special election crimes grand jury investigation today with the slaying of Leigh Di Bernardo, shot to death in his automobile while investigators sought him as witness for the grand jury.

Di Bernardo was wanted for questioning about the slaying of Octavius Granady, Negro opponent of Morris Eller, political leader, as candidate for 20th ward republican committeeman.

Benny Zion, indicted by the grand jury for complicity in the Granady murder on primary day, was found shot to death several weeks ago.

The slaying of Di Bernardo occurre shortly before 9 a. m. Two men had called for him at his home at 7 a. m. and police believe they were the slayers, riding with Di Bernardo until they came to a secluded spot under a west side railroad viaduct where they opened fire and fled.

Employes of a manufacturing concern heard the shots and found the body. It was identified by Mrs. Di Bernardo after police had traced the license number of the automobile.

Sheridan Brusseaux, grand jury investigator, revealed he was seeking Di Bernardo who, he said, had "valuable information which might have helped us in solving the crime." Granady was slain while touring his ward election day. HOOVER IS DELVING INTO FARM RELIEF PROBLEM

Held a Series of Conferences at Cedar Rapids, Ia., With Agricultural Leaders and Editors of Farm Papers—The Outcome Was Withheld From Publication—Today Mr. Hoover Will Confer With Farmers From Fourteen Corn Belt States—Late This Afternoon the Hoover Train Will Leave For Washington.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Aug. 22—(AP)—Assuming again the mantle of republican leadership after a day of relaxation among boyhood friends, Herbert Hoover today burrowed into what he considers the nation's greatest economic problem—that of farm relief.

In a series of conferences with agricultural leaders and editors of farm papers, the presidential candidate outlined again his method of tackling the task, going more into detail on some of its phases. What he said, however, in the closed conference rooms was withheld from publication with the explanation that at some later time in the campaign he would make a public expression.

The principal conferences were with editors of agricultural publications with whom the republican candidate had lunch and representatives of the Iowa farmers.

Hoover also was visited at his temporary residence at Brucemore, by more than a hundred editors and publishers of daily and weekly Iowa newspapers. He told these that reports such as he had received in Iowa were very "heartening."

While some of the republican leaders now in Cedar Rapids were optimistic as to the situation in the corn belt as it affects the political outlook, others like Senators Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, and James E. Watson of Indiana were inclined to be somewhat pessimistic. They said the present drop in wheat prices had caused much disturbance.

Watson who was one of the chief opponents of Hoover in the pre-convention campaign, arrived early in the day and will formally open the Iowa campaign tomorrow night at a political rally which will be presided over by Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Iowa republican independent, who is one of the foremost advocates of the election of the party candidate.

Brookhart and Watson have long been on opposite sides of the fence in party matters.

Hoover arrived in the middle of the forenoon for a two days stay after spending a day in renewing childhood associations at West Branch, Iowa, the little town where he was born. He motored from West Branch to Cedar Rapids, stopping en route to visit the old Iowa state capitol building at Iowa City. The structure now is serving as the administrative building for the state university of Iowa.

The motor caravan was joined at Iowa City by hundreds of well wishers, after which it proceeded to Cedar Rapids, to pass along the principal residential and business streets to Brucemore, the estate of Mrs. George B Douglas.

There he and Mrs. Hoover reviewed a parade of hundreds of lusty Iowa boys and girls, including Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, members of the Young Men's Christian association and of the Young Women's Christian association, farm girls and school children.

These formalities of arrival over, the candidate turned to the round of conferences, he had mapped out for considering agricultural relief. Late this afternoon he conferred with a group of farm belt congressmen and senators before listening in on the radio to the acceptance speech of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, his democratic opponent.

Tomorrow he will confer with farmers from Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tenesse, Missouri, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Kansas, South Dakota, Wisconsin Minnesota and Michigan, will meet delegations of Iowa engineers and laboring men and will visit the coliseum erected as a memorial to the soldiers of all wars. His train will leave late in the afternoon for Washington, where it is due late Friday night.

INVESTIGATING GANG WARFARE IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22—(AP)—Max (Boo-Boo) Toff, manager of boxers and fight promoter, appeared before the grand jury today for a questioning in connection with the jury's investigation of gang warfare in this city.

While Hoff was being questioned two convicts who had mentioned Hoff at their trial were taken into the jury room. They were Francis Bailey and Petey Ford, each serving 7 1-2 to 15 years in Eastern penitentiary, and said by police to have been gunmen and hijackers before their arrest.

Bailey and Ford were convicted of attacking two girls in the hotel Sylvania here and in their defense said they had been in the hotel with Hoff in his rooms. The men had once been arrested and discharged in connection with the death of John Bricker, in February 1927.

FOREST FIRES IN WEST ARE UNDER SUBJECTION

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 —(AP)— Forest fires in the west, after causing inestimable damage to brush and timberlands, were reported this evening as being held in subjection by civilians and rangers who have been battling the flames day and night for the last week.

The principal fires today were reported from California. In the San Joaquin Valley it was believed that the flames had burned over more than 50,000 acres of grazing, brush and timber land. During the last twenty-four hours three mountain communities, menaced by the fires, were successfully isolated by the fire-fighters and this evening apparently were safe.

MAN SHOT BY FEDERAL DRY RAIDERS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 22—(AP)— Under charges of conspiracy to violate the dry laws, eight men were held to the grand jury today while a ninth remained in a serious condition in a hospital, shot by one of three federal agents who arrested the eight men in a raid on a loop office building yesterday.

The wounded man, Merle Adams, was given an even chance for recovery although physicians said he had lost considerable blood before removed to a hospital. He was shot the agents said, when he tried to flee from the offices which were being raided.

NO TANGIBLE CLUE TO MURDERER OF DR. DAPPER

PITTSBURGH Aug. 22—(AP)— The Pittsburgh Motor club today announced contribution of $20, toward a suitable reward for the capture and conviction o fthe slayer of Dr. Harry R Dapper, 27, a physician who was shot to death in his automobile along a lonely highway on Monday night.

Meanwhile, county authorities were without a tangible clue that might lead to the capture of the killer, who lured the doctor to the country to treat his "dying wife," shot him to death, and then escaped in the physician's automobile.

TEN KILLED IN MURDEROUS FURY OF A CHINESE COOK

FAIRFIELD, Calif., Aug. 22—(AP)— A tornado of hatred burst today upon the Wong Gee ranch, five miles from here and ten lives were snuffed out by the murderous fury of Loy Yeung, Chinese cook, an eleventh victim of the slayer, Nellie Wong, 15, was probably fatally wounded.

Yeung, armed with a hatchet and rifle, suddenly ran amuck and killed Wong Gee, his employer, Wong Gee's wife and three children and five Chinese workmen. Others were wounded.

So rapidly did he work in his campaign of extermination that he hacked and shot his way through nearly a dozen victims and escaped before an alarm was raised.

The Chinese slayer used his hatchet for killing at close quarters and coolly shot down his quarry in their attempted flight. A posse took up the search within a half hour but the Chinese escaped in an automobile owned by Wong Gee.

Various explanations for the cook's actions were offered, but Sheriff J. R. Thornton said he believed the man was crazed by narcotics. He gave little credence to a theory that the carnag was part of a plot having its origin in conflict btween Chinese tongs.

ONLY FORLORN HOPE FOR AVIATORS OF ROCKLAND

CHICAGO, Aug. 22—(AP)—A forlorn hope that Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, Rockford-to-Stockholm aviators who vanished Sunday, may have wandered off their course and landed in either Greenland or Quebec was the only solace tonight of their Rockford, Ill., backers and their relatives.

The possibility that the flyers had made a safe landing was not without its own dangers for if they landed in Greenland those familiar with the terrain said it might be weeks before they could fight their way through barren wastes and around large lakes even if they were able to ward off cold and hunger. If, as some have theorized, they strayed from their course and landed in the Quebec wilds, it is believed their chances are better.

Ships of several countries combing the North Atlantic for traces of the airmen or their plane, Greater Rockford, resumed the hunt today after having been halted yesterday by rainy weather. All were agreed that the flyers would not be found alive if their plane fell into the ocean.

LARGE CROWD ANTICIPATED AT TODAY'S OPENING SALE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 22—The Community Days sales program in the local business district starts this Thursday morning and it is expected that the program will be a magnet to thousands of shoppers in the greater Willimantic district. The program continues Thursday, Friday and Saturday. In preparation for the affair, merchants in the business district, numbering nearly one hundred, are using a uniform type of display poster and pennant and these red and white announcements make the main thoroughfare a colorful avenue. The merchants are planning on offering many attractive bargains. Many of the stores were brightly lighted last evening and the same procedure will be in effect Thursday and Friday evenings.

Ample clerking forces to care for the shoppers expected have been engaged by the merchants. To care for the visiting guests, the committee in charge has been granted the use of the former Lincoln & Boss lumber yard at the corner of Meadow and North streets for the parking of cars through the courtesy of M. E. Lincoln who is in charge of the property. On the streets, there will be no time limit for parking. Drivers are requested to observe the yellow restricted districts, as for crossovers and in front of theatres and hotels.

OVER 600 CHILDREN ARE ELKS' GUESTS AT BEACH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 22—Over six hundred children were guests at the outing held by Willimantic lodge No. 1311, B. P. O. Elks, at Crescent beach Wednesday. The motor cavalcade, one of the longest in the history of the city, left this city at nine o'clock in the morning and returned in the early evening. Leaving here, the procession was headed by an escort of Traffic Officer Arthur Hurley and State Policeman Frank A. Starkel and Charles F. Daley of the Stafford barracks. The St. Joseph's Boy Scout band with Charles N. C. Wheeler as bandmaster preceded the cavalcade. The march down Main street was an inspiring spectacle.

At the beach, the children had a delightful day of festivities, the principal item being bathing. Box lunches were distributed to the children and in the afternoon the band gave a concert for the inmates of the children's tuberculosis sanitarium located near the beach. Lunches were also distributed among the inmates.

Figuring in a peculiar accident on Union street Wednesday morning were a runaway horse and a Ford delivery truck. Commercial Lizzie came out second in the clash. Frightened on Temple street, the horse bolted away, dragging the wagon after it, and it was dashing at breakneck speed upon reaching the junction. With the speed at which it was traveling, the horse, owned by Henry Duplese of Windham Road who was elsewhere when the bolt occurred, was unable to negotiate the corner. The dashing animal leaped in the air and its forelegs struck the truck at the same time as did the wagon which swerved around. The truck toppled over on the sidewalk. The vehicle was quickly righted by bystanders and Officer Arthur Hurley who investigated. It was only slightly damaged. The owner of the truck, R. E. Neff of 399 Pleasant street, was in a nearby barber shop when the mishap occurred. Eye witnesses said that the horse would undoubtedly have crashed into the show window of the William Laramie market had not the truck been parked in front of the store.

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 22—Civil action for damage of $5,000 has been instituted by George E. Burnham of this city against Charles E. Burnham, is represented by Attorney Samuel B. Harvey and the papers in the case have been served by Deputy Sheriff Lester H. Blish. The several counts allege that at the time of the death of Abel R. Burnham, he and Norman Meloney held title in equal proportions to three traces of land located off the St. Joseph's cemetery road. On October 11, 1921, the defendant acquired by quit claim deed all of the interest of Mr. Meloney in this land and has since possessed it. On this property is located a sand bank the product of which is valuable for construction purposes and since 1921 the defendant is alleged to have sold at least 20,000 yards of sand for fifty cents a cubic yard which sum he is said to have appropriated for his own use. The plaintiff on obtaining knowledge of this fact made demand of the defendant on behalf of the estate for one half the amount received and for an accounting but up to this time the request has been refused.

THAT'S FAIR

DANIELSON

R. I. CAVALRY UNIT CAMPS AT BROOKLYN FAIRGROUNDS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug 22—There was fascination today for those who happened by the Brooklyn Fair grounds and had their attention attracted to a scene reminiscent of an army post, for cavalry troops were encamped there, to remain overnight. The troops are units of the Rhode Island National guard and are marching through this territory as part of their summer field training. Their stay at the fair grounds at Brooklyn was to extend through tonight, and on Thursday they are to proceed on another leg of their journey. The cavalrymen are making about 30 miles each day.

There are 205 horses with the troops in Brooklyn today. The horses and men, with the tents for the troopers and the activities going on about the grounds made a pretty picture for those who went to see the unusual sight this afternoon.

Secretary Marshall J. Frink, of the Windham County Agricultural society, said this afternoon that plans are complete for this year's exhibition, scheduled for September 18, 19 and 20. Secretary Frink is especially pleased over the fact that as many as 20 head of cattle already are entered for exhibition. The society now receives only tuberculin tested cattle, whereas up to a year or two ago these was no restriction of this kind. The evidence seems to be that the cattle show will gradually grow to a much higher standard than in the past, and that it will be a good one this year is indicated when entries begin to come in nearly a month ahead of the exhibition dates. Secretary Frink said today that the feature of the fair that is to receive special attention this year is the poultry department. Additional space has been set aside for the poultry exhibits and numbers of new wire cages purchased. It is anticipated that so many entries will be obtained as to make the poultry show the biggest in years at the fair. Throughout the fair the arrangements for this year's exhibition, except as mentioned, will be much the same as in the past.

MRS. C. H. PELLETT DIES SUDDENLY IN BURLINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 22—This community was shocked today over the announcement of the sudden death at Burlington, Vt., of Mrs. Flora A. Pellett, 70, widow of Charles H. Pellett. With her son, Ray W. Pellett, Mrs. Pellett left here Sunday enroute to the New England Grange Lecturers' conference at the University of Vermont. they arrived there during Monday, following an overnight stop, and attended sessions of the conference during the afternoon and evening, as they did again on Tuesday. Like many who are attending, Mrs. Pellett and her son have quarters for the period of the conference at dormitories of the university and at cottages in the vicinity. Mr. Pellett in a message to members of the family here this morning said that he left his mother at her room at midnight last night and went to his own quarters. He had been in but a very few minutes when he was summoned to return, his mother having suffered a heart attack and died almost instantly. The body is expected to arrive in Danielson Thursday evening. The news of Mrs. Pellett's death was additionally distressing because she apparently was as well as usual when leaving here for the trip, and she wrote on a card received by the family yesterday that she had enjoyed the ride very much. Another trying feature of the sad happening is that one of Mrs. Pellett's sons, Everett, of North street, with his wife, is on a motor trip somewhere in northern New England, the last card received from him being postmarked at Portland, Me. Mr. and Mrs. Pellett are not due back in Danielson until some time Sunday, and their schedule, meanwhile, is unknown here.

Mrs. Pellett was a native of Canterbury, a daughter of Captain and Mrs. Walter Smith. She had the distinction not only of being a member of the first class graduated from Killingly High school, but also of being the first girl ever to receive a diploma from the institution. During her long residence in Danielson Mrs. Pellett won innumerable friends. A wonderful mother, a woman of poise and many appealing traits of character, kindly and considerate, those who knew her regarded the fact as a happy privilege.

Mrs. Pellett leaves three sons and three daughters, all resident here—Clinton F., Ray W., Everett C., Mrs. Ella Lathrop, Mrs. Helen Greene and Mrs. Myrtice Barnett. Mrs. Beecher Brokn, of the Black hill section, is a niece.

Mrs. Pellett was a member of Dorcas Rebekah lodge and of the Killingly Woman's club. Mr. Pellett died several years ago.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at L. E. Kennedy's funeral home, funeral services for Henry Knight were conducted by Rev. Albert Abbott, of the Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was in the Union cemetery at Moosup. The bearers were George O. Thomas, William J. Craig, Charles H. Bacon and Byron Wood.

This week has brought a great influx of sweet corn, which has been scarce and not of particularly good quality until very recently in this territory. Incident to the big increase in the supply, the price has fallen from 30 cents a dozen earlier down to the 20 cents that was being asked for it by sme dealers her etoday.

There are already indications that the opening of the new highway cut-off for the Danielson-Providence road through fields lying in the area between North Main, Stearns and Capron streets will start building activity in the territory bordering the new highway, still unfinished. Benjamin Banks announced today that he is to build a house on property he owns near the new road close to the junction of Stearns and Reynolds streets.

That Killingly is a favored New England town this year is indicated by the fact that unemployment is less here than in a great many towns and cities in southern New England. The summer season has furnished an unusual number of opportunities for outdoor labor, and this condition is likely to continue until well into the fall. Of course, there are some of this town course, there are some in this town who have no work, but the number is negligible.

Reviving for the moment stories relative to shad running up the Quinebaug river, Judge James N. Tucker, of East Killingly, a man now nearing 80 years of age, remembers as a boy hearing stories of shad being found as far up stream as one of the old stone mills at East Killingly These shad evidently ran up the Quinebaug, into the Assawaga river at the confluence of the streams in Danielson and from the Assawaga into the Whitestone brook, a sizeable stream in itself.

Mention in this column during the current week that the New England insurance exchange has under consideration the advancing of rates on property in the sections of Connecticut Village where no provision has been made for fire hydrannt service has stirred some of the residents of that section into activity to see what can be done about arranging for such a service indefinitely. There is a realization of the fact that if the insurance rates are advanced it may not prove so easy to get them reduced again.

There is the possibility that the Brooklyn Savings bank may reach some agreement with the town under which the point of the bank's property at the northeast corner of Main and Academy streets can be cut off, the entrance to Academy street made wider and a fine round corner achieved. Such an improvement is made possible by reason of the fact that the bank building under construction now sets well back from the corner of the lot mentioned.

Incident to the recent fining in the Killingly town court of Norwich men charged with a violation of the law in offering pamphlets for sale here on a Sunday, it is understood that the appeal taken to the superior court was not because the small fines imposed here were excessive, but that a principle may be fought for through the higher courts. The case is one that residents of Danielson will watch with interest.

Construction of the sewer recently authorized for Prince street was practically complete tonight. The street also is being graveled.

Members of Danielson chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, are planning to be at Savin Rock, Friday, August 31, for Robert Morris day and the 46th annual outing of the O. E. S., of Connecticut. The occasion will be the 110th anniversary of the birth of Robert Morris.

Alfred L. Reed is scheduled as the speaker for this week's meeting of the Danielson Rotary club, on Thursday.

It was stated this morning that State Officer Emil Castagna, who suffered a broken leg in an accident Tuesday evening, will be able to leave the hospital at Putnam in about a week. Only a small bone near the ankle is broken, but the injury will incapacitate the officer for weeks.

This week Thursday brings next to the last of the weekly half-holidays for the store forces of Danielson. The arrangement of closing Thursday afternoons ends with the month of August.

Recently Mrs. Ida E. White entertained Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seaver and members of their family and Mrs. and Fred Shaw, of Leominster, Mrs. Everett Richmond, of Danielson, and Emily Barstow, of East Killingly.

Good progress has been made in building that part of the new state highway running eastward from near the county jail in Brooklyn toward Brooklyn green.

Henry J. Burbank, retired, for years master mechanic at the Quinebaug mills, is seriously ill at his home on the West Side.

Arthur C. Williamson, of Pawtucket, was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

More political rallies than this town has seen in several national campaigns are regarded as in prospect for October dates.

Danielson is proud of the fact that Henry W. Babson of this place has been elected president fo rlife of the Eighteenth Connecticut Volunteers.

The school in the Valley district of the town is one that has received attention during the vacation things, and, among other improvements made, is the repainting of the structure.

Miss Yvonne Beaulac, of Lowell, is visiting with relatives and friends in Danielson for a few days.

For the first time a great many residents of Danielson heard the voice of Governor Alfred E. Smith tonight when his speech of acceptance was broadcast.

Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Armstrong and their children are spending their vacation at Madisbn, Me.

PUTNAM

LACK OF A QUORUM AT SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 22—The city is still without a water commission, as the mayor could not mobilize a sufficiently large number of his aldermen last evening to call a special meeting of the common council, so the matter was laid over until the first regular monthly meeting which will be held on Sept. 4 When Clerk Thomas P. Ryan called roll and discovered there was no quorum present, the water question received no attention, but in its place the mayor provided a little entertainment for those who did attend the meeting.

J. A. Wilcox of New Haven appeared with a model layout of an intersection, with an automatic signal light in the center. The system as explained by Mr. Wilcox was very interesting and no doubt would be one of the best solutions for the traffic danger at the corner of Front and South Main streets. At the close of the exhibition, Mayor Richard inquired as to the price of the "Electric Human," as termed by the council. Mr. Wilcox quoted a price of about $600 a year on a one-year contract. The mayor appeared to be interested in the signal apparatus, but stated that the city could not afford one at the present time, though it might be considered when the budget for the year is made up in March, 1929.

A report obtained from the Day-Kimball hospital late this afternoon said that Officer Emil Castagna, an officer at the Danielson state police barracks, injured in a motorcycle collision at the Dayville four corners Tuesday evening, was somewhat improved today. A report circulated in Putnam Tuesday evening shortly after the accident involving the officer occurred, contained information that he had been seriously injured and perhaps fatally hurt. A later report from the hospital verified the early story, announcing that the officer was suffering from a fracture of the leg and other minor injuries.

Officer Castagna is a very popular member of the Danielson barracks and is well acquainted in Putnam. The news of his misfortune received in Putnam early Thursday evening, brought scores of inquiries as to his condition. The officer is in a private room at the hospital and was able to receive a visit from a few of his brothe officers.

Joseph Martineau of Putnam, wanted in this city upon a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, until late this afternoon is still at large, Putnam police said. The possibility that Martineau may be hiding in Willimantic at the home of relatives has been checked up and so far has failed to throw light upon the whereabouts of the missing man.

The inability to secure models of the new type of Ford car may perhaps be the reason for the sudden appearances of Henry's products, typical of the days of 1913. In the business section of the city this afternoon a curious vehicle, with gleaming brass on all sides, especially noticeable on the hood, was parked on Main street. Inquisitive boys and a few young ladies stood by and admired the passe car and also asked its age and other genealogical facts concerning the antiquated horseless wagon.

The car was the property of Wilbur W. Leonard of Bridgeport and was purchased by him in 1913 and has been in continuous service since. Annually it carries him over the New England mountain trails, from which he has just returned. Mr. Leonard said that he has not kept the actual mileage of the car but believes it to have traveled considerably over 90,000 miles and still has many more in reserve. "It just laughed at the Model A on the New Hampshire hills," Mr. Leonard remarked, "and it released one from a Vermont mudhole," he continued.

To the surprise of many, the owner stepped into the touring car, stepped on a battery switch and soon the engine was running without going through the familiar scene of cranking "'er up."

Mr. Leonard informed one bystander that his car is just one year younger than the famous old Ford given by the great manufacturer to his very close friend, Thomas Edison, noted inventor and scientist.

The democratic party leaders have set Friday of this week as the date for a caucus at which delegates to the state convention to be held in New Haven next month will be elected. Of interest to a great many of both towns is the recent action taken by the party members towards organization. In Putnam a canvass of the city and town is now under way. Large mass meetings have been planned for a future date, as well as a number of confidential meetings among the leaders.

As in the democratic local camp, the republicans are conducting a canvass of the city in addition to their registration headquarters which they have opened. Organizations among the male and female members of the party have been started and are working out with success.

Today Miss Katherine Byrne, vice-chairman of the state central committee, who is chiefly responsible for the party organization among the republicans in Windham county, was in the Norwich district, attending luncheon at one of the prominent hotels in Norwich and later addressing a group of the republican women and organizing a republican club.

The radio tonight brought to nearly every home in Putnam the complete verbal text of the acceptance speech of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, democratic presidential nominee. Early this afternoon radio experts were seen in front of their business houses hooking up special amplifiers for the reception. Crowds gathered about the business section and absorbed every word sent through the air by the New York governor.

Attorney Morris Lubchansky, prominent New London lawyer, was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the members of the Putnam Rotary club, held at the Putnam Inn this noon. Mr. Lubchansky, in his address to the Rotarians, took as his subject the "Birth of the United States Constitution," beginning with Moses of Biblical fame and ending with the present-day contributions that framed the greatest set of laws in the world. In one instance, Mr. Lubchansky, evidently acquainted with the conditions in the water department in Putnam, touched upon the water question, while he was explaining a feature of his talk. Judge Maurice B. Burrows, of the United States federal court in New London, accompanied Mr. Lubchansky to Putnam and was a guest at the luncheon.

The business meeting was presided over by President James F. English.

Many were of the opinion today that summer is gone and the advance guard of the fall season has arrived because of the exceedingly low temperature received here Tuesday evening. At midnight the mercury retarded to 55 degrees and was even lower at an early hour Monday morning. No reports from the rural sections today contained any indications that frost was experienced, yet many believed such condition existed.

The republican mass meeting to be held in Woodstock Hill on Sept. 15, at which Senator Moses of New Hampshire will speak, is now being planned by the officers of the Windham County Hoover-Curtis club, recently organized at Bald Hill farm in Woodstock. The committee is endeavoring to secure the vice-presidential nominee, Charles Curtis, to address the gathering. Miss Katherine Byrne, vice-chairman of the republican state central committee, said this afternoon that a meeting of the executive committee of the club of which she is chairman is to be held in Putnam Friday and it will be definitely announced whether or not Mr. Curtis will come to Woodstock.

With the date of the trial of Rayman and Lalone, alleged slayers of State Policeman Irving H. Nelson, only a few weeks away, the state is busy securing every bit of evidence obtainable to complete the plans of the prosecution. County Investigator William J. Jackson of Willimantic was in Putnam today on business for the state relative to the coming trial.

All officials of the state aiding the prosecution are silent and information is being kept until the opening date of the trial in Willimantic which probably will be Sept. 14. State's Attorney Howard Bradford of Putnam, whose sudden illness in June caused the appointment of Samuel B. Harvey of Willimantic as special state's attorney, will assist at the hearing.

Mrs. Omer J. Milot of Fremont street is recovering from an operation experienced Saturday at the Day-Kimball hospital.

GOVERNOR SMITH ACCEPTS

In declaring before his audience at Albany and before the greater radio audience that listened to him his acceptance of the democratic nomination for president, Governor Smith of New York delivered a message which carried the conviction of his own absolute faith in the measures he advocated. The New York governor well sustained his reputation for clarity of statement in his political utterances and nowhere did his words lapse into the prosy or commonplace.

Since he had broken at Houston with the prohibition plank in the democratic platform, it was to be expected that he would amplify his famous telegram to the democratic convention and this he does by declaring for modification of the 18th amendment to permit the sale of alcoholic beverages through state agencies if approved by popular referendum vote. At the same time he would amend the Volstead act so as to allow each state to determine its own standard of alcoholic content, but he promises honest endeavor to enforce the dry law as it now stands and to stamp out corruption which is so apparent.

For farm relief he falls back upon the familiar expedient of securing the advice of experts and in the field of foreign relations he lines himself up with those who seek to end war by removing causes.

Upon some of the domestic questions he declares for non-partisan tariff making, continuation of the flood relief programme, a willingness to abide by the decision of congress after a re-study of the Great Lakes to sea waterway problem, retention of government ownership and control of Muscle Shoals. He tells labor that he favors the principle of collective bargaining and wants to see a remedy for abuse of injunction in labor disputes.

He concludes his speech with a declaration that his nomination was brought about by no promises, and he makes the pledge that such appointments as he would be called upon to make, if elected president, will be uninfluenced by the appointee's wet or dry stand, religion, financial or sectional standing.

The lines of battle for the campaign have now been laid down by the leaders of the two opposing parties. The decision is to be given by the ballots in November, but it cannot be said that Governor Smith's acceptance speech should cause any great disquietude in the republican ranks as to the ultimate result.

A WORTH WHILE FLIGHT

While our hearts are distressed by the misfortune that has apparently befallen the two Rockford flyers in their attempt to span the Atlantic by the northwest route, it is a relief to turn to consideration of the flight of Arthur Goebel from Los Angeles to New York in which he clipped nearly eight hours from the time of a non-stop flight between these points. Compared with some of the great overseas flights, his 2,000 miles overland may seem tame and unimportant, but it is an achievement deserving more than passing notice to have spanned the American continent in less than 19 hours, averaging 142 miles an hour.

It is curious that in the development of aviation there has been so little interest in spanning the great American continent. It has been five years since Kelly and Macready made the first continuous flight from the east to the west coast. Ordinarily aviators might have been expected to try their wings in flights of this kind before embarking on the more hazardous flights over the seas. It has cost a lot of lives to demonstrate that overseas flying is not practical for transportation at the present stage of aviation.

On the other hand, the importance of the airplane in covering the vast distances in this country is being demonstrated every day, and we are promised regular service by airplanes for passengers in the near future. In this development of cross-country flight, such achievments as that of Arthur Goebel play a large part. There was a time, not so long ago, when eighteen hours by train to Chicago was regarded as the marvel of the century. Eighteen hours to Los Angeles is the latest mark of progress in covering distance, but that record is not expected to stand for any length of time.

POLICE VANDALISM

The police of New York have hit upon a unique method to prevent parking without lights—that is, they have found a means to discourage it without actually preventing it. This new method must have been evolved by a master mind in the department. It consists simply of furnishing each patrolman with an ice pick with a sharp point. The policeman then goes out to look for violators of the regulation which states that every vehicle on the streets after dark shall display a light. When the law officer's keen eyes detect one of these unlighted machines, he sneaks warily upon it and with boldness born of practice punctures with his little ice pick one or more of the tires.

One hundred and twenty automobiles in the Sheepshead bay area were treated with this new-fangled method on one night and one hundred and twenty motorists doubtless surveyed their tires with rueful eyes and decided that justice in this great land had taken a strange and devious path. To add insult to injury, the police commissioner is said to have blithely conceded that his men have adopted this practice to break up the prevalent habit in that section of parking without lights.

It surely is a novel idea to institute police vandalism as a method of enforcing motor regulations, no matter how necessary they may be, and reckless destruction of private property by officers of the law is an extension of police powers which cannot be countenanced. Parking light violators would seem to be the easiest to catch of all motorists who are disobedient to regulations. It requires no gun play and no detective ability to tell whether a car standing at the curb has lights on it or not. A ticket on the steering wheel or a warrant to be served at a convenient time is all that is necessary to bring the motorists to book. Any other procedure is vandalism, which, as far as the police of any city are concerned, will not be tolerated by an outraged public.

RADIO CAMPAIGNING

The presidential campaign which has now been fairly launched by the acceptance speeches of the heads of both tickets promises to be a home audience campaign for the voters who will sit on the front porch and listen to the radio. Evidently the campaign managers take the radio as a serious adjunct in the business of arousing interest and getting votes. When Mr. Hoover accepted the republican presidential nomination, a nation-wide hookup took his voice to all parts of the country. Nobody knows the exact number of persons who listened but the acceptance speech came at a time when the farmers were out of the fields and their city cousins had quit work for the day. Probably millions of voters listened to Hoover's voice and equally as many gave attention when Governor Smith made his speech accepting the democratic nomination for president. The same thing was true in a lesser degree when Senator Curtis accepted the republican nomination for the vice-presidency and will be true when Senator Robinson tells the voters that he accepts the democratic nomination for that office.

Throughout the campaign it is to be expected that each important utterance on the part of the candidates will be carried over the air to a listening audience around the nation. These radio speeches are broadcast at a time when most people are at home, the time near dusk being selected as the best time to broadcast, which is a departure from former campaigning when most speeches were made in the afternoon or at night. It is estimated that these hookups cost from $35,000 to $50,000, which is looked upon as a legitimate campaign expense. The committees merely take advantage of the latest scientific developments and save on railroad fare, hall rent, music and the like what is spent for broadcasting. Within another four years television may be developed to such an extent as to permit those who stay at home to see as well as hear the candidate.

JAPAN'S HOLD ON MANCHURIA

Japan's ultimatum served upon Gen. Chank Hsueh-Liang, military governor of Manchuria, which Japan cloaks under the name of "advice" tells Mukden's new war lord that he is not to acknowledge the authority of the Chinese nationalist government. Thus the nationalist government learns that its authority is not to extend north of the great wall. Even more significantly, Great Britain is told that British and Japanese policies there are at loggerheads. The Washington government, feeling the tension thus created, has sent Minister MacMurray hurrying from Peking to Mukden to investigate. Japan's quick rejection of the policy proposed by the British borders on the sensational. Sir Austen Chamberlain only recently told the house of commons: "We do not recognize Manchuria as anything but part of China." To this the Japanese response, through Premier Tanaka is a threat to Chinese officials in Mukden that if they try to bring Manchuria within a united China radical action on Japan's part will follow. In short Japan sets itself in opposition to China and Great Britain in a region where the Nipponese already are in opposition to Russia, whose designs in Manchuria Japan still fears. It fears that a weak Chinese government there would invite Russian penetration and it wants nothing to interfere with the supply of raw materials from Manchuria for the use of Japanese industries. Conversely, Manchuria offers a market for Japanese goods which will be of increasing value as more and more Chinese immigrants people Manchuria's vacant spaces.

But whether Japan is taking the wisest method to obtain the advantages it seeks in Manchuria is another question. Its brusque demand is bound still further to alienate the Chinese, and it may alienate British sympathy, which is a factor of importance not to be disregarded in Japan's future relations with Russia.

"I suppose, Jill, that I owe the great pleasure of taxing Aunt Miranda all over the south side yester day to you," remarked Jim to his sister at breakfast. "Really, I can't think of any pleasanter way of passing my Saturday afternoon than going on a junk-collecting expedition with our esteemed, but irascible great-aunt-by-courtesy. Talk about a real lark!"

"You needn't be so sarcastic, Jim. I thought you'd be glad to do something for Aunt Miranda, even if she isn't our own aunt. It ought to be a pleasure for you to help her with her charity rummage sale. I told her that you would love to take her in your car."

"I don't know how you get that way, Jill, and so suddenly, too! You didn't use to be so darn keen on Aunt Miranda."

"No, but I have decided to be kinder to her and more thoughtful."

"Indeed! How interesting! But you needn't include me in your——" Jim was beginning when his older sister, Ann, interrupted his complaint with one of her own. She asked Jill frigidly if it were she that had encouraged Dallas Brown to come to her for help with her French.

"Why, yes, Ann. Dallas told me that she is afraid she isn't going to pass her midyear examination, so I said that I knew you'd love to coach her a bit. You said yourself that you needed more practice."

"I'm sure I don't know what made you think I'd love to! I detest elementary French. What I need is commentary French. What I need is conversational French with some one better than myself, not worse."

"I'm sorry to see you show such a selfish spirit, Ann."

"Selfish? What about you?"

"Now, girls, no quarreling." Father looked benevolently over his paper at his two daughters and then with a sudden thought inquired sharply why in time one of them had promised that he would contribute generously to a sorority house in which he took no interest whatever?

"But, father, you surely didn't go back on me, did you? When the girls asked me for something I said I knew you would love to help, for you're always so much interested in the welfare of young people. Of course, I didn't say how much you'd give, but I hoped that you'd write a check for $100 or more."

"It happened to be less, Jill. Since I was informed that one of my daughters had pledged me to give I did make good with $25, but don't involve me in any more such projects. It won't be safe, my dear." Jill looked down at her plate pensively for a moment, then, brightening, she turned to her aunt with a swift smile and asked if her friend, Ruth Mary, had been in on Saturday afternoon.

"Yes, she came in just as I was starting downtown. She said you said that I would help her make a birthday cake for some boy friend of hers, and I——"

"Oh, aunty, I do hope it turned out well, for there's actually no one at Ruth Mary's who can even make a decent Johnny cake. I knew it would be a joy to you to give her a cooking lesson."

"It was a joy I had to deny myself for as I just said, I was starting downtown. But I made the cake last night and took it over to her."

"Oh, so that was what you were doing in the kitchen after dinner!" Ann paused and looked indignantly at her sister. "Well, aunty, I see Jill hasn't slighted any of us. What's the big idea, Jill, of giving us each a job?"

"I've only been trying to carry out my New Year's resolutions to be kinder to every one, and none of you seem to appreciate anything I've done," sobbed Jill, leaving the table and dashing from the room.

"Gosh, dad, you'd better veto the rest of her resolutions," advised Jim. "If we're the goats."

"She is a little, well—a little vicarious," observed his father, smiling behind his newspaper. After all—Jill was the baby!—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — One conclusion political observers appear agreed upon these dull days in Washington is that the ladies may prove to be the answer in November to the question, Smith or Hoover?

They have what should be competent authority for that view in the Smith camp as well as that of his opponent with its Hoover's-picture-in-every-kitchen slogan. Only, the Smith strategists saw it that way long ago, before the Houston convention. They had ideas about propping the ticket from that point of view which failed because 'Al" himself decreed that his running mate be selected by the convention of, by and for itself.

That's what Frank Roosevelt told the representatives of some 40 state delegations who gathered in his hotel room in the hot wee sma' hours of the morning after Smith's nomination. It was the vice presidential get-together with delegations having candidates of their own excluded; and by Al's dictum New York waited for somebody—anybody—else to lead off. Of course, it was "Joe" Robinson, as everybody expected. Nobody else was mentioned; but some important Smith leaders kept quiet with difficulty. They would have liked to see a man joined with the governor for the race who would have an appeal to feminine voters. Newton Baker of Ohio was among those thought over seriously, although his self-imposed role of League of Nations crusader at New York four years before was a trouble-some factor.

Be that as it may, as his guests drifted away that hot early morning at Houston to sleep a little, vote Robinson onto the ticket and then go home Roosevelt scratched his chin reflectively.

"Well," he said to his staff, "the woman vote may be the deciding factor, at that."

YOUR HEALTH

EDUCATION OF THE HARD-OF-HEARING

By Alice G. Bryant, M. D., Boston, Member Gorgas Memorial.

A quarter of a century ago little work was done for the hard-of-hearing and small attention was paid them. In 1928 the National Education association in its wisdom created a department of lip-reading. There are over 7,000,000 hard-of-hearing children in our public schools and in New York 14.4 per cent. of the children have defective hearing. Dr. Harvey Fletcher, the acoustic engineer, has invented the phono-audiometer. It is a startling surprise in its achievements. It will test a group of 40 pupils or many multiples of 40. Older individual tests would have taxed the examiner's strength beyond endurance and lessened precision. The percentage of hearing losses are detected and the pupils are referred to the teachers of lip-reading for special instruction.

Lip-reading is an indispensable contribution to the education of the hard-of-hearing. It foreshadows for them new standards of life expectations at their best. It is a mutual benefit and enlarges their horizon of understanding, knowledge, experience and social relations. It bridges over the silen speech pathways between them and their hearing comrades. It will prevent class-repeating and class-repeatings. With lip-reading they are no longer restricted, hampered, discouraged or unduly depressed. It is a stabilizer. Do not segregate the hard-of-hearing. Segregation means abuse. It is unwarranted, unnecessary and unjust. Do not criticize or become impatient with the hard-of-hearing. Normal persons should improve the slovenly practice of poor enunciation, the improperly modulated, diluted and high-pitched voices, the facial, hand and shoulder contortions and the fly-wheel conversations. Face the hard-of-hearing when conversing and permit the natural or artificial light to fall upon the faces of the speakers. This reaching out this straining process to hear brings about nerve strain or fatigue deafness."

The research workers, physicians and otologists are more than ever realizing the necessity of intensive and comprehensive work to prevent breakdowns in hearing. It will always be a persistent stimulus to run to earth these hearing defects. The initial expenses and maintenance charges within and without the school along the lines mentioned will be heavy in cold dollars and cents, but pause to think that the educational paralysis in the school training of the hard-of-hearing is not a legacy to be proud of, much less does it admit full freedom of development. We need to work for the conservation of hearing and prevention of deafness.

Stories That Recall Others

The Natural Result

Little Linda's mother was a great believer in cleanliness, and she insisted on her little daughter washing at least three times a day.

Linda was a good little girl on the whole, but to her way of thinking the washing habit was being overdone.

"How you are growing Linda dear!" remarked a visitor at tea one day.

"Well, what can you expect?" said Linda, "mother waters me all day long."

Not So Dumb.

A busy housekeeper in Delaware was summoned to the door. There stood a man who handed her a slip of paper which informed her that he was deaf and dumb and wished her to buy something from him. She said she did not wish to buy anything and was surprised to hear his reply, "All right. Thank you, lady."

Largest of Mill Belts.

It is reported that in the equipment of a sawmill in the state of Washington there has been installed the largest leather belt in the world. It was made from pure oar-bark tanned leather, is 84 inches in width, 114 feet in length, 3-ply in thickness and weighs just 2,800 pounds. In its manufacture there were required the centers of the hides of 225 steers and each piece of this leather was stretched separately before being placed in the belt.

In putting the belt together no pegs, rivets or fastenings of any kind were used except cement, and the piles were cemented together under a hydraulic pressure of 250 tons. As no hide will produce a single piece of leather wide enough to make a belt of this width, it was necessary to use two or three centers to make it. These pieces were cemented together, a 2-inch longitudinal lap being used. As there were about 700 feet of this work, it required a considerable space of time. The finished belt has the appearance of a single piece.

Sawmills are operated under widely varying loads so that the service required of the driving belt is most severe. Any piece of leather, therefore, used for this purpose must bear the maximum strain of the sawmill for this maximum is often reached.

The pulleys used must have broad surfaces to give the necessary adhesion for delivering the required horsepower.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Editor: Some of the memories of Norwich that are recalled in these letters carry me back something like 60 odd years ago. How many can recall the old covered bridge that crossed the river from Preston into East Main street? How many times I had to go over it. And in the lurking shadows I imagined that there were fairies ready to pounce upon me and carry me off. Understand this was when I was but a boy of something like nine or ten years of age. Well, I guess I was a little coward anyway. As we left the bridge and entered into what was called East Main street, what a flood of recollections came to mind for with the majestic shade trees that appeared on each side of the street it gave one an impression of entering into a vast tunnel. This is a very notable street for going over the Back Trail we can imagine the Boys in Blue who were reviewed here. And many years later the boys who went away to the Spanish-American war; and later on, others who went across to defend the country of their birth and adoption and in other years this historic old street in civil life. We see the firemen's parade, for it seems always here that everything of importance started. And now what a transformation. Those fine old Colonial homes gone and the street commercialized. What a change! What a difference!

How many can recall, as they left the bridge, on the left was the livery stable of Charlie McChesney, a great lover of fine horses, and some that were good steppers and were often seen in front of a high wheel sulky, and with McChesney holding the ribbons? And many a friendly brush was had with other lovers of a fast horse over at the fair grounds track. Almost opposite the present post office was the home of an old-line physician, Dr. Farnsworth, who was credited with being very blunt and outspoken. And many stories were told at his expense and always to his credit. And just below was the East Main street Methodist Episcopal church that had at one time as pastor one of the most brilliant young men that I have ever heard. And he was a regular spell-binder, the Rev. Emory Haynes; young, gifted and forceful. His parents lived at one time on 12th street, between Prospect and Boswell avenue.

On the same side of the street was and is today one of the most notable buildings in the city, The Buckingham Memorial. But more about this later for at this time it means "the Soft Pedal" for me. Further down the street was a store that was an endless treasure of delight that may have been a prototype of Dickens' Old Curiosity Shop: Edwin Fay's. What happy hours us kids used to spend looking in the windows and choosing what we would like to have. Say, Old Timers, you often played that game, haven't you? You know you did.

But I perhaps have used up too much space and must close. But, reader, do you know who was mayor of your city at one time and afterwards was vice-president of the U. S. and also at one time was president of the United States? And he, if I remember correctly, lived on Broadway in the Rose of New England. Don't all speak at once for maybe I will tell you later. And no doubt you will say, "Gee, why didn't I think of him."

Yours very truly,
C. H. "DAD" SHAW

HUDSON — Patents F-Head Motor

The U.S. Patent Office has granted patents to the Hudson Motor Car Company on the "F-Head" high-compression motor. The patent—No. 1,656,051, relating to internal combustion engines—covers the entire arrangement of valves, spark plugs and combustion chamber.

With the new patented design Hudson motors now are built with a compression ratio of nearly 6 to 1—or 20 per cent above the average—with correspondingly high standards of acceleration, fuel economy and power. It is practically impossible to make the motor knock under even the most adverse operating conditions. The motor is the liveliest, most powerful and economical Hudson has ever built.

FREDERICK WHITEHOUSE KILLED BY AUTO WHILE CROSSING STREET

Frederick Whitehouse, 52, of Occum, died at 9:40 o'clock Wednesday night at the W. W. Backus hospital from injuries received when he was struck by a Buick touring car operated by Aime J. "Buck" Lacroix, 18, of Baltic, prominent in athletic circles at the Norwich Free academy. The fatal accident occurred near Mr. Whitehouse's residence on the Occum-Baltic highway. The driver of the automobile was placed under arrest on a technical charge of manslaughter and was released on bonds.

Mr. Whitehouse, who lived with his sister, Mrs. Henry Zapf, had gone to the store of Alfred Fontaine to purchase groceries. He was returning home and had reached a point nearly opposite an Essex machine owned by Herman Chenette, of Taftville and parked on the side of the highway near a light and Whitehouse's home, when hit by the machine operated by Lacroix, who had, with him as a passenger, Jacob Gilot, of Baltic. The machine was headed towards Norwich.

It was misty, Lacroix claimed. He noticed a form in the highway, slowed down and blew his horn. He thought that the man saw the machine. He said that he drove his car to the extreme right hand side and off the highway to avoid striking the Occum man. The rear left mudguard struck Mr. Whitehouse and threw him to the highway, near the Chenette machine.

Lacroix stopped his machine, and found Mr. Whitehouse in the highway. He carried the injured man into the home of Mr. Whitehouse's sister. A physician was summoned and had Mr. Whitehouse taken to the W. W. Backus hospital, where his death occurred at 9:40 o'clock.

Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve, of this city, was notified and an autopsy was performed It was found that Mr. Whitehouse had received a bad fracture of the skull, fracture of the upper five ribs on the right side, injured right lung, fracture of the right arm, bruises to the left forehead, to the upper left eyelid, to the right arm and to both legs. Medical Examiner Gildersleeve pronounced death due to the injuries received in the accident and gave permission for the body to be removed to the undertaking rooms of George G. Grant, of Taftville.

State Police Officer William Visokay of the Groton barracks, was called and investigated the accident. An investigation was also conducted by Coroner Edward G. McKay.

WOMAN TOOK OWN LIFE BY HANGING

Mrs. Martha Elizabeth Browning, 75, committed suicide by hanging on Wednesday morning at her home in Willow street, Mystic. Her body was found suspended by a carefully prepared noose on the inside of a closet door. Members of her household missed her from early morning and after making a search throughout the house, they summoned Patrolman William Noyes of Mystic. The patrolman conducted a thorough search through the house, beginning in the cellar, and finally discovered the body in a dark closet, the rear of which was formed by the back of a stairway.

The body was suspended in such a way that it might have remained unnoticed had not the door been opened wide.

Relatives and neighbors believe that despondency was the cause of Mrs. Browning's deed. Her husband, Alfred Brown, has been out of work for some time. Mrs. Browning's health, it was said, had begun to fail her.

The elderly woman retired last night without giving any indication that she was in anything but a normal frame of mind. None of the others in the house were awake when she arose this morning.

The body was found at 10:30 o'clock and Patrolman Noyes estimated that she had been dead at least four and a half hours, since she would have been seen about the house had she attempted to take her life after any of the others in the house had awakened.

Mrs. Browning was a woman of comparatively slight stature. She fastened one end of the rope around the doorknob and passed the rope over a hook at the top of the door. The noose dangled a few inches below. A chair in the closet was found in a position that indicated she had used it to reach the noose. After fixing the noose around her neck she apparently jumped from the chair.

Dr. A. H. Meyers, medical examiner, pronounced death due to suicide by hanging. He said that her neck was broken.

Mrs. Browning was a native of Stonington and was a daughter of the late Orlando and Lucy Crandall Shirley. She had resided in Mystic most of her life.

Her husband and a sister, Mrs. Jessie Weeks of Mystic, are the only immediate surviving relatives. She had no children.

Announcement was made that next week's meeting would be held at Willimantic, the local club being guests of the Thread City Rotarians at lunch and golf following. PARTY TOWN CAUCUSES TO BE HELD SOON

The complicated caucus and convention machinery by which political nominations are made in Connecticut is in motion again. This time party members are to nominate state officers, representatives in congress, and presidential electors It will take the two town caucuses, three district conventions and a state convention to do it. For towns holding town elections there will be a third town caucus.

To show the relation of these various conventions and the part of the registered party member in them, the Connecticut League of Women Voters several years published charts for each of the major parties. These have recently been revised for 1928 by their author, Mrs. F. L. C. Kitchelt of New Haven, and are this summer among the "best sellers" of the league literature.

The Connecticut league is now urging all party members to go to their town caucuses which nominate delegates to the state and district conventions. The republican caucuses will be held on August 27. At these caucuses three or four sets of delegates will be elected, one for the state convention, one for the congressional conventions, one for the state senatorial conventions and, if the town is in a probate district composed of two or more towns, one for the probate convention. Delegates may all be different persons or any one may be elected to two or more conventions.

The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, comptroller, United States senator and presidential electors are nominated in the state conventions. The republican convention opens the evening of Sept. 6, in the Hyperian theatre, New Haven, and continues through the next day. On the evening of Sept. 7 the democrats will convene in the Arena, New Haven for the opening of their two day convention.

The congressional conventions, held on call of the district committees, will each nominate a candidate for the congress. In the 35 state senatorial districts each party will have conventions to nominate state senators. Probate judges for districts of more than one town are nominated in probate conventions.

Following the state convention and at least three weeks before the November election there will be the second town caucus to nominate representatives and justices of the peace and, in towns that are a probate district in themselves, probate judges.

NORWICH TOWN PASTOR COMPARES SHIPS TO A LIFE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC CAMP MEETING, Aug. 22—Rev. George W. Potter of Norwich Town, at the morning watch service Wednesday, spoke on a clause found in Psa. 104:26—"There go the ships." Comparing ships to a life, he spoke of the wonder and might of the sea, upon which the ship must travel, as suggesting God. He said that the builder of the ship must put in the best material and we must as Christians recognize our obligation and privilege to put only the best material into our lives. The ship must have a chart to sail by and the Christian has his chart, which is the Bible. Mrs. Florence Manuel sang very impressively a selection, "We Are Building Day by Day" at the close.

Miss Helen Haviland of South Manchester was the speaker at 9:30. Her subject was "Recreation and Religion." She showed herself to be well versed in her subject. She spoke of the need of recreation in everyone's life and showed also the evils which so often go with such. In view of this fact she urged it as a legitimate field for the church to seek to guide the recreations of its young people. Out of her rich experience in handling matters of this kind and listening to the adverse criticisms of people, she told several anecdotes illustrating her points and showing how recreational programs of value may be carried on and also help the moral and religious life. She urged that older people need recreation also. She told of an incident where so much of good will was created in an evening social that one woman said that her husband kissed her when they reached home—the first time he had done such a thing in a month. Very vividly in closing she showed most impressively how love for Christ may show itself in these frontiers. This was felt to be one of the most interesting addresses of the week.

Dr. Frick's discourse at 11 o'clock was fully up to the high standard set by his former addresses. His subject was "Finding God in Human Personality." He said in part, "God is always trying to reveal Himself to human hearts Were we not so stupid we might understand Him better than we do. We may allow that God reveals Himself in stones, in flowers, in trees, etc., but these do not furnish His highest revelation. God is a Spirit and His highest revelation is in the spiritual realm. Man is connected chemically with the world but he is also a spirit. Spirit is greater than chemistry and the human spirit is God's masterpiece. Man, if he will, may find God in the depth of his own spirit.

The Stafford Springs house prayer meetings at 1 and at 6 p. m. were held. The leader at 1 o'clock was Rev. Mr. Potter of Leonardsville, N. M., and at 6 o'clock it was Mrs. H. M. Randall of Port Jefferson, L. I.

At 3 p. m. came the Woman's Christian Temperance union service. The principal feature was the gold medal contest in which six children who had each won a silver medal formerly, competed for the gold medal. All of them proved most excellent speakers. The winner's name was Miss Mary Konytko of West Willington. Two were tied for second place, viz: Miss Frances Mirson of Waterford and Master Lloyd Keeney of Uncasville. Following the speaking contest an address was given by Rev. E. P. Ayer, chaplain of the Connecticut state senate. Rev. Mr. Ayer and his wife sang together also two selections with excellent effect. These were "If Jesus Should Come Today" and "In the Garden."

At 7.30 p. m. came the moving picture, "Lest We Forget," which was very fine.

Mrs. Agnes J. Phillips of New London is in charge of the Uncasville cottage. Others staying in this cottage are Mrs. Olin Beebe and daughter, Caroline of Taftcottville, and Mrs. Robert A. T. Bitgood, Miss Roberta Bitgood and Mrs. Stephen Prentice of New London

JIMMY QUINN TO FEATURE DUWELL AMATEUR BOUTS FRIDAY EVENING

Jimmy Quinn of Greeneville, holder of the amateur featherweight title of the state of Connecticut and one of the few boys in the country to earn the right to try out for a berth on the American Olympic team, which incidentally returned from Holland yesterday, will be one of the main attractions at the Duwell amateur boxing show to be held at the Duwell field Friday night. Quinn, but 17 years of age, in one year of fighting has risen to the heights of the amateur boxing game, having met the best boys in the country with remarkable success.

Since the night that he first crawled through the ropes of a squared circle at New London to meet a local boy by the name of K. O. Sweeney, he has fought 35 fights and won out in all but five. He never has had the misfortune to be knocked out, but himself has dealt out the sleep producer on six different occasions.

After having disposed of practically all of the competition in his class that could be found in this section of the state he went to New Haven last March for a shot at the state title. Following two nights of boxing during which he out-pointed the best in the state, he was awarded the gold medal, significant of the highest honors in the state for simon pures. A few days after he had won the state title he was sent by the state to the National tournament at Boston. Here he fought his way past the trial bouts and was finally outpointed in the quarter-finals by Harry Devine of Worcester, who since was crowned national champion, and at the Olympic games came within an ace of winning the amateur championship of the world.

Two weeks ago in his first appearance since the National tournament, Jimmy fought the fast Ero Peterson of Worcester and won by decision in three rounds. Friday night the local lad in all probability will be matched with one of the Boston boxers in the main attraction of the evening.

The committee in charge of the Duwell boxing show reports a larger entry for the coming show than has ever been received before, over 40 men from Norwich, Danielson, Jewett City, Westerly, Boston and Taftville having sent their entries to date. With this array of talent to pick from, the local organization should be able to pick out quite a card.

The entries of the Danielson and Jewett City boxers were received last night and are as follows: Danielson, Al Brouillard, Clyde Brouillard, Herman Jolly, Leo Paradis, Tony St. Germaine, Joe Bishop, Jean Cardier, Jack Boulay, Bobby Nash and Ray Herr. Jewett City, Bill Minta, Ernest Gauvan, Frankie Magry, Arthur Miller, Benny Salinski, Benny Dempski, Happy Bontempo and Larry Wakely.

COMBINED EFFORTS OF PETTY AND CLARK CHECK CARDS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22—(AP)—Jess Petty and William Watson Clark held the Cardinals to five hits in the rubber game of the series here today and Brooklyn won by 3 to 2. This unfortunate turn of fortune prevented the Red Birds, for a second successive day, from regaining first place from the Giants, who retained the lead by a single percentage point after being defeated by Cincinnati, 5 to 4.

Petty held the Cardinals without a safety and permitted only two of the home players to reach base in the first five innings while his mates were piling up a three run lead for him off the slants of the venerable Clarence Mitchell. The storm broke in the sixth when Douthit, Frisch and Hafey doubled, giving the Cards both their runs and bringing Clark to the rescue.

Mitchell himself gave up only seven hits, but Bressler's triple drove Harris home in the first while Bressler's double, Bissonette's single, a sacrifice and an infield out accounted for two more in the fourth, Bissonette having advanced to second on the throw to cut Bressler off at the plate.

BENEDICTS WIN THIRD GAME FROM SINGLE MEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 22—The third and deciding game in the baseball series between the Married Men and the Single Men of the borough was a hummer. Almost too much of a ball game to suit some of the fans who like the funny situations that usually crop up in this kind of a series. Both teams were out to win. Just before the battle started the board of strategy of the Married Men held a conference and Ed Jodoin, warden of the borough, was elected to pitch. The skies were dark and rain threatened every minute, making an ideal setting for Ed's speed. It came as a surprise to the fans, but no more so than the selection of the Single Men who sent Bud Jodoin, Ed's brother, to the slab.

Bud started off like a house afire, forcing Hal Chase to fly weakly to center and then fanning brother Ed and the great Bambino Hiscox. The mayor proved just as effective and also fanned two of the first three to face him. Both teams went scoreless until the fourth when the Married Men broke through with two runs, the result of a triple to right center by the mayor, a hit by Captain Dudkowski and a couple of errors. The Married Men added another in the fifth and still another in the sixth. In the meantime the mayor had been forcing the single boys to eat out of his hand until he split a finger on his pitching hand along about the fourth inning. It was patched up and continued to be invincible though it was evident that he was tottering. His control was bad for a couple of innings and then came back and he was stronger than ever. At the end of the seven innings agreed upon as a game the Married Men were leading by a score of 4 to 0, but the Single Men insisted on another inning and in the extra session scored two runs and the game goes on the records as a 4 to 2 win for the Benedicts.

Herb Thompson was back in the game for the Single Men and Bill Marshall was also in the lineup. It looked bad for the Married Men, as they were without the services of Eudor LeClaire, but the latter's absence gave a new star a chance to shine, the Rev. G. A. Goodenough. And what we mean he was pretty near the whole works so far as stardom is concerned. In his day, ball players didn't use gloves, at least he didn't bring one with him so he was supplied with one after playing several innings bare-handed. He showed the speed of Ty Cobb in retrieving balls hit in right field and afforded the real feature of the evening when he broke loose for second on an infield grounder. He made a beautiful slide but his judgment of distance was bad, in fact, he started to slide when only about halfway down. He messed his white duck pants up pretty badly and when Umpire Tormey waved him on to second the crowd cheered madly. Tormey thought some of the single men must have tripped him. And, by the way, the umpires had their troubles as there were many close plays and the players of both sides were rabid. Sol Parquette, trombone player in the Married Men's band, got a roasting on a couple of decisions called at first. Pete Olson was wise and did his umpiring from the coaching box at first.

In the semi-finals for the 100-yard dash both Bud Jodoin and Bambino Hiscox qualified as both were in the time limit. Hitch, however, won the heat between first and second base. Bib LeClaire was the busiest outfielder on the lot and accepted five chances without an error, two of his catches being made in his hip pocket. Umpire Tormey was not quite as active with the megaphone as usual, the only announcement being for the collection and of the extensive preparation for the outing being held at Ashland park Thursday, which made it impossible to use the casino for dancing after the game.

The series is over—It has afforded good clean amusement for many people, the estimated attendance for the three games being about 4,000. It has been a fine effort on the part of the boys who played and the community spirit which entered into the arrangements and execution of the program as a whole are certainly a credit to the town.

REDS AGAIN PREVENT GIANTS FROM GAINING

CINCINNATI, Aug. 22—(AP)—The Reds again interrupted the parade of the Giants toward the pennant by winning the rubber game of the series here today by 5 to 4, but the Clan McGraw saved first place by a single percentage point as the Robins shaded the runner-up Cardinals by 3 to 2.

The Reds got the big break of the game when Jimmy Welsh slipped and fell in chasing Bill Zitzmann's fly with the bases filled in the fifth inning, permitting the drive to go for a triple. Zitzmann himself came home a moment later on Kelly's single with what proved to be Cincinnati's winning run. Welsh was hurt so painfully that he retired from the game.

In the first half of the fifth, the Giants had bunched drives on Adolfo Luque for three of their markers on Mel Ott's triple with the bases filled. While they touched the Cuban for nine hits in all, three more than the Reds combed from Vic Aldridge and Fred Fitzsimmons, they added to their total only in the eighth when Lindstrom and Terry started with doubles.

Aldridge lasted through the five-run Cincinnati barrage in the fifth, but gave way to a pinch batsman in the next round, and Fitzsimmons finished without incident. The score:

GRANT AGAIN FEATURES TENNIS PLAY AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22—(AP)—Scoring his second sensational victory of the tournament, Bryan Grant of Atlanta, 18-year old southern champion, took the spotlight away from the more famous stars of the court in the annual Newport invitation tennis tournament today.

Grant, who eliminated Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., a member of the American Davis cup squad and fourth seeded player in the present tournament, yesterday, kept his fine record clean by winning a hard three set match from Neal Brown of San Francisco in the fourth round.

HAAS HITS HOMER IN 17TH TO WIN FOR ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22—(AP)—George Haas, first Athletic batsman in the seventeenth inning, finished the longest game of the American league season by driving an offering from Johnny Miljus over the right field fence and into an adjoining street for a home run. The smash enabled the Athletics to win by 6 to 5 and so reduced to five games the lead of the Yankees who remained idle because of rain.

George Uhle and George Earnshaw engaged in a pitchers' battle with the score tied at 1 to 1 until the eighth when both wilted. The Indians combed Earnshaw for four runs, but the Mackmen came back in their own half to knock Uhle from the box with a three run tally. Miljus permitted the home team to tie the score in the ninth, but Eddie Rommel held the Indians scoreless until Haas' home run won for him.

The Macks got twenty hits against only fourteen for Cleveland.

TIGERS TAKE TWO GAMES FROM RED SOX

BOSTON, Aug. 22—(AP)—Detroit took both games of a double header from Boston today by scores of 7 to 6 and 4 to 3. The visitors now have won three successive one-run victories from the Red Sox. Boston had 16 men left on base in the first game in which Sweeney, Detroit first baseman, performed sensationally. Pitcher Gibson made three hits in three times at bat and drove in three runs. Whitehill held the Red Sox to four hits in the second game. Hellmann drove in three runs in this contest and Tavener starred at short. Scores:

OLYMPIC ATHLETES ROYALLY WELCOMED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—(AP)—The Olympic Argosy that sailed so confidently out of New York harbor less than two months ago to sweep the international games at Amsterdam came back today to a noisy and colorful welcome.

With the whistles of the city launch Macom and the Manhattan tooting through the rain in answer to the great siren of the liner President Roosevelt, the mayor's committee, headed by Mayor James J. Walker, himself, met the boatload of athletes and officials at quarantine this morning and escored them to a joyous reception at pier A.

Despite the rain, the 250 athletes on the flag-festooned liner crowded the rails and cheered the familiar landmarks looming through the mists.

TUNNEY UNABLE TO FIND QUIET AND REST FROM ENGLISH WELCOMERS

LONDON, Aug. 22—(AP)—Gene Tunney arrived in England at dawn today and late tonight was still seeking the peace and privacy which he thinks is due an ordinary American citizen, even though that citizen happens to be the retired world champion prizefighter.

From 3 o'clock this morning when the line Mauretania anchored outside the Plymouth breakwater, Tunney sought in vain the solitude that he expected to find in England. In London, instead of staying in the quiet hotel where he tried to get rooms for himself and his traveling companions, he slept tonight in the "semi-royal suite" of one of London's largest hostelries.

This big hotel sent representatives all the way to Plymouth to offer him the hospitality of the establishment.

The ex-champion will depart for Ireland at 8:30 tomorrow morning. He said that he will make his only public appearance in Europe when he assists in giving out the prizes at the Tailteann games.

All day long Tunney was interviewed and photographed. The first batch of British and American journalists met him at 6 in the morning in his comfortable but by no means lavish cabin on the "B deck" of the steamer. This was several hours before the other millionaires on the palatial liner were ready for breakfast.

"The last time I crossed the Atlantic," said Tunney to these early birds. "I was a guest of Uncle Sam. I traveled then on the 'deck' of a transport. It was just above the powder magazine."

English newspaper editors were puzzled as to how to handle the Tunney story. They were not sure as to whether they should send fight experts, literary critics or society reporters to "cover" the event. As a consequence Tunney was piled with questions at Plymouth and again at London, where he arrived at 4 in the afternoon. He rode in an automobile as far as Exeter and took train for the capital from that point.

The fight experts were told with definiteness that could leave no doubt in their minds that Tunney was through with professional boxing forever. He said he planned to go into business in New York when he returns to America.

The society reporters ran into a hard rock when they tried to pump him about his prospective marriage. His habitual smile disappeared and his jaw clicked as he told them bluntly that his plans in this respect constituted a private affair which he would not discuss.

The literary reporters found Tunney willing to talk about books and writers in a modest way. He told them that he had no literary ambitions whatsoever. His interest in the theatre was only that of any ordinary man.

The English newspapers are all laudatory of Gene's modesty, his quiet natural manner and his personality, which is described as unique among professional boxers.

Tunney's friends had planned to show him Devonshire and Somerset from a motor car while he was en route from Plymouth to London. This program, however, was upset after the machine had run through rain and over slick roads for 54 miles to Exeter. Clouds and mists hid most of the countryside which Tunney wished to see, but not the two automobile loads of reporters and photographers whom he did not care to see.

Under these conditions the road trip was cancelled at the old cathedral town and Tunney took a fast train to London. But word of the change traveled faster than the train and a crowd of several hundred greeted him at Paddington station.

Some of London's "Bobbies" had to open a path for him to the taxi which conveyed him to his hotel. There he had to undergo more photographing and interviewing which ended only when Tunney pleaded that he had heard that England was a place where private citizens were largely left to themselves and that he had hoped that this would prove true.

CUBS NOSE OUT PHILLIES IN THE 12TH INNING

CHICAGO, Aug. 22—(AP)—It took 12 innings, an error and some excellent pitching by Artie Nehf to do it, but the Cubs finally beat Philadelphia 3 to 2, today. Philadelphia had previously beaten Chicago six straight games.

Sand's error of Cliff Heathcote's hot grounder enabled Maguire to score the winning run after one was out in the twelfth inning. Outside of the first inning when Nehf was nicked for three hits and made a wild pitch, the former Giant cast-off hurled a fine game, limiting the Phillies to 10 scattered hits. It was his eleventh victory of the season against five defeats.

Ring and McGraw hurled for the Phillies and were touched for 10 hits. Score:

Y WINS FROM THERMOS IN CLOSE CONTEST

Leo Morin's double and Bill Burns' single in the first inning provided the only tally in the five-inning Industrial league game which the Y edged out over the Thermos Bottlers Wednesday evening at the Academy campus, 1 to 0. The Y, by this victory, remained in the running for the league title and their game with the United States Finishers, league-leaders, a week from Friday, the last game of the schedule, incidentally, looms as an important one.

Couture pitched nice ball for the Y last night, experiencing but one tight situation, that in the fourth when Dudek walked and Johnny Greene doubled, with one out, but an attempted squeeze play failed and the next batter then filed out.

Jim Mullins and Dan Driscoll pitched well for the Thermos with the two hits in the first inning the Y's only real threat, but that proved enough.

Tonight's Game

The United States Finishers, league leaders and favorites to cop the title for 1928, face the 1927 champions, the Richmonds, in tonight's Industrial league game at the Academy campus. This is the Ironmen's last game and by winning this evening they will still possess a mathematical chance of tying the leaders while also pulling the Greeneville lads down pretty close to the second-place Y. M. C. A.

It looks like Lloyd Jarvis against Lefty Dugas this evening and this should provide quite a mound duel. Both boys are primed for the tussle and it should be a battle royal.

GOV. SMITH'S SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 22—(AP)—In accepting the democratic nomination for president, Governor Alfred E. Smith spoke tonight as follows:

Upon the steps of this capitol where twenty-five years ago I first came into the service of the state, I receive my party's summons to lead it in the nation. Within this building, I learned the principles, the purposes and the functions of government and to know that the greatest privilege that can come to any man is to igve himself to a nation which has reared him and raised him from obscurity to be a contender for the highest office in the gift of its people.

Here I confirmed my faith in the principles of the democratic party so eloquently defined by Woodrow Wilson: "First, the people as the source and their interests and desires as the text of laws and institutions. Second, individual liberty as the objective of all law." With a gratitude too strong for words and with humble reliance upon the aid of Divine Providence, I accept your summons to the wider field of action.

Government should be constructive, not destructive; progressive, not reactionary. I am entirely unwilling to accept the old order of things as the best unless and until I become convinced that it cannot be made better.

It is our new world theory that government exists for the people as against the old world conception that the people exist for the government. A sharp line separates those who believe that an elect class should be the special object of the government's concern and those who believe that the government is the agent and servant of the people who create it. Dominant in the republican party today is the element which proclaims and executes the political theories against which the party liberals like Roosevelt and La Follette and their party insurgents have rebelled. This reactionary element seeks to vindicate the theory of benevolent oligarchy. It assumes that a material prosperity, the very existence of which is challenged, is an excuse for political inequality. It makes the concern of the government, not people, but material things.

Reaction vs. Progressivism.

I have fought this spirit in my own state. I have had to fight it and to beat it, in order to place upon the statute books every one of the progressive, humane laws for whose enactment I assumed responsibility in my legislative and executive career. I shall know how to fight it in the nation.

It is a fallacy that there is inconsistency between progressive measures protecting the rights of the people, including the poor and the weak, and a just regard for the rights of legitimate business, great or small. Therefore, while I emphasize my belief that legitimate business promotes the national welfare, let me warn the forces of corruption and favoritism, that democratic victory means that they will be relegated to the rear and the well front seats will be occupied by the friends of equal opportunity.

Likewise, government policy should spring from the deliberate action of an informed electorate. Of all men, I have reason to believe that the people can and do grasp the problems of the government. Against the opposition of the self-seeker and the partisan, again and again, I have seen legislation won by the pressure of popular demand, exerted after the people had had an honest, frank and complete explanation of the issues. Great questions of finance, the issuance of millions of dollars of bonds for public projects, the complete reconstruction of the machinery of the state government, the institution of an executive budget, these are but a few of the complicated questions which I, myself, have taken to the electorate. Every citizen has thus learned the nature of the business in hand and appreciated that the state's business is his business.

That direct contact with the people I propose to continue in this campaign and, if I am elected, in the conduct of the nation's affairs. I shall thereby strive to make the nation's policy the true reflection of the nation's ideals. Because I believe in the idealism of the party of Jefferson, Cleveland, and Wilson, my administration will be rooted in liberty under the law; liberty that means freedom to the individual to follow his own will so long as he does not harm his neighbor; the same high moral purpose in our conduct as a nation that actuates the conduct of the God-fearing man and woman; that equality of opportunity which lays the foundation for wholesome family life and opens up the outlook for the betterment of the lives of our children.

Party Responsibility.

In the rugged honesty of Grover Cleveland there originated one of our party's greatest principles: "Public office is a public trust." That principle now takes on new meaning. Political parties are the vehicle for carrying out the popular will. We place responsibility upon the party. The republican party today stands responsible for the widespread dishonesty that has honey-combed its administration.

During the last presidential campaign the republican managers were partially successful in leading the American people to believe that these sins should be charged against the individual rather than against the party. The question of personal guilt has now been thoroughly disposed of and in its place, challenging the wisdom and good judgment of the American people, is the unquestioned evidence of party guilt.

The democratic party asks the electorate to withdraw their confidence from the republican party and repose it with the democratic party pledged to continue those standards of unblemished integrity which characterized every act of the administration of Woodrow Wilson.

A Constructive Campaign.

But I would not rest our claim for the confidence of the American people alone upon the misdeeds of the opposite party. Ours must be a constructive campaign.

The republican party builds its case upon a myth. We are told that only under the benevolent administration of that party can the country enjoy prosperity. When four million men, desirous to work and support their families, are unable to secure employment there is very little in the picture of prosperity to attract them and the millions dependent upon them.

In the year 1926, the latest figures available show that 1-20th of 1% of the 430,000 corporations in this country earned 40% of their profits; 10% of the corporations actually lost money; 1-4 of 1% of these corporations earned two-thirds of the profits of all of them. Specific industries are wholly prostrate and there is widespread business difficulty and discontent among the individual business men of the country.

Prosperity to the extent that we have it is unduly concentrated and has not equitably touched the lives of the farmer, the wage-earner and the individual business man. The claim of governmental economy is as baseless as the claims that general business prosperity exists and that it can exist only under republican administration.

When the republican party came into power in 1921 it definitely promised reorganization of the machinery of government, and abolition or consolidation of unnecessary and overlapping agencies. A committee was appointed. A representative of the president acted as chairman. It prepared a plan of reorganization. The plan was filed in the archives. It still remains there. After seven years of republican control the structure of government is worse than it was in 1921. It is fully as bad as the system which existed in New York state before we secured by constitutional amendment the legislation which consolidated more than one hundred offices, commissions and boards into eighteen coordinated departments, each responsible to the governor. In contrast with this, the republican party in control at Washington when faced with the alternative of loss of patronage for the faithful or more efficient and economical management of the government permitted the older order to continue for the benefit of the patronage seekers.

Increased Federal Appropriations.

The appropriations for independent bureaus and offices not responsible to any cabinet officer increased from $3,400,000 in 1914 to $163,000,000 in 1921, and to $556,000,000 in 1928. No wonder that a cabinet officer of the republican president of 1921 said "if you could visualize the government as a business or administrative unit, you would see something like one of those grotesque spectacles of a big oyster shell to which in the course of years, big and irregular masses of barnacles have attached themselves without symmetry or relevancy." And the chamber of commerce of the United States said in its annual report this year: "No progress has been made on the plan of reorganization of the government's departments as advocated by the chamber." The administration spokesman answers only: "We have given an economical administration," and that has been repeated so often that some people begin to believe it without the slightest proof. I assert that there is no proof.

The appropriation bills signed by the president of the United States for the last year are just one-half a billion dollars more than they were for the first year of his administration. The appropriations for the executive department itself (the president and vice president) have increased more than 10 per cent under President Coolidge.

The figures for expenditure as distinguished from appropriations tell the same story. Aside from interest on the public debt which has been reduced by retirement of bonds or by refinancing at lower interest rate, the actual expenditures for governmental activities during the fiscal year ending in 1928 were just $346,000,000 more than President Coolidge's first year.

If the defenders of the administration answer that taxes have been reduced, they find themselves in a similar dilemma. The total taxes collected are $24,000,000 more than in the first year of the Coolidge administration. While tax rates have been reduced and some war-time taxes abandoned, the government actually took from the people in income taxes $383,000,000 more during the last fiscal year than during the first year of the Coolidge administration. And even these reductions in tax rates have been brought about primarily because the administration has committed the government to appropriations authorized but not made, amounting approximately to one billion dollars, which is an obligation that is being passed on to succeeding administrations. I wish to focus the public attention on these fundamental facts and figures when it is fed with picturesque trifles about petty economies, such as eliminating stripes from mail bags and extinguishing electric lights in the offices at night.

True vs False Economy.

With this has gone a governmental policy of refusal to make necessary expenditures for purposes which would have effected a real economy. The postmaster-general states that there was a large annual waste in the handling of mail, resulting from lack of modern facilities and equipment. Scarcely a large city in the country has adequate quarters for the transaction of federal business. The government pays rent in the city of Washington alone of more than one million dollars annually. It is estimated that the government is paying rentals of twenty million dollars in the nation. True economy would be effected by the erection of federal buildings, especially in the numerous instances where sites acquired many years ago have been left vacant because the administration did not desire to have these expenditures appear in the budget. It is not economy to refuse to spend money and to have our soldiers living in barracks which the chief of staff of the army recently stated were indecent and below the standard for the meanest type of housing permitted anywhere. And the wise, properly timed construction of needed public improvements would substantially tend to lessen the evils of unemployment.

If the people commission me to do it, I shall with the aid of the congress effect a real reorganization and consolidation of governmental activities upon a business basis and institute the real economy which comes from prudent expenditure. I shall aid programs for the relief of unemployment, recognizing its deep, human and social significance and shall strive to accomplish a national well-being resting upon the prosperity of the individual men and women who constitute the nation.

The Tariff.

Acting upon the principle of "Equal opportunity for all, special privileges for none," I shall ask congress to carry out the tariff declaration of our platform. To be sure the republican party will attempt in the campaign to misrepresent democratic attitude to the tariff. The democratic party does not and under my leadership will not advocate any sudden or drastic revolution in our economic system which would cause business upheaval and popular distress. This principle was recognized as far back as the passage of the Underwood tariff bill. Our platform restates it in unmistakable language. The democratic party stands squarely for the maintenance of legitimate business and a high standard of wages for American labor. Both can be maintained and at the same time the tariff can be taken out of the realm of politics and treated on a strictly business basis.

A leading republican writing in criticism of the present tariff law, said: "It stands as one of the most ill drawn pieces of legislation in recent political history. It is probably near the actual truth to say that taking for granted some principle of protection of American business and industry, the country has prospered due to post-war conditions abroad and in spite of, rather than on account of, the Fordney-McCumber tariff." What I have just quoted is no part of a campaign document. It was written a few months ago by Professor William Starr Myers of Princeton university, writing the history of his own party.

Against the practice of legislative log rolling, Woodrow Wilson pointed the way to a remedy. It provided for the creation and maintenance of a non-political, quasi-judicial, fact-finding commission which could investigate and advise the president and congress as to the tariff duties really required to protect American industry and safeguard the high standard of American wages. In an administration anxious to meet political obligations, the commission has ceased to function and it has been publicly stated by former members of it that the work of the commission has been turned over to the advocates of special interests. To bring this about, it is a matter of record that the president demanded the undated resignation of one of its members before he signed his appointment.

Restoration of Equitable Tariff.

I shall restore this commission to the high level upon which President Wilson placed it, in order that, properly manned, it may produce the facts that will enable us to ascertain how we may increase the purchasing power of everybody's income or wages by the adjustment of those schedules which are now the result of log-rolling and which upon their face are extortionate and unnecessary.

Pay no attention to the republican propaganda and accept my assurance as the leader of our party that democratic tariff legislation will be honest. It will play no favorites. It will do justice to every element in the nation.

To no declaration of our platform do I more heartily commit myself than the one for the abolition of the practice of the President of entering into agreements for the settlement of internal disputes in Latin America countries, unless the agreements have been consented to by the senate as provided for in the constitution of the United States. I personally declare what the platform declares: "Interference in the purely internal affairs of Latin American countries must cease" and I specifically pledge myself to follow this declaration with regard to Mexico as well as the other Latin American countries.

The Monroe Doctrine

The Monroe Doctrine must be maintained but not as a pretext for meddling with purely local concerns of countries which even though they be small are sovereign and entitled to demand and receive respect for their sovereignty. And I shall certainly do all that lies in my power to bring about the fullest concerted action between this country and all the Latin American countries with respect to any step which it may ever be necessary to take to discharge such responsibilities to civilization as may be placed upon us by the Monroe doctrine.

The evil effect of the administration's policy with respect to Latin America has extended to our relations with the rest of the world. I am not one of those who contend that everything republican is bad and everything democratic is good. I approve the effort to renew and extend the arbitration treaties negotiated under the administration of President Wilson. But the usefulness of those treaties as deterrents of war is materially impaired by the reservations asserted by various nations of the right to wage defensive wars as those reservations are interpreted in the light of President Coolidge's record. Defending his policies he announced on April 25, 1927, the doctrine that the person and property of a citizen are a part of the national domain, even when abroad. I do not think the American people would approve a doctrine which would give to Germany, or France, or England, or any other country, the right to regard a citizen of that country or the property of a citizen of that country situated within the borders of the United States a part of the national domain of the foreign country. Our unwarranted intervention in internal affairs in Latin America and this specious reason for it constitute the basis upon which other countries may seek to justify imperialistic policies which threaten world peace and materially lessen the effectiveness which might otherwise lie in multilateral treaties.

The real outlawry of war must come from a more substantial endeavor to remove the causes of war and in this endeavor the republican administration has signally failed. I am neither militarist nor jingo. I believe that the people of this country wish to live in peace and amity with the world. Freedom from entangling alliances is a fixed American policy. It does not mean, however, that great nations should not behave to one another with the same decent friendless and fair play that self-respecting men and women show to one another.

Limitation of Armaments

In 1921 there was negotiated a treaty for the limitation of the construction of battleships and battle cruisers of over ten thousand tons. It was approved without party dispute as a start of the process of removing from the backs of the tiling masses of the world the staggering burden of the hundreds of millions of dollars that are wrung from them every year for wasteful transformation into engines of destruction. For seven years the republican administration has followed it with nothing effective. No limitation of war under ten thousand tons displacement, poisonous gases or any of the other machinery devised by man for the destruction of human life. In this respect our diplomacy has been futile.

I believe the American people desire to assume their fair share of responsibility for the administration of a world of which they are a part, without political alliance with any foreign nation. I pledge myself to a resumption of a real endeavor to make the outlawry of war effective by removing its causes and to substitute the methods of conciliation, conference, arbitration and judicial determination.

The Eighteenth Amendment

The President of the United States has two constitutional duties with respect to prohibition. The first is embodied in his oath of office. If with one hand on the Bible and the other hand reaching up to heaven, I promise the people of this country that "I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States and to the best of my ability preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States," you may be sure that I shall live up to that oath to the last degree. I shall to the very limit execute the pledge of our platform "to make an honest endeavor to enforce the 18th amendment and all other provisions of the federal constitution and all laws enacted pursuant thereto."

The President does not make the laws. He does his best to execute them whether he likes them or not. The corruption in enforcement activities which caused a former republican prohibition administrator to state that three-fourths of the dry agents were political ward heelers named by politicians without regard to civil service laws and that prohibition is the "new political pork barrel." I will ruthlessly stamp out. Such conditions can not and will not exist under any administration presided over by me.

The second constitutional duty imposed upon the President is "To recommend to the congress such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient." Opinion upon prohibition cuts squarely across the two great political parties. There are thousands of so-called "wets and drys" in each. The platform of my party is silent upon any question of change in the law. I personally believe that there should be change and I shall advise the congress in accordance with my constitutional duty of whatever changes I deem "necessary or expedient." It will then be for the people and the representatives in the national and state legislatures to determine whether these changes shall be made.

I will state the reasons for my belief. In a book "Law and its Origin," recently called to my notice, James C. Carter, one of the leaders of the bar of this country, wrote of the conditions which exist "when a law is made declaring conduct widely practiced and widely regarded as innocent to be a crime." He points out that in the enforcement of such a law "trials become scenes of perjury and subordination of perjury; "juries find abundant excuses for rendering acquittal or persisting in disagreement contrary to their oaths" and he concludes "Perhaps worst of all is that general regard and reverence for law are impaired, a consequence the mischief of which can scarcely be estimated." These words written years Volstead act were prophetic of our situation today.

Modification of the Volstead Law.

In accordance with this democratic principle, some immediate relief would come from an amendment to the Volstead law giving a scientific definition of the alcoholic content of an intoxicating beverage. The present definition is admittedly inaccurate and unscientific. Each state would then be allowed to fix its own standard of alcoholic content, subject always to the proviso that that standard could not exceed the maximum fixed by the congress.

Amendment to Eighteenth Amendment.

I believe moreover that there should be submitted to the people the question of some change in the provisions of the 18th amendment. Certainly, no one foresaw when the amendment was ratified the conditions which exist today of bootlegging, corruption and open violation of the law in all parts of the country. The people themselves should after this eight years of trial, be permitted to say whether existing conditions should be rectified. I personally believe in an amendment in the 18th amendment which would give to each individual state itself only after approval by a referendum popular vote of its people the right wholly within its borders to import, manufacture or cause to be manufactured and sell alcoholic beverages, the sale to be made only by the state itself and not for consumption in any public place. We may well learn from the experience of other nations. Our Canadian neighbors have gone far in this manner to solve this problem by the method of sale made by the state itself and not by private individuals.

There is no question here of the return of the saloon. When I stated that the saloon "is and ought to be a defunct institution in this country" I meant it. I mean it today. I will never advocate nor approve any law which directly or indirectly permits the return of the saloon.

Such a change would preserve for the dry states the benefit of a national law that would continue to make interestate shipment of intoxicating beverages a crime. I would preserve for the dry states federal enforcement of prohibition within their own borders. It would permit to citizens of other states a carefully limited and controlled method of effectuating the popular will wholly within the borders of those states without the old evil of the saloon.

Such a method would re-establish respect for law and terminate the agitation which has injected discord into the ranks of the great political parties which should be standing for the accomplishment of fundamental programs for the nation. I may fairly say even to those who disagree with me that the solution I offer is one based upon the historic policy of the democratic party, to assure to each state its complete right of local self-government. I believe it is a solution which would today be offered by Jefferson, or Jackson or Cleveland or Wilson, if those great leaders were with us.

Agriculture.

Publicity agents of the republican administration have written so many articles on our general prosperity, that they have prevented the average man from having a proper appreciation of the degree of distress existing today among farmers and stockraisers. From 1910 to the present time the farm debt has increased by the striking sum of ten billions of dollars, or from four billion to fourteen billion dollars. The value of farm property between 1920 and 1925 decreased by twenty billions of dollars. This depression made itself felt in an enormous increase of bank failures in the agricultural districts. In 1927 there were 830 bank failures, with total liabilities of over 270 millions of dollars, almost entirely in the agricultural sections, as against 49, such failures during the last year of President Wilson's administration.

The report of November 17, 1927, of a special committee of the association of land grant colleges and universities states: "Incomes from farming since 1920 have been sufficient to pay a fair return on the current value of capital used and a fair wage for the farmer's labor, or to permit farm people to maintain a standard of living comparable with other groups of like ability." The Business Men's Commission on Agriculture said in November, 1927, "Since the war, the prices of farm products have persisted in an uneconomic and unfavorable adjustment to the general scale of prices of other goods and services;" and "the disparity between urban and farm incomes has emphasized the disparity in standards of living in the rural and urban populations." "The value of farm land and farm property decreased heavily in the post-war deflation" and "large numbers of farmers have lost all their property in this process."

We have not merely a problem of helping the farmer. While agriculture is one of the most individualized and independent of enterprises, still, as the report of the Business Men's commission points out, "Agriculture is essentially a public function, affected with a clear and unquestionable public interest." The country is an economic whole. If the buying power of agriculture is impaired, the farmer makes fewer trips to Main street. The shop owner suffers because he has lost a large part of his trade. The manufacturer who supplies him likewise suffers as does the wage earner, because the manufacturer is compelled to curtail his production. And the banker cannot collect his debts or safely extend further credit. This country cannot be a healthy, strong economic body if one of its members, so fundamentally important as agriculture, is sick almost to the point of economic death.

The normal market among the farmers of this country for the products of industry is ten billions of dollars. Our export market, according to latest available figures, is, exclusive of agricultural products, approximately one billion, six hundred millions of dollars. These large figures furnish striking indication of the serious blow to national prosperity as a whole which is struck when the buying power of the farmer is paralyzed.

Relief for Agriculture

When, therefore, I say that I am in accord with our platform declaration that the solution of this problem must be a prime and immediate concern of the democratic administration, I make no class appeal. I am stating a proposition as vital to the welfare of business as of agriculture.

With the exception of the administrations of Cleveland and Wilson, the government of this country has been in republican hands for half a century. For nearly eight years the president and congress have been republican. What has been done to solve this problem? Many promises were made which have ever been fulfilled. Certainly the promise of relief by tariff has not been fulfilled.

The tariff is ineffective on commodities of which there is exportable surplus. Our platform points the way to make the tariff effective for crops of which we produce a surplus. There has been government interference with laws of supply and demand to benefit industry, commerce and finance. It has been one-sided because business, industry and finance would have been helped more if proper attention had been given to the condition of agriculture. Nothing of substance has been done to bring this basic part of our national life into conformity with the economic system that has been set up by law. Government should interfere as little as possible with business. But if it does interfere with one phase of economic life, be it by tariff, by assistance to merchant marine, by control of the flow of money and capital through the banking system, it is bad logic, bad economics and an abandonment of government responsibility to say that, as to agriculture alone, the government should not aid.

Twice a republican congress has passed legislation only to have it vetoed by a president of their own party, and whether the veto of that specific measure was right or wrong, it is undisputed that no adequate substitute was ever recommended to the congress by the president, and that no constructive plan of relief was ever formulated by any leader of the republican party in place of the plan which its congress passed and its president vetoed. Only caustic criticism and bitter denunciation were provoked in the minds of the republican leaders in answer to the nation-wide appeal for a sane endeavor to meet this crisis.

Marketing, Warehousing and Surplus Control

Co operative, co-ordinated marketing and warehousing of surplus farm products is essential just as co-ordinated, co-operative control of the flow of capital, was found necessary to the regulation of our country's finances. To accomplish financial stability, the federal reserve system was called into being by a democratic administration. The question for agriculture is complex. Any plan devised must also be co-ordinated with the other phases of our business institutions. Our platform declares for the development of co-operative marketing and an earnest endeavor to solve the problem of the distribution of the cost of dealing with crop surpluses over the marketed unit of the crop whose producers are benefited by such assistance. Only the mechanics remain to be devised. I propose to substitute action for inaction and friendliness for hostility. In my administration of the government of my state, whenever I was confronted with a problem of this character, I called into conference those best equipped on the particular subject in hand. I shall follow that course with regard to agriculture. Farmers and farm leaders with such constructive aid as will come from sound economists and fair minded leaders of finance and business must work out the detail. There are varying plans for the attainment of the end which is to be accomplished. Such plans should be subjected at once to searching, able and fair minded analysis, because the interests of all require that the solution shall be economically sound.

If I am eleted, I shall immediately after election ask leaders of the type I have named irrespective of party to enter upon this task. I shall join with them in the discharge of their duties during the coming winter and present to congress immediately upon its convening, the solution recommended by the body of men best fitted to render this signal service to the nation. I shall support the activities of this body until a satisfactory law is placed upon the statute books.

Distribution, Railroads and Highways.

Adequate distribution is necessary to bring a proper return to production. Increased efficiency of railroad transportation and terminal handling means lowering of cost which in turn reflects itself in the form of increased purchasing power through reduction in the cost of every-day necessities of life.

Nor do railroads exhaust means of transportation. I believe in encouraging the construction and use of modern highways to carry the short haul of small bulk commodities and to aid in effective marketing of farm products.

Of great importance and still in a highly undeveloped state are our transportation routes by waterways. Commodities of great bulk, where the freight cost is a large part of the cost to the ultimate consumer, are among the least profitable to railroads to carry and lend themselves most readily to water transportation.

St. Lawrence Route vs. All-American Route.

Certain areas of our country are deeply interested in opening up a direct route from the middle west to the sea by way of the Great Lakes and adjacent waterways. Controversy has arisen over the relatives merits of the St. Lawrence route or the All-American route. As governor of New York, I have heretofore expressed a preference for the All-American route, basing my view on engineers' reports made to me. The correctness of these reports and also of those favoring the St. Lawrence route has been challenged. As president of the United States, therefore, it would be my clear duty to restudy this question impartially upon engineers' reports the accuracy of which must be above question. When the results of such a study are given to congress, I am entirely willing to abide by the decision of congress.

Flood Control.

With the development of inland waterways goes the control of floods thereon. The Mississippi flood of last year brought home to the nation the imperative need for a national policy of flood control. The last two administrations waited for this calamity and for universal demand that something be done instead of taking leadership in this important work. Forethought, courage, and leadership and knowledge of what real ultimate economy means would have done much to prevent this calamity with its ensuing waste and misery. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of first aid and relief. In the last congress the Reid-Jones bill laid down sound lines for the solution of this great problem. The policy thus initiated for the Mississippi must be carried through. The money actually appropriated for flood relief is too small to make even a start. Too much time has been spent in squabbling over who shall pay the bill.

The Mississippi river and its tributaries constitute a great network of waterways flowing through a large number of states. Much more than flood control is involved. Fullest development of the Mississippi river and its tributaries as arteries of commerce should be the goal.

Conservation of Natural Resources.

Wide possibilities for public good are latent in what remains of our natural resources. I pledge myself to a progressive liberal conservation policy based upon the same principles to which I have given my support in the state of New York, and to fight against selfish aggression in this field wherever it appears and irrespective of whom it may involve. No nation in history has been more careless about the conservation of natural resources than has ours. We have denuded our forests. We have been slow to reclaim lands for development and have allowed to run to waste or have given to private exploitation our public waters with their potential power for the development of electrical energy.

The value of this heritage can best be measured when we consider the recent disclosures of the methods employed by private monopolies to wrest our remaining water powers from public control.

Public Utility Propaganda.

No more dishonest or unpatriotic propaganda has ever been seen in this country than that disclosed by the investigation into the methods of certain utility corporations. Private corporations to gain control of public resources have procured the writing of textbooks for the public schools; have subsidized lecturers pretending to give to the country their own honest and unbiased advice; have employed as their agents former public officials and have endeavored to mislead public opinion by the retention of the services of leaders of the community in various parts of the country. Highly paid lobbyists, penetrated into every state and into the legislative halls of the nation itself.

As against propaganda, it is the duty of the democratic party to set up truth. The ownership of some of these great water powers is in the nation, of others in the several states. These sources of water power must remain forever under public ownership and control. Where they are owned by the federal government, they should remain under federal control. Where they are owned by an individual state, they should be under the control of that state, or where they are owned by states jointly, they should be under the control of those states.

Control of Rates.

Wherever the development, the government agency, state or federal as the case may be, must retain through contractual agreement with the distributing companies the right to provide fair and reasonable rates to the ultimate consumer and the similar right to insist upon fair and equal distribution of the power. This can be secured only by the absolute retention by the people of the ownership of the power by owning and controlling the site and plant at the place of generation. The government—federal, state or the authority representing joint states—must control the switch that turns on or off the power so greedily sought by certain private groups without the least regard for the public good.

I shall carry into federal administration the same policy which I have maintained against heavy odds in my own state. Under no circumstances should private monopoly be permitted to capitalize for rate-making purposes water power sites that are the property of the people themselves. It is to me unthinkable that the government of the United States or any state thereof will permit either direct or indirect alienation of water power sites.

Colorado River.

Electrical energy generated from water power as an incident to the regulation of the flow of the Colorado river is the common heritage of all the states through which the river flows. The benefits growing from such development should be equitably distributed among the states having right of ownership. The duty of the federal government is confined to navigation. I am of the opinion that the best results would flow from the setting up of a Colorado River Authority, representative equally of all the states concerned. The development should be made by the states through the agency of this authority by treaty ratified by congress.

Muscle Shoals.

It will be the policy of my administration while retaining government ownership and control, to develop a method of operation for Muscle Shoals which will reclaim for the government some fair revenue from the enormous expenditure already made for its development and which is now a complete waste. In this way the original peace-time purpose of the construction of this plant will be achieved. The nation will be reimbursed, agriculture will be benefited by the cheap production of nitrates for fertilizer and the surplus power will be distributed to the people.

The remaining public natural resources now under control of the federal government must be administered in the interests of all of the people.

Likewise a complete survey and study of the remaining undeveloped public resources of land, coal, oil and other minerals is greatly needed and should be undertaken.

The United States because its people use more wood than any other on earth is therefore more dependent on the forest than any other great nation. At the same time we are the most wasteful of all people in the destruction of our forest resources.

The use of our national forest for recreation should be greatly extended. I also pledge myself to give the same continuing interest and support to a national forest park, reforestation and recreation program as have brought about the establishment of a great conservation and state park system in the state of New York.

It was Grover Cleveland who first made our national forest and conservation policy into a great public question. Theodore Roosevelt followed in his footsteps. What these two began must be continued and carried forward.

Labor.

The American people constitute a structure of many component parts. One of its foundations is labor. The reasonable contentment of those who toil with the conditions under which they live and work is an essential basis of the nation's well-being. The welfare of our country therefore demands governmental concern for the legitimate interest of labor.

The democratic party has always recognized this fact and under the administration of Woodrow Wilson, a large body of progressive legislation for the protection of those laboring in industry, was enacted. Our platform continues that tradition of the party. We declare for the principle of collective bargaining which alone can put the laborer upon a basis of fair equality with the employer; for the human principle that labor is not a commodity; for fair treatment to government and federal employes; and for specific and immediate attention to the serious problems of unemployment.

From these premises it was inevitable that our platform should further recognize grave abuses in the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes which threaten the very principle of collective bargaining. Chief Justice Taft in 1919 stated that government of the relations between capital and labor by injunction was an absurdity. Justice Holmes and Justice Brandeis of the U. S. supreme court unite in an opinion which describes the restraints on labor imposed by a federal injunction as a reminder of involuntary servitude.

Dissatisfaction and social unrest have grown from these abuses and undoubtedly legislation must be framed to meet just causes for complaint in regard to the unwarranted issuance of injunctions.

The judiciary committee of the United States senate has already in progress a careful study of this situation. I promise full cooperation to the end that a definite remedy by law be brought forth to end the existing evils and preserve the constitutional guarantees of individual liberty, free assemblage and speech and the rights of peaceful persuasion.

Protective Legislation.

I shall continue my sympathetic interest in the advancement of progressive legislation for the protection and advancement of working men and women. Promotion of proper care of maternity, infancy and childhood and the encouragement of those scientific activities of the na-

HIGH LIGHTS IN GOV. SMITH'S ADDRESS

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

WESTERLY

BOAT AND PLANES SEARCH FOR BODIES OF LOST STUDENTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESETERLY, R. I. Aug. 22—Returning from a short stay in Princeton, N. J., and registering again Wednesday afternoon at the Ocean House, Watch Hill, were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Scales, of Louisville, Ky., parents of Joseph H. Scales, Jr., Princeton, '31, one of the four college men drowned Sunday night, Aug. 12th., when their sailboat capsized in Fishers Island sound, on its return from the island to Watch Hill. The parents plan to stay at Watch Hill through next Sunday. They were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. R. H. Mereke and her husband and their son, Edward Scales, all of Louisville.

Wednesday afternoon the Scales party left the Watch Hill Yacht club dock on the Sloan cruiser Possum. Included in the party to cruise about in the bay and sound were members of the family of John H. McIlvain, another one of the college boys who lost his life in the upsetting of the boat. Saturday, next, it is expected that Arthur M. Cottrell, father of John Trowbridge Cottrell, another of the drowned boys residing in Westerly, will return, he having sailed the past week from France.

Tuesday afternoon a plane of the Ludington Flying Service, Philadelphia, arrived at Watch Hill, to assist in the search for the bodies of the four young men. These planes, Fairchild monoplanes, are brought here through the efforts of the families of John H. McIlvain and Lloyd Bankson, two of the men drowned, whose homes were in Philadelphia. While the planes are here they will be under the supervision of Robert P. Hewitt, general field manager of the flying service. Mr. Hewitt piloted the plane which arrived at Saunders' field at Pleasant View, late yesterday afternoon. Vice President Saltese, of the flying service, arrived here yesterday by train and got in touch with members of the family of John H. McIlvain. This morning at about 7:45, Pilot Hewitt, accompanied by Robert Downs, son-in-law of Charles J. McIlvain, Jr., and brother-in-law of one of the missing boys, left Pleasant View and made a trip along the east coast of Rhode Island, then circled back and forth between Block Island and the main land for more than an hour.

The plane returned to the Pleasant View flying field at about 10 o'clock and left soon after for Long Island where it will be equipped with pontoons to enable the plane to light in the sea if necessary.

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 22—Charged with a violent assault upon Max Raithel, a constable of Westerly and garage proprietor, Robert Skantze, 27, of New York, an employe of Barber's garage on Bay street, Watch Hill, was before Judge Oliver H. Williams in a special session of third district court Wednesday night. He entered a plea of not guilty and his case was continued. Raithel was beaten up and it was reported that his $140 watch was taken in the Barber garage ruoin by McFarland, about 3 a. m., Wednesday, according to his statement to the police. He suffered a fracture of the jaw and possibly of the skull. He was taken to Westerly hospital by Dr. H. L. Johnson, who attended him for an X-ray of his head. Later he returned to Watch Hill. The fracas was learned of by Motorcycle Officer Robert Kessell about 2:30 a. m., Wednesday when he found Raithel staggering along Bay street. He took Raithel to the Westerly police station where he was attended by Dr. Johnson. Raithel told Chief Thomas E. Brown that he had been in McFarland's garage with a group of men following the annual ball of the Watch Hill chauffeurs at Atlantic Casino last night. Raithel denied having any argument and said he was talking with Skantze when suddenly something struck him on the head and knocked him down. Raithel named Skantze as his assailant. Skantze was taken into custody by Lieut. George H. Champlin and is being held for investigation. This forenoon he denied all knowledge of any trouble or that he had struck Raithel. The formal denial of the alleged assault in a dictated statement was taken by the police at the Westerly station Wednesday morning and in the afternoon they were engaged in rounding up other members of the party, all of whom are temporarily employed at the Hill during the summer season.

STONINGTON

STEVE CASWELL'S CASE CONTINUED TO SEPT. 15

In the Stonington town court Tuesday morning, before Judge William A. Wilcox, nine cases were disposed of. Steve Caswell, of Old Mystic, was charged with conducting a gambling place. On complaint of numerous people, his home was raided Sunday morning, Aug. 19, when the officers found a game under way and secured a quantity of money and cards. Caswell's case was continued to Sept. 15, and he was released on bonds of $50. George Smith, James Smith, Joseph Tuteino, Charles Williams, and Alfred Sisson, all of whom were playing, were arraigned on a charge of frequenting a gambling house. Each pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs of $9.95. All paid. The names given by the above were all fictitious.

He was arrested Aug 17, by Patrolman Ostman, on information sent from New London, that his license had been revoked by the motor vehicle commissioner, for violation of the automobile laws. He pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs of $12.65. He paid.

Antone Sylvia, 23, of Stonington, charged with speeding, pleaded not guilty. The defendant had as witnesses William Rosen and Leon Sprague also took the stand himself in an effort to refute the testimony given by the patrolman. Judge Wilcox found the accused guilty and fined him $10 and cost. On advice of counsel he took an appeal to the next session of the criminal court of common pleas of New London county, in September. It took two hours to try this case.

Gov. Smith's Speech of Acceptance

tional government which advance the safeguards of public health, are so fundamental as to need no expression from me other than my record as legislator and as governor.

Equality of Opportunity.

None can question my respect for and cooperation with the civil service nor my interest in proper compensation for government service. I believe in that true equality of women that opens to them without restriction all avenues of opportunity for which they can qualify in business, in government service and in politics.

Temperance vs. Disregard for the Law

I believe in temperance. We have not achieved temperance under the present system. The mothers and fathers of young men and women thhoughout this land know the anxiety and worry which has been brought to them by their children's use of liquor in a way which was unknown before prohibition. I believe in reverence for law. Today disregard of the prohibition laws is insidiously sapping respect for all law. I raise, therefore, what I profoundly believe to be a great moral issue involving the righteousness of our national conduct and the protection of our children's morals.

The remedy, as I have stated, is the fearless application of Jeffersonian priciples. Jefferson and his followers foresaw the complex activities of this great, widespread country. They knew that in rural, sparsely settled districts people would develop different desires and customs from those in densely populated sections and that if we were to be a nation united on truly national matters, there had to be a differentiation in local laws to allow for different local habits. It was for this reason that the democratic platform in 1884 announced "We oppose sumptuary laws which vex the citizens and interfere with individual liberty," and it was for this reason that Woodrow Wilson vetoed the Volstead act.

Foreign Policy

The constitution provides that treaties with foreign powers must be ratified by a vote of two-thirds of the senate. This is a legal recognition of the truth that in our foreign relations we must rise above party politics and act as a united nation. Any foreign policy must have its roots deep in the approval of a very large majority of our people. Therefore, no greater service was ever rendered by any president tha by Woodrow Wilson when he struck at the methods of secret diplomacy. Today we have close relations, vital to our commercial and world standing, with every other nation. I regard it, therefore, as a paramount duty to keep alive the interest of our people in these questions, and to advise the electorate as to facts and policies.

Through a long line of distinguished secretaries of state, republican and democratic alike, this country had assumed a position of world leadership in the endeavor to outlaw war and substitute reason for force. At the end of President Wilson's administration we enjoyed not only the friendship but the respectful admiration of the peoples of the world. Today we see unmistakable evidences of a widespread distrust of us and unfriendliness to us, particularly among our Latin American neighbors.

Our Latin American Policy

I especially stress the necessity for the restoration of cordial relations with Latin America and I take my text from a great republican secretary of state, Elihu Root, who said: "We consider that the independence and equal rights of the smallest and weakest member of the family of nations deserve as much respect as those of the great empires. We pretend to no right, privilege or power that we do not freely concede to each one of the American republics."

The present administration has been false to that declaration of one of its greatest party leaders. The situation in Nicaragua fairly exemplifies our departure from this high standard. The administration has intervened in an election dispute between two conflicting factions, sent our troops into Nicaragua, maintained them there for years, and this without the consent of congress. To settle this internal dispute, our marines have died and hundreds of Nicaraguans in turn have been killed by our marines. Without consultation with congress, the administration entered on this long continued occupation of the territory of a supposedly friendly nation by our armed troops.

Veteran Relief.

I have a full appreciation of what this country owes to our veteran soldiers. I know that when the country called, the veteran came promptly. When the veteran in distress calls to the country, the country should be equally prompt. Red tape and technicalities and autocratic bureaucracy should be brushed aside when the time comes for a grateful American people to recognize its debt to the men who offered themselves in our hour of need.

Immigration.

During all of our national life the freedom of entry to the country has been extended to the millions who desired to take advantage of the freedom and the opportunities offered by America. The rugged qualities of our immigrants have helped to develop our country, and their children have taken their places high in the annals of American history.

Every race has made its contribution to the betterment of America. While I stand squarely on our platform declaration that the laws which limit immigration must be preserved in full force and effect, I am heartily in favor of removing from the immigration law the harsh provision which separates families, and I am opposed to the principle of restriction based upon the figures of immigrant population contained in a census thirty-eight years old. I believe this is designed to discriminate against certain nationalities, and is an unwise policy. It is in no way essential to a continuance of the restriction advocated in our platform.

Freedom from Political Obligations.

While this is a government of laws and not of men, laws do not execute themselves. We must have people of character and outstanding ability to serve the nation. To me one of the greatest elements of satisfaction in my nomination is the fact that I owe it to no one man or set of men. I can with complete honesty make the statement that my nomination was brought about by no promise given or implied by me or any one in my behalf. I will not be influenced in appointments by the question of a person's wet or dry attitude, by whether he is rich or poor, whether he comes from the north, south, east or west, or by what church he attends in the worship of God. The sole standard of my appointments will be the same as they have been in my governorship—integrity of the man or woman and his or her ability to give me the greatest possible aid in devoted service to the people.

In this spirit I enter upon the campaign. During its progress I shall talk at length on many of the issues to which I have referred in this acceptance address, as well as other important questions. I shall endeavor to conduct this campaign on the high plane that befits the intelligence of our citizens.

Victory, simply for the sake of achieving it, is empty. I am entirely satisfied of our success in November because I am sure we are right and therefore sure that our victory means progress for our nation. I am convinced of the wisdom of our platform. I pledge a complete devotion to the welfare of our country and our people. I place that welfare above every other consideration and I am satisfied that our party is in a position to promote it. To that end I here and now declare to my fellow countrymen from one end of the United States to the other, that I will dedicate myself with all the power and energy that I possess to the service of our great Republic.

JEWETT CITY

FEATURES OF PARADE PRECEDING BIG BALL GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 22—The last and greatest of old-fashioned parades for the single and married men's baseball game was the reason for unbounded amusement about six o'clock Wednesday evening. It would be impossible to describe the costumes for they were indescribeable. Grand Marshal Promoter Ed Blake led the procession and his top hat was frequently doffed to the admiring gallery. Voluntown band played most acceptably as they followed the leader. The constabulary force, Henry Veglard, Thomas Morancey, Hector Sibeland and Mose Loranger, led a really fine part of the procession. This was the fire company's exhibit, covering thirty years of service. First came the first piece of apparatus, the jumper of 1998. Placards called attention to the fact that John Barnett (Soule St.) was the first fire chief, and that this was the 1898 fire truck. The jumper was drawn by Thomas Wakely, Jr., James Walsh, William Cadieux, John Gaska and Robert Baker. There followed the chemical of 1908 on which rode a former foreman, Thomas Wakely, with Leslie Hyde as driver. The brand-new shining, up-to-date triple combination engine of 1928 showed the progress in fire equipment made by the borough. Fire Chief Lionel Boucher rode beside Theodore Boulev, the driver. He carried, as an old time trophy, as officer's trumpet, presented by Atwood Hose Co., of Wauregan, to A. A. Young, Jr., Hose and Ladder Co. No. 1. Unfortunately no date is inscribed upon the trumpet.

An old-fashioned carry-all conveyed the married men's star player, Rev. G. F. Goodenough, and Chester Dudkowski, with Chester Stafford, two of the promoters of the series. One of the most fantastic features, both as to dress and music, was the old-time band which trudged along manfully trying to get a few notes out of the time-worn instruments. Mayor Edmond Jodoin, in a striking clown's get-up, essayed to play the cornet. Sol Paquette evidently hadn't greased up his crane decorated slide trombone, although he had used plenty of hair oil to raise a goatee in short order. Fatima Hiscox's necktie set off his swallow tail coat, khaki "pants," blue shirt, and stove pipe hat. The long suffering bass drum which he pounded was carried by Haberdasher LeClaire, attired in an ensemble of ancient date. Fire Marshal George H. Prior really did play the snare drum "like he used ter". Their attempt was Boston Commandery March. Some of the band said they hadn't any "lip," which knowing their natural proclivities, was a travesty! An old-fashioned racing rig furnished a precarious seat for Bib LeClaire, in solemn habiliments, and having a green patch over one eye. His fiery racer announced their approach with an old-fashioned string of sleigh bells. This was an old-time parade in another feature. A pre-historic, pre-prohibition pre-18th amendment oxcart, driven by Frank Whitford, carried a fully equipped bar, over which presided the umpire, George Andrew Tormey. Bill Marshall and Pucky Rioux, Albert Strakla, in weird costume, discoursed sweet strains from an accordion, while Bennie Kolbus woefully beat a drum. Henry Ouillette, in a fetching hat and duster, Terry McGovern, one of the hard working promoters and John Toper had their hands full leading unruly goats which preceded the determined contestants. A long line of automobiles closed the procession. Compliments were paid the young men William McGovern, Edward Blake, Chester Stafford and Chester Dudkowski, who have bent every effort to give the town a real, old-fashioned, home get-together.

Prentice Chase's story of the game will be found on the sporting page.

Wonderful for Piles

Suffered for Years; Says There's Only One Remedy

John O'Leary, Buffalo, for 14 years Supervisor of the Second Ward, wants to pass the good word along.

"Take it from me," says Mr. O'Leary "when you suffer torment with piles for many years as I did, and tried all kinds of remedies without any success, you'll be glad to say a good word for the only remedy that is any good."

"Peterson's Ointment rid me of piles so quickly that I was astonished. I felt somewhat peeved, however, to think that I had suffered so many years before knowing what a wonderful remedy Peterson's Ointment is. Let me thank you from the bottom of my heart."—John O'Leary.

Any live druggist will tell you about Peterson's Ointment—a big box for 35 cents. Use it for old sores, ulcers, itching eczema, rashes, burns, bruises, chafing and all skin diseases—there is nothing better.

NOANK

LONG POINT SPORT-DAY, WITH LIVELY CONTESTS

Groton Long Point had its biggest event of the year at the week-end—Tag and Sport day. Nearly all the cottages on the board walk were dolled up with flags. Long before the morning races the crowd came in automobiles or on foot. About 25 girls of the Point were around the post office and the board walk selling tags. Over 300 persons were on the board walk where at times there was no room for the house cat. Officer George Incent directed traffic. At 10 o'clock, with the judges on the raft, the 50-yard swim for girls got under way. Rhea Despathy won first, the second was Grace Collins and third Jane Lathrop. Fifty-yard swim for girls under 12, Anna Shattack, first; second, Anne MacArthur; third, Isabel Burnham. Fifty-yard swim for boys under 14 Cliff Morcrum, first; second, Henry Baggs; Dick Dempsy, third. A heavy rain storm came on and the people rushed for shelter, but the races kept right on. Fancy diving for girls, Rhea Despathy, first; second, Kay Foote; third, Jane MacArthur. One-hundred yard swim for boys, James Ringland, first; Kenneth Downes, second; William Buckley, third. Under-water swim for girls, Jane MacArthur; second, Kay Foote; third, Sylvia Knolton. Under-water swim for boys, Kenneth Downes, first; James Ringland, second; Henry Gardner, third. The watermelon contest for boys was real sport and the crowd got a kick out of the way the watermelon was bobbing around in the water and Bud Simons knew the trick and beat out John Collins and John Bendy. Watermelon race for girls, Jane MacArthur, first; May Griswold, second; third, Beatrice Dodd. Mixed relay, winners, Rhea Despathy and Kenneth Downes; second, Kay Foote and Frank Allen; third, Jane Lathrop and Bud Simon. The two-oared race for girls proved that Doris Peterson could pull a strong oar and she won by a close shave; second, Grace Avery; third, Kay Foote. Two-oared race for boys, Kenneth Downes, a heavyweight boy from Hartford, won, with Bud Simon second and Blondy James Ringland and Happy Henry Vignot tied for third place. Four-oared race for girls, Jane Lathrop and Adel Shaw, first; a close second were Doris Peterson and Grace Avery; third, Jane Simon and Mrs. DeBrum. The out-board motor race proved real fun. Boat "Spirit of St. Louis" handled by Capt. Frank Allen from the west beat out Henry Gardener and J. H. Houston. Captain Gardner forgot his captain's cap and claims that was why he lost.

Four oared race for boys, Bud Simon and Bus Southworth; second, Gerry Turing and Buster Rood; third, Kelsey Dodd and Russell Vining. Two-oared race for boys, won by Robert Myers; Bernard Southworth, second; Kelsey Dodd, third. Novelty race, mixed, Jane Lathrop and Bud Simon; second, Grace Avery and Henry Vignot; third, Mary Renton and John Collins. Canoe race for boys, Buster Rood and Gerry Turing; John Collins and Henry Vignot, second; Frank Allen and Kenneth Downes, third. Canoe race for girls, Kay Foote and Kay Struble, first; Adel Shaw and Jane Lathrop, second; Jane MacArthur and Janet Simon, third.

At the Casino in the evening the prizes were given out by the committee, Kenneth Downes of Hartford, with 29 points, winning a large silver cup and receiving much applause from the crowd. Miss Kay Foote of Baltimore had 15 points, so won the girls' silver cup. The cups were donated by the Groton Long Point club and given to the winners by President C. C. Costello.

HAD TO LASSO TURTLE—PULLED MATE OVERBOARD

Boat Florence with Capt. E. Francke and Mate Keith Ebbetts were out in the Race Tuesday, hauling lobster pots and found the lobsters good. Some in every pot were hauled on deck. Soon Mate Ebbetts saw a sea turtle swimming along that weighed 120 pounds. Captain Franke wanted to break out the scoop net. But it was not heavy enough, so Mate Ebbetts, an old-time cowboy, said, "I'll take a rope and try to put it around his neck!" Throwing the lasso like Billie Hart, he got the turtle around the neck and started to haul him into the boat. But the turtle was strong and pulled Mate Ebbetts into the water, still holding on, till Captain Francke fished him out. They got the big turtle on deck safe. It is the first time in several years that a sea turtle was caught out in the Race.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

When Papa Was a Little Boy.

When papa was a little boy,
You really couldn't find
In all the state of Washington
A child so quick to mind,
His mother never called but once
And he was always there;
He never made the baby cry,
Or pulled his sister's hair.

He never slid down banisters,
Or made the slightest noise;
And never in his life was known
To fight with other boys.
He always studied hard at school
And got his lessons right;
And chopping wood and milking cows
Were papa's chief delight.

He always rose at 6 o'clock,
And went to bed at 8,
And never lay abed till noon
And never sat up late.
He finished Latin, French and Greek
When he was ten years old,
And knew the Spanish alphabet
As soon as he was told.

He never grumbled when he had
To do the evening chores,
And ne'er in all his life forgot
To shut the stable doors.
He never, never thought of play
Until his work was done.
He labored hard from break of day
Until the set of sun.

He never scraped his muddy shoes
Upon the parlor floor,
And never answered back his ma,
And never banged the door.
"But truly I could never see,"
Said little Dick Malloy,
"How he could never do these things,
And really be a boy."

Grizzly.

Coward—of heroic size,
In whose lazy muscles lies
Strength we fear and yet despise;
Savage—whose relentless tusks
Are content with acorn husks;
Robber—whose exploits never soared
O'er the bee's or squirrel's hoard;
Whiskered chin, and feeble nose,
Claws of steel on baby toes—
Here, in solitude plantigrade,
Be thy course undisturbed!

Here, where Nature makes thy bed,
Let thy rude, half-human tread
Point to hidden Indian springs,
Lost in ferns and fragrant grasses,
Hovered o'er by timid wings,
Where the woodchuck lightly passes,
Where the wild bee holds her sweets,
Epicurean retreats,
Fit for thee, and better than
Fearful spoils of dangerous man.
In thy fat-hoarded larder
Friar Tuck shall live in thee;
Thou mayst levy tithe and dole;
Thou shalt spread the woodland cheer,
From the pilgrim taking toll;
Match thy cunning wit his fear;
Eat, and drink, and have thy fill;
Yet remain an outlaw still!

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

Poverty and ignorance are two forces working together for the downfall of the world. An editorial writer of repute explained that poverty leads to ignorance and vice versa. If the world could be rid of poverty, which is not likely for some years to come, there would be no ignorant people. As the poverty stricken people decrease, so does the ignorant class become less in the same degree. This is an item to which much thought has been given by educated persons of this country.

Now the members of the Wide-Awake circle can be of assistance in lessening this degree of poverty and ignorance. Stop and think for a moment how many illiterate people there were in this country when it was discovered. There were a great many, far more than there are now. What is the answer? Schools. Now you members who can attend grammar school for the eight or nine grades as the case may be, should be urged to do so. If possible a course in high school or a year or two will prepare you and you will never regret the time or money spent in your later life.

Children who are about to finish grammar school have a feeling that their next step is to go to work and earn a little money, so that they may go out of an evening and enjoy themselves. They look no farther ahead than their nose. In later life when they are struggling along on a mere pittance they look back to the time of their school days, and say: If I were only advised differently or knew how how much an education counted in this life, I would not have gone to work, but would have continued my study.

Some boys and girls are compelled to leave school and go to work to help their parents to gain a living. In this case it brings you back to the point of ignorance and poverty. This boy or girl of necessity left school, but there are thousands who are given the opportunity to attend high school and college, and cast aside this chance to be with the boys or girls at the mill or any other place of occupation. A column or two can be written upon this subject but we will stop here and ask the Wide-Awakes to think it over and plan for their education now.

STORIES WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

Touring Through Canada

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you and the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story. On father's vacation we went for a trip through Canada. The day that we started out it was exceedingly warm, but the moment we came near the mountains we found it cooler. We passed through the White mountains, Green mountains, Berkshires and the Adirondacks. We were on mountains as high as 500 to 1500 feet. We visited Montreal which was quite cold. After staying at Montreal for a couple of days we went to Toronto. I did not think Toronto was as nice as Montreal. Montreal has a population of 1,000,000. Toronto has a population of about 250,000.

From Toronto we started for home. I wish that when any of the Wide Awakes get a chance they will be able to make this trip. It is a wonderful trip to make.

An Interesting Story

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and I hope you will enjoy my story. I have been reading a book entitled "Lady Green Satin and Her Maid Rosette." It is about two little mice and a little boy called Jean Paul who finds these mice and trains them. His mother makes a green satin dress for one and a calico red dress for the other. That is why they call the book "Lady Green Satin and Her Maid Rosette." Jean Paul makes his money by showing his mice. I wish you could read it. It is so interesting.

Picnic at The Beach.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I ever wrote to you and I thought I'd write about my trip to Green Rivers. We started early in the morning and arrived there about 10.30. After we had been there a little while we went in swimming and while we were in the water three aeroplanes went over the place. They were so low we could see a boat attached to them. At 12.30 we are our dinner. We had a regular picnic and after dinner we went on the dock. We got a few quahaugs and started for home. We arrived home quite early after having a splendid time.

A Trip to Wildwood Park.

Dear Uncle Jed and the Wide-Awakes: I though I would write and tell you about my trip. My cousin and I went to Wildwood park for the day. We brought our lunch. We started about 10.15 and arrived at noon. I had some money so I bought ice cream, cracker jack and candy. I took in all the amusements after I ate my lunch, first in one thing then in another. I enjoyed the afternoon very much. You can't go in bathing as the water is piped and people have to drink it. The lake is very large and there are many cottages there. Mr. Sheridan runs the place. That is about all I can tell you about the place. Hope the Wide Awakes will enjoy reading my story.

Camping.

Dear Uncle Jed: As everyone knows, camping is one of the most exciting outdoor sports in the summer. Friday night, Aug. 10, we went camping. We went to Giant's Neck, just out of Niantic. We stayed there all week-end. The weather was not so good Friday and Saturday, but Sunday was a glorious day for swimming.

When you wake up in the morning with the sea breeze blowing on you it feels great. It's great fun to hunt for wood and make your own fire like in colonial times. Everything tastes so different and good there. We had a wonderful time.

PHYLLIS AIREY.

The National Flag.

Dear Uncle Jed: I received your book for which I wish to thank you very much. I hope you will enjoy reading my story.

When a thoughtful mind sees a nation's flag it sees not the flag but the nation itself. When the French flag rolls out to the breeze we see France. When the Italian flag is unfurled we see Italy.

The united crosses of St. Andrew and St. George on a fiery ground set forth the banner of old England. The American flag has been the symbol of liberty and men have rejoiced over it. No other flag on the globe has such an errand or went forth upon the sea carrying everything. On the Fourth of July, 1776, the Declaration was confirmed. More than one year we were at war with the mother country.

If anyone asks me what the flag of this country means I would say to him. Everything that Concord and Lexington meant, all that Bunker Hill meant, and what the glorious Revolutionary war meant. This great flag carries American ideals, American history and American feelings.

Has Birthday Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: It has been quite a little while since I have written to you and the Wide Awake circle, so I am going to tell you about my twelfth birthday party.

Last Saturday evening I was surprised by a birthday party. I had 19 friends to my party. There were 10 girls and nine boys. The room was decorated in orange and white. I received many beautiful presents. Among my presents was a $5 gold piece from my mother. We played many interesting games. We had the peanut hunt and the donkey party. About 9.30 lunch was served and about 10 the children left.

A Chase.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you and the Wide Awakes about A Chase. One day some boys and girls, including myself, set off for the woods. We picked flowers for a while. Then we sat down to eat our lunch. After lunch we arranged our flowers in bouquets and tied them with string. After a while we walked toward home slowly. We turned and saw a bull coming toward us. We ran up a rock very quickly. The bull tried to get up the rock, too. After a while he got tired and went away. Then we went home very tired and frightened.

Why We Learn.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing a story to the Wide Awake circle on the topic, "Why We Learn."

In the olden days people did not know what it was to learn things. They maybe learned to be kind and good, but that was all. Every year the people learned a little more, and finally we had schools to go and learn. We learn to be honest, brave and to be good. And we also learn lessons, such as arithmetic, geography, spelling, history, penmanship, drawing, language, nature and civics. We need to use these things almost every day in our life. If for instance we didn't have arithmetic, we wouldn't know a dollar from a cent. Thus every child should have interest to learn everything they can and grow up to be an educated child.

Fond Recollections.

Dead Uncle Jed: I shall never forget the first doll I ever had. It was a rag doll, but I though it was beautiful. I have never liked another doll as her.

The Brave Boy Scout.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I hope the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story. Once there was a boy named James who was a Boy Scout. He was walking down the street when he saw a flame through a window. He asked the man at the next house for a ladder, and the Scout hastily brought out two children who were asleep upstairs. The children's father was so pleased he gave the boy a medal for his brave act.

ESTHER SHAPIRO. Age 9.

Niagara Falls.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have just come back from a trip to Niagara Falls. While there we went down in the falls. We were 175 feet under ground. We went on a little bridge that took us around the falls. We passed the Rock of Ages, Sensation Point, Rainbow Bridge and then we came to Hurricane Point, the severest place to pass, because the mist is so great it takes away your breath. It was a very exciting experience.

MYSTIC

ART EXHIBITION CLOSES AFTER SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Mystic Artists' exhibition, which opened Aug. 1 in Broadway school, and has been open every week day since, closed Wednesday afternoon. The Mohican Hotel orchestra furnished music on the last day. Those attending and taking tea were from all the near-by summer resorts and the school grounds and streets were filled with parked cars. In the main gallery 45 large paintings were hung and in the class-room below, 63 of the smaller paintings were shown and it was from these that several sales were made. The attendance and interest have increased each year. The organization has Charles H. Davis, N. A., for honorary president and Dr. G. B. S. Leonard for honorary vice-president. They have four honorary members, seven donors, 20 sustaining members and 51 contributors. Among these quite a number of the residents of the summer resorts are interested and are assisting the association. One member, Ernest H. Barnes, who has been here every year, is absent this year for the first time, but three of his large paintings were exhibited, one being of the old Fish homestead on East Main street, now owned by Miss Eleanor Fish. Among the paintings were scenes from Old Mystic, Mystic, Noank and Quiambaug and other places in the vicinity.

Kennedy solemnized the marriage. Miss Louise Roberts of Stonington was bridesmaid and Joseph Hreschak of Bridgeport was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Hreschak will reside in a newly furnished apartment at 19 Pearl street.

SUMMER

FOR quick relief from those annoying colds in the head that linger so in summer, melt some Vicks VapoRub in a bowl of hot water and inhale the vapors. Also place some Vicks in the nostrils and snuff well up the nose. It quickly soothes the inflamed membrane, and clears the head—without "dosing."

FRIGIDAIRE

YOU DON'T HEAR IT START • • YOU DON'T HEAR IT STOP • •

YOU DON'T HEAR IT RUN

For twelve years the pioneer in automatic refrigeration . . . once again sets a new standard

INCREDIBLY quiet operation, greater cabinet beauty and convenience . . . surplus refrigerating power built into a new and radically improved compressor . . . this is the New Frigidaire.

Millions of dollars were spent to make possible the New Frigidaire. Sound-proof rooms were constructed for tests. Sound recording instruments were used, more delicate than the human ear. The result is an entirely new development in automatic refrigeration.

The New Frigidaire is incredibly quiet. You don't hear it start. You don't hear it stop. You don't hear it run. It meets every emergency, every demand, with the same smooth effortless performance, the same absolute reliability.

The New Frigidaire is the most beautiful refrigerator ever developed commercially. But more surprising even than its beauty, is the convenience of its details. You should see it for yourself . . . you should visualize it in your own kitchen . . . only then can you realize the advance which the New Frigidaire marks in convenient housekeeping.

Big special demonstration opens Thursday, August 23rd

The New Frigidaire is now on our showroom floor. We're giving a remarkable demonstration every day and every night this week. We're showing what the New Frigidaire will do under actual household conditions. We're showing just why it runs so quietly and so efficiently. We're showing how it insures absolutely safe refrigeration.

Come in and see the New Frigidaire in operation. For your convenience, we are open each night this week and next week until ten o'clock.

Low prices and easy terms

The Frigidaire Corporation believes that every household in America should have automatic refrigeration . . . for health . . . for convenience . . . for economy. The New Frigidaire carries new low prices and easy General Motors terms . . . prices and terms which make it possible for everyone to have the benefits of Frigidaire now. Come in this week and find out about them.

HEAVY PROFIT-TAKING CHECKED THE RECOVERY IN STOCK PRICES YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Heavy profit-taking, inspired by expectations of a large increase in brokers' loans this week, checked the recovery in stock prices today after more than a score of issues had been pushed into new high ground. Several of the high priced specialties closed 3 to 11 points higher, but many of the standard industrials and rails fell a point or more below yesterday's final figures. Total sales of 3,109,700 were the largest in about two months.

The market apparently paid little attention to the money situation. Call money loans renewed unchanged at 7 per cent, and held steady at that figure all day, despite the calling of about $25,000,000 in bank loans. Time money was again on a flat 5 1-2 per cent. basis instead of 6 1-4 to 6 1-2, but prime commercial paper rates were unchanged.

The rapidity of the advance in some of the speculative issues led to extensive realizing on the part of traders who felt that the market was entitled to at least a technical reaction. The average of 20 leading industrials, compiled by The Associated Press, had advanced nearly 8 points in the week ended Tuesday night and the average of 20 leading rails about 4 1-2 points with no intermediate recession. Today's loss in the averages was about 5-8 of a point for each.

The day's business news was largely favorable. Weekly steel trade reviews continued encouraging in character, and stressed the stiffening tendency for pig iron. The preliminary report of the American Petroleum Institute showed a decline of 1,641,000 barrels in stocks of crude and refined oil east of the Rocky Mountains in July. The Anaconda Copper Co. announced the purchase for cash of the Montana interests of the estate of the late W. A. Clark, except the Missouri public utilities.

When the market turned heavy in the afternoon, selling pressure was most effective against the recent industrial leaders. U. S. Steel, after approaching to within 1 1-4 points of its 1926 high of 154, sold down below 150 for a net loss of more than 2 points. Allied Motors dropped from an early high of 189 to 186 1-2, where it was up 3-4. Allied Chemical, American Can, Atlantic Refining, Johns Manville, Montgomery-Ward, and Union Carbide closed 1 to 2 1-2 points lower.

Radio regained its old place as a market leader by soaring 8 1-2 points to 192 1-4 and closing 1 1-4 points under the top. Sears Roebuck ran up 8 points to a new peak at 147 7-8 and closed within a fraction of the top. National Cash Register touched a new high at 75 on buying influenced by reports of unusually large current earnings, and prospects of higher dividends before the end of the year. Chief interest in the tobacco group shifted to Elsenlohr, which climbed nearly 6 points. Schulte and Tobacco Products lost ground. Express shares developed extreme buoyancy. Rails were featureless.

Foreign exchanges were easier. Sterling cables hovered around $4.85 1-4, or close to the "gold import" point. Bankers pointed out that any further advance in money rates here was likely to cause sufficient recession in sterling to bring gold from London to New York.

Commodity markets were firmer. Wheat advanced more than a cent a bushel on reports of European buying, despite bearish crop news from the northwest. Cotton rallied only a few cents a bale. Coffee and sugar showed little change.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Price trends were irregular in moderate trading on the curb market today as professional operations for the advance carried a number of issues higher, while profit taking and nervousness over the credit situation resulted in considerable liquidation.

Apponaug Company was a strong feature of the industrials pushing up 5 points to a new high at 37 3-8 on announcement of increased earnings. Charis corporation again advanced in expectation of an extra dividend. Special developments carried food shares higher, Gobel jumping 3 points on announcement of a 3 for 1 stock split, and Seeman Brothers gaining a point on declaration of an extra dividend.

Warner Brothers "B" went to a new high at 81 1-4, Godchaux Sugar at 19 1-4, and India Tire and Rubber at 47. Carnation Milk, Columbia Graphone, Northwest Engine and U. S. Freight advanced from about 2 to 7 points. Deere dropped 20 and Bancitaly 5 points on profit taking. American Rolling Mills, Consolidated Film, Midland Steel and Rainbow Luminous Products "A" sagged.

Chain stores were strong in light trading, Neisner Brothers advancing 6 points, Pender Grocery "A" 2 1-2 and Schiff preferred, 2 points, the last going to a new high. Radio shares were more active, Spanish and General rallying fractionally.

Oils turned irregular on announcement of increased crude production last week. Standard of Ohio and Imperial made gains of more than a point, while Humble lost more than a point, Prairie a point, and Standard of Indiana a fraction.

Nocanda led the strong mine group with an advance of more than 2 points, while Roan Antelope Copper, Newmont and Shattuck Denn improved.

Utilities were irregular. Electric Bond and Share, United Gas and United Light and Power encountering profit taking.

START SAVING NOW AT NORWICH SAVINGS SOCIETY

The thrifty man or woman places money not needed for ordinary expenses in keeping with some reliable banking institution. The Norwich Savings Society for all eastern Connecticut people is just such an institution and for over a century it has stood for reliable service.

Many a small savings account has been established here and in the years following has been increased, both by additional deposits and by interest payments, until the account has come to represent a protection against adverses of later years.

When a man is young and enjoys good health his earning power is rated at the best. This, then, should be the time when he should save against the possibility of poor health in his older years, bringing of course an impairment of earning ability.

Money improperly spent can be man's worst enemy but money properly saved is every man's best friend. The saving of one dollar or more a week, during the course of a score of years, amounts to several thousand dollars. This savings account then stands as a friend in need, which never fails when called on for protection of the family.

A modern and efficient bank prides itself on assisting its depositors to find the best means of saving. Your own financial problem of course must be worked out by yourself. A bank cannot force you to save if you desire to waste. One thing a bank can do however, is to assist those of you who wish to save. A bank can suggest proper means of saving, arrange an easier way of keeping up with systematic savings.

This is the type of service the Norwich Savings Society seeks to give in Norwich. Why waste the earnings of your best years — visit our bank and let us show you how to save and build up a protecting bank account.

JEWETT CITY HOTEL FINE STOPPING PLACE

The Jewett City Hotel, Charles T. Morrissey, proprietor, is an ideal place to stop at while passing through that borough. During the past few months many radical changes have been made at the hotel and today it stands as a most modern hotel. Rooms were renovated throughout and modern appliances put in to make them comfortable and up-to-date. Every room has running water and a number of them are fitted out with combination bath and showers.

Another good feature of the Jewett City Hotel is the modern restaurant run in connection with it. Here are delightfully cooked foods and tempting menus which can do no less than delight the hungry traveller.

The Jewett City Hotel has long carried a good name as a stopping place and under the direction of Mr. Morrissey it is now far better equipped to render excellent service to its patrons.

The next time you are in Jewett City and are planning to remain for a stay, visit the Jewett City Hotel and partake of its hospitality. You will be welcomed and assured excellent service during your stay at the hotel.

PURCHASE YOUR BUILDING MATERIALS AT DAWLEY'S

When you are planning to build a new home, or any kind of structure which requires lumber or other types of building material there is one question of supreme importance. How long will the materials stand up and how does price compare with quality, are two questions to be asked.

The H. F. & A. J. Dawley Lumber company of Norwich can answer these questions for you and also show you how to save many dollars. Fine, kiln-dried, well-seasoned lumber means a sound substantial home or garage for you. This type of material will stand the test of time. When you build a home you want it to remain finished when done. This statement may sound peculiar but by it we mean that some kinds of lumber make the home look wonderful when first put in but after the test of time they shrink or warp and the home now longer has that finished appearance.

Lumber purchased of Dawley stands the test of time. It does not change after being put into your home and once the job is finished there is no second expense of making changes.

Why not visit the Dawley company at your earliest convenience and let us show you what we mean by good lumber? We can save you time and money if you are planning to build.

PLAN NOW FOR YOUR HEATING NEXT WINTER

While the warm winds are blowing and winter seems a long way off may seem a peculiar time to talk about heating plants. Thomas F. Burns of 91 Franklin street, Norwich, states that this is the real time to talk over heating matters.

Perhaps your heating plant did not function to best advantage last winter and as a result many dollars went up the chimney as the result of poor radiation. These money wasting habits of your heating plants can all be cured by an expert plumber and Mr. Burns will be only too glad to undertake the work of making your homes warm next winter.

Perhaps the changes that should be made are only minor ones and will cost but a few dollars. Sinks in the pipe lines running to or from the heater mean gathering places for water and thus bring about poor heat. A cold radiator in the winter time caused no end of trouble, besides meaning a waste of money burning coal. This trouble can easily be remedied by Mr. Burns. He will trace out the sink and relevel the pipe line and thus end that cold radiator forever.

Perhaps there are other changes you comtemplated to make this summer. Bathroom fixtures, sink-room fixtures, in fact anything in the plumbing line that needs repairs or changes can be handled by Mr. Burns. Why not call him now and thus have everything done before cold weather arrives and there is an unnecessary delay during cold weather?

When you order a stone from us satisfaction in every way is guaranteed.

"Make Heat While the Sun Shines"

Prepare now for next winter—this Summer is the time to plan on getting the heat in the cellar—of putting in that new plant or overhauling the old heating apparatus while you are away on your vacation, and by having that job done now save part of the vacation cost and have the comforts of a cozy home when Winter comes.

NEW LONDON YOUTH ATTACKS GUEST FROM NORWICH WHILE ON RIDE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 22—Robert Coleman, colored, of Hill street, was in the police court today charged with attempted criminal assault. Through counsel he entered a demurrer, which was overruled and a fine of $50 and costs was imposed, Judge S. Victor Prince made it plain to Coleman that if the latter was arraigned in court again on a charge of a serious nature, a jail sentence and not a fine would be meted out, for Coleman has been arrested several times within a year, each time on a charge involving seriousness. Coleman's fine was paid by his father, who also informed his son that the latter could expect no assistance from him in the event that a future arrest of the youth brought about a court penalty.

Coleman attended a dance last night conducted by colored residents. At the dance also was Eva Place, a youthful Norwich girl. The dance was not ended until after midnight and on leaving the hall Coleman approached the Place girl and offered to drive her home. The girl accepted the invitation and entered the auto. Instead of heading toward Norwich, Coleman drove to the Hartford turnpike and there attacked the girl, who resented his attentions and made an outcry. Coleman became angered and put the girl out leaving her in the highway and driving away. The girl was walking along Broad street about 2 o'clock and in tears, when she met Patrolman Lawrence Feeley and told the story of the attack upon her by Coleman. Officer Feeley with Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty made a search for Coleman and in a short time arrested him.

FORMER OCCUM MAN DEAD AT NEWARK, N. J.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 22—The police of Newark, N. J., today requested from the New London police information regarding the relatives of Capt. Charles Simons, 70, who died in the former city Monday night. The police here have little or no knowledge of Simons, who came to New London several years ago from Occum and made his home at the B. P. Learned mission. He was a cook by occupation and was employed for the most part on boats.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles R. B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of the driver's licenses of John Mara, Jr., Mariana Saraci and Ralph Calvert. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered the suspension of the license of Clifford McCullough.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Guiment (Viola Bayliss) who were married Monday have started on a long wedding trip, their objective the the residence of relatives in Minnesota.

The police received a report last midnight from a resident of Shaw street that an excavation at the corner of Shaw and Woodbridge streets, was not protected by lighted lanterns. An officer who inspected the work determined that lanterns that had been placed about the hole had not been lighted. They were illuminated for the balance of the night.

The state police at Centerbrook have requested the New London police to be on the lookout for two men, occupants of a Pontiac sedan, who are imposters, for they are wanted for obtaining money under false pretenses. One of the men is described as being a Hebrew, thin face, weighing about 135 pounds and about five feet seven inches in height and is about 35 years of age. Both left from Saybrook late last night and at the time were headed toward New London.

Morris Jobert, 187 Maple street, Manchester, will be in the police court tomorrow charged with reckless driving, for this afternoon he was arrested by Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin after the motorcycle the former was driving had crashed against an automobile driven by Guglermo Monatile, a sailor aboard U. S. S. Davis, United States coast guard, state pier. Jobert was driving southerly on Main street and had ample space to guide his cycle, but the driver suddenly diverted the machine course and it crashed with the automobile, a new car, the cycle and the automobile were extensively damaged.

William Clark, Hartford and Thomas Wetmore, Jr., have sold two building lots on Henderson road to Robert Keefe.

The estate of Andrew Dray, through James T. Dray, administrator, has sold to George and Emma Hamcia a house and lot on Main street.

Archibald S. MacFarlane has sold to Augusta O. Edgar a building lot on the westerly side of Vauxhall street.

Plant Field Realty company has sold to Clotilde Coridese Moses a building lot on the southerly side of Plant street.

MABREY HOTEL FURNISHINGS ARE SOLD BY NEW OWNER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 22—Henry J. Carina, of Glastonbury, has sold all of the furnishings, furniture and equipment in the Mabrey house, Ocean Beach, to John Richards. The hotel this season was for several weeks under the management of Mrs. Charlotte Dorsey. Richards will not come into possession of his purchase until after Labor day, at which time the season at the beach closes.

Frank L. Michels, 57 Lewis street was in the police court today charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He escaped penalty for the court did not consider that Michels condition when arrested was such that intoxication should be a contributing factor of the arrest, so ordered that a nolle be entered. Michels was arrested yesterday by Traffic Officer William Corcoran and Patrolman Louis Tooker following a crash of the automobiles of Michels and George Dibble, 89 Ocean avenue. The cars crashed at the corner of Ocean avenue and Orchard street and there was no doubt in the minds of the arresting officers or Dibble, but that Michels was intoxicated. Both automobiles were damaged.

The continued case of John F. Sullivan, Blinman street, charged by his wife with breach of the peace, was continued until tomorrow as Sullivan's attorney was unable to attend court today.

David Silverstein, 9 Midway place, Ocean Beach and 42 South Quaker Lane, West Hartford, was charged with breach of the peace in beating and striking Morris Nadler, 8, who is spending a few weeks at the shore. The case was continued to Sept. 1 in order to permit Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin to become acquainted with all of the facts of the alleged assault. Silverstein and the youth became involved in a controversy and this resulted in the man attacking and beating the boy. The youth made complaint to Patrolman Albert Iverson and Silverstein's arrest followed.

Raymond J. McCarey, a sailor, was charged with breach of the peace and Andrew Nelson, a restaurant employe of advanced years, was charged with intoxication. McCarey was fined $10 and costs and the charge against Nelson was nolled. McCarey and Nelson had been drinking and about 2 o'clock this morning they met on Main street. An argument started and a fight followed, during which McCarey administered a severe beating to Nelson. The pair were arrested by Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Lawrence Feeley and Frank Philopena. After court it was claimed by Nelson that he had lost a sum of money, although he had about $150 on his person. He also said that he had lost his watch and a dangling chain from his vest indicated the truth of the story and it is probable that the timepiece was lost during the fight. McCarey has plenty of nerve for he wanted Nelson to pay his fine, but the request was denied and McCarey went to jail.

In keeping with his policy of ridding the city, at least for a while of a gang of drunks who loiter about the streets, making a nuisance of themselves, Judge Prince imposed jail sentences to all who were presented in court, other than to Nelson. Sentences of 10 and 30 days were given to a half dozen inebriates.

Three auto drivers charged with violating the city's traffic ordinances in parking overtime on State street were Gertrude A. Newbold, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Philip Sidney Hall, 160 Broadway, Norwich and F. Seiden Williams; Essex and Arthur J. McCarthy. All failed to appear and their respective bonds of $2 were declared forfeited.

MANY WOMEN VOTERS QUALIFY ON WEDNESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 22—The largest number of voters to be made in several years qualified last week and today. Most of the newly made voters were women, but there were several hundred men, which fact indicates that considerable effort has been made to secure as many new names on the voting list as was possible. The democrats had postal cards sent to several hundred applicants, notifying them of the days when they could be made and it is believed it was through the activity of the workers of the democratic party that many of the women voters appeared at the municipal building and took the oath.

In about three weeks, the first of the city elections for the purpose of electing members of the council, members of the board of school visitors and members of board of selectmen will take place and with about a dozen nominees for the office of member of the council to seek office, a lively election is anticipated.

RABALM QUICKLY STOPS ITCHING INSECT BITES

"The buzz of one mosquito used to be enough to make a prisoner of me in the screened-in porch. While I'm not easily upset, a mosquito bite poisons me terribly, and itches for days. Though I was often laughed at, and missed a lot of good times, I wouldn't stay anywhere where there were mosquitoes. Recently however a friend suggested I try Rabalm, and the first time I needed it, I did try it with very satisfactory results. And while I don't like to be bitten by mosquitoes any more than I ever did, I know now that if I am bitten, Rabalm will prevent it from poisoning me as it used to. It is a very effective remedy and I am grateful to know of it."

Rabalm is excellent for all kinds of insect bites. The thing about it people most often mention is how quickly it takes out the itch and sting. Two sizes, 50-cents and $1.00 containing three times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Cadillac-LaSalle

Today, throughout the nation, is being publicly shown for the first time, a complete new line of Cadillacs and LaSalles and special Fleetwood bodies on both chassis.

Introduced with a message from Lawrence P. Fisher, president and general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car company, the cars are on display locally at the show rooms of The A. C. Swan Co., 4 Cliff street, distributor of Cadillac-LaSalle cars, and in the surrounding territory by that company's dealers and representatives.

"This impressive new display," the A. C. Swan Co., states, "represents the goal for which the Cadillac Motor Car company has been striving during the past three years under the leadership of Lawrence P. Fisher.

"Changes include marked improvements in body construction with conservative changes in design, larger bodies for the LaSalle car, an entire transmission providing easy, instantaneous and silent gear shifting without the usual hesitation in neutral, remarkably efficient new brakes, "security-plate" glass in all windows and windshields, and adjustable front seats. Both engines are more powerful, and in the LaSalle the engine is larger.

"Improved double-action hydraulic shock absorbers are introduced on the Cadillac. They are of the two-way piston type, which smoothes out the effects of road unevenness by absorbing both the bumps and the rebounds.

"New use of principles of pneumatics in engineering to increase quietness, refinements in body exteriors and interiors, and increase of the LaSalle wheelbase to 134 inches excepting in three open models, are other important features.

"The new brakes are of the internal shoe type, entirely enclosed, and so easy to operate that they are described by the company as 'effortless.' They are long-lived and in servicing them only a simple outside adjustment is necessary. There are two entirely independent systems for the service and hand brakes.

"In the Cadillac line are eleven Fisher and thirteen Fleetwood custom bodies, and in the LaSalle, eleven Fisher and two Fleetwood bodies.

Production program is a 40-percent increase over last year and calls for an equal number of Cadillacs and LaSalles."

Haines himself was born in Staunton, Virginia, and a trace of the southern drawl still lingers in his speech. Anita Page, his leading lady, is a New Yorker and proud of it. Sam Wood, the director, was born in Philadelphia, has never been abroad in his life and is satisfied that Hollywood is the best place in the world to live in. Even Bill Daniels, the cameraman, and Eddy Brown, the assistant director, are American born.

The remainder of the cast, Eileen Percy, Frank Currier, Bert Roach and William V. Mong are mostly descendants of individuals who date their entrance papers in the days when Ellis island was nothing but a quarantine stop.

Even Polly Moran, who has made her reputation as a player of Irish roles, was born in New York city—although she proudly declares her parents came from the "ould sod."

As with the principals, so with the story. "Telling the World" is a distinct American type of story exploiting Haines' character as a typical American wealthy youth. The situations and the comedy were designed by Yankee minds for Yankee enjoyment.

The story of the production was written and adapted to the screen by Dale Van Every, who hails from Lansing, Michigan. The central theme deals with the romance of an American-created institution, the great press associations which cover the earth with their wires and bring home the news of the day.

An unusually good program of vaudeville is on the bill today and tomorrow and Saturday. It is headed by Bert Collins' Revue, a company of seven people, in varied and entertaining numbers. Bonner and Powers, late stars of the Ziegfeld Follies, who are more than clever performers. Roattino and Barrett Co., in an offering entitled "At the Metropolitan." Corinne Arbuckle in "A Cycle of Songs" and Al, Emma and Margie in "Dance Varieties."

Frigidaire

The class in lexicography will now assemble.

Be seated, please.

What is the word which stands just half way between "quiet" and "silent?" Some high powered advertising men and seasoned copy writers want to know.

This is the missing word in the literature which describes the new Frigidaire. Nobody could think of it.

According to the authorities, no mechanical device can be absolutely silent, as its very motion creates sound waves. On the other hand the word "quiet" is entirely too noisy to describe the new product of General Motors.

E. G. Biechler, who is president and general manager of Frigidaire Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, is broadcasting an appeal for the word or phrase which best describes the attribute of the new automatic refrigerator. For sale by Carl Brown, Inc. See adv

Breed Theatre

Tom Mix, rated as the world's best known horseman because his screen dramas are shown in more than 1,200 theatres every day in the year, will appear here tomorrow at the Breed theatre, in his latest Western thriller, "Hello Cheyenne!"

A westerner, born in the West, reared in the West, Mix, "lived his own life" in the vast open spaces and caught all the virile, clean-minded drama and romance which he took to the screen when he decided to be a motion picture actor.

Few animals have developed such a film fan following as Tony, the horse which appears in all of Mix's pictures. He is a perfectly formed animal with an unusually developed mind, which grasps situations and give him power to do his own thinking. It is this horse sense and horse personality that has made him one of the film favorites of the world's theatre patrons.

The cast of "Hello Cheyenne!" includes Caryl Lincoln, Jack Baston, Joseph Girard, Al St. John, Martin Faust and William Caress. Gene Forde directed the production.

Strand Theater

Victor Fleming's sensational Paramount special, "The Blind Goddess," is a graphic and gripping picturization of Arthur Train's powerful novel of the same name, which created widespread comment when it appeared serially in "The Designer."

It is a striking story of vivid and intensely dramatic action, laid in a background that ranges from the grim routine of New York's criminal courts to the smart social atmosphere of Fifth avenue's exclusive homes. The chief character is a brilliant young lawyer, who becomes an assistant district attorney in New York City and is forced to choose between his ideal of duty and the girl he loves, under thrilling circumstances.

His refusal to prosecute the mystery woman charged with the murder of his fiancee's father; his desperate and eventually successful efforts to save her from conviction in the face of a perfect network of circumstantial evidence that point to her guilt; and his ultimate and startling disclosure as to her real identity make up a picture throbbing with human interest and terrific emotional power.

Jack Holt proves a capital choice as the idealistic lawyer. Esther Ralston makes a charming and lovely heroine; Ernest Torrence gives an excellent account of himself both as a kindly, indulgent father and scrupulously honest political boss; and Louise Dresser, in the pitiful role of the friendless mother, wins new laurels with an altogether sincere and sensitive portrayal.

Palace Theater

In spite of the fact that some of the locales are laid in China, William Haines starring picture, "Telling the World," might truly be called the All-American movie, for the entire technical staff of the production and every member of the cast hails the land of the partially free as his birthplace.

In this era of cosmopolitan productions embracing a Babel of tongues and a multiplicity of jawbreaking names, the cast that produced the picture which comes today to the Palace theater, stands out as 100 per cent American.

Chatterer Takes to the Treetops

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

When danger threatens, run away;
'Tis naught but folly if you stay.
—Chatterer the Red Squirrel.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel was motionless with fright as he stared from a little round hole in a certain stub in the Green Forest down into the fierce, hungry, yellow eyes of Mrs. Yowler the Bobcat. Chatterer seemed to suddenly grow cold all over. He seemed to have lost the power of movement. He watched Mrs. Yowler slowly rise to her feet and begin to move silently toward that stub. Nearer she came, and nearer. He saw he gather her stout hindfeet under her in readiness for a spring. And then, just before she did spring, Chatterer came to himself. He turned and darted down through that hollow stub and into a little gallery in the ground beneath it. And just as he darted into this little underground gallery he heard the splintering of wood, just after he felt the jar caused by Mrs. Yowler landing on that old dead stub of a tree. She was tearing that old stub to pieces, for it was soft and much decayed.

How thankful Chatterer was that there was that underground gallery! Had there not been, Mrs. Yowler certainly would have had him. There would have been no escape. Along the little underground gallery raced Chatterer until he came to a hole in the ground that opened into the outside world. It was the same hole in which he had sought safety only a short time before. He paused only long enough to make sure that no one was watching that hole. Then he darted out and up a tree. Up he raced and out along a long branch. From this he leaped to the branch of an adjoining tree. He didn't even look down to see what Mrs. Yowler and the little Yowlers were doing. From tree to tree he leaped. He was traveling through the treetops, his favorite way of traveling.

All he could think of now was home. Yes, sir, that is all he could think of. "I want to get home! I want to get home!" he kept saying over and over, as he raced along through the treetops, making some jumps that would have taken your breath away, could you have seen them.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Yowler had broken over that old stub of a tree and torn it open. She snarled as her nose told her that Chatterer the Red Squirrel had been there so short a time before. Her nose told her just how he had escaped. She snarled as for a moment she tried to dig open that underground gallery. Then she realized how useless this would be and stopped.

"What was it?" asked one of the kittens.

"It was a Red Squirrel," replied Mrs. Yowler. "Some day when you are a little older, you may catch a Red Squirrel for yourself."

"But why didn't you catch this one for us?" asked the other kitten.

Mrs. Yowler pretended not to hear. "Yes," she continued, "Squirrels are very good eating. I must certainly see to it that you have a squirrel dinner before long. Now, my dears, we will go back to our den. The den is the proper place for young Bobcats at this time of day. I don't know what your father would say if he should come along and discover you out here. Now follow me and don't either one of you dare to drop behind."

So Mrs. Yowler led the way back to the ledge where their home was and the two kittens obediently followed her.

An English druggist who attempted to sell medicated cigarettes as a cure for colds, nasal catarrh, asthma and bronchitis discovered that it could not be done. Cigarettes that contained coltsfoot, thyme, rose petals and lavender in addition to tobacco are banned by the law against "adulterating tobacco," the court ruled, and fined the offender.

Miss Anna Chmielewski, Thomas Tracey and Mr. and Mrs. Zakrzewski will leave today (Thursday) for a motor trip to Maine, Lost River, and Canada. They plan to spend a week on the trip.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. George Authier of upper Merchants avenue leave today (Thursday) to spend several weeks with relatives in the province of Quebec.

Edgar Archambeault of lower Norwich avenue has been obliged to remain away from his work because of infection following an injury to his left index finger.

During the summer months the members of the St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society are still continuing their weekly schedule for meetings, and on Wednesday evening there was a good attendance, with Miss Mary Nolan, the president, presiding.

David Murphy of South Third avenue has resigned his position with the cloth department of the Ponemah mills, and with Mrs. Murphy will leave thir week for Bridgeport where Mr. Murphy will work and where they will make their home in the future. David will be missed about the town as he was always popular among the boys. He was the organizer of all the bus trips to Fall River and other points when the members of the Taftville Social and Football club attended the various big soccer football games of the country.

Louis N. Paradis of South A street is to leave soon for Canada, where he is to visit friends and relatives.

Complaint has been made that the railroad ties owned by the Connecticut Co. and stored near their switch on the Occum road, have been taken by the boys and girls who frequent the swimming hole by the big rock on the Taftville side of the Shetucket river, and have been converted into rafts and other aids to the learner of the art of swimming.

Mr. and Mrs. Amede Pion and their daughters, the Misses Lea and Loretta Pion, of Hunters avenue are enjoying a motor trip to Canada, where they are visiting points of interest in the province of Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Hedler of Baltic plan to move soon to the village and will occupy the house on Providence street recently vacated by Mrs. Rose Blanchard and family, who have moved to one of the apartments in the house owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Gregory of the Jewett City road.

Some of those residents of the village who have been visiting in Canada during the summer months bring back the story that it is wise for all inhabitants of the United States to take with them some proof that they reside in this country, otherwise the Canadian government will not allow them to cross the boundary. Each year so many Canadians get through without paying the usual head tax that both governments are now on the alert to prevent being obliged to chase down such cases, consequently they are detaining at the border those who cannot furnish positive proof that they are not residents of Canada. For many years it has been the custom of Taftville people to take with them, when visiting Canada, an affidavit that they are residents of this state. This year cases have come to light where the travelers neglected to take the affidavit and have been considerably inconvenienced thereby.

Rev. Henri F. Chagnon, assistant pastor of All Hallows church at Moosup and formerly senior assistant at Sacred Heart church of Taftville, was visiting in town this week.

Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault, pastor of Sacred Heart church, is attending the retreat for the senior priests o Hartford which is being held at Keyser Island, South Norwalk, and where Auxiliary Bishop McAuliffe is in charge.

NO MONEY DUE STATE FROM FINES IMPOSED IN LOCAL CITY COURT

According to officials of the Norwich city court, all fines imposed for violations of the motor vehicle laws in the local court and due the state are turned over to the state as soon as they are collected. Officials of the local court said Wednesday night that as far as known there is no money due the state from the city court, as the procedure of turning the fines over to the state as soon as they are collected by the local court has been followed for years.

As the state department of finance and control and the state motor vehicle department are checking up on court records throughout the state it is probable that a check of the local court records will be made in the near future.

A check in nine city courts in the state has disclosed the fact that more than $61,000 imposed for motor vehicle law violations has not been turned over to the state. It is not believed that any discrepancy will be found in a check between the local city court records and those of the state motor vehicle department.

The records of the courts in Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport, Middletown, New Britain, Waterbury, Stamford, Greenwich, and New London have already been investigated, and although in a few of the courts great care has been taken in the bookkeeping, and there is little or no money owed to the state, other court officers have been exceedingly lax, it was reported.

All fines imposed in motor vehicle conviction cases belongs to the state, according to the Connecticut statute, and where the entire amount of the fines has not been turned over to the state, the court officials must make up the deficit.

The state is not investigating the financial condition of the courts with a view of criticising the court officers, Commissoner Hall made plain. The records are being examined for the past 10 years, and the average showing made in the court records is not bad, Commissioner Hall said.

"Fines paid by working in jail are turned over to the towns, usually by large checks including the fines for many penalties besides motor vehicle law violations," he said. "These are usually paid to the town by checks which must be deposited in the treasury. It is probable that the errors in the court records whereby the towns owe the state more than they have turned over is a result of the bookkeeping in those instances."

Commissioner Hall declined to give out any figures other than the estimated total of $61,000 due the state.

The department of finance and control, Commissioner Hall said, has completed its investigation of the courts, but the state motor vehicle deprtment will continue to check the records of the courts with those of the department.

State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel said that the check would be carried "as far as seems wise." He intimated that at least a few of the larger justice courts would be checked, as well as the city, borough, and town courts.

"The object of the check," Commissioner Stoeckel asserted, "is to get a uniform system of booking in both the courts and the state department. It is not essentially an investigation, but a thorough check with the courts."

There are 20 city courts in the state, 27 town courts, and six borough courts, beside many justice courts. In 1927 there were 14 towns in Connecticut that did not report motor vehicle law violation convictions, while in 1926, there were only 11.

ELKS AUTOMOBILE CARAVAN PASSED THROUGH NORWICH

Several hundred children from Willimantic were the guest Wednesday of the Willimantic lodge of Elks at Crescent beach and about 100 automobiles were used to transport the children to the beach, the procession passing through this city at 10.30 o'clock in the morning. The automobiles were met at Chelsea parade by Officer Patrick Murphy in the patrol wagon and he accompanied them to Thames square, where he directed traffic. On Washington street Sergt. Myron O. Morgan and Officer Daniel O'Neil directed traffic and at the corner of Washington and Sachem streets Officer William Ryan took charge of the traffic. The police department had been notified Tuesday evening of the coming of the caravan and in a short time had the procession out of the city with very little delay.

The children arrived at the beach in time to enjoy a chowder, which was followed by swimming, boating, games and refreshments. The children are from homes which are unable to afford the expense of such an outing themselves. State police officers from the Groton barracks under the direction of Sergt. Henry J. Albright escorted the caravan from Willimantic to the beach.

WILL SELECT COLLEGE HEAD THIS FALL

Selection of a successor to Prof. Benjamin T. Marshall as president of the Connecticut college, will probably not be made until late in the fall, according to an official of the board of trustees.

As was previously announced, a committee consisting of Dean Irene Nye, Prof. Herbert Z. Kip and Prof. David Deitch Lieb and the education committee of the board of trustees, will continue to carry out the work of the president pending the selection of a successor.

Rumors that various members of the committee would each be given a period as official head of the college pending the definite selection were branded as unfounded by an official of the board Wednesday.

It was announced Wednesday that ballots have been sent out to all graduates of the college previous to 1926 for the purpose of electing a member of the alumnus to the board of trustees to fill one of three vacancies. Replies from the alumnus members are coming in slowly from all parts of the country, and from foreign countries and it is not expected that all returns will be in before Sept. 15.

TO REPLACE FIVE PIERS AT SUB BASE

Replacement of five old finger piers at the Submarine base in Groton with new piers at a contract cost of $146,940 is being done by the Newport Contracting & Engineering Corp.

The piers which are being replaced are some of the 11 at the base to which submarines and other navy vessels are moored. The work is expected to be completed by April 1 and it will be completed throughout the winter.

With the exception of Pier C the new piers will be identical in size to those which they will replace. The pier which will replace Pier C will be ten feet wider than the original structure.

All of the piers will be constructed on creosoted piling. The above-water construction will also be of wood.

Wednesday the Thames Towboat Co. tug Aquidneck towed the barge Raleigh from New London to the Submarine base. The Raleigh had piling and lumber aboard to be used in the pier construction work. The barge entered New London harbor this morning from Norfolk, Va., in tow of the tug Bermuda, which proceeded east after dropping the barge.

Mother and Son Very Weak After Sickness

Put On Weight, Gain Rapidly and Now Out of Danger.

To McCoy Laboratories:

Two years ago my 12-year-old son and I both had diphtheria, after which we were both left very anemic. My boy had to quit schohol and got so weak he could not walk across the room; after finding he was anemic he took bottles and bottles of blood medicine without any results, so having seen your McCoy's Tablets advertising so much I decided to try them. It was but a short time after doing so that he was out playing and going to school. I also started taking them. At the time I weighed 103 pounds and when I had taken three boxes I weighed 126 pounds. Now weigh 132 and it is the first in years I have felt real well. We are greatly indebted to McCoy's. I have recommended them to ever so many friends and in every instance they have become very beneficial.

REPUBLICAN WOMAN'S CLUB MAY BE ORGANIZED IN THIS CITY

A republican woman's club may be formed in Norwich within the next few weeks. The matter was discussed informally Wednesday noon at a luncheon meeting of 24 prominent republican women of the town at the Wauregan hotel but no action was taken.

Miss Katherine Byrne, of Putnam, vice chairman of the republican state central committee, was hostess at the dinner, which she arranged in order that she might meet the group of leading republican women of the town. Miss Byrne, in an informal talk, told of what women in other sections of the state are doing in preparation for the presidential campaign this fall. A suggestion was made that a prominent woman speaker be brought to Norwich to address a local republican mass meeting next month. No definite action was taken on the suggestion but in all probability such a mass meeting will be held. A number of the women present at the luncheon are members of the local republican town committee. Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell assisted Miss Byrne in arranging for the luncheon.

FEDERAL JUDGE REBUKED FED. PROHIBITION AGENTS

In Chicago Judge Wilkerson Has Impounded Evidence Seized in Raid Said to Have Been Made Without Either a Search Warrant or a Warrant For Arrest—Agents Would Not Answer the Inquiry What Justification They Had in Making Raids and Arrests if They Had Not Seen Any Offense Committed—One Man Had Been Seriously Wounded by the Raiders.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23—(AP)—Evidence and other records seized by federal prohibition agents in a raid in a loop building Tuesday were impounded today by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who indicated he would order the evidence suppressed if the agents tried to use it in any further investigations.

The judge's action took place at a hearing where attorneys were arguing over the procedure used by the prohibition agents accused of raiding the offices without either a search warrant or a warrant for arrest.

Judge Wilkerson assailed the federal men for their tactics and asked what justification they had in making the raids and the arrests if they had not seen any offence committed. Receiving no answer, the judge said: "It certainly would be a great help to the courts if agents would go through the simple ceremony of procuring warrants when they desire to make arrests."

The judge set Sept. 24 for a hearing on a defense counsel motion to return the seized documents.

The raid Tuesday was made on offices of Paul Morton, who advertised his firm as a construction company. Eight men were arrested and one, Merle Adams, was shot and seriously wounded by one of the agents when he said Adams tried to escape.

Thirteen other defendants, accused of affiliation with the alleged syndicate operating out of the offices raided, were arraigned today and held to the grand jury under bonds ranging from $1,000 to $10,000.

Adams, the wounded man is under guard in the hospital.

FOREST FIRES SWEPT OVER MORE THAN 100,000 ACRES

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23 —(AP)—Hundreds of men battled forest and brush fires in California today with varying degrees of success. Fire that swept over more than 100,000 acres on more than twenty widely separated fronts, was under control in many sectors, but several blazes flared anew today.

The fires ranged from Shasta to San Bernardino counties, along the coast counties and in the highlands bordering on the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys. Fire had razed timber over a 25-mile square area in the point area section and was reported as uncontrolled. Two fires near Laytonville have burned over 5,000 acres. Mendocino rangers were fighting a fire in the Gualala river county. Another large blaze was reported at Dos Rios, Mendocino county.

In the San Bernardino forest the Calon fire was reported as still uncontrolled in Cable canyon with 450 men on the lines. The Camptonville fire in the Tahoe forest was controlled by United States forest rangers after it swept over 160 acres. Lines were holding in the Stanislaus national forest where 200 men were beating back a 17,000 acre fire that burned over 10,000 acres before it swept into the forest.

Partial control of the fire raging in the Sequoia forest Converse district was reported by the men fighting it. Four hundred men battled this fire, which swept over 7,000 acres. Another fire outside the Sequoia forest at Miramonte, Fresno county, burned over 12,000 acres of state land. Ranch buildings were burned.

In Tulare county, on the Kaweah river, another fire has been burning since August 5. On the Spanish ranch in the Stony Ford district of the California forest 1,000 acres were burned over. Nearly 100 men were fighting two incendiary fires in the Upper Lake district.

3,000 PERSONS AT SACCO-VANZETTI MEMORIAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—(AP)—A crowd estimated at 3,000 persons tonight attended a memorial meeting in Union square commemorating the anniversary of the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti at Charlestown, Mass., a year ago yesterday.

Two overflow meetings were held. Expecting a hostile demonstration which greeted the appearance on the speakers' platform of an acknowledged communist there was no disorder. A force of 150 policemen was on duty, but there was little for them to do.

Among the speakers were Roger Baldwin, director of the American Civil Liberties union; Robert Minor, editor of a socialist newspaper; M. Olgin, Max Schachtman, also editors, and Morris Tuft, manager of a garment workers' union.

"His Worship" visited the British embassy and a number of government buildings and motored to Mount Vernon, returning by way of Arlington cemetery where she placed a wreath on the Unknown Soldier's tomb. After luncheon her party visited the capitol and the Library of Congress.

RADIO SIGNALS MIGHT BE FROM ROCKFORD FLIERS

CHICAGO, Aug. 23—(AP)—Faint radio signals of the letters "R," "D" and "A" were reported received today for the second time in as many days by two amateur radio operators.

This afternoon the letters "R," "D" and "A" were heard, the former pair ten times each, and the letter "A" three times. The amateurs, Dr. Charles Scelcth, a dentist, and Irving Strauss reported their reception. Dr. G. Edwin Farley of La Grange, Ill., a radio amateur and a dentist, reported hearing the same signals Wednesday night, the same number of times.

Dr. Farley believed that the signals came from a battery on direct current, and not from a generating power set, and on about 24 meters. While this is not the wave length, he said, of the Greater Rockford, lost in its hop from Cochrane, Ont., to Mt. Evans, Greenland, it is possible by using an aerial, to cause a change in the wave band.

COMMENT ON SMITH'S ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 23—(AP)—Though opposed to Gov. Smith's proposal to modify the national prohibition laws, Gov. John G. Richards, democratic national committeeman for South Carolina, tonight characterized the Smith acceptance speech as being in all other respects "a very able document showing a remarkable grasp of great national problems."

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—(AP)—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the National W. C. T. U. said tonight that Governor Smith's stand on prohibition as outlined in his speech of acceptance "is the program of the association against the prohibition amendment."

She described his "plan for an amendment to the 18th amendment" as a "clever proposal to nullify the 18th amendment."

SALINA, Kas., Aug. 23—(AP)—C. E. Huff, Salina, president of the Kansas Farmers' union, commenting today on the acceptance speech of Governor Alfred E. Smith, democratic presidential nominee, said of his attitude toward the farm relief problem:

"I am personally a little disappointed that he was not more specific as to the method which might be used in distributing that cost."

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 23—(AP)—Fred W. Johnson, chairman of the democratic western headquarters here, said today that Governor Smith's acceptance speech was a "clear and straightforward exposition of his views, typical of the man who delivered it."

"His attitude on the tariff plan was especially acceptable to the industries of the west.

"In meeting the farm problem fairly and squarely, he rallied the farmers of this section to his standard, while his decided stand on state's rights struck a responsive chord, for many more important matters than prohibition are involved in this democratic principle."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—(AP)—The prohibition proposals of Governor Smith, enunciated in his acceptance speech, were described today by F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, as offering "no possible hope of eliminating the drink habit or the liquor traffic."

The Anti-Saloon league head said there was nothing new in the Smith plan, adding that he had "simply accepted and become the advocate of the program of the association against the prohibition amendment."

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—(AP)—Governor Smith's acceptance speech has revealed the candidate to the nation as the people of New York know him, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland said today on his return from Albany "It's great," he said, of the address. "It is the disclosure to the country, the man."

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—(AP)—Former United States Senator Atlee Pomerene of Ohio, government counsel in the Teapot Dome oil cases, today asserted that Governor Smith knows more of national issues than most of the legislators in Washington.

Of Smith's acceptance speech, Pomerene, a democrat, said: "It is a great speech by a great statesman. The charge has been made that he knows nothing about national issues. He has demonstrated that he knows as much about national issues as he does about state issues, and he knows more about national issues than most of the legislators in Washington."

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 23—(AP)—Two outstanding Virginia democrats Senator Carter Glass and Governor Harry Flood Byrd—issued statements tonight describing Governor Smith's state control prohibition proposals as impossible of achievement but asserting that the question was not an issue in the presidential campaign.

Both men expressed their faith in the party nominee.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 23—(AP)—Conflicting views regarding Governor Alfred E. Smith's speech of acceptance were expressed by democratic party leaders of Texas today.

"It is a very instructive and statesman-like document" declared Jed C. Adams, democratic national committeeman. "Unlike Hoover's speech it leaves no uncertainty as to where Smith stands on any public question."

Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller said: "Governor Smith made a wonderful speech. It will be an important factor in bringing victory for the entire ticket in November. His speech was courageous, honest, frank—a typical Al Smith speech, consistent with the character of the man and the record of his performance."

Alvin S. Moody, chairman of the anti-Smith democrats of Texas, declared the New York governor's "plan for wrecking prohibition is deserving of the denunciation of all American citizens, whether they be for or against prohibition."

Miss Ponselle Suffered Slight Concussion of Brain and Nervous Shock.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Aug. 23—(AP)—Rosa Ponselle, operatic soprano, was struck and serious injured by a golf ball as she was playing here today.

The singer was playing with her musical coach, Maestro Romano Romani, and was about to play a massie shot to the eighteenth green when she was struck by a sliced ball driven by an unidentified player from the ninth tee.

Miss Ponselle was knocked to the ground, unconscious and was treated by Dr. George F. Owens. She was later removed to her camp, Wawbeek, on Lake Placid, where her condition was reported improved.

FRANCE APPROVES PLAN FOR SIGNING PEACE PACT

PARIS, Aug. 23—(AP)— European backstage angles of the Kellogg anti-war treaty were given a sort of dress rehearsal when the French cabinet met with President Doumergue today. There was quick approval of the plans for the signing of the pact and the accompanying social affairs.

There was a long discussion, however, as to just how far France should go and just what its representatives should say when Gustav Stresemann, foreign minister of Germany, mentions that his country would like to have the Allies move their soldiers out of the Rhineland.

Evacuation of the occupied territory and its related problems of reparations and war debts, have long been discussed in loud whispers. Stresemann, however, is expected to propose a frank and informal conversation on the subjects.

Wilhelmstrasse has notified France, England, Belgium and Italy that it would like to talk over withdrawal from the Rhineland and adjustment of reparations "at the first opportunity." This happens to be on the occasion of the Kellogg treaty signing. Incidentally it will be the first official visit to Paris of a German foreign minister since the war of 1870.

COL. E. C. CARRINGTON TO SUPPORT GOV. SMITH

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—(AP)—Col. Edward C. Carrington, republican candidate for U. S. senator from Maryland, and Maryland campaign manager for Roosevelt in 1912, today announced he would support Gov Alfred E. Smith's presidential candidacy in view of the nominee's "sympathetic attitude toward the proposed all-American waterway from the great lakes to the sea."

He said he never had voted for a democratic presidential nominee but that he felt the present issue of whether the waterway should go by way of the St. Lawrence canal to Montreal or by way of New York state barge canal and the Hudson river to New York city was of very serious consequence to the port of New York."

Levine To Make West Flight Over Atlantic

With Bert Acosta, Levine Plans to Hop Off on First Stage of Flight Today.

DESSAU, Germany, Aug. 23—(AP)—Charles Levine and Bert Acosta expect to hop off tomorrow morning on the first stage of a trans-Atlantic flight to America, it was learned tonight. The machine, a Junkers plane which they have just purchased, is expected to land at Baldonnel field, Irish Free State, to refuel.

A Junkers mechanic will accompany Levine and Acosta as far as Baldonnel.

Acosta gave the machine a thorough trial today and found it in excellent working order. He said that Junkers planes were familiar to him as he had flown hundreds of hours with an F-13 type in America.

Levine entered the name of the plane "King of the Air" in the Junkers guest book with the comment that he hoped it would do justice to its name.

Mechanics tonight were planning to fuel the plane with approximately 270 gallons of gasoline for tomorrow's flight to Ireland.

LEVINE HAS BEEN INVITED TO LAND AT ROOSEVELT FIELD

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug 23— (AP) —Paul Lannin, owner of Roosevelt field, today cabled Charles Levine and Bert Acosta an invitation to land their Junkers plane here. The message said the field would be in readiness for them.

It was recalled that at the time of Miss Mabel Boll's false start on a trans-Atlantic flight early this summer in Levine's plane, the Columbia, he had had trouble with Roosevelt field officials because he used the field for the take-off without paying the customary fee. The difficulty was smoothed over, however.

Miss Boll is in Europe with Levine and Acosta but aviation officials had no information whether or not she would attempt the flight with them.

She abandoned her plan to fly the ocean from west to east when Miss Amelia Earhart beat her to a getaway.

CHARGES DEMOCRATS WITH BEFOGGING THE DRY ISSUE

Senator Curtis in His Speech at Rocky Point Declared That the Prohibition Proposal of the Democratic Presidential Nominee Proved That the Democratic Party Was "Trying to Fool the American People"—Senator Curtis Received Scattering Applause as He Told His Audience How He Enforced Prohibition in Topeka, Kansas—Never Used "Spotter" or a Paid Agent as a Witness.

ROCKY POINT, R. I., Aug. 23—(AP)—The proposal of Gov. Smith, democratic presidential nominee, for state control of intoxicating beverages was described today by Senator Curtis, the republican vice presidential nominee, in his opening campaign address as an "attempt to fool the American people."

The Kansas senator departed from a prepared speech promising fuller tariff protection to take issue with the democratic nominee here in the governor's neighboring state. And in one of the states which failed to ratify the 18th amendment, Senator Curtis told how he had enforced the Kansas dry law back in 1885 and recalled his speech of acceptance in which he had declared against repeal of the 18th amendment or of the Volstead act.

"I am giving you this for what it is worth," the senator told the republican leaders and workers of the state who crowded the baseball park of this amusement center to listen to him and other republican speakers.

"Our friends on the other side are trying to fool the American people. They are making promises in regard to prohibition which you know under the constitution of the United States it will be impossible for them to keep."

Senator Curtis did not refer to Gov. Smith by name nor specify his proposal which calls for amendment of both the 18th amendment and of the Volstead act. As he swung vigorously into a discussion of prohibition and told how he had closed up 58 saloons in Topeka, Kas., during his two terms as prosecuting attorney he received scattering applause.

"They say the prohibition law can't be enforced," he continued. "Well, we adopted the idea of prohibition back in Kansas in 1881. It was not enforced for years. Our people talked then like they do over the United States now and said that it couldn't be enforced.

"On January 1, 1885, I took office as prosecuting attorney for Shawnee county. On February 15, 1885, every saloon in Kansas was closed and they remained closed for four long years. There had been 58 of them. I called in a jury and I didn't excuse one juryman from service. I never used a 'spotter' or paid agent as a witness. I took a jury composed of seven wets and five drys and when the first verdict came in it was against the saloon. For four years I never lost a verdict. Take this for what it is worth. I don't expect to influence you.

"That's just a little history for your consideration. Oh, yes, one thing more. We had 65 poor farms in Kansas before those days and five years later sixty of them had no inmates."

While he brought a carefully prepared address to Rhode Island, Senator Curtiss followed it only in general outline and spoke without reference to it from a stand erected over the pitcher's box on the baseball diamond. The stands stretching along the first base and third base lines were filled and the crowd also stood in the space between these stands and the speaker. He did use his written speech in reading the record of the democrats on tariff legislation.

Concluding with a plea to entrust tariff revision to "the friends of the tariff and not to its enemy of long standing," and asking support of Herbert Hoover on the record of the administration of President Coolidge, the senator was given a rousing reception by the republican rally. He stayed at the park to shake hands with many of the crowd before hastening to the home of a daughter, Mrs. Leona Curtis Knight, near Providence. From there he set out later tonight to return toward Washington.

The vice presidential nominee was the last of the speakers on the afternoon program which followed a clambake outing at this resort on the shores of Narragansett bay. Senator Metcalf, of this state, was cheered when he called upon the voters to make a "choice between a man nominated by the people and one set up by Tammany," and he denounced Tammany.

Judge Felix Hebert who was announced as the choice of the republican state central committee as the republican candidate for senator, extolled the qualifications of Herbert Hover for president and insisted that "there is no religious issue in this campaign." He is a member of the Catholic church.

Casting aside his prepared address Senator Curtis spoke vigorously as he pounded out his points. He said the democrats "don't know what the word economy means and therefore are unable to understand that President Coolidge has given us an economical administration."

"When agriculture was paralyzed in 1919 and we asked for an emergency tariff act, all but one of the democrats in the senate opposed it."

HOOVER ON LAST LAP OF CROSS-COUNTRY JOURNEY

HOOVER TRAIN EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—(AP)—Heartened by the loyal enthusiasm shown by thousands of Iowans during his three-day stay in his native state, Herbert Hoover tonight was on the last lap of his trans-continental journey to Washington where he will establish his personal headquarters for the campaign.

Before boarding his special train at Cedar Rapids he issued a statement thanking the people of Iowa for the kindly reception given to both himself and Mrs. Hoover in the state of the tall corn.

"It is a great experience to have had the welcome at one's birthplace that Mrs. Hoover and I have had in the last few days," he said. "It brings out vividly the ties which have attached our lives to the state of Iowa and we leave it most regretfully. We will long remember with gratitude the kindly expressions and good wishes we have had on every side."

The republican presidential candidate's last day in Cedar Rapids was given over to further conferences with farm and political leaders, during which he received supplemental reports as to the political outlook in the great grain states, both west and east of the Mississippi.

HOPE REVIVED FOR THE SAFETY OF HASSELL

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 23—(AP)—Fading hopes for the safety of Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, American airmen missing since Sunday somewhere beyond Labrador, were revived swiftly today with receipt of an authoritative report from Greenland indicating that the two men reached Greenland on Sunday.

A report received by the Greenland administration department from the sheriff of South Greenland and Landsfoged stated that the airplane Greater Rockford undoubtedly was seen Sunday morning over the village of Fiskenaesset in South Greenland, coming from the north-northwest.

The machine was seen by many persons and its "national marks" were noted although they were not given in the telegram. Since the inhabitants of the town, however, had been instructed to be on the lookout for the American fliers, this was understood to mean the American markings.

PLANS OF DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—(AP)—As a full-fledged presidential nominee, Governor Smith today came back again to his native New York, still uncertain when he would start active campaigning.

His views on the public issues of the day were before the nation, and a bit worn by the strain of his notification last night in Albany, the democratic standard bearer seemed more anxious for rest and recreation than anything else.

After an overnight stay at his suite in the Hotel Biltmore, the governor tomorrow will move on to New Jersey to take part in a big democratic rally at Seagirt Saturday and to review National Guard troops there.

Next week he will pay his annual visit to the New York State fair at Syracuse, but beyond that he has no engagements. He will make no speech at Seagirt but may deliver a non-political address at Syracuse.

Sleeping late after his notification ceremony which was forced indoors by bad weather, the democratic nominee spent some time reading congratulatory messages before taking the train to New York.

CONDEMNS SCREEN VERSION OF "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

HARTFORD, Aug. 23—(AP)—Characterizing the screen version of Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as an "absolute literary falsity," Miss Katherine S. Day of this city, great-grand niece of the author, declared today that some organization such as the American Historical society should protest "to Will H. Hays, "movie czar," against the showing of the film.

"I saw the picture in New York a little while ago, and I must say the producers have certainly played ducks and drakes with the book," she said. "I think the film is a crime against literature. It would not be so bad if the producers had labeled the picture as 'freely adapted from the book.' But it is downright literary dishonesty, to use a name without justification."

The latter with Mr. and Mrs. Tinker were accompanying the bridal couple as far as New Haven. With the exception of the groom all had returned to this city today. Tinker told the police that the boy on the bicycle made a sudden turn to the left into the center of the street and directly in the path of the automobile. An agreement has been signed between the inventor of a metal window screen and a committee of the chamber of commerce giving this city the opportunity of securing a new industry in the manufacture of this product by a company with several years' experience in this business. The agreement is to go before the directors for ratification. In the event that the directors approve the proposition it will then be explained to the community. Preliminary plans are to organize a local company to give local backers preferred as well as common stock and to start production within a few weeks. The local company manufacturing the new product would not start with many hands but the potential sales are considered as an assuring factor for growth.

"OVER THE COUNTER"

A splendid opportunity for outstanding values is being offered the people of Greater Willimantic by the representative Merchants of Willimantic during the Opportunity Days' Sale, two of which yet remain to be taken advantage of.

Friday and Saturday will naturally be the booming days of the three-day event and shoppers will find not only the store-fronts highly colored with posters and banners announcing the sale but the stock well-displayed and priced for the occasion.

Everywhere is reflected the spirit of a genuine coommunity co-operative effort in merchandising. Over 80 merchants have banded to give the public the advantage of one big clearance sale taking in nearly every line of business. Instead of the individual clearance sales that are current at this time, the Willimantic Merchants now offer One Big Sale. This enables them to give better values—real bargains—because there will be more business done than would be the normal result of an individual effort.

Come and see the Gift Car. Someone holding a ticket received with a One Dollar purchase will receive a new Essex coach that is now on display at Lincoln Square.

All time limit restriction on parking in the business section have been lifted for the accommodation of week-end shoppers. Arrangements were being made today to open up the large boarded tract known as the old Lincoln & Boss lumber yards at the corner of North and Meadow streets for free parking. The yard will be lighted at night and a watchman will be on hand to protect the automobiles. OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS BUT ONCE—AND IT IS KNOCKING NOW. COME TO WILLIMANTIC FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

COLCHESTER

FOUR FEDERAL SCOUTS LOOKING FOR CORN BORER

Three representatives of the bureau of entomology of the United States department of agriculture, have been in town the past few days, examining fields of sweet corn for trace of the European corn borer. The borer is a white worm about an inch long with a striped back. It is usually found on the corn plant near where the leaf joins the stalk. There are ten teams of three men each, making examinations for this corn borer throughout the state. Each group of experts spends four days in each town, looking over the sweet corn fields, principally on land near the main highways. The three men who are looking over the corn in Colchester found a half dozen suspicious specimens of the borer in a cornfield on Pleasant street near the Hall Hill road. It is said that the specimens have to be sent to the department headquarters at Washington for examination with a microscope, since with the naked eye, it cannot be definitely proven that the worm is a genuine corn borer in view of its similarity of appearance with other worms of a less destructive nature. The effort to check the spread of this garden pest is being made in view of the fact that it causes severe losses to corn crops and there is no way of killing the borers after they have once started their destructive work.

There was an attendance of about 80 at the presentation of the two-act amateur play, "Ghost of Lolly Pop Bay," at Grange hall, Wednesday evening. The play was given under the direction of Mrs. W. O. Seyms and has been presented during the past few weeks at Westchester Hebron and Marlborough. The players, all local people, were: Edward H. Norton, Miss J. B. Brown, Rev. A. W. Canney, Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Stebbins, A. L. Stebbins, Jr, Misses Leora Adams, Allison Bailey, Eunice Seyms, Ruth Brown, Clarice Brown, Janet Pendleton and George Boson. The stage decorations and the costumes were particularly striking. The proceeds of the evening were divided equally between the Grange, the C. E. society, and the theatrical troupe. Due to unfavorable weather, the attendance was not as large as had been hoped for.

Earle Park and Carl Jones, of Hebron, were in town, Thursday.

William Condren, of Hartford, was a guest of his brother and the latter's family, on South Main street, Thursday.

First Selectman Charles A. Kramer and men have been repairing the roadway on Linwood avenue, near the Smith home. The road was badly washed by the frequent rains and people who have to travel over this stretch of road are pleased to see that an effort is being made to fill up the holes and remove the loose stones. The roadway on Pleasant street and the Mill road are also sadly in need of repair, but the repairs have been so frequent that it has been difficult to do any road work continuous.

Miss Hattie Belle Brown, Mrs. Robert S. Brown, George Boson and Edward H. Norton, of North Westchester, were in the village Wednesday evening.

ROAD SOCIETY

FERNANDO WHEELER'S DEATH LOSS TO THE COMMUNITY

Fernando Wheeler, 62, who died Friday, was one of the three Wheeler brothers who have carried on a large farming business in this town for a number of years. He was a son of Nelson H. Wheeler and Melinda Williams Gallup and was born in Stonington in 1866. He taught school after gaining his education at the district school and at the Mystic Valley institute. He married Miss Josie, the youngest daughter of Ulysses and Lucy Williams Avery, of Preston Plains. They came to the Center farm to reside and from there he carried on important agricultural activities for 30 years. Several disastrous fires which destroyed three of his barns proved a great shock and financial loss to him, but he continued to carry on business until his health began to fail.

After the death of his wife he again married, his second wife being Mrs. Vivian Nichols Austin, who has cared for him devotedly during his last illness, which has been of several months' duration. He joined the Old Mystic Baptist church in early life and has always continued a member there, although going to the Road church many years. He is survived by his widow, two brothers, Arthur G. and George A. Wheeler, and a sister, Mrs. Agnes Lathrop, of Norwich. The funeral was held Monday morning at his home, conducted by Rev. C. F. Eldredge, acting pastor at the Road. Mrs. Theodore Dewhurst sang Abide With Me. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic. The bearers were William Wilcox, Courtland B. York, Henry Stahle, Seth N. Williams, Harry Palmer and Charles Nichols. Beautiful flowers were sent by friends and relatives.

Mrs. Stanley Johnson and son Alden of Providence are spending the week with the former's brother, Harry Palmer, and family.

Seth N Williams and family were at Watch Hill Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hannah of Providence, Mrs. Frank Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. John Harkness and Mr. and Mrs. Grover Brown were at Edmund Burdick's recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Buddington of Princeton, N. J., were recent callers on their uncle, George Wheeler, and family.

Harry Blaine and a friend from Boston are at A. G. Wheeler's.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sinclair have returned from a motor trip to Taunton, Mass.

Mrs. Clifford Stewart and Mrs. Fred Wheeler of Westerly visited William Stewart at the hospital in Norwich while he was a patient there. Mr. Stewart has since died. He is remembered here while living with his brother, Cyrus Stewart, and Mrs. Stewart, who were residents here for a number of years.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Cilley of Massachusetts were recent guests of Mrs. Emmeline Allyn.

Mrs. A. G. Wheeler and daughter Mary of Philadelphia took a short trip to Nantucket last week. Now Miss Dorothy Wheeler and sister, Miss Mary, are spending some days in Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Wheeler and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mell spent Sunday at the shore.

William Lathrop and family of Norwich were guests Sunday at George Wheeler's.

Miss Linda Wheeler, who will enter Wellesley college in the fall, has recently returned from a trip to Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stark of Newton, Mass., Wilbur G. Frink of Middletown, N. Y., Mrs. Abbott Thompson and party of Melrose and Groton Long Point, Mrs. Mason Manning and Mrs. Jerome Anderson of Wampoosett, Mrs. Eugene Palmer and Mrs. Harry Palmer, Mrs. Walter Patterson of Maine, New Hampshire, Mrs. Roscoe Burrows and Miss Leila Burrows of Mystic and Edward Talbot of New London were recent callers at Maple Lawn.

CROSS-CURRENTS IN CAMPAIGN

Presidential campaigns invariably are different in their distinguishing features, but similarities are also discernible at times and in this respect the development of cross-currents in the republican and democratic parties this year presents resemblence to the 1896 campaign when bimetallism made an issue which broke party lines. In that year, at each national party convention there was a "walkout," delegates leaving in groups to register their protests. The free silver republicans joined forces with the democrats, while the gold democrats organized a third ticket. Many thousands of voters shifted allegiance.

In the present campaign there are two questions—prohibition and farm relief—upon which there promise to be a break in party lines. Unlike 1896, however, there is no definite walkout or third party movement. The changes from one side to another are more individual than organized. Nobody can tell how great will be the aggregate of these changes. Not until November will it be determined whether they will affect the result.

Those who study the election tables of the past for guidance in the present campaign are certain to be confused by these forces of disruption and realignment. The women's vote is a new element since 1896 and at no time since the nineteenth amendment was ratified has there been so plain an evidence of keen interest by the women of the country in the questions involved in a presidential campaign. There is every reason to look for the polling of the largest vote in the history of the country, resulting both from the population increase and from the peculiar character of the questions before the people and the earnestness with which they are studied. Under these circumstances a computation of probable returns on election offers more than the usual element of speculation.

JUGOSLAVIA BOWS TO ITALY

With the ratification of the Nettuno conventions by the parliament at Belgrade, Jugoslavia ends long friction with Italy by what is virtually a complete surrender. But Rome announces that there will be no pressure for immediate results from these conventions, being satisfied to wait till the present internal crisis in Jugoslavia has passed. Therein the Italian government shows a wisdom in temperateness which should bear its appropriate results. The ratification went through, however, by a majority of only one vote. It is repudiated by the opposition on the grounds that two-thirds are needed to ratify a treaty. And it should be remembered that the Croatian deputies had refused to take their parliament seats at Belgrade. They were at Zagreb, mourning with the rest of the Croats the death of the assassinated Stefan Raditch, the idol of their race, almost as Lenin was the idol of the Russians and Sun Yat Sen of the Chinese. Had these deputies voted the Nettuno conventions would have been badly beaten.

What will come out of the Jugoslavian conditions no one can guess as yet. There is a Sloven priest as premier, the first non-Serbian who ever held the place. The Croats are in a fighting mood but realize their military weakness. Unless a high degree of statesmanship is in evidence in the near future, the outlook is very dark for a country in which diplomacy has brought about the inclusion under one nation of races not homogeneous, and not too familiar with parliamentary government.

CHICAGO'S CRIME RECORDS

If it had been left to police records to determine the extent of crime in Chicago, that city would have a comparatively clean page. This aspect of how police incompetence and corruption completely nullify the value of such records as are kept has been brought to light by a report of the Chicago crime commission, which shows that more than 60,000 criminal complaints made to the Chicago police in the past two years have been suppressed. Major crimes have been reported as minor offenses and trifling charges have been entered on the blotter in lieu of outrageous felonies.

Bombings, it is stated have been written down as "malicious mischief", and assaults upon women as "accidents". During 1926 only one out of twenty complaints of assault were reported from the police stations to the secretary of the department, and in 1927 there were no safe-blowings, no pocket-pickings, no purse snatchings, no bogus checks were passed, no forgeries were uttered. The absurdity of such records is apparent and makes painfully evident the connivance by the police organization with the criminal classes. Chicago's civic pride has been stung by the criticisms of the country and perhaps these coverings of the facts by misrepresentations are due to this feeling of shame and a desire to appear better than the facts justify. But the hiding of a dirty spot will not eradicate it. Concealment is no correction for crime, and the conclusion is inescapable that concealment has been prompted by criminal connivance with crime.

Chicago is conspicuous in this respect because of the openness with which the gangs have waged war upon society and upon each other. These outrages are the consequence, in part, of either police leniency or actual betrayal of the lawful portion of the community, which is by far the larger portion. Repeated demonstrations of this condition have not seemingly effected reform. Political considerations have not only complicated and delayed but thus far have prevented reformation. How long will this condition be tolerated by the people of Chicago?

A NEW COMMERCE SECRETARY

In appointing William F. Whiting of Holyoke to be secretary of commerce to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Secretary Hoover President Coolidge has exercised what has always been the privilege of every president, the privilege of making personal appointments. It brought a shock of surprise to have Mr. Coolidge select a man whose name had never before been publicly mentioned in connection with the office but it must be recognized that Mr. Whiting is exactly the type of man the business world, for whose benefit the department of commerce exists would like to see in the office. A successful business man, "a rock-ribbed republican and as democratic as they make them," as one writer puts it, esteemed as the leading citizen of his home town and thoroughly familiar with Washington and its ways, the Holyoke man as a cabinet officer should prove one of the most popular and useful of that exclusive official set. Mr Whiting has the means to live as his position demands, the ability to conduct his department intelligently and to the public good, and a combination of quiet geniality and firmness that will command the respect of his subordinates. The appointment will bring a bit of disappointment to Washington, for it wanted Walter F. Brown, whose work in devising the new scheme of departmental reorganization may prove exceedingly important in the next administration. But what Washington may have thought to be a desirable appointment is no reflection upon Mr. Whiting and was not a consideration the president was under obligation to take into account.

THE ELECTION IN GREECE

Eleutherios Venizelos, with the election machinery in his control, seems to have scored a marked triumph in the Greek election. He is charged with juggling election districts in a fashion not unknown in America. He has abolished plural voting. He has endeavored to have voters fingerprinted for the purpose of defeating what we call repeating, but he was not successful in this. Internationally considered, a Venizelos regime means closer relations with Jugoslavia and a perfect understanding with France. Nationally considered, it means a blocking of any attempt to revert to a monarchical system of government.

The "Royalists" are the party of the opposition, but most of them do not seek re-establishment of the throne by a popular or military coup, but they agree with former King George that a new plebiscite should decide the matter. In the plebiscite of April, 1924, the vote for a republic was 758,742, against 325,322 but there may have been a change of sentiment in the meantime. Order has not been maintained and some incidents of the political campaign seem strange to Americans. A woman seeking to kiss the hand of Venizelos, bit him severely. Communists have made trouble and there have been many arrests. Bandits carried off two Venezilist candidates in Epirus and took them over the border, only releasing them on the payment of a ransom of $64,500. The friends of Pangalos, the former dictator, have used pistols freely, firing upon Venizelists although Pangalos owed his liberty to Venezilos. Manifestly there is not much dignity in the politics of modern Greece. Perhaps the country's best hope is in a "strong man", and the present premier, whatever his methods, is the strongest man now in sight.

Finance is dealing in figures so large that it may be necessary to devise some symbol for the stock ticker corresponding to the light year in astronomy.

An Englishman who was kept in prison unjustly for nineteen years is to receive 6,000 pounds compensation. To be sure, nineteen years is a long time, but 6,000 pounds, which is about $20,000, is a lot of money, and, furthermore, it is net. As it should yield him $1,200 or $1,500 a year hereafter, the gloom of the past would appear to emphasize the brightness of the future.

CASTE.

The Hon. James Tweedle-Smith, whose drawl was as perfect as his cutaway, was addressing the Suburbia Social and Literary society on the subject of "India." The society had selected this subject from his prospectus because it felt it really ought to know something about this distant and altogether exotic land. Besides, it already had had lectures by Englishmen who looked like twin brothers of the Hon. J. T.-S. on the other subjects he offered: "Evolution": "The Plays of Ibsen" and "Modern Marriage."

"In this land of perfect democracy, it is difficult, I know, to comprehend the significance of the caste system of India," the speaker was saying. "There are four great castes and many minor levels to each caste. It is virtually impossible for a person to pass from one caste to another. One is bound by one's family into a definite social position."

He expatiated upon the cruelties of the system, its legalized inequalities, the hopelessness of "not belonging." He told pathetic stories of virtual slavery in that far-off country.

"And now we come," said Mrs. Thornton Rogers, president of the Suburbia Social and Literary society, "to the business of the day." The speaker had concluded his address and departed, check neatly disposed of in his billfold.

"Has any one any motions?" Little Mrs. Rubicon rose timidly from a rear seat.

"I should like to propose a name for membership," she murmured.

"Will you speak a little louder, please?" Mrs. Rubison cleared her throat and began again.

"I should like to propose a new member."

"Oh," said Mrs. Rogers, "is there any objection to taking up the question of a new member at this time?" It was quite plain that Mrs. Rogers would have welcomed some objection, for Mrs. Rubison was a recent member herself, and not what Mrs. Rogers would have termed "socially active," and here she was presuming to propose a name for membership!

"Proceed," said Mrs. Rogers, in a tone which meant: "Get it over with."

"I wish to suggest the name of Mrs. Robert Peters," said Mrs. Rubicon, quietly. "She went through high school with nearly everybody in this room, and you all know her. She is an assistant at the public library and is a woman of great intellectual attainments. She was telling me the other day how lonely she is, and I thought it might do her good if she got out and met more people. She would be a decided help in getting up programs, for she reads a lot, and plays the piano quite well." Suddenly Mrs. Rubicon found she had said enough and sat down. Somebody seconded the nomination.

"Any discussion?" said Mrs. Rogers.

"I object, Mme. President, to admitting Mrs. Peters into this select society." The speaker was a tall, determined woman, with violets on her hat. Her husband owned the Suburbia Light and Power company, and when one was invited to play bridge at her home one came and played. "I don't believe Mrs. Peters is quite the type." The mild Mrs. Rubicon was on her feet.

"May I ask why?" she inquired.

"I think the members should know," went on the woman with the violets, "that the candidate's husband owns a fruit store with a popcorn stand outside of it. Some of us knew her at college: she belonged to no sorority and worked her way through. A worthy woman, indeed, but hardly in our class."

"They live over on the southeast side of town," chimed in Mrs. Oliver.

"Her father used to fix windows and cut grass," added another member, who prided herself on belonging to one of the "best" families.

"She works for a living, and so won't have much time for literary study," suggested still another woman.

"And do you think she could entertain the society at her home?" queried Mrs. Oliver, taking up the cue.

"Question?" said Mrs. Roland. Mrs. Rogers pounded with her gavel.

"All those in favor of admitting the proposed member please signify." There was a "Yea" or two. It was soon drowned out by a chorus of "Noes."

Mrs. Rogers wiped her hands on her handkerchief as though disposing of business that was slightly soiling.

"If there is no objection," she said, "I should like to propose that this club show in some way that it appreciates what it has learned from the Hon. James Tweedle-Smith, whose address we heard and enjoyed today. I know every one here was shocked and depressed by what he told us about the caste system in India.

"I therefore suggest that a suitable resolution be drawn up by the committee on resolutions deploring the existence of the caste system, and that it be forwarded as an expression of our sentiment to the—to the—to whomever the ruler of that benighted land may be. Is there any objection?"

Ms. Rubicon was the only person present who did not applaud the noble suggestion of Mme. President, but then she resigned from the Suburbia Social and Literary society the following week—so what difference did that make to anybody?—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

Is Golf Dangerous to Health?

By Matthias Nicoll, Jr., M. D., Albany, N. Y., Deputy Commissioner of Health, State of New York

Anyone who can afford to play golf can afford to pay for an annual scientific medical examination. There is no question that golf may be and often is overdone, and that it is not infrequently indulged in by those who, on account of their physical condition, should not play at all.

We are all familiar with the golfer who has long since reached years of discretion, and apparently passed beyond them, who plays his 18 to 36 holes under the blazing sun, or in the pouring rain, rushes up hill with pounding heart, labored breathing, and hands so tremulous that he must wait until his eyes have cleared and muscles steadied before taking the next shot, and at the end of the day, with dragging feet and shoes that seem to weigh a ton, physically and mentally exhausted, with no appetite, and disgusted with the score, his fellow club members, and life in general, seeks his shower and longs for bed. Such a man has over-golfed. Youth can stand it, but not old age.

Golf, as a menace to health and life of men and women of middle age and beyond, excites public interest whenever some prominent person dies suddenly on the links. It should be borne in mind, however, that for every such death there are thousands of sudden deaths which occur with or without any special physical exertion as a causative factor for which golf cannot be held in any way responsible.

The underlying cause of sudden deaths in middle life and old age is the presence of degenerative disease of the heart, blood vessels and kidneys. The immediate cause may be the bursting of a blood vessel in the brain, the plugging of a blood vessel by a detached fragment of vegetative growth from somewhere in the circulatory system which cuts off the local circulation from an essential nerve center in the brain or heart, or acute dilation of the heart from advanced degenerative disease of the heart walls. Such deaths occur under many circumstances, while walking quietly, sitting, and even lying in bed. A person with advanced disease of the heart blood vessels and kidneys, whether he knows it or not, is constantly seated on a powder barrel and an explosion is sooner or later pretty certain to occur.

Golf, like every other good thing in life, may be abused. It would be a national calamity for the false idea to prevail that there is anything intrinsically dangerous in the game for those in normal health, or even for those whose health is impaired, if they be guided by competent medical advice. The number of holes, if any, to be played at any one time should be based on the findings of one's physician, preferably and probably a golfer, but the golfer himself must use his own judgment and common sense regarding his physical limitations.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

Ybbs: Destined to Be an Austrian Power Site

Ybbs, little known town on the banks of the 'Beautiful Blue Danube,' is to become an important link in the growing hydroelectric power system of Austria.

It is reported that the Danube will be dammed near Ybbs and a power plant constructed which will be sufficiently large to generate electricity for cities and towns within a radius of 100 kilometers.

"Ybbs, with fewer than six thousand inhabitants, is one of the many little towns that dot the Danube river bank and trace their history back to the time when the Romans held away over the region in which it is located," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. "It is about 100 miles east of Vienna.

"A division of Rome's Dalmatian cavalry had its headquarters at Ybbs. Later it disappeared only to reappear again as Ipusa in the ninth century. During the Crusades it was called Ibsepurch. It was named Ybbs after it settled down as a quiet little town, seldom disturbed save by the occasional arrival of a river boat churning the waters to land at its only pier.

"Though the Danube is less frequented by travelers than other famous European rivers, those who have drifted down the stream in the vicinity of Ybbs attest that the scenery is even more beautiful than in the Rhine valley. The slopes in this region are richer in natural growth; the hills less even and therefore less monotonous in outline, and the lateral valleys fertile and green and more numerous. For long distances the river spreads out over the wide valley, its waters punctuated here and there by small green islands; the two walls of rock, topped by ruins of Roman fortresses, close in to form deep canyons.

"Seldom is the traveler out of sight of old castles, fortresses and villages; some nearly hidden by tall trees and entanglements of vines and foliage. Now and then the bold front of a town, centuries old, will add a picturesque touch to the panorama.

"Ybbs is one of these Danube river front towns. As it is approached after turning a sharp bend of the river from the east, the traveler sees the Maria Taferl, a group of church buildings, dominated by two tall towers, crowning a hill. Then a clock tower on the river bank pierces the tree tops and shortly the boat is anchored at the Ybbs wharf, one end of which is secured to the quay and the other to a scow on the channel's edge.

"Ybbs 'downtown' is a solid row of stone and brick houses lining the quay. This cobbled thoroughfare and the ancient gabled houses appear unspoiled by modern travel. Each small shop is still presided over by an overstout keeper from whose teeth, constantly hangs a huge-bowled pipe with a stem so long that it may rest on the table around which the neighborhood loafers sit and pass the day. Outside, the ox cart has not yet entirely given way to the flivver.

"Ybbs is more interesting to the stranger when something happens in town which draws the picturesque folk from the countryside. Then it is that one gets a glimpse of the colorful folk that inhabit the surrounding region. The quay is filled with men in close fitting breeches who vie with those whose spacious leg covers, tied just above the ankles, resemble bulging potato sacks. There are Slav men who lend a snappy touch to the parade with their shiny leather knee-boots and colored sashes. The masculine Maryars, at first glance, appear to wear fringed dresses but as they pass one sees their trousered legs with the rumlike apron as additional attire. Little distinction between the races can be seen in headgear for most of the men wear soft, uncreased hats, usually two sizes too small for their dark heads.

"In their voluminous dresses, the women add color to the throng. The girls wear full flowing short skirts, trimmed in lace. Bright colored scarfs are either wrapped about their heads or thrown loosely about their shoulders. Their mothers are similarly attired save for their extra length skirts."

Stories That Recall Others

The Real Incentive.

An admiring group had surrounded small Jimmy. He had rescued a pal who had broken through the ice and would have drowned otherwise.

"That was real bravery, my little man," a motherly woman was telling him, patting him on the back.

"Aw, shucks," sniffed Jimmy. "Bravery nothin'; he had my skates on."

A Good Name.

Little Mary Ellen had been given a new Teddy bear—whose button eyes conveyed the impression of a pronounced squit.

"And what do you call your new bear?" asked a fond aunt.

"Oh, his name is 'Gladly'—same as the old one in the hymn," responded the little girl very bravely.

"But what on earth do you mean, child? What hymn?"

"Why, you know the one I mean," explained the woolly animal's owner, "Gladly my cross-eyed bear!"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Al. Smith's Temperance.

Mr. Editor—The democratic candidate for the presidency has at length got his acceptance speech off his chest. He is very clear on woman's rights and all that pertains to the claims of her sex to equal privileges with the male, but this is a dead issue and he will be compelled to meet the enfranchised woman on the more potent issue now before the American nation—"Rum or No Rum."

The woman's right to open the pay envelope of her husband and find it complete and not half or wholly pilfered to the benefit of the nearby liquor saloon, which Mr. Smith's policy would restore as an antidote to prohibition and the Volstead constitutional law, which has done away with the saloon and in many instances made decent men of the bartenders.

Let us not blink the good effects of prohibition by bad lawless acts of the "bootlegger."

Mr. Smith says he believes in temperance, but his kind of temperance has cursed the world since the flood and Noah's time. Mr. Smith's temperance man is the one who professes he "can drink or let it alone." He proved that he can drink by doing so, but he doesn't prove that he can let it alone by abstaining. Mr. Smith is depending for his election to the head of this nation by the votes of such temperance men as this, and the question is do such men exist in numbers sufficient to place him or do they represent the best element of society or the typical American character? We think they do not, because they should not. This nation under God should stand for an example and having begun a good work should perfect it to the end. Make our nation clean of the alcoholic curse and do it as plainly at this time at the top as it has been so well accomplished at the bottom of society.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Painful Lesson

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Wisdom we must oft obtain
Through experience and pain.
—Mrs. Yowler.

Mrs. Yowler was a watchful mother. The two young Yowlers were getting big enough now to go venturing for themselves, more or less. That is to say, they would in the dusk of early evening go hunt for wood mice around the ledges where their home was. They didn't have to be taught to hunt. The love of hunting and the knowledge of how to hunt was born in them. You see, their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Yowler, are famous hunters.

At first they had been satisfied to hunt such things as beetles and other large insects. They would pounce on these just as Black Pussy would pounce on a mouse. They would utter funny little fierce growls. But as they grew bigger insects were too small game. One day their mother brought them a young hare. Another time she brought them a young grouse. After that they were always looking for young hares and young grouse.

But even when they were, as they supposed, hunting by themselves, their mother would keep a watchful eye on them. She had a way of suddenly appearing just in time to show them how to do a thing, or to warn them against doing a thing. But she couldn't be with them all the time, for she herself had to hunt, and so they had to learn some lessons for themselves.

It happened one evening that while mother was off hunting the two kittens had strayed a little farther than usual. Presently they heard a strange rustling sound. It frightened them, yet it filled them with curiosity. They flattened themselves on the ground behind a fallen tree trunk. They hugged the ground as only kittens or cats can. The funny little stub tails twitched, but otherwise there was no movement. Out from behind the top of a fallen tree slowly waddled a stranger. Never before had they seen anyone like this. He was grunting to himself fretfully. He had a fur coat with long hair, but in that hair there seemed to be something that rattled and rustled. The kittens couldn't understand it at all. The stranger climbed up on one end of that tree trunk and began to slowly walk along it. Behind him he dragged a queer,

He looked neither this way nor that way rather broad, stubby tail. He didn't

try to hold it up. He looked neither this way nor that way. He wouldn't have seen the kittens if he had looked right at them, for they were so motionless that it would have taken sharper eyes than those of the stranger to have found them.

And how those kittens did stare! The stranger was too big for them to think of attacking him. But even to their inexperience he appeared to be a stupid fellow. Certainly no one like that could run fast. At the thought of this the spirit of mischief entered into one of those kittens. The stranger had stopped and was now sitting back to the kittens, his tail hanging down in front of them in the most provoking manner. The mischievous kitten stood it just as long as he could. Then he reached out with one paw and cuffed that hanging tail. He didn't cuff it but once. No, sir, he didn't cuff that tail but once! Then he gave vent to a screech that so startled his sister that the latter ran all the way to the home den in the ledge of rocks as fast as her legs could take her. You see, the owner of that tantalizing tail was none other than Prickly Porky the Porcupine.

When used daily after a baby's bath it keeps the skin free from chafing, rashes, scalding and soreness. There is nothing like it."—Mrs. Sadie A. Soper, Nurse, Peekskill, N. Y.

The reason Sykes Comfort Powder is successful in such cases is because it contains six healing, antiseptic ingredients not found in ordinary talcums.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — Despite the vast, complicated, interlocking machinery of government in Washington which is supposed to tuck in all loose ends on government jobs, legislative or executive, there are two clear cut recent cases that prove the government still moves steady-by-jerks at times. This refers to just ordinary, little matters of no great consequence and involving no controversy: not to prohibition enforcement whirlpools of conflicting views.

Present day passersby along West Executive avenue, which flanks the White House grounds on the sundown side, are prone to wonder in what recent revolution the White House was under gunfire, unreported by the press.

They observe, where West Executive debauches on Pennsylvania avenue, massive granite pillars from which gates designed to secure greater presidential exclusiveness once hung. The pillars are now scarred with what might well be shell holes, gaping in cynical disrespect at the fine old gardens, trim lawns, carefully kept pathways and general conditions of order and sightliness that surround them.

What has happened is this: Congress donated the handsome old iron gates to the Ohio State Historical society for use in a suitable memorial out where so many presidents were born. Funds to take down and ship the ironwork were provided, actually because district authorities wanted to open West Executive for an additional traffic lane to ease the vehicular jams to which Washington is plainfully subject.

The gates have gone; but congress did not furnish funds to remove the five-foot square, fifteen-foot high granite posts which still are scarred, unsightly traffic corks in the neck of the West Executive avenue bottle.

The other case had a peculiarly personal aspect for Major General B. Frank Cheatham, quartermaster general of the army and a son of an illustrious Confederate general. It was his job to carry out the decree of congress for removal of a Confederate monument in an Indiangnolis cemetery, marking the graves of 1,616 Confederate soldiers who died as prisoners of war in the Union prison camp there, to Garfield Memorial park in the same city. But congress again failed to make a complete job of it and provided no authority or funds to transfer the dust of the southern veterans or to remake their graves beneath the shifted monument.

Burmese Kites

Indolence seems to be the strongest characteristic of the Burmese. One traveler goes so far as to say that one day's work and four days' rest is their idea of industry. The same authority, an American, states, however, that these people use up considerable energy in kite flying, an amusement at which they spend much time and which they enjoy to the utmost. Their method of operation is most simple.

A Burmese cuts and trims two 12-inch slips of bamboo, crosses and ties them in their center, runs a thread around the four tips and pastes upon this frame one thickness of paper. Then he fastens a nail or a small screw but to one corner, and the kite is made.

The altitude to which a well-made kite of this kind will go is wonderful and the highest breath of wind will take it up. A hundred and fifty or 200 yards of strong sewing thread in diameter and eight inches in length, completes the equipment.

Then, having started the kite by a process of gentle playing, the Burmese squats down in the middle of the street, so as to keep his thread clear of the houses, and lets the kite help itself.

In Rangoon, on a still morning or evening, hundreds of kites float over the Burmese quarter of the town, some nearly out of town, some hovering just above the roofs of the houses. When driving one frequently has to balloo out of the way a middle-aged man who is backing slowly down in the middle of the road, coaxing his kite down.

STATE'S LARGEST GAS PLANT OPENS SEPT. 20

Following more than a year of construction work, Connecticut's largest gas manufacturing plant and the Connecticut Coke Co., located at tidewater at New Haven will be completed and will begin to furnish gas service to six Connecticut cities on or about Sept. 20. This plant will furnish the gas supply of the New Haven Gas Light Co., the Hartford Gas Co., and of the branches of the Connecticut Light & Power Co. in Meriden, Middletown, Bristol and Plainville.

The new plant has a capacity of producing nearly 20,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day and of producing between 700 and 800 tons of coke per day. Its capacity is more than double that of any gas manufacturing plant located in Connecticut today. At the start of its operations, the full capacity of the plant will not be used, only about 14,000,000 cubic feet of gas being planned as the daily output at the outset. The location of the plant at tidewater enables the transportation of fuel to it by sea, a factor trending toward economy.

In order to furnish gas to the six cities named above, it was necessary to connect all of them by means of a long distance transmission line, about 40 miles in length. This is the first attempt made in Connecticut to link gas plants in various cities into an interconnected system similar to that of the light and power companies. Long distance transmission is made possible by means of high pressure distribution systems developed within the past few years. Service failures are guarded against by auxiliary holders located in the cities served, so that gas may be delivered temporarily from either direction.

WILLIAM THORNTON KILLED WHEN AUTO WENT OVER EMBANKMENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

STERLING, Aug. 23—Coroner Arthur G. Bill and a detail of state police from the Danielson barracks spent much of today trying to ascertain definitely all of the circumstances surounding an automobile accident in which William Thornton, 23, of 15 Armington street, Edgewood, R. I., lost his life at Sterling sometime during the early hours of this morning, probably shortly after midnight.

Thornton was riding in the rumble seat of a Pontiac roadster when the driver of the machine, Joseph C. Austin, 24, employed at Glasgo, but whose home is in Greeneville, R. I., accidently backed the machine off a steep embankment on a short detour near where a new bridge is being put in on the Moosup-Providence highway. The car evidently flashed backward down the embankment, which is just over 25 feet in height, and came to a halt in a clump of brush. Thornton's neck was broken in the crash and he is believed to have died almost instantly. Residents in the neighborhood were awakened by the commotion occasioned by the accident.

State officers and Coroner Arthur G. Bill were notified and proceeded to Sterling. Coroner Bill said today that he subjected Austin to questioning at the scene of the accident. The coroner said Austin told him that he and Thornton, both of whom were employed in a finishing plant at Glasgo, left that community about 7:30 last night and had been riding about all evening. He denied that they had gone to any particular place and accounted for some of the time by saying that a tire on the car had to be changed. He also told the coroner in the presence of witnesses that he and Thornton were alone in the car when the accident occurred and explained that Thornton had been riding in the rumble seat because it was a warm evening and his companion had complained that the floor boards of the car were too hot and uncomfortable for him to remain seated beside the driver.

During the course of today Coroner Bill put Austin, who had been held at the state barracks here while the investigation of the accident was in progress, under oath and questioned him at length. Following this session the coroner asserted that Austin's statements of the early morning hours were at considerable variance with facts later developed, and that there was reason to believe that two other men were in the car when it took the fatal plunge.

During the course of this afternoon Austin was released under bonds furnished by an official of the plant where he is regarded as a valuable employe. Coroner Bill said late this afternoon that he had received a telephone message from Austin, then at his home in Rhode Island, seeking an agreement to come here for a further conference with the coroner on Friday and that he had agreed to such an arrangement. Meantime state officers were seeking out the other two men now believed to have been in the car at the time of the accident, from which Austin escaped with very minor injuries.

From the officials' checkups of the affair it would appear that Austin's car lost speed going up rather a rough and difficult grade on the detour, and that in an effort to change gears he shifted from high into reverse instead of into second, causing the car to start backward and over the edge of the embankment. Austin is an experienced driver, however.

State Officers James Carmody and Leslie Gordon made the investigation for their department.

ANNUAL OUTING OF GAS AND ELECTRIC DEPARTMENT

With perfect weather for the entire day, the first fine day experienced in three years at such an event, the annual outing of the members of the Norwich Gas and Electrical department and their guests was held at Ashland park, Jewett City, Thursday. The park was turned over to the large gathering for the day which was thoroughly enjoyed. It was voted the best outing ever held by the department. The sport programme and bake received special commendation.

The festivities of the day were opened by a baseball contest between the single men and the benedicts. There was strong rivalry throughout the game. The benedicts displayed unexpected knowledge of the national pastime, but they were exceeded in this respect by the single men, who came out on the long end of a 7 to 1 score. At the conclusion of the game the call for chowder came and the ball players and other members of the party did justice to the chowder served by King George Jacques.

In the afternoon, besides the indoor sports, comprising billiards, bowling and bridge, the sports programme was carried out in which a large number of the party contested for first honors. The results follow:

Men: standing jump, Archie Spalding, Charles Burdick; shot put, Ralph Bauer, E. J. Robski, Harold Littlejohn; three-legged race, Charles Severs, Archie Spalding; pipe race, John Bowker, Raoul Gauthier; 100 yard dash, Archie Spalding, Raoul Gauthier.

Women: potato race, Eleanor Willett, Mrs. H. E. Lawrence; dumb bell race, Isabelle Mulcahy, Eleanor Willett; 50 yard dash, Evelyn Wheeler, Edith Wheeler.

Boys under 14: standing jump, James Capello, Henry Pawlowski; dumb bell race, Ray Wheeler, Patsy Yeitz; 50 yard dash, Patsy Yeitz, James Capello.

Girls under 14: potato race, May Wheeler, Eleanor Rich; dumb bell race, Florence Fowler, Frances Canello; 50 yard dash, Florence Fowler, Mabel Menders.

Needle and thread contest, Frank Kreiger, Isabell Mulcahy.

A feature of the sports program was the swimming exhibition by Hal Chase's troupe of aquatic stars, who received applause for their program which included diving, fancy diving, swimming and stunts. This was followed by a lifesaving exhibition.

After the sports program the clambake prepared and served by King George was partaken of and all voted it one of the most delicious bakes ever served. The waitresses were Stella, Steffie, Victoria and Emily Misiaszczk, Minnie Segal, Stella Gaska, Eva Shorey, Helen Miss, Isabelle Scholas, Mary Belisle, Steffie Roberts, Evelyn Laframboise, Stella Bernal, Minnie and Jennie Magel, Helen Musel, Stella Bernal, Stella Marzoc, Mrs. F. Shannon, Mrs. Louis Gingras, Mrs. A. Belevance, Mrs. E. Sharkey, Miss Ruth Sayles, Miss Louise Maynard, Meda Mondor and Margaret Donohue.

The prizes for the wingers in the athletic events were awarded at the bake, after which dancing was enjoyed until late in the evening, the music being furnished by D'Atri's orchestra. Transportation to and from the park was furnished by bus and truck. The committee in charge is indebted to the Ashland Co., Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Chase and L. M. Carpenter for the use of the grounds.

CASE AGAINST LaCROIX CONTINUED TO SEPT. 8

Pending the finding of Coroner Edward G. McKay, the manslaughter case against Aime J. (Buck) LaCroix, 18, of Baltic, was continued until Sept. 8, by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Thursday morning. LaCroix was the driver of the machine which struck and fatally injured Frederick Whitehouse, 52, at Occum Wednesday night. The accident occurred about 8 o'clock just north of the Occum trolley switch.

LaCroix, who was accompanied by Jacob Gilot of Baltic, was driving towards this city when the car struck Mr. Whitehouse, fracturing his skull, five ribs, injuring his lungs and causing other injuries. LaCroix was released on bonds Thursday morning.

EACH CONNECTICUT RESIDENT OWES STATE TOTAL OF $9.95

According to a survey recently completed by the Bank of America National association, New York, every resident of Connecticut owes $9.95 toward the gross bonded debt of the state. This debt amounts to $16,291,100. Twenty-four other states have a larger gross bonded debt, while 27 states have a larger per capita debt.

COUPLE FINED DOLLAR EACH IN CITY COURT

Fines of one dollar each were imposed on Donato and Mary Porcelli, husband and wife, when they were presented before the city court Thursday morning on charges of interfering with an officer while he was attempting to serve replevin papers on furniture at their home. Wednesday, Constable Meyer Blumenthal went to their home to serve the papers. The couple had purchased the furniture, a bed and a stove, for which they did not make payment to the Interstate Furniture Co. of this city. Employes of the furniture company went with the officer to remove the furniture.

Porcelli refused to allow the furniture to be removed from the house. He told his wife to get in the bed. She did and stayed there, despite an effort by Constable Blumenthal to pull the mattress from beneath her. When he attempted to pull the mattress it is said that the woman grabbed the constable by the throat and that Porcelli struck him a blow on the chest.

With the aid of police, Constable Blumenthal arrested both the man and woman and the furniture men carried away the stove and bed. In court Thursday morning Porcelli stated that he had refused to allow the constable to remove the bed because there would be no place for his five children to sleep.

PHONE EXTENSIONS ARE COMING INTO USE

Extension telephones, never widely used in Connecticut previously, are now coming rapidly into their own in this state and their number has increased greatly during the first half of the current year, according to Southern New England Telephone Co. statistics. Increase in the use of extension telephones has come both in residences and in business establishments which are not sufficiently large to warrant the installation of private switchboards.

A large number of new extension telephones have been installed this year on the second floors of dwelling houses to supplement original installations on first floors. A few years ago, it was the custom to have but one telephone in a home. Today there is a largely growing tendency to have a second instrument installed on the same line on upper floors in order to avoid the necessity of running up and down stairs to make or answer calls. Second floor bedroom telephones have become especially popular.

SCHWARTZ BROS. PURCHASE MERIDEN FURNITURE STORE

Schwartz Bros. Inc., prominent furniture dealers in this city, have purchased the business of Griswold, Richmond and Glock company, furniture dealers in Meriden, according to an announcement made Thursday evening by Joseph Lahn, secretary and treasurer of the local company. The Meriden store is to be continued there under the trade name, Schwartz Bros., and Benjamin Lahn, vice president of the local firm will be the Meriden manager. Mr. Lahn will go to Meriden today (Friday) to complete plans for disposing of the stock, which was also purchased by the local firm.

Founded in 1854 the firm has kept pace with the growth and progress of Meriden until today it is recognized as one of the leading high grade and well known stores dealing in fine furniture in New England. The withdrawal of the company from the furniture business leaves Meriden minus one of that city's largest and outstanding retail establishments.

FILES SUIT FOR DAMAGES OF $7,500

Claiming that Fred H. Whitcomb of New London negligently and recklessly fired a shotgun, loaded with shot, on and into an outbuilding in Stafford Springs while he was within, Angelo Barel has brought suit for $7,500 against Whitcomb.

According to the complaint, Whitcomb, on July 31, 1928 without due care, fired his shotgun on and into the outbuilding, the shots going "through and penetrating" the boards and the door.

Barel claims that one shot wounded him in the left hand, another shot struck him in the mouth, dislocating his teeth, another shot struck him in the left arm, and several more shots entered his left eye, resulting in the partial loss of sight.

Barel claims that he was employed in a factory at a salary of $30 a week, but has since been unable to attend to his duties.

CONNECTICUT COLLEGE STARTS 14TH YEAR NEXT MONTH

Connecticut college will open next month for its 14th year of work, says an open letter to the alumnae. Continuing, the letter says: The freshman class, 170 in number, from 19 different states, and chosen from over 700 applicants whose complete credentials were actually considered, will be welcomed and introduced to the campus, the curriculum, and the faculty, during freshman week, Sept. 12-17. The first regular assembly of the entire college will occur in the gymnasium on Wednesday, Sept. 18.

Comparing the faculty of the coming year with that of last year, we find that of the 18 major departments, 17 continue under the same chairman as last year. With the exception of the resignation of President Marshall, there has been no change in the list of full professors. In the rank of associate professor, there is but one change. Of the 12 assistant professors, also, one only has resigned. Of the 14 men and women holding the rank of instructor, four have gone elsewhere to continue study or to teach.

For those members of the faculty who are retiring, we feel appreciation and gratitude, and we wish them success in full measure. For the new members of our faculty we bespeak a welcome. In the department of Biblical literature, we are pleased to announce the election of Dr. Paul Laubenstein to conduct the work in Bible and religious education and to serve as college pastor. Mr. Laubenstein, though of Lutheran ancestry, is now an ordained Congregational minister, a Phi Beta Kappa, graduate of Dickinson college in Carlisle, Pa., and of Union Theological seminary, with the degrees of B. A., M. A., B. D., and S. T. M., magna cum laude. He has taught at Oberlin college and at Fisk university in Nashville, Tenn. An article of his, "The Modern Well-Tempered Mind," appeared in the Atlantic Monthly for February, 1928, which shows him both as a thinker and as a clear and forcible writer.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Laubenstein are also accomplished musicians. In the department of fine arts, Professor Selden has arranged that the work in design shall be under the direction of Philip H. Pratt, head of the department of design in Pratt institute, Brooklyn. He will be assisted by Miss Helen S. McVeigh of Springfield, Mass., a graduate of the same institution, who taught last year at the Oklahoma Women's college. This department will also be strengthened by a lecture course on persnective by William S. Robinson of Old Lyme and New York city, a member of the National academy and a painter of note. The exhibition of paintings shown in Knowlton salon last autumn was by Mr. Robinson. He will make regular visits to the college to lecture and to be present at classes in drawing and painting. Mrs. Bessie Bloom Wessel returns to her position in the department of sociology after a three years' leave of absence for special work. Additions to the teaching force are being made in the departments of botany, classical philology and physics. Miss Alice Ramsay, class of 1923, has been secured as director of the personnel bureau. Miss Ramsay received the degree of master of arts from Columbia university for work in psychology and related fields, including personnel work, last June. She will return from a summer in Europe in time for the opening of college.

The members of the Central Baptist church and of the church Sunday school were guests of Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, pastor of the church, and Mrs. Pitt, at a picnic held on the lawn of their summer home, Pine Lodge, in Voluntown, Thursday afternoon. Supper was served on the grounds and included sandwiches, cake, salad and lemonade, after which a song service was given. In the afternoon games were played including a ball game.

Old time favorites, new boys, high class boxers and last but not least, scrappers who are treading the comeback trail are all to be found in the above list. While the collection of talent is real attractive and includes the cream of the east the attention of local fandom will be centered around its own champion, Jimmy Quinn of Greeneville, king of the Connecticut featherweights. Jimmy, probably the cleverest boy ever to enter the amateur ranks from Norwich will be accorded the place of honor in the main attraction with some boy equally as fast as he.

Norwich will have several other favorites, while Versailles has its Dugas, Jewett City its Bontempo and Salinski, Taftville Gauvin and Dempsky, Westerly Chape and Maringalo, Danielson, Bishop, and the Brouillard brothers and last but not least the public in general one of the biggest attractions ever brought here, four topnotchers from Boston.

Although the fans crave new matches and different faces at every show still they like an occasional rematch. One rematch, that sure will fit in handily would be a return scrap between Clyde Brouillard of Danielson and Tony Maringalo of Westerly. Those who saw these two slug through three rounds at the last show in what was described as an extra bout, would no doubt welcome the sight of the pair in the ring at the same time again. There is a strong possibility of a rematch here as both boys are entered for the bouts in the 135 pound class.

While the Duwells advertise a card of ten bouts it is understood that there is a possibility of extra scraps if the crowd warrants it.

The officials for tonight's bouts will be: Referee, Frankie Busch; timer, Jack Carney; judges, Jackie Wilson and Mike Kelly; examining doctor, Dr. David Sussier; announcer, William Fedace.

Weather permitting, the largest crowd ever to witness an event of the kind should turn out for the bouts. Anticipating a record breaking crowd the Duwells have made arrangements to seat 1,500 fans. Should the weather be such that the bouts must be called off, the show will be put on Saturday night at 9 o'clock.

CARDS HAVE ONLY HAIRLINE MARGIN OVER THE GIANTS

(By The Associated Press.)

The St. Louis Cardinals were kicked up stairs into the National league lead yesterday when the Pirates held the Giants to an even break in a double header. The Red Birds just did clutch the parapet by the barest fraction of a percentage point—.00015—but if the season had ended last night, the pennant would be theirs.

While the Cardinals may be expected to take a firmer hold upon the lead while disporting with the Phillies at a moment which finds the Giants embattled in Pittsburgh, still other teams may be expected to figure in the hectic donnybrook — for the present at least. The Pirates in fifth place are only five games and one-half games behind the leading Cardinals!

The situation in the American league remains practically unchanged, although the Athletics did shave half a game from the Yankees' lead yesterday by winning while the Hugmen were idle. The A's nevertheless remain five losing games behind the Yankees, and the ones lost are those which really count.

WANER DROPS POINT IN YESTERDAY'S GAMES

(By The Associated Press)

Paul Waner and Harry Heilmann, the only members of the big six in action yesterday, failed to profit from their monopoly of the field. The Pittsburgh star got only three out of nine in the double-header against the Giants, and instead of cutting into the lead of the idle Hornsby, actually fell off one point to .371. Paul nevertheless remains close enough to the pace setter to cause the Bostonian much worry.

Harry Heilmann had nothing whatever to show for four visits to the plate yesterday, and dropped two points to .292.

TIGHT BATTLE EXPECTED TOMORROW AT TAFTVILLE

Since the two teams got together July 12 at Kensington and Taftville won the game 3 to 2, it is going to be rather hard to pick a winner in Saturday's encounter.

After trimming the Voluntown-Glasgo outfit here Saturday 4 to 3 in a thrilling eleven inning game, Taftville journeyed to Kensington the following day and had their hands full coming out the winner 3 to 2 in an equally thrilling game which was not won until the last of the ninth and two were out.

Kensington is coming down here Saturday afternoon, chock full of confidence and hopes of taking over their rivals. If it is within the power of Freddie West, former U. of P. twirler to stop Taftville he will do his best to do it, and his best was almost enough in the last game. Returned in a wonderful game and really should have chalked up a win, and probably would have if Taftville's fighting spirit had waned the least little bit.

Lloyd Jarvis is slated to take the pitching honors for Taftville and it is expected that he can and will send Kensington back home with the short end of the score. Tony West pitched against the up-staters in the last encounter and did nobly. Jarvis's past performances this season, will make him a favorite with the local fans, regardless of who opposes him. But this boy West is going to give Lloyd some real opposition.

Bob Christy will be back in the lineup after a brief layoff and will help the team both in the field and with the stick. The rest of the regular lineup will be back of Jarvis.

REDS IN THIRD PLACE AFTER BEATING ROBINS TWICE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 23—(AP)—The Reds remained a factor in the pennant race by sweeping both ends of a double header against the Brooklyn Robins here today, 2 to 0 and 6 to 1. The double success of the Hendricks arms carried the Reds to third place above the idle Cubs and only three and one-half games behind the new leaders, the Cardinals—or the old ones restored.

The only flaw in the arrangement is that most of the difference between the Reds and the second place Giants is in the losing column.

Ray Kolp held the Robins to three hits in the opener while the Reds were deftly bunching their seven off Bill Doak in such a manner that two runs resulted.

Kenneth Ash, a recruit from the Cincinnati farm at Columbus, amazed his admirers in the second clash, in which gave Brooklyn just six hits while his mates were clubbing Ray Moss and Rube Ehrhardt. George Kelly led the Cincinnati attack with a home run with two on in the third. Score:

BOSTON, Aug. 23—(AP)—Detroit again defeated Boston by a one run margin today 2 to 1, its fourth victory in three days by that margin. RAIN CAUSES HALT IN FOREST HILLS TENNIS

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 23—(AP)—Postponement of play in the women's national tennis championship today for the second time in two days because of rain threatened to deprive Miss Helen Wills of a chance to try to add the national mixed doubles championship to her collection.

Besides, trying for the singles and women's doubles titles here, Miss Wills said this afternoon she has entered the mixed event in the national doubles championships at Boston next week paired with John B. Hawkes, left-handed Australian star.

As rain continued falling Miss Wills in tennis garb on the porch of the West Side Tennis club, looked out on the sodden courts and decided the chances of playing at Boston are slim. The second straight postponement made it totally impossible to wind up the present tournament by Saturday as scheduled and probably will put off the final until Tuesday. It is on Tuesday that the mixed doubles tourney is to start at the Longwood Cricket club, Boston.

Only once has Miss Wills succeeded in winning all three of the U. S. championships open to her. That was in 1924 when she gained the women's doubles title with Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman and the mixed doubles with Vincent Richards besides winning in singles. She would very much like to make another clean sweep and may yet attempt it provided she will have to start in mixed doubles no more than a day behind the field.

The contestants, anxious to have it over with, consented to a "tennis double header" tomorrow beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning even though it might mean playing three or even four matches in one day.

PIRATES PULL GIANTS OUT OF FIRST PLACE

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 23—(AP)—The aspiring Buccaneers, themselves only five and one-half games from the lead, halted the Giant advance with such effect today that John Joseph McGraw found himself looking up at the Cardinals again tonight, even if the margin was only one percentage point. After the New Yorkers had brutally assaulted Carmen Hill while he had his glasses on to take the first game by 6 to 3, the Pirates retaliated against four Giant hurlers with sufficent vigor to bag the second clash by 13 to 3.

This even division cost the Giants two percentage points, and since the Robins were not on hand to trim St. Louis, dropped the New York entry one point below the Red Birds, who were idle today. The Cards remained half a game ahead of McGraw—as they have remained all through their brief reign at the top on percentage.

The prospect of seeing Giant blood strewn about the premises drew 30,000 fans to Forbes field, the largest crowd of the local season. The Giants cast gloom over the vast assemblage when they peppered Hill for five runs in the eighth round of the opener to win Larry Benton's twenty-first victory of the season. A home run by Frank O'Doul with one on and a triple by Terry with two on encompassed the fall of Prof. Hill.

Benton missed his twenty-fourth complete game as he gave way to a pinch batsman just as the Giant fun started in the eighth. Old Jack Scott, recently rescued from Toledo by McGraw, held the Pirates hitless in the last two rounds to make his third debut in New York trappings.

Carl Hubbell, Jim Faulkner, Chester Nicholls and Vic Aldredge were combed for fourteen hits in the nightcap, including among which were home runs by George Grantham and Lloyd Waner. Fred Fussell was a steady man for the Pirates. Adams accepted 13 chances in the two games, making a new season's record for an infielder. He has handled 158 without an error. Score:

MILLER AND DOWD WIN PRO MATCH 6 AND 4 AT OXFORD COUNTRY CLUB

Massie B. Miller, pro at the Norwich Golf club, teamed with Jim Dowd of Winnapaug Golf club of Westerly, R. I., in a match with Eric Edwards, pro at the Oxford Country club and "Red" House, pro at the Ludlow Country club, yesterday at the Oxford club showed a large gallery of Chicopee Falls golfers the most brilliant exhibition of the royal and ancient game since the reknowned Hagen set a course record of 65 several years ago. The match was for 36 holes and Miller and Dowd won 6 and 4, being five up at the end of the first 18 holes. The match was played in more or less of a drizzle but the brand of golf that was being displayed held the large gallery until the final hole.

Miller with his 68 for the morning round and his 74 for the afternoon led the foursome and was 12 strokes under Edwards who had 154 for the 36 holes. The scores were Miller, 68-74--142; Dowd, 84-77—161; Edwards, 79-75—154; House 82-76—158. Miller's morning round was the feature round of the match and is the only round under 70 since Walter Hagen turned in his record 65 some years ago. After getting away to a bad start on the first hole Massie started shooting par golf into which he sprinkled five birdies bringing him home at the first round four under par.

Edwards and House won the first hole and took the honor in driving off on the second but this was the last time they held the honor until late in the afternoon. At the 27th hole Miller and Dowd were 7 up and then taking the 28th they had Edwards and House dormie 8. The Massachusetts pros then snapped into the game and caged three birdies in succession with five holes to go. Miller, with a birdie three on the 32nd, won the match 6 and 4.

Miller's driving in the match was one of the high lights of the play all his drives being 25 to 50 yards beyond any of the other members of the foursome. It was the terrific power of his tee shots that amazed the gallery and also made his second shots on blind holes much easier. With his long driving Miller used but four clubs, a putter, niblick, mashie-niblick and a spademashie.

Miller's card for the morning round was:

Par:
Out .....4 3 5 4 4 4 4 4 4—36
In .....4 3 5 4 4 4 4 4 4—36—72

Miller:
Out .....5 3 5 3 4 3 4 4 4—35
In .....4 3 5 3 4 4 4 3 3—33—68

A return match will be played at the Norwich course on next Thursday between the same foursome.

GROVE PITCHES ATHLETICS TO 3 TO 1 WIN OVER INDIANS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23—(AP)—Bob Grove, southpaw of the Athletics pitching staff, hurled the Mackmen to within 4 1-2 games of the league leading New York Yankees today by defeating Cleveland, 3 to 1.

Grove had his strike out ball working in great style and blanked the tribe until the ninth inning when Summa scored Lind with a single to left.

In the second inning Grove fanned Morgan, Harvel and Autry on nine straight strikes without permitting even a foul. Continuing in the third stanza, Grove fanned Miller and had a record of 15 strikes, one of which was a foul ball, before he threw a ball wide of the plate to Langford. His next pitch then fanned the Indian lead off man, giving Grove five strike outs on seventeen pitched balls.

The Mackmen clinched the game in the third inning when Bishop doubled, Cochrane walked and both men scored after a successful double steal on a wild throw to third by Catcher Autry. Mickey Cochrane batted in a run in the first inning when he ducked a pitch and the ball hit his bat, caroming to left field for a single that scored Bishop from second base.

Y JUNIORS SINK DUWELLS IN MIRE

Although the champion of the Junior Twilight league is still to be decided the last place berth is a decided issue. As a result of their defeat last night at the hands of the Y. M. C. A. the Duwells are the winners of the booby prize in the circuit. The 8 to 2 defeat inflicted upon the Duwells by the Y in the final game on the schedule of either team was the ninth enjoyed by the tailenders during the season. Their only win was at the expense of the Elks.

Last night's game although played in fast time was hardly as good as might be expected. The Y played errorless ball behind the pitching of Orsulak but the Duwells were not so good. Four errors at critical moments aided the winners in converting their nine hits into runs.

Dierman, Y first baseman, led the hitters with three safeties in five times at bat, while Snooks Lacey, substitute Duwell outfielder, pushed over the only runs of his team with a screeching single in the fifth.

BEAUREGARD GETS VERDICT OVER LITTLE JOEY DUGGAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Aug. 23—Al Beauregard, of Taftville, jabbed and slugged his way to an easy win over Joey Duggan, of New London, here, tonight in the feature bout of the card at St. Michael's K. of C. arena. Beauregard, after being shaded by Duggan in the first two rounds, stepped out and peppered Duggan with hooks and jabs during the remainder of the fight scoring one knockdown in the fourth round. It was Beauregard's hitting power that beat the game little New Londoner into submission and Joey was pretty well tagged out at the final bell.

TUNNEY VISITS LAND OF HIS ANCESTORS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 23—(AP)—Gene Tunney came to the land of his ancestors today and thousands of admirers greeted him with wild Irish cheers. So great was the press of the crowd at Kingstown, where he landed, that members of the reception committee had the greatest difficulty in getting him to the car which was to carry him to Dublin.

All along the route to the Free State capital, countrymen were lined to greet the retired heavyweight champion of the world with shouts and broad smiles. At Dublin Tunney immediately proceeded to government house where he was received by President Cosgrave. Later he held a reception at his hotel and signed autographs for all who asked them.

Questioned regarding the report that he intended to be married in Paris Tunney told the Associated Press:

"The statement attributed to me announcing my marriage in Paris is inaccurate and groundless as I have made no mention of the subject to anyone at any time."

THOUGHT SEAL HAD CARRIED OFF CHILD

The visit of a seal which was said to have seized a small child just east of the Atlantic Beach Casino and then to have gone to sea again and a report to the Watch Hill Coast Guard station from Weekapaug that the body of a child was floating on the surface of the ocean coming almost simultaneously threw cottagers and other visitors to the shore into fits of excitement early Monday evening.

A woman, Italian by nationality, was spending the day with her children on the beach east of the casino. When it came near time to go home the mother took count of her children and finding that the number present and accounted for did not tally with the number with which she arrived at the beach set up a general alarm to the effect that one of her children was missing.

The belief that her child had been drowned sent the poor woman into hysterics with the result that she was unable to impart in clear fashion to her would-be aids the tragedy that she felt to be impending. Those who rushed to her assistance gathered something to the effect that a child was among the missing. While some sought to console the distracted mother others commenced to formulate theories as to the whereabouts of the missing offspring.

Very appropriately and just in the nick of time an animal with a head similar to that of a large St. Bernard dog was seen making way toward the open sea. Someone evidently imagined that the hair seal, for that is the colloquial name under which the hairy animal would be classed, had something in its mouth. Anyway, the general cry went up that a sea lion was making off with the missing child. At that time the animal was heading in the general direction of Weekapaug. Pursuit was started along the beach. But it is said that the seal was traveling so fast that it was impossible for those on foot to catch up. The animal evidently enjoyed the race, for its course was maintained parallel to the shore. The pursuers were finally obliged to give up and the seal went off unmolested.

In the meantime back at the original scene of the supposed calamity someone had chanced to peek in the car belonging to the woman whose child was lost, which was parked just off the road. There, the child was found to be peacefully sleeping, perfectly innocent of the immense amount of energy being expended on the beach in her behalf. And so mother and child were again united.

The Watch Hill Coast Guard station had been called and had been informed, according to a coast guardsman, that a child's body was floating on the surface. A crew immediately set out in a cutter, while other guardsmen went by auto.

IT'S THE paraffine base that makes the New Veedol stand up and take the worst punishment a motor can give.

The New Veedol lasts longer and keeps motors sweet and cool. It is tougher, heavier-bodied, super-heat resisting, and it pays its way in money saved. In the sky it flies with the greatest aviators. Commander Byrd has chosen it for his South Pole flight. On the land it is the choice of the wisest motorists, because airplane motors and modern automobiles are very much alike. High speed. Heat. 49 Years Ago
Mr. Reid and Mr. Hughes bought out the business of James Simpson & Company located on the first floor and in the basement of the Williams building, where part of the store still is today. A general line of dry goods and notions were then carried, and it was a common practice to display much of the merchandise on the sidewalks to attract passersby. In 1899 the partnership was incorporated under the name of the Reid & Hughes Company under which name the business is still conducted.

NOANK

EX-SERVICE MAN PATIENT AT VINEYARD HAVEN HOSPITAL

Word has been received in the village from Nantucket, Mass., by Mrs. Nellie Carson, telling of a former Noank young man, Harold Murphy, who fishes out of that port and who met with a bad accident. While out at the fishing grounds, the engine of the boat back-fired, setting his clothes afire. A coast guard boat was doing patrol duty and they saw the young man in trouble, giving first aid. They rushed him to Vineyard Haven hospital where the doctors found him burned from head to foot. Done up in bandages on his cot, no one can see him and he is fighting for life. It will be several days before they will know about his condition, as it is the worst case ever taken to that hospital. It will be four months before he will be able to go fishing if his condition turns out all right. This makes his third accident in three months. Once he fell overboard in 80 feet of water and could not swim. With a rope on his leg, he stayed in the water many hours before he was seen by a boat passing by. Capt Murphy fishes alone and is called Robinson Crusoe by his brother fishermen at the dock. When the war broke out he went and served his country serving eighteen months in France. He saw some heavy fighting yet came back without a scratch.

Orlando Clark, a boat builder at Toger's yard, after his day's work was done recently, got his crab net and went in his boat, Teddy, for a catch of crabs. He was gone two hours and had a catch of 245 crabs. One was 8 inches long and weighed 1 1-4 pounds, the largest crab caught this season. It leaked out at the boat-yard that it was Owner Freeman Rogers' birthday Wednesday. A party was planned and Clark brought along the crabs and had a supper of crabs cooked all kinds of ways. A large birthday cake was baked by Miss Betty Scott and had 53 candles on it, but Owner Rogers would not tell his age. The boat builders of his shop gave him a large box which was presented by Jack Ebbets. In it was a smoking coat with a new pipe that came from Italy. Mr. Rogers thanked his men for the kind and useful gift. Foreman Parker Wildes told about a strange sea captain from Newport, R. I., with his boat, fight at Rogers' dock one Sunday afternoon, when he was in a hurry to get away for an auto ride with a rope in the wheel. So getting on his bathing suit and taking a knife in his mouth, he dove into the water and cut the rope and was under water for 5 minutes. Capt. Ben Langson, of the boat, gave him a $5 as a present. A short birthday program was put on. The Boat Shop Trio sang "Get Out and Get Under the Moon." Gordon Clark gave a hand saw solo, "Keep in the Middle of the Road"; Jack Ebbets tried out his sweet potato whistle that came from Austin Lamb's, in Ledyard, 20 years ago, and several good tunes were enjoyed. Everybody sang, "Glad That Our Boss Was Not Born in Leap Year."

Edwin Rollins has gone to Stratford to work for the winter on a large steam ship.

Mrs. Duncan McDonald is visiting relatives in Cambridge, Mass.

Mrs. Charles Bulson has returned from a short visit in Boston.

Engineer Lewis Grant, of the New Haven railroad, after putting away his engine for the day, started home from Midway in his Ford car. Getting near Fishtown, he saw some blackberries in the woods and stopped to pick berries for a good piece of blackberry pie. After picking for about 20 minutes, he came across an automobile that was about new; it had no number plates and several spots of rust on the hood from the rain. After getting a pailful of berries he started for his home in the fishing village. Then calling up Night Cop Scroggins about the abandoned car, he and the engineer went out so the officer could see who owned it. But he could not find out. So getting the state police on the job, after two policemen came over from Groton, they ordered the auto taken to the state police headquarters for a while to see if the owner would show up. It might have been stolen by a ring of auto thieves who put it here in a hurry; or the collector might have come when it was half paid for, and maybe the owner had to get out in a hurry.

Capt. Elihu Rathbun, of Fishers Island, spent Wednesday at his home.

All the carpenters of Noank, Groton Long Point and Mystic who belong to the local Carpenters' union met at their rooms on Pearl street, laid down their tools for the day and waited for a truck from out of town to take them to Lantern Hill for their first outing. About 40 were on the truck, saying "We are off for a good time!" It was 11 o'clock when the carpenters reached Lantern Hill. At the cottage June Bug Steward Jesse Bennett got busy, with four strong men helpers, for a real Mumford Cove clam chowder, with side dishes of green corn and baked crabs, and dessert of cake, with coffee. After putting away a $1.50 meal at any seashore resort, races were on the list for the afternoon. A pie race was a feature. Six were in the race, with their hands tied behind them, and the one to eat the pie first won a prize. It was blueberry pie. Some fun! Charles Smith was first, winning a new hammer; Steve Austin coming in second. A single oar rowboat race took place for 100 yards. Billie Fitzgerald was pulling hard near the finish line ahead of Rodney Campbell when Fitzgerald broke an oar. Campbell won by two boat lengths. A fat men's running race for 75 yards came next, with 260-pound men ready to go. Douglas McDonald, Steve Austin and P. Wallace started. H. Mallory fired the pistol. Puffing like a long freight engine with a 100-car train, D. McDonald came in ahead of P. Wallace by only four feet. Austin's wind gave out and he had to drop out to catch it. A three-legged race was next, the sports hopping along with Mallory and Wolverston in the lead about all the way. When the turn came Paul and Elliott Bennett gave two jumps that won the race. Swimming under water for 4 minutes and 2 seconds, Rodney Campbell beat out D. McDonald by 6 seconds. The party returned to the village at a late hour.

Odors That Kill Germs.

The odor of clover kills microbes in 15 minutes, while typhoid fever bacteria are killed by essence of cinnamon in 15 minutes, according to a statement made by an English experimenter. For nearly two years upholstery in which quantities of these plants have been mixed has remained germproof.

CO-OPERATION OFFERS MOST TO FARMERS

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

Quacks are by no means confined to medicine. They exist in all directions and among all classes.

Just what is a quack? I don't happen to know the dictionary definition and am too lazy, this morning, to look it up. But in common speech and the common understanding a quack is a chap who undertakes to cure you of whatever ails you by the simple administration of his special pill or dose or bolus or treatment. It makes small difference whether the ailment be chronic or acute or whether learned physicians have treated it in vain.

"Here," cries the quack, holding up his fancy-wrapped bottle, "is My Universal Panacea for All the Ills Humanity Endures. Buy one bottle at ONLY fifty cents and bid farewell to all your aches and pains. It stops toothache, ends dyspepsy, cures diabetes and abolishes rheumatiz instanter. Absolutely sure, whether taken internally or externally. Jest as good for cholera as for constipation. Cures consumption and removes bunions, ONLY half a dollar. Here you-uns, sir; who takes the next bottle?"

And the world seems to be full of sapheads able to cough up their half-dollars for the quack's colored water, and perfectly willing to do so.

He does a flourishing business not only in the medical world but in that of politics and religion and ethics and business. Witness such outstanding examples as Bryan and Billy Sunday and Wayne Wheeler and Woolworth of "the five and ten."

Farming, of course, has its contingent. The average "barker" has a highly cityfied contempt for the intelligence of "country rubes," and an insatiable appetite for their half-dollars. But not all the quacks who set out to cure the ills of farming are mere "barkers." Some are perfectly sincere, though too narrow-minded to approve any road but their own. Some are well-intentioned, but too short-sighted to see the obstables in the route they point out. Some are fairly intelligent, but so bigoted and "set" as to be impervious to reason. Some are so superficial-minded that they never do anything more than scratch the surface—utterly fail to dig down to bottom facts. Some are one thing and some are another, but they're all convinced that they know just what is the matter with agriculture and that their cure-all will set it right up on its pins again.

Now it is, of course, possible that God might have made some panacea for all diseases, some cure-all for every affliction, some remedy for every evil of body, mind, or estate. It is equally certain that, if He ever did make such a thing, nobody on earth has ever been able to find it. We have discovered that quinine is pretty nearly an antidote to the poison of malaria. But it won't cure Bright's disease. And insulin which is said to be helpful against that latter is not, so far as I've heard, claimed to be a cure for snake-bite.

A good many of us who have spent weary years digging around among the grass-roots feel that co-operation would be a big help in various farm problems. But the minute we begin to speak or write in favor of it, we find that it, too, is being advertised by a lot of agricultural quacks as a cure-all for everything that's wrong with farming.

Which it isn't; never was and never will be.

Our farm troubles are so many, so varied, so diverse, so perniceltily individual that what would be good medicine for Jones' might be deadly poison for Smith's. Any pretense that any scheme, no matter how benevolently conceived, nor how cleverly planned, will meet all the emergencies of all the farmers between Eastport and Santa Barbara is, on the face of it, absurd.

The problem of the big wheat-grower of Kansas, for instance, is to find a world market for his buckets of wheat, millions on millions of them.

The problem of the Long Island truck-grower is to advance the earliness of his crops, increase their productivity, and reduce the cost of production.

The problem of the Connecticut or New Hampshire farmer is, often, how to keep the boys and girls from deserting the farm for the factory or the shop or the office.

And so on and so on, through an almost infinite variety of minor problems.

Human wit hasn't yet been able to find a way by which a man can be in two different places at the same time. Nor has it developed any rule or formula by which he can do two different things at exactly the same time. Nor a solution to today's crossword puzzle which will exactly fit last week's.

Any assumption that co-operation can or will do everything is simply a harm to the cause itself. It can't be both wet and dry, round and square, cold and hot, at the same time. Even the slowest witted "country rube" sees this, sooner or later, and then he loses confidence in it. Which is unfortunate.

For, despite its admitted limitations and the manifest restriction of its application, co-operation of farmers with farmers, for farm purposes and under farmer control, seems to promise the best results of any system yet suggested.

If only the politicians and congressmen will keep their muddling hands out of the dough, farm co-operation indicates the moulding of somewhat bigger and better loaves for the farm table.

Take, for example, the Canadian wheat-pool, which already handles more than half the Canadian wheat crop. It hasn't doubled prices, but it has eliminated the middle-man and turned his tolls back into the wheat-growers' pockets. It has also stabilized the price and regulated the market, relieving the grower from all worry about when and at what price to sell, a job for which he is by nature and training least fitted. It enables the farmer to give his time and thought to what is his natural work, the improvement of his crops, without compelling him to become also salesman. It assures him of the highest possible price, without deductions for brokers' and speculators' tolls.

This Canadian wheat-pool, it may be noted, was created by the farmers themselves, without any direct government aid. It is not a matter of law, but simply of intelligent co-operation among farmers with good sense enough to see through the hole in a millstone—when it is turned up on edge.

Then there is the California Fruit Growers' union. So much has been written and published about its value in saving and making profitable the Pacific coast's biggest industry that one needs only refer to it. That it has proved its value may rather logically be inferred from the facts, recently brought out, that nearly every farm product of California is now being sold through co-operation. It is not to be believed that even the "country rubes" of California would almost unanimously fall for a method which didn't bring results.

These are two outstanding examples of co-operation on the big scale. But I admit that I was somewhat surprised to learn, on the authority of Chief Christiansen of the national department of agriculture, that behind these large organizations there are already functioning in the United States 12,500 smaller agricultural co-operatives with more than 2,000,000 members,and doing a yearly business of around $2,500,000,000. One of these "minor" co-operatives, which we of New England would be inclined to class as "major," I suspect, is found in the case of 450 creameries which are now selling all their products through a single marketing agency, thereby securing a steady and reliable market and, at the same time, saving themselves the expense of 449 separate selling agencies.

It is not only in selling that co-operation simplifies and cheapens distribution. There is a big field for the same united effort in buying. One can always buy a carload of fertilizer or feed at lower prices per pound than a single bag or a single ton. One can always buy sugar cheaper by the ton than by the ten-pound bag, and tea cheaper by the box than by the pound. One small local co-operative of which I once had knowledge, which restricted its purchases wholly to domestic supplies, groceries, etc., for a series of years saved its members regularly about 35 cents on every dollar by the simple and easy device of buying all such goods at wholesale and distributing them, pro rata, as desired, to the individual users at the wholesale prices. This, too, is a rural town, where practically all the members were farmers.

But there are certain considerations in even co-operation which must be borne in mind and practiced.

It won't work with hogs, whether of the four or the two-legged kind.

The man who goes into a co-operative society solely for his own advantage; who never looks or thinks beyond what he can save or make for himself; who is just as willing to "cheese" his fellow members as outsiders for his own benefit—that man is temperamentally unfitted for co-operation. Two or three such can put co-operation 'on the blink" sooner than a dozen open enemies.

And it takes a good deal of diplomacy, with an occasional resort to the black-ball, to keep such critters out. They aren't always recognizable at first sight.

But for the average farmer, who is also usually a good neighbor and willing to give as well as take, there is more hope in a natural, voluntary, unforced co-operation, in both buying and selling, than in any other method thus far publicly discussed.

MOONLIGHT GLORY

The morning is ten thousand miles away.
The winter night surrounds me, vast and cold,
Without a star. The voiceless fog is rolled
From ocean-levels desolate and gray;
But over all the floods of moonlight lay
A glory on those billows that enfold
The muffled sea and forest. Gaunt and old
The dripping redwoods wait the distant day.

Unknown, above, what silver-dripping wave
Break slowly on the purple reefs of night!
What radiant foam ascends from shadowy bars,
Or sinks unechoing to soundless caves!
No whisper is upon those tides of light,
Setting in silence toward the risen stars.

—George Sterling, in The Lyric West.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

POOL OPERATIONS WERE AGGRESSIVE

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP)—A decline of nearly $23,000,000 in federal reserve brokers' loans, in the face of a rising price movement during the past week, was the outstanding development in today's financial markets. The figures, which were not made public until long after the close of the market, took Wall street completely by surprise. Heavy selling of stocks, based on expectations of a large increase, took place throughout the day, giving the market an irregular appearance despite aggressive pool operations which lifted more than a score of specialties to new high records.

Call money renewed unchanged at 7 per cent. and held steady at that figure all day. Banks called $20,000,000 in loans but these were easily replaced, and it looked for a time as though money would go lower. Time money held firm at 6 1-2 per cent. and there was no change in prime commercial paper rates. The New York Federal Reserve bank announced no change in the 6 per cent. rediscount rate.

In view of the approaching government financing, and the fact that any further stiffening in rates probably would depress sterling and lead to the importation of gold, Wall street does not expect any immediate increase in money rates. Revival of the wild speculation of a few months ago probably would necessitate further drastic measures on the part of federal reserve authorities to curtail the value of speculative credit.

The federal reserve statement showed a drop of $22,099,000 in loans, bringing the total down to $4,201,131,000 as against $3,168,074,000 a year ago. Loans of banks for their own account showed a gain of $25,436,000. Loans for the account of out-of-town banks dropped $44,294,000 and loans for the account of others showed a shrinkage of $3,241,000.

Copper shares came to the fore again today on reports of steadily improving trade conditions. American Smelting was the leader, climbing 3 1-4 points to a new high record for all time at 229 3-4. Greene Cananea moved up 3 points and Anaconda 2, while Kennecott and Granby moved into new high ground.

Revival of speculative activity and strength in Chrysler, which ran up more than 4 points to a new record high at 93 7-8 and then slipped back to 96 1-2, featured the motor group. General Motors closed fractionally higher at 187 1-8 after having touched 189 1-2.

National Cash Register, which has the same market sponsorship as Radio, was again heavily bought, climbing more than 3 points to a new record high at 77 3-4. Other issues to move into new high ground included Associated Dry Goods, American Linseed, American Express, Allied Chemical, Brockway Motors, Drug, Inc., Electric Auto Lite, Purity Baking common and preferred and Montgomery Ward.

Park & Tilford ran up nearly 4 points on reports that a substantial interest in the company had been acquired by western capitalists. Adams Express, Burroughs Adding Machine, Cushmane Sons, Fidelity-Phenix Insurance, International Silver, Midland Steel Products preferred and National Tea ran up 5 to 14 points. A jump of nearly 7 points in Delaware & Hudson featured the rail group.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet and featureless, sterling cables holding steady around $4.89 1-4.

Threats of frost damage in Canada stimulated the buying of wheat, which advanced 2 to 3 points a bushel. Cotton lost 50 cents to $1 a bale. Coffee and sugar were firmer.

DANIELSON

STOLEN CAR IS FOUND NEAR BROOKLYN FAIRGROUNDS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 23—(P)—There may or may not have been some connection between the disappearance of a touring car owned by Elphege Bissonette, of Putnam, from where the owner left it parked in the business section last night and the fact that troops of Rhode Island calvarymen were camped at the fairgrounds in Brooklyn, but in any event the car was reported stolen at about 10:30, and some time later recovered parked beside the state highway opposite the Mortlake house, in Brooklyn, a short distance from the fairgrounds. Following Bissonette's notification to the state police that his car disappeared a search that resulted in locating it was started. The peaceful camp of the sleeping calvarymen was perturbed shortly afterward by officers seeking to locate the men who took the car, evidently as a means of getting transportation back to Brooklyn, but the quest was unsuccessful. Bissonette appeared pleased to have his car back and at finding that it was in no way injured as the result of its more or less unofficial trip.

This appeared in Danielson to be a day when automobiles and the use and abuse of them produced more news than any other agency. Figuring as a violator of the motor vehicle laws today was John Desjardins, 17, who lives near the old Riverside race track, on upper Maple street. Desjardins will come to court Friday to answer to charges that he was driving a car without having an operator's license. It was not much of a car that the youth started gallivanting about with, being very much dilapidated and having one flat tire for its liberal tour, but such good fortune as he was enjoying Desjardin charged with a group of children that he loaded in and took for a ride.

Lieut. Gordon J. Gale, commanding the service battery now at Tobyhanna, Pa., writes the outfit has finished the rush work attendant upon entering the annual period of field service and has not settled down to the steady routine of army camp life. The truck convoy made a fast, but uneventful trip, aside from the breaking down at Bristol on the first day out of the light repair truck. The disabled machine was towed into Danbury, where the first night's stop was made, and then loaded onto one of the heavier trucks for the remainder of the journey into Pennsylvania. Lieut. Gale relates that the battery is doing splendid work, despite the fact that its personnel recently was reduced. The weather at Tobyhanna has been delightfully cool, and each man has been issued three heavy blankets with which to keep warm at night.

Members of McGregor post, G. A. R., are to be guests of McGregor Woman's Relief corps, Colonel Edward Anderson camp, Sons of Veterans, and Mary A. Livermore tent, Sons and Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, at an outing at the Deforest Wells farm in Brooklyn (West Side) Saturday afternoon. Members of all the organizations mentioned and their families are to be in attendance.

Charles C. Rapp is interesting members of the 56th Coast artillery that served overseas during the World war to attend the annual reunion of the organization at Bridgeport on September 2. Upwards of 100 members of a battery of this organization left Danielson soon after the entry of the United States into the great conflict for what was to prove to be a great experience in military affairs. Many of the members of the battery are still resident here or in the vicinity, and an effort is to be made to get out a large delegation of them for the Bridgeport trip.

Republicans of Killingly will open the coming week with a caucus at which they will nominate delegates to the state convention to be held at New Haven September 6 and 7, delegates to the congressional district convention to be called later and delegates to the senatorial district convention.

PUTNAM

LOCAL GIRL ENTERS SISTERHOOD IN FRANCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 23—Away in the little town of Brittany in France known as St. Brieux, Miss Rita Durand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Durand of Church street, Putnam, this morning took her final vows and was ordained to the sisterhood of the order of Sisters of the Holy Ghost. The ceremony was performed by the mother house of the order in St. Brieux where all nuns of this group assume the veil.

Miss Durand was born in Putnam and received her elementary education at St. Mary's parochial school in this city. Upon the completion of her course of study at that school, she entered upon the first stages of her pious life at the novitiate, the provincial house on Church street in Putnam. Later she was directed to another convent in Waterbury, remaining there for two years. As Miss Durand is an accomplished artist at the piano, she devoted much of her time to the further study of music.

With the final year of her American studies completed, Miss Durand departed for France, where she would begin the last course of study before entering the order.

Miss Purand observed her 21st birthday today and was ordained to the order of the Holy Ghost in that little French town this morning.

In the little chapter of the provincial house in Putnam this morning at 8 o'clock the parents and near relatives of the Putnam young lady assisted at a mass, celebrated in honor of the first day of her holy life.

Parents of the nun said today that she will sail at once for New York and will then come to Putnam for a short visit before being assigned to a convent to portray the teachings of her church and order.

The sewage crib now in operation at the city's sewer outlet, south of Park street, was inspected by Sanitary Engineer W. R. Copeland of the state water commission on Saturday and Monday of this week. Two of Mr. Copeland's assistants arrived in Putnam Wednesday with tools and equipment to make a survey of conditions found at the outlet and to make measurements of the sewage flow at the weir of the crib. As outlined by City Engineer George W. Perry yesterday the engineers of the state water commission will set up a recording gauge at this site for use in measuring the flow. The gauge as furnished by the state will give a correct statement of the amount of waste deposited into the river each day and will also give totals for the months and year. Mr. Perry said that the gauge will be in operation for a period extending over a year's time. With the figures obtained from the measuring gauge, it will be possible to determine the size and cost of the prescribed filtration plan, which, according to a state law, will have to be constructed in Putnam to restrain the sewage from passing into the river.

The measuring crib is the first step taken in this city, towards the erection of such beds to relieve the streams of polluting waste.

Supt. of Schools Farrin has recently announced that the Putnam Junior High school will open its fall term on Sept. 5, as will all other schools of the educational system of the city and town. The teaching staff of the year will be the same as last season. Miss Edith M. Kent and Miss Winifred Duffy of Danielson will have charge of the classes. It was first announced that Miss Kent was principal of the Putnam Junior High, but in recent years both teachers are upon equal basis.

Officer Emil Castagna of the Danielson state police station was regarded as improved today over his condition reported late Wednesday afternoon. Miss Bloxham, superintendent of the Day-Kimball hospital, said this afternoon that the popular Danielson officer will be confined to the institution for a number of weeks, but he continues to improve each day. He is suffering from a fracture of the leg, sustained in a collision in Dayville, Tuesday evening.

Victoria Zahkihriziax, 5, is still at the Day-Kimball hospital, recovering from injuries sustained in an automobile collision on Main street about a month ago. A report from the hospital this afternoon said that the child has improved considerably during the past few days, although many more weeks will pass before she will regain her health, sufficient enough to warrant her discharge from the hospital.

Among the hosts of out-of-state cars seen passing through the city today, the one observed to be the greatest distance from home was a light sedan bearing markers from the Sunshine state, California.

Police kept a vigilance Wednesday evening for a large truck, said to be on its way to Worcester and alleged to have been stolen from Willimantic. The local police received a police alarm from Willimantic, early in the evening and watched until a late hour, but did not see the car pass through Putnam. It is believed the auto thieves branched off from Pomfret through Woodstock and on to the Worcester road without coming through Putnam.

The Bulletin of Thursday morning carried a story relative to a check-up of the city, town, borough and justice courts of the state, being made by the department of motor vehicle laws of the state. In The Bulletin's list Putnam was included, though the officials of the motor vehicle department have not looked into the city court records yet.

In nine towns already investigated by the department, an amount of $61,000 has been discovered which has not been paid to the state, but, according to A. Macdonald, Jr., clerk of the city court of Putnam, Putnam is not included in this amount, as remittances are made to the state at the end of each month by Mr. Macdonald, and in the event large amounts are gathered from violators, Mr. Macdonald forwards his checks to the department in Hartford at more frequent intervals.

Mr. Macdonald believes that the state auditors will not have to devote any great amount of time to the examining of the court records of the city of Putnam, as he always remits state funds through checks and all cancelled checks are kept at his office and may be referred to at any moment. He touched upon the fact that some question may arise as to court sessions where the fine was imposed and suspended, yet there are few of these.

It has been learned that his check-up has been made because several court clerks, in cities where the finance representatives have investigated have failed to forward the fines to the state which is required according to law.

Since workmen began operations on the Providence street bridge to attempt to temporarily strengthen the bridge so it may be continued in use, much discussion has been given the matter and it may be that steps may be taken by the town officials to obtain a new bridge to span this cut of the Quinebaug river. It was first announced in Wednesday's Bulletin that the bridge had been found to be unsafe by engineers who have examined the iron structure that has been in use for over 40 years and has fallen a victim of the elements.

The selectmen have taken steps to have the danger temporarily relieved. The pass has been closed to traffic and an attempt is being made to restore the weakened side to normal. City Engineer George W. Perry examined the bridge and found a number of the main iron supports rusted, but stated a structural engineer will have to test its present strength before the condition of the span can be determined.

The selectmen are to secure the services of an engineer, proficient in this nature of work, to examine the bridge. His report will be submitted to the voters at the regular town meeting to be held in October. His findings might result in solving the problem by repairs which will place the bridge in condition which will be safe for a number of years and it might be necessary to construct an entirely new arch across the river at this point, which in itself will place the town in a predicament that will require the expenditure of thousands of dollars before the situation may be relieved.

Rev. W. Arthur Routhier, curate at St. Mary church in Putnam, has left the city on his annual retreat to South Norwalk. He will return to Putnam on Saturday.

Through the efforts of Clarence W. Bowen, secretary of the Windham County Hoover-Curtis Republican club of Woodstock Hill, the Governor's Foot Guard band of 25 members will furnish the music at the mass meeting to be held at Woodstock Hill on Sept. 15, when Senator George Moses of New Hampshire will address the gathering and possibly Vice-Presidential Nominee Charles Curtis.

The idea of a mass meeting and to have such men of note present is a revival of the events that took place in Woodstock Hill in 1856, 1864 and 1868 when Mr. Bowen's father, the late Henry C. Bowen, brought to the littlevillage green prominent men of the day, among whom were Gen. U. S. Grant.

The enthusiasm of this meeting is felt in the towns of Massachusetts and greetings have come to Mr. Bowen from leading citizens of a number of these towns. It is thought at the present time that the mass meeting will draw the attendance of hundreds from every nook and corner of the county and state and several from the cities of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

A check-up of the police department this morning revealed that "Liz" was still a part of the personnel of the department, yet Sergeant George failed to comment why she has not been placed upon the retired list. Several watched for the appearance of the new police patrol last evening, but were disappointed as they glanced upon the stately features of "Liz" as she stood contented with her parking place at the corner of Union and Main streets, awaiting the arrival of her master so she might carry him back to the station house on Church street, where he would ink the daily blots on the blotter.

"What are you going to christen the new-comer, Sergeant?" one youth inquired. "Well, paregorically speaking (common with the sergeant), I haven't decided, but it might be 'Gene,'" the sergeant returned.

Why Water Power Is Wasted

The general use of the natural water powers of this country is limited by reason of the fact that they are situated in localities remote from the centers of population. Approximately 72 per cent of our total water power resources lie west of the Mississippi, while 79 per cent of the requirements for power are east of that river. Three-quarters of the present undeveloped water power of the country lies in the Pacific Mountain and South Atlantic states. These states contain less than 22 per cent of the population. To transmit the energy from these water powers to other parts of the country would require lines of such length as to entail not a saving but a waste of money.

Mr Hilliar boarded a trolley car at the State street terminal last Saturday night and alighted near his home. Just after alighting and while going to the sidewalk Mr. Hilliar fell and landed in such a manner as to fracture his hip. He was assisted to his home and Tuesday was taken to the hospital. Yesterday afternoon while on the operating table for the purpose of reducing the fracture, Mr. Hilliar suffered a sinking spell and failed to respond to treatment. He expired without regaining consciousness.

One hundred and four tables were in play on the lawn and in the gardens of the beautiful Ocean avenue estate of Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Henkle. A sudden shower sent the guests scurrying into shelter but was not of sufficient duration to stop play for any length of time. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Henkle, Mrs. Graham Hislop and Mrs. E. Roland Hill.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

A new William Haines.

That is what the audience at the Palace theatre decided yesterday, when they saw the opening performance of William Haines' starring picture, "Telling the World."

Haines, who heretofore has established himself as a wise-cracking athlete who always learns better in the next to the last reel, has brought to the screen in his new production an entirely different type of character.

Traces of the wise-cracker are still there but the character has softened and strengthened. As the newspaper reporter who doesn't recognize love until he has almost lost it, Haines is more human and admirable than ever before in his starring career.

Not that "Telling the World" isn't funny. It is. Probably the funniest of all the many productions Haines has contributed to make the heart of humanity lighter. This picture has everything: humor, pathos, drama and a smashing punch at the finish that had the audience on their feet as the battle planes of the U. S. Marine corps swooped low over the square to rescue the girl from Chinese banditry.

Haines is more entertaining than ever. The report that his acting is almost entirely extemporaneous must be true. No one could possible be so funny in cold blood. Sam Wood, the director, and his star are a happy combination, for their dual effort moves at a high tempo from start to finish: a tempo that has the audience roaring with laughter while still gulping to keep back the tears.

Anita Page, who makes her first appearance on the screen as Haines' leading lady, looks like the best picture bet that has appeared on the screen in many and many a month. Miss Page has a personality that is entirely her own and a beauty that is like no other on the silver screen. She gives a performance so perfect it is difficult to realize that this is her first appearance.

The remainder of the cast, Eileen Percy, Polly Moran, Frank Currier, Bert Roach, Mathew Betz and William V. Mong are excellent in their roles.

The vaudeville program which followed the feature was one of the best shows seen here in some time. The applause was very liberal and well merited. The headliners, the Bert Collins Revue, is an outstanding act. Bonner and Powers are late stars of the well known New York Ziegfeld Follies. Roattino and Barrett Co. also are splendid performers. Corinne Arbuckle in an offering of diversified vocal numbers and Al. Emma and Margi in Dance Varieties.

Strand Theatre.

Sammy Cohen, eccentric screen comedian, has deserted the marines and joined the ambulance corps in "The Gay Retreat," Fox Films uproarious comedy of the late war.

Sammy, who plays the part of Sam Nosenblum in this production, started his military career as Private Lepinsky in "What Price Glory," Fox Films great war epic. He claims the main difference in the two branches of the service, pictorially speaking, is that a man can get into more trouble in the ambulance corps than in the marines.

"The Gay Retreat," which is playing at the Strand theatre, is adapted from an original story by William Conselman and Edward Marshall. It is filled with laughs from the first flash to the last with not a few thrills thrown in for good measure.

Gene Cameron, Ted McNamara, Betty Francisco, Judy King, Holmes Herbert and Charles Gorman complete the cast. Ben Stoloff directed the production, which is said to be a riot of laughter from beginning to end with angles of humor that are entirely new in war comedies.

Lovers of fast action westerns will find plenty of thrills in "The Devil's Tower," Buddy Roosevelt's new whirlwind western which is now playing at the Strand. J. P. McGowan directed and also appears on the screen.

Breed Theatre.

Tom Mix, famous western ace, again proves that there is no limit to human endurance in his latest thriller, "Hello Cheyenne!" now at the Breed theatre. In "Hello Cheyenne!" Mix has a role of a different sort. He appears as a telephone lineman.

With the aid of Tony, Mix registers some nerve-racking thrills, guaranteed to send shivers of delight up and down the back of the most thrill-proof audience. The picture was filmed against the rugged splendor of the wilds of Arizona. Incidentally, Mix holds the record of the entire motion picture world for playing in the most theatres in any one picture at the same time.

FORMER CORONER EXONERATES NEW LONDON DRIVER

Ralph J. Calvert, of No. 33 Cutler street, New London, has been exonerated from criminal responsibility in causing the death of Thomas Burke, 66, late of Pawtucket, R. I., last March. Mr. Burke was fatally injured when he was hit by a machine driven by Mr. Cutler. The finding was announced Wednesday by former Coroner J. J. Desmond, who investigated the accident. In the finding Mr. Desmond says:

About noon on May 11, 1928, said Ralph J. Calvert was driving his car eastwardly, on the trunk line state highway leading from Saybrook junction to New London; his wife was riding with him; when he reached a point about 800 feet west of the bridge over the Niantic river, he observed said Thomas Burke walking easterly on the dirt shoulder of the said highway on the southerly side of the road about 150 feet ahead of the Calvert car which was also then on the southerly side of the road, but on the tarred surface intended for vehicular travel; soon after Calvert first saw Burke the latter suddenly started to cross the road in front of the automobile, and Mr. Calvert sounded his horn, and applied both brakes, at the same time turning to his left to avoid Mr. Burke; but the latter then quickened his pace and darted in front of the car when it was too near to enable Mr. Calvert to avoid striking him, and he was struck by the front bumper, and fatally injured. Mr. Calvert immediately brought his car to a stop, placed the injured man in it, and took him to the Lawrence hospital at New London, where he died from the injuries sustained when she was struck. There was no other traffic at the place of the accident when it occurred; and there were no witnesses to the accident excepting Mr. Calvert and his wife. The Calvert car was in good condition, and its brakes in good order. When Mr. Calvert first observed Mr. Burke, the Calvert car was going at about 35 miles an hour and the operator, assuming that Mr. Burke would continue along on the southerly edge of the road, had no reason to believe there was any danger of striking the decedent. The cause of this fatality appears to have been solely the sudden darting of Mr. Burke in front of the car when it was too near to avoid striking him; and there seems to have been no want of due care on Mr. Calvert's part contributing to bring about the accident.

I am satisfied, and find that the death of said Thomas Burke was not caused by the criminal act, omission, or negligence of any other person, or persons.

RESERVOIRS HIT HIGH LEVELS THIS SUMMER

Connecticut reservoirs are in a better condition this summer than they have been in a large number of years, according to a survey of water supply utility companies throughout the state. Seldom if ever is the water level as high in midsummer as it is today. Reservoirs that are usually at their lowest levels at this time of year due to the customary dry weather are this year not only at abnormally high levels, but in most cases are actually overflowing their spillways.

Since the first of the year most of the reservoirs have been well filled. The precipitation has been the largest in many years, the first seven months of the year having yielded a total amount of rain which was 4.25 inches above the normal precipitation for that period.

Practically all of this superabundance of rain came in the months when it was least expected, namely, June and July. During the first five months of the year, January to May inclusive, there was a deficiency in precipitation and it appeared as if the reservoirs might be due for a dry summer. In June, however, 6.07 inches of rain fell, an excess of practically three inches when compared to the normal precipitation of 3.1 inches for the month. In July, the precipitation was even larger, 7.56 inches of rain falling to produce an excess of 3.54 inches over the normal July fall of 4.02 inches. The two usually dry months thus gave the state a total rainfall of nearly 14 inches, more than 65 inches above the normal. This unusual amount of precipitation falling into the reservoirs and upon their watersheds has virtually flooded every public supply basin in the state.

MILO LIGHT,
Administrator

NAMED ADMINISTRATOR OF CANOW ESTATE

Milo Light of Montville was appointed administrator of the estate of William Canow of Montville by Judge Dan D. Home in probate court in Montville Thursday morning. Canow, former storekeeper at Gardners Lake, killed Theodore Schultz of Gardner's Lake and then committed suicide, in his store last week. The appraisers of the estate are Earl Lathrop, and David Buden. It is understood that Canow left a small sum of money, probably enough to pay his debts. It is possible that the store will inventory for about $500 and in addition to that a sum of $251 has been discovered. No relatives of Mr. Canow have been located.

It's a signal triumph for the weather man when his prediction happens to come true.

GREENEVILLE

The Greeneville Swanees and the Nevins All-Stars clashed Wednesday evening at the J. B. Martin baseball diamond with the Swanees defeating the Stars by the score of 4 to 2 in a five-inning contest. Umpire Terry Shahan called the game on account of rain in the sixth. The feature of the game was the fine twirling of John Dowling for the Swanees, who had ten strikeouts to his credit, while Arthur Ellison furnished the fielding feature, running back to deep right field and making a one-hand catch. John Erle, Stars' second baseman, played a fine fielding game, having three assists and four putouts to his credit. The lineup for the Swanees was: McGowan, c; Dowling, p; Pete Farrell, 1b; Bob Swanton, 2b; Ray Portelance, 3b; Edward Riordan, ss; Robert Enright, lf; Michael Shahan, cf; Arthur Ellison, rf.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR DEEPENING OF THAMES RIVER CHANNEL

The contract for the deepening of the Thames river channel has been awarded to the Morris & Cummings Dredging Co., and the work will be commenced at an early date, according to a letter from the office of the chief of engineers at Washington, received Thursday by Walter H. Pilcher, secretary of the Norwich chamber of commerce. The letter is in reply to a recent inquiry by the chamber as to when the work could be started. The letter received by Secretary Pilcher says:

Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of the 18th instant requesting information relative to the project for deepening the channel in Thames river.

In reply, I am pleased to advise you that bids for execution of the dredging were canvassed by the district engineer at Providence on Aug. 3, and a contract for doing the work has been awarded to the Morris & Cummings Dredging Co. The work of actual dredging will be commenced at an early date.

The rivers and harbors bill adopted last winter by congress carries an appropriation of $300,000 for the widening and deepening of the Thames channel. Under the terms of the bill the Thames channel, which has already been developed from Long Island sound as far as Allyn's Point, will be dredged to a depth of 18 feet and a width of 200 feet from the latter point to Norwich. The provision for developing the Thames channel was placed in the bill by Congressman Richard P. Freeman as ranking member of the house committee on rivers and harbors in 1922 and was actively supported by the congressman, by the late United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee and other national legislators from Connecticut. Following adoption of the bill by the senate, the Norwich chamber of commerce wired a message of appreciation to Congressman Freeman, in which acknowledgement was made that the success of the measure was in no small measure due to his support and full co-operation.

NORWICH COUPLE CELEBRATE THEIR 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Quinn celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at their home, No. 3 Robbins court, Sunday, with many relatives and family friends attending. They spent the first year of their married life at New London then they made their residence at Norwich where they have lived the past twenty-four years. Mr. Quinn, at the time of his marriage, was manager of the Union Clothing company, in New London, and coming to Norwich, he was first employed with the B. Behrsch company and after being five years with this concern, he went with the Porteous and Mitchell store and worked until 1920, when he opened up a clothing store as a partner with Quinn and Desmond of this city.

A reception was held at their home at 4 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Quinn received many congratulations from relatives and friends. At five o'clock a turkey dinner was served the guests. Among the guests present were the bridesmaid and two ushers who attended the couple at the wedding.

There were four children borne to the union, Mr. and Mrs. Quinn received many beautiful and useful gifts.

NORWICH TOWN

When the B. P. O. E. of Willimantic, held its county fair Wednesday, in observance of Children's day, more than 100 automobiles conveying family parties, four busses and one truck-load of people passed through Norwich Town to and from the picnic. The long line of cars was escorted by a state trooper and at the rear of the procession was another state policeman both on motorcycles. It was estimated that more than 700 adults and children, the latter comprising the majority, were included in the attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver of Huntington Green were in Willimantic Tuesday afternoon to attend the wedding of the latter's nephew, William J. Smith and Miss Irma A. H. Randall at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Randall of Valley street.

Mrs. Mary Devall returned recently to her home in New Bedford, after a few days' visit at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver.

Mrs. Mary S. Foster returned to her home at Central Park, Long Island, New York, Wednesday afternoon, after several days' visit with Norwich Town relatives. Monday night Mrs. Foster was a guest of Mrs. Sarah Woodworth of Laurel Hill, while Tuesday night she was a guest of her aunt, Mrs. Eva A. Sims, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hough, of West Town street. That evening she was a caller at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb, the latter a cousin of Mrs. Foster. Mrs. Foster on her return expected to stop to call on Stamford friends. This was her first visit to Norwich in five years. For a number of years past she has passed the winter in Florida having had large real estate interests there.

While so much is being said of beautiful flower gardens, many in this town might be cited as at their best this month.

BRINGS SUIT AGAINST CITY FOR $30,000 DAMAGES

George E. Pitcher, this city, in behalf of his son-in-law, Howell S. Bailey of New York, has brought suit in the superior court asking $30,000 damages from the city of Norwich. A similar action, commenced last year, was withdrawn from the superior court last June, following a partial trial, when several defects were alleged to have been found in the first complaint drafted, which would not take in all the elements of the damage as claimed. The first suit was for $20,000, but as Mr. Pitcher stated last June, this new action instituted is for $30,000 damages.

For nearly two years this matter has been involved in litigation, commencing when an injunction was sought against the city to remove certain guy wires maintained by the city over the so-called Bailey property at Burnham square, near Preston bridge.

According to the present complaint, on or before Nov. 19, 1925, the city of Norwich, entered upon the premises of the plaintiff, described as a livery stable and three-story building thereon, without his permission or consent and erected certain wires and a pole thereon over and across the land and buildings of the plaintiff and tore up and damaged the sidewalk in front of the property of the plaintiff.

The papers allege that on Feb. 12, 1927, Bailey obtained a judgment in the court of common pleas against the city to recover the sum of $826.52 and also an injunction ordering the city to remove from the Bailey premises the guy wires and pole on or before Sept. 1 1927.

Not withstanding the judgment so rendered by the court of common pleas the complaint sets forth that the city did not remove the wires and poles from the premises until Nov. 16, 1927, and up to date the sidewalk has not been repaired.

By means and reason of the negligence and refusal of the city to comply with the terms and conditions of the judgment rendered by the court of common pleas on account of the unlawful trespass by the city upon the premises of the plaintiff, Bailey claims that he has suffered injury and damages to himself and his property.

NORWICH WOMAN SUED FOR DAMAGES OF $2,000

In the court of common pleas, Attorney Frank N. Gardner as counsel for Alex Pietrowski of this city, uncle of Walter and Jennie Pietrowski, minors of this city, has brought suit against Julia Pietrowski Zieniuk of this city, claiming damages of $2,000 and reconveyance of real estate.

On April 8, 1926, Teofil Pusa of this city was duly appointed by the probate court, administrator of the estate of John Pietrowski, late of Norwich and Pusa duly qualified by giving a bond to act in that capacity.

It is claimed that more than six months have elapsed for the presentation of claims against the estate and that the claims have been satisfied.

The plaintiffs, Walter Pietrowski and Jennie Pietrowski are the surviving children and heirs at law of the deceased, John Pietrowski.

On March 26, 1927, it is claimed Teofil Pusa, while acting as such administrator, without knowledge or consent of the plaintiffs, unlawfully and wrongfully transferred to the defendant, Julia Pietrowski Zieniuk, certain property located on Third street.

Walter and Jennie Pietrowski as heirs-at-law have made demand on the defendant for their two-thirds interest in the real estate, but the defendant refused to make restitution.

PAUL SALAMUCHA FACES LIQUOR VIOLATION CHARGE

An alleged sale of bad liquor has landed Paul Salamucha of Sixth street into the city court where he will appear this (Friday) morning on a charge of violation of the liquor law. A statement made in the city court Thursday by Michael Bogdanski who was charged with intoxication, that he had purchased two drinks at Salamucha's place Monday and that the liquor had made him ill, was responsible for Salamucha's arrest. After he became ill he went back to Salamucha's place and told him that he was selling bad liquor. It is said that Salamucha threw him out of the place, and that Bogdanski received a cut on the head and bruises about the body.

Bogdanski was arrested on a charge of intoxication and was attended at police headquarters by Dr. Clarence G. Thompson and as he was in no condition to appear in court the following morning, Tuesday, a continuance was granted until Thursday morning.

After pleading guilty to the intoxication charge, Bogdanski asked permission to address the court and then told the story that has resulted in the arrest of Salamucha. Officers Michael Carroll, John Carroll and Clifford Crary arrested Salamucha shortly before 11 o'clock.

SHOWED MOVING PICTURE ON LIQUOR TRAFFIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC CAMP GROUND, Aug. 23—The moving picture shown in the tabernacle on Wednesday evening, made a profound impression in that it called to mind some of the grave injustices and cruelties which the liquor traffic visited upon this country in the earlier years. At one of the intermissions, Mrs. Mannel sang impressively, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight."

It rained during the night and Thursday dawned with cloudy skies. However, it did not rain and those who attended the "morning watch" service didn't need umbrellas. Rev. J. Garland Waggoner, pastor at South Coventry and Gurleyville, was in charge. He spoke of the 103d Psalm which opens with the words "Bless Jehovah, O my soul." He traced the ideas of God through the early centuries showing how from the idea of a narrow tribal God they advanced to the idea of a great universal God and the God of love which is revealed in Jesus Christ. More reason have we than the Psalmist to call out as he did upon his own soul "Bless the Lord O my soul and all that is within me bless His holy name."

Rev. Charles L. Goodell, D. D., made his first appearance in the tabernacle at 9:30 a. m., his subject being "The Worker and His Own Soul." Dr. Goodell is a very pleasing speaker and in opening he spoke a few words to the camp meeting managers concerning the tabernacle and splendid facilities for worship maintained here and then plunged into his subject. He said in part, as follows: No one is fitted to part, as follows: "No one is fitted to invite others to Crrist and to show them the way of the Lord, who does not know Christ for himself by a personal Christian experience. He illustrated his point by a number of instances in which men have undertaken to write biographies of great characters who were not fitted by temperament or ability to produce such. How could one expect to get a real biography of George Washington from such an author as Rupert Hughes? Some one asked President Coolidge what he thought of this book and he simply pointed out the window at the Washington monument and said 'I see it is still standing.' Another writer has placed in a book entitled "Damaged Souls" the name of John Brown. Now whatever else was the motter with John Brown, his soul was all right. Dr Goodell said that the last five years had shown too small an advance in Methodism and in other groups of Christian people and the reason is that there is a lack of emphasis upon Christian experience and a corresponding dearth of such. Yet the speaker declared himself an optimist who believes that this defect will be remedied. He portrayed essential points in the career of great leaders including such as Jonathan Edwards, Horace Bushnell, and John Wesley, showing the close relation of their successes to the fact that each possessed in his own heart a personal Christian experience.

Dr. Frick's period at 11 o'clock, showed no abatement in the interest in this series of lectures. His subject was "Finding God in Human History." He said, in part, as follows. "We may find much in history that is revolting such as war, lust, conquest, cruelty, etc. But if we are studious and thoughtful we must also find other factors which show that the inevitable laws of God are at work. The sublime preparation in the creation of this planet for the life of human beings upon it suggests God. No other planet known has such beings living upon it and such cannot live in every atmosphere. The appearance of providential men and providential nations in history affords a further revelation of God. History on the whole confirms the idea that 'Righteousness exalteth a nation and sin is a reproach to any people'." With striking effect he portrayed the historic struggle over the evil of slavery but in time it had to go because it was wrong. The dire evil of war has persisted but can we explain the present efforts for peace and good will which seem to be gaining in strength without realizing the presence of spirits around us the source of which is God. This matchless discourse, which defies any possibility of reproduction in print, closed with an eloquent and effective picture of the triumph of righteousness which the speaker believes is in process.

The Stafford Springs house prayer meetings were held at 1 and 6 p. m. Rev. F. O. Burnett, of Hockanum, was the leader at 1 p. m., and Rev. W. D. Woodward at 6 p. m.

Dr. Goodell spoke at 2 p. m., on the subject, "The Church God Wants" and at 7:30, on "Laymen and the Church."

An important meeting of the executive committee was held at 4 p. m., Thursday.

Following are the attractive features for Friday: Rev. Luther Ballou, of East Blackstone, Mass., will conduct, the service at 8:15 Dr. Frick will give the fourth in his series, this one, "Finding God in Jesus Christ," at 11 a. m.; Dr. Goodell will speak at 9:30 a. m., and at 2 and 7:30 p. m.

Among those who were on the ground Thursday, were Rev. W. C. Darby, Tolland, and Rev. and Mrs. Albert Abbott, Danielson.

The following are staying upon the ground. At the "Willimantic" house, with Mrs. Grace Potter in charge, are the following: Mrs. Althea Comager, Mrs. Cora Comager, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sweetser, and Delwin Martin, all of Jewett City.

At the "Danielson" house, with Miss Ruth A. Fiske, of Danielson, in charge: Rev. and Mrs. Frank B. Adams, of 92 Oneco street, Norwich.

At the "South Manchester" house, with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Taylor, of South Manchester in charge: Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Bentley and Miss Gertrude Abbey, all of South Manchester.

At the "Friendship" cottage: Rev. and Mrs. J. M. VonDeck and family, from Moodus.

Mrs. Fanny Northrop, of Gales Ferry, is spending the remainder of the week at the Colver cottage, on Wesley circle.

The people attending for the day, on Wednesday, included the following: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Phillips, Montville; Miss Regina Hanway and Miss Mary Winters, of Columbus, Ohio.

Among the faces missed this year is that of Frederick H. Bushnell, of Norwich Town, who has been here every year as far back as the most of those here can remember. Illness in his family keeps him at home and he has the sympathy and good wishes of a host of friends who remember his helpful ways with appreciation.

It is generally understood that Justin Laurie, the singer, who so delighted his audiences here the first three days, is likely to return here and sing the closing Sunday at next year's camp meeting. At his last service here there was a demonstration in his favor and an invitation extended to him and it is believed that he will accept it.

Dr. C. E. Spaulding left the ground Wednesday morning having delivered one sermon and three lectures here. His discourses were of a high order and the camp meeting program has been greatly enriched by his efforts.

Miss Roberta Bitgood, of New London, is contributing greatly to the music of the encampment. She rendered a violin selection at the children's service Tuesday, and assisted with her violin in the music of the public service Tuesday evening. She also proves a worthy substitute at the piano when occasionally Mr. Pierce, the gifted camp meeting pianist, is absent from a service.

At the Cottage Holders' association meeting Tuesday afternoon, the following officers were elected: president, Rev. John Pearce, Willimantic; vice president, Mrs. James Purdy, Willimantic; secretary, Miss Helen Dyson, East Orange, New Jersey.

Mrs. Ella Tucker, a devoted attendant at the camp meetings for several years, has passed away during the year. She was a member of the Willimantic Methodist Episcopal church and was much beloved here. Her daughter, Miss Hattie M. Tucker, who is an employe of the State hospital at Middletown, is occupying the family cottage, at No. 43 Wesley circle, and will remain through the week.

The attractive features for Thursday include the following: Dr. C. L. Goodell, the great evangelist, will make his first appearance here and will speak at 9:30 a. m., and at 2 p. m., and 7:30 p. m. Dr. Frick will give the fourth of his series, "Finding God." The subject of his discourse will be "In Human History."

An interesting feature for the children Wednesday afternoon, was a "bubble party." The little tots all had a great time blowing soap bubbles.

BACK FROM AUTO TOUR TO CANADA

Carl W. Brend and Elbert Johnson returned Thursday evening from an automobile tour in Canada which was made in Mr. Johnson's machine and in which they covered about 1,000 miles since last Monday. They left here Monday morning and drove to Montreal by way of Lake George and Lake Champlain. On the return trip they came to St. Albans, Vt., and then to St. Johnsbury, and down through the White mountains home. Of particular interest was the trip between St. Albans and St. Johnsbury and also at points in the White mountains where the devastation of the floods last spring has left bridges washed out. In a number of cases long detours were necessary.

20 PERSONS KILLED BY DERAILMENT OF CAR IN TIMES SQUARE SUBWAY, N. Y. NUMBER OF INJURED MAY REACH 100

The Eighth Car of a Ten-Car Express Split a Switch During the Rush Hour—The Train Had Just Gained Momentum on Its Journey to Brooklyn—The Crash Threw Thousand Into an Uproar—Every Available Policeman and Fireman Was Called Out For Emergency Duty—At Least Fifty Doctors Worked Amid the Wreckage in the Smoke-Filled Subway—All Stalled Subway Trains Were Plunged Into Darkness as the Power Was Shut Off.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—At the height of New York's busiest hour, when underground arteries of the city carry hundreds of thousands of people homeward, a ten-car express train in the West Side subway split a switch shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon, killing 20 persons and injuring at least three times that number.

Leaving Times square, heart of New York's underground traffic, the train had just gained momentum on its journey to Brooklyn when the crash occurred that threw the thousands pouring into the station into an uproar, brought every available policeman and fireman in the section to emergency duty, and called out every ambulance in the city.

An early survey of the scene revealed that the express train, heading out of the station, passed almost three-quarters beyond a switch in the maze of tracks 200 feet below the passenger platform. It appeared that the first pair of trucks of the eighth car in the string passed the switch safely.

Then, for what reason no one could even venture a guess, the rear trucks split the switch, left the express tracks, and headed down a parallel track used by local trains.

The eighth car, crowded with homegoers and carrying at least 80 persons, buckled in half like a bent pin, hurtled through the air, and was cut lengthwise by the cement wall and steel stanchions that separated the two tracks. One half slithered down the rails at least 200 feet before crumpling into a heap of torn steel and twisted sheeting against one side wall.

The other half of the car crumpled beside the smashed wall, its massive trucks leaning against the structure. Between the two smashed portions of the car lay other bits of wreckage, parts of clothing, battred straw hats, and here and there bits of human wreckage yet to be cleared away. No other portions of the train were badly shattered.

The crash occurred just above 40th street and was heard for almost a block away from the numerous subway entrances provided in that area to accommodate the hundreds of thousands of persons using the subway daily.

Detective William B Kirk, standing at the 40th street entrances, heard the roar of the collision, the noise of breaking steel and the cries of the injured. Smoke almost immediately poured from the ventilator gratings in the street that allow air to enter the subterranean passages.

The crushed car lay across the rails, torn apart with its human freight, many dead and many injured, spilled about in the darkness of the cavern. Kirk carried out two children crying beside the form of their unconscious mother and carried out two other women badly hurt.

In the far end of the car, Detective Kirk found another woman, so battered that most of the clothing was torn from her body. He carried her out, commandeered an automobile, and drove to a hospital, where the woman was pronounced dead.

Peter Molitor, a British driver who was riding in the seventh car of the train, said there was a crash and flash of flames as the car left the Times square station. Women screamed and the light in the car he rode went out. That car did not leave the track.

Molitor said he took a monkey wrench from his pocket and smashed three windows in the car to allow several women to escape. It is believed that every person in the wrecked car either was killed or so badly hurt as to require medical attention.

Mayor James J. Walker, notified of the accident, hurried to the scene but arrived too late to take part in the rescue work. City Medical Inspector Morris and Police Inspector Coughlin came with him but the rescue work had been completed. Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze in the subway, confined almost entirely to insulation on the high tension electric cables.

The first report of the fire department to the transit commission, set the number of dead at 20 with no estimate of the injured. The hospitals probably held upward to 100 people, some gravely injured, others merely bruised and battered by the shock of the derailment.

Although power along the entire West Side subway line was shut off as soon as possible, sparks from the shattered high voltage lines apparently set fire to bits of woodwork and filled the black cavern below the passenger platform with dense smoke. Out of the smoke, coughing and reeling, came the first of the injured, many of whom had smashed their way through windows and crawled from under twisted wreckage.

As firemen, policemen, subway guards and many passengers on the platform rushed into the smoke to organize rescue parties, the first of the ambulance men appeared on the scene. Within half an hour all the dead and injured had been removed and gangs of subway workers strove to clear the tangled remains of the car and restore service.

As every emergency detail in the city rushed to the rescue, the black hole of the smoking subway, devoid of all but emergency overhead lights and the flare of electric torches of firemen and policemen, filled with white-clad doctors and hospital attendants.

At least 50 doctors, their white coats contrasting strangely in the flickering lights with the smoke-blackened faces of the firemen and rescue workers, worked amid the wreckage. First aid work was given on the passenger platform of the Times square station, an area of almost two city blocks. Policemen guarded every entrance way and police lines, manned by squads of officers were thrown about the entire section, to hold back crowds of tens of thousands gathered in the square above the scenes of the wreck.

At the Bellevue hospital nearby, 20 physicians and 50 nurses worked in the emergency ward as the injured were carried in, clothes torn, hatless, some bloodstained, others carried unconscious in the arms of firemen and policemen. Stretchers were used to carry the more serious cases.

There it was said that of the two critically injured, one, a woman of 40, probably would die. She suffered a fractured skull. There were many others injured there, only two of the cases serious.

The French hospital was so crowded with patients that a call was sent for extra help from other institutions. Over 40 persons were treated there, 30 remaining for further attention.

So terrific was the force that wrenched the car to fragments as it smashed against the subway wall that the body of a workman was crushed apparently beyond recognition. In another part of the car was found the head of a boy.

LATEST FIGURES GIVE 17 KILLED, 156 INJURED

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—Seventeen persons were killed and 156 injured shortly after 5 o'clock tonight when the eighth car in a south-bound West Side Interborough Rapid Transit express train, jumped the track as it was leaving the Times square station, and crashed into a concrete partition in the tunnel.

MOST SERIOUS NEW YORK SUBWAY CRASH SINCE 1918

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—The subway crash today at Times square, in which 20 were killed and 25 to 50 injured, was the most serious on this city's subway system since 1918, when nearly 100 persons were killed in the derailment of a Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit line train.

In that disaster the train was running through an open cut in Brooklyn. Investigation disclosed that, approaching a curve, the train had been traveling at too high speed. Several cars were derailed and flung against the concrete wall of the cut.

500 MEN CUTTING CAR WITH ACETYLENE TORCHES

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—While 500 grim and perspiring workmen desperately cut away with acetylene torches at the big steel express cars wrecked in the subway tunnel at Times square, New York's busiest subway was completely tied up virtually all night.

At 8 o'clock, nearly three hours after the crash, police estimated that it would take at least five hours more to clear the tracks.

To get the wreckage of the cars out, workmen had literally to hack them to pieces with the torches and then push the pieces out on hand cars.

CRASH DISRUPTED THE WHOLE SUBWAY SYSTEM

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—The subway crash at Times square in the height of the evening rush hour today threw the entire system of the Interborough Rapid Transit Co. into confusion and caused all other units of the city's transportation system to be swamped as millions of workers fought to reach their homes in other subway trains, elevated and surface lines and taxicabs.

Persons who regularly use the Times square station, one of the busiest underground railway terminals in the world, were turned away from the Interborough's West Side lines and sent by the already crowded "shuttle" trains to the Grand Central station to take the Lexington avenue line.

But this line, always jammed at the rush hour, was unable to move the diverted passengers who fought to gain entrance to the trains. Failing to crowd in the Lexington avenue trains, many of them climbed to the street again and tried the elevated lines.

These, too, were jammed to the doors and progress was slow as the overloaded trains, held beyond the usual time for loading at the station, crawled in both directions.

Taxicabs were at a premium and many who turned to them from the subways and elevated lines were unable to obtain passage even by this means. Many private automobiles took aboard stranded passengers and gave them a lift along the way home.

News of the accident spread rapidly and newspaper offices were deluged with telephone calls from homes where dinner was waiting members of the family who were overdue.

The stalled subway trains were plunged into darkness as the power was shut off and only the dim glow of a single bulb at either end of each car lighted the struggling passengers inside.

Those aboard a train which stopped near Fourteenth street were ordered out and walked the tracks back to Twelfth street. Men helped the women from the cars, but many were hysterical and several were carried half-fainting, to the street.

SMITH TO PASS WEEK-END IN NEW JERSEY

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 24—(AP)—Cheered by crowds which at times blocked the progress of his automobile, Governor Smith passed today through an industrial section of New Jersey and came for a week-end stay to this seashore community where Woodrow Wilson made his home during the presidential campaign of 1912.

Tonight the democratic presidential nominee was quartered with his family in a hotel at Spring Lake, two miles from Sea Girt. Tomorrow he will attend a huge democratic rally and review National guard troops encamped here, where the State of New Jersey provides its governor a summer home.

After an overnight stay in New York, where he went after his notification in Albany, and a morning visit to democratic campaign headquarters, Governor Smith invaded New Jersey. But not until he had visited the municipal building to register so he could cast a vote for himself on election day.

No sooner had his motor car, with top down, emerged from the New Jersey end of the vehicular tunnel under the Hudson than the democratic standard bearer became the center of an enthusiastic demonstration.

As his automobile moved through part of Jersey City, in the democratic stronghold of Hudson county where Mayor Frank Hague, one of his closest advisers, is the recognized party leader, the crowds at times forced the governor's car to a standstill, as motorcycle police fought to clear a pathway.

DR. HADLEY WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE FOR U. S. SENATE

HARTFORD, Aug. 24—(AP)—President-emeritus Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale university, was removed from the list of possible democratic nominees for U. S. senator by democratic National Committeeman Thomas J. Spellacy this afternoon. Reports have been current that the former Yale head would be urged upon the state convention which meets in New Haven next month, but National Committeeman Spellacy, when asked concerning the reports, made it clear that Dr. Hadley cannot be considered a possibility.

"Dr. Arthur T. Hadley, president-emeritus of Yale, would undoubtedly make a wonderful candidate for any party for the office of U. S. senator," Mr. Spellacy said. "Unfortunately, however, Dr. Hadley is not in a receptive mood for the nomination and according to my information will not be either an active or passive candidate and will not accept the nomination if tendered to him.

"I wish that it were otherwise as the democracy of Connecticut must make its strongest appeal to the electorate in the personnel of its nominees and certainly Dr. Hadley would fulfill all the requirements."

COOLIDGE FISHING IN SEVEN PINES CREEK

LEWIS, Wis., Aug. 24—(AP)—In quest of new fishing experiences, President Coolidge traveled 80 miles from the summer white house today to try his skill in Seven Pines Creek on the estate of Charles E. Lewis, near Lewis, Wis.

Arriving soon after luncheon at Mr. Lewis' summer home, which resembles Cedar Island Lodge in general landscaping and its Pine Log Lodge, President Coolidge lost no time in settling down to fishing. Within half an hour, wearing high rubber wading boots, he was tramping through the woods on the way to the most promising pools.

Mrs. Coolidge and John accompanied the chief executive. Despite efforts to keep the arrival informal and quiet, the presidential party was greeted by the total population of Lewis, 250 augmented by about three times that number of visitors from the neighboring countryside. American Legion contingents from the nearest centers also were on hand in uniform and with flags and banners.

BRITISH STEAMER AFIRE SENDS DISTRESS SIGNALS

PAGO-PAGO, Samoa, Aug. 24—(AP)—Radio distress signals received here late today said the Port Napier, 8,500 ton British steamer, was on fire 75 miles south of this port.

With the fire gaining, the Port Napier was proceeding 13 knots an hour toward Pago-Pago, which she expected to reach about 6 p. m.

The fire was on the starboard side of the number 4 shelter deck. The Port Napier's cargo was said to contain oils, paints, matches and cement.

The U. S. naval station here prepared to receive the vessel and lend aid. The station ship Ontario was recalled from Apia, full speed being ordered by the commandant. The naval radio station kept in continuous communication with the burning steamer.

The Port Napier left London for Suva on July 21. The vessel was built in 1912. It is a twin screw steamer owned by the Commonwealth and Dominion company of Canada.

Kellogg In Guise Of Pri[illegible] Of Peace

All [illegible] Paris Newspapers [illegible]ment on the Arrival of [illegible]e "Great America".

PARIS, Aug. 24—(AP)—Plenipotentiaries representing 15 nations were gathering tonight to enter a written undertaking on behalf of their governments that as among themselves, they will renounce war as an instrument of national policy. When this formality is completed the pact will be open for the adherence of 47 other nations.

Signing by the original 15 will bring together the greatest diplomatic gathering in Paris since the consummation of the peace treaty of 1919. All the Paris newspapers bring out the analogy between the arrivals of "two great American citizens, Wilson and Kellogg, bent on the mission of establishing peace on earth."

As the statesmen are here to sign a pact that has already been negotiated, their meetings and conversations will be more acts of courtesy and diplomatically taking one another's measure, than anything else.

Secretary Kellogg and Foreign Minister Briand of France met for the first time today. It was Mr. Kellogg's first official duty to call at the French foreign office and he talked there with M. Briand for three-quarters of an hour. Myron T. Herrick, United States ambassador, and George A. Gordon, first secretary of the United States embassy, accompanied the head of their department.

At the American embassy, where Secretary Kellogg went immediately after his arrival this morning, he received a number of callers. Among them were Hugh R. Wilson, minister to Switzerland; Hugh C. Wallace, former ambassador to France, and Mrs. Wallace.

Maurice Bunau-Varilla, proprietor of the Paris Matin and a warm friend of America, and Stephane Lauzanne, editor of the paper, also called on Secretary Kellogg. The trio talked for an hour.

MacKenzie King, prime minister of Canada, who traveled from New York with the Kelloggs, has taken an apartment at the Hotel Crillon. He spent the day in making and receiving visits and dined quietly tonight with the Canadian minister, Philippe Roy, and the latter's wife and daughters.

Another plenipotentiary who arrived tonight was Jacobus Smith, high commissioner in London of the Union of South Africa. Representatives of the British embassy greeted him.

Baron Uchida, Japanese envoy, issued a statement to the press describing the pact as "a new stage in an era of durable and universal peace."

OIL FUMES WERE FATAL TO SEVEN STOWAWAYS

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 24—(AP)—Sixteen Brazilians, stowaways in the hold of the American steamship Steel Inventor, were trapped under battened hatches in deadly fumes of hydro-cyanic acid used to fumigate the ship at quarantine here today.

Seven died, two more were in the hospital tonight in serious condition and seven others were in custody of immigration officials investigating the effort to smuggle the men to this country.

Two climbed a rope that somebody had left hanging from a ventilator and broke through the ventilator covering to tumble onto the deck, giving quarantine authorities their first knowledge there were men in the hold.

A third, overcome, was wedged unconscious in the ventilator and from the two who escaped Dr. H. S White and his assistants learned that in all there had been 16 in the hold. Protected by gas masks the quarantine force dug furiously through the Manganese ore cargo to bring out the other while wireless summoned pulmotors and other aid, sent in speedy launches to the ship a mile off shore.

From one of the survivors who spoke a little English, it was learned that the men boarded the ship at Rio Janeiro, from which port it sailed August 5, but further questioning of the stowaways was postponed until tomorrow.

Quarantine officials explained that the gas used killed disease bearing rats and mosquitoes, and that recently yellow fever had been so prevalent at foreign ports that incoming ships were fumigated as soon as they arrived instead of waiting until their cargo was discharged.

CUTTER MARION ABANDONS SEARCH FOR MISSING PLANE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—(AP)—The coast guard cutter Marion, advised headquarters here tonight that it had abandoned the search for the missing plane, Greater Rockford, because of lack of definite information that the plane had been seen in the waters near Fiskernes, Greenland.

The message from the Marion's commander, Lieut. Commander E. H Smith, read:

"Discontinued search for Hassell in lieu of authentic reports of his being sighted near Fiskernes, Greenland."

Two Dry Agents Held For The Grand Jury

Charged With Assaulting and Shooting a Man During a Raid in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—(AP)—Waiving examination, Arthur Franklin and Edward Gill, federal prohibition agents, were held to the grand jury under bonds today in municipal court on charges of assaulting and shooting a man during a dry raid on offices in a Loop building last Tuesday.

Franklin, accused of firing the shot, was held under $10,000 bonds while Gill, charged with beating the man with a black jack, was held under $5,000 bonds. Their bonds were signed and both were released.

The arrest of the two agents followed decision of the police department to prosecute the case under an option given by the corporation counsel, Samuel Ettelson. John Stege, commissioner of police, communicated with federal authorities during the morning and they promised to surrender the agents.

Complaints against the two agents charging them with assault were filed by William E. Reigsdale, a manufacturing loan broker, whose offices are adjoining the offices raided by the agents.

Reigsdale was the only witness at the hearing. He said he saw Franklin with smoking pistol in his hand and Gill with a black jack just after they had wounded Merle Adams, who ran from the offices they were raiding. Adams is in a serious condition. Eight other men were taken in the raid and have been held under bonds for conspiracy to violate the dry laws.

Office records and other documents seized as evidence by the dry agents were impounded by Federal Judge James H. Wilkinson after it was testified that the raid had been made without either a search warrant or an arrest warrant.

RESULT OF DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 24—(AP)—The democratic organization forces headed by Town Chairman David J. McCoy and with which former Mayor David E. Fitzgerald is aligned, defeated the Cahill-Bergin forces in all nine wards of the city in which there were contests, at the democratic primaries tonight, when delegates were elected to the city convention Monday night. The outcome of today's primary places the former administration leaders in complete control of the forthcoming convention.

Bitterness marked the battles in the wards where there were contests and in two of them, the 13th, where former Tax Collector William H. Hackett was defeated by David J. McCoy as head of the ward ticket, and the 29th, where ex-Mayor Fitzgerald and his ticket won, police were called in during the early evening to break up arguments. It took a sergeant and six officers from the Westville precinct to preserve order during the final period of voting at the 29th ward primary.

The result indicated that the organization will be able to dictate the tickets to the various conventions and that ex-Mayor Fitzgerald will be assured a place on the state delegation.

GIRL SUCCEEDED IN SWIMMING ENG. CHANNEL

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 24—(AP)—A girl swimmer conquered the English channel today, the second of her sex to perform the feat this year.

Hilda Sharp, called by her intimates "Laddie" because of her boyish appearance, entered the water at Cape Gris Nez, France, at 12:05 a. m., and came ashore here at 3:55 p. m., after fifteen hours and five minutes in the water.

Thus she missed by thirty-four minutes her goal of breaking the record set by Gertrude Ederle, of the United States. Miss Sharp went after that record because a London newspaper has offered a prize of $5,000 to the first English girl to lower it, and she wanted the money to aid her in getting a farm in Australia.

At one stage of the swim the 17-year-old "Laddie" seemed to have a good chance to break the record, but the tide swept her several miles out of her course.

Although tired by her effort, she finished strong and after a short rest was able to return to Boulogne on the tug which accompanied her from France.

QUIET DEMOCRATIC STATE CAUCUS IN NEW LONDON

NEW LONDON, Aug. 24—(AP)—Contrary to past performances, the democratic state caucus ran off smoothly tonight, delegates being elected to the state, congressional, probate and senatorial conventions. Those elected chairmen were Joseph C. Keefe, chairman to the state delegation convention; William T. Connor, chairman to the state congressional convention; Sidney Miner, chairman of the state probate convention, and William C. Fox, chairman to the state senatorial convention.

GRAB BAG BUYING

Remember your kid days. When you went to a bazaar or fair there was always a grab bag. You never knew what you were going to get, but that was half the fun. You didn't care. But now when you buy anything you want to be sure of what you get. You want no grab bag methods now.

There is one way you can be reasonably sure of everything you buy. Buy from the merchants who have products which they advertise. Look through the advertisements in this paper, for they will give you the information necessary to intelligent buying. They will tell you what is new and best and why it will suit you. Advertisements tell you what you want to know about the things you buy. It is to your interest to read them.

AMATEUR RADIO HOAXES AROUSING RESENTMENT

Cancellation of Licenses of Some 20,000 Short Wave Amateurs May Be Asked For—National Aeronautic Association Will Be Asked to Protect Aviators and Their Families From "the Cruel Hoaxes"—The Law Provides a $5,000 Fine and Imprisonment of Not More Than Five Years For Broadcasting a False Distress Message.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—The annual convention of the National Aeronautic association at Los Angeles on Sept. 8 will be asked to consider means of protecting aviators and their families from "the cruel hoaxes of radio amateurs."

It will be proposed that the association demand of the department of commerce and the Federal Radio commission adequate policing of the air or, if this should prove too costly, cancellation of the licenses of some 20,000 short wave amateurs.

Frank Tichenor, publisher of Aero Digest, the largest aviation magazine in the country, and a member of the N. A. A., announced today that he would demand action of the association to prevent a recurrence of such messages as have ben picked up last night and today purporting to come from Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, missing America to Sweden fliers.

"I will suggest," he told the Associated Press, "the formation of a pioneer aviators' protective association, the business of which will be to see to it that the families of aviators making long flights will not be subjected to the harrowing emotions of alternating hope and despair caused by the heartless hoaxes of radio humorists.

"If the government issues licenses to short wave operators by the thousand it is the business of the same government department to keep those operators in order. If the amateurs cannot be policed they should not be turned loose with licenses which make it possible for them to do untold harm with perfect impunity."

Chester Latimer, operating engineer of the Radio Corporation of America, said that amateurs sending hoax messages might possibly be traced through direction finders but that there was so little of this equipment available that the offender stood almost a perfect chance of escaping discovery. Their detection, he said, even if direction finders were trained on them, depended entirely on their continued sending to enable thorough checking.

"They wouldn't be likely to do this," he said, "and unless they should keep polishing their joke until they were located eventually by the direction finders it would be like hunting a needle in a haystack, with two other haystacks on top, to catch them."

Short wave operators in New York, Chicago, Toledo and Baltimore reported receiving messages purporting to be from Hassell and Cramer, but technicians were convinced the messages were all a hoax. They were on a wave length different from that used by the ocean fliers. They were verbose whereas neither Hassell nor Cramer knew how to send more than a few letters constituting a prearranged code, and they reported the plane down off the coast of Newfoundland on Sunday whereas far more authentic reports had the ship flying over Greenland at that time.

The law provides a $5,000 fine and imprisonment of not more than five years for broadcasting a false distress message, and fellow airmen of the missing fliers expressed the intention today of forcing action to run down the perpetrators of the present hoax, and all agreed it patently was a hoax, and bringing them to a stern justice.

RADIO EXPERTS DOUBT AUTHENTICITY OF MESSAGES

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—(AP)—Although amateur operators in Chicago, Toledo and Brooklyn received messages last night purporting to come from the missing Rockford-to-Stockholm fliers, radio experts tonigh twere frankly skeptical that the message came from Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, the missing aviators.

Despite the doubters, however, relatives and friends of the fliers in Rockford, Ills., believed the messages genuine and that they gave added evidence that the aviators who left Rockford eight days ago are safe.

The messages picked up last night and signed "Rockford Fliers" said the plane, "Greater Rockford," was down on a small island about fifty miles off the coast of Newfoundland, adding that food supplies were low and asking that the Associated Press and the fliers' families be notified.

While there was no doubt that such a message was sent, skeptics pointed to many reasons for doubting its authenticity. It was on a different wave band than assigned the Greater Rockford, the message was transmitted as if by an expert, while Hassell and Cramer are inexperienced senders and the point where the message said they were down was hundreds of miles from the two villages in southwestern Greenland over which villagers said the plane passed Sunday morning headed east.

A heavy penalty is provided for a radio operator attempting to perpetrate such a hoax, but radio experts said it would be almost impossible to detect such a person if the messages are fictious to trace him. It was pointed out many direction detectors would have to be employed and there are 20,000 such stations in the country.

Last night's messages said the senders would be back on the air tonight and the government is keeping air channels clear to allow an opportunity to listeners to try for other messages and attempt to solve the riddle. Hundreds of amateurs, it was estimated, are sitting nightly with ears glued to head phones trying to pick up messages from the lost aviators.

Ships which have been patrolling the North Atlantic have been ordered to make search of islands off the coast of Labrador and Newfoundland, while Eskimo hunters are searching the terrain between the west coast of Greenland where the plane was sighted by villagers, and Mount Evans, its objective, 300 miles to the north.

The Rockford chamber of commerce, sponsor of the flight, received an offer today from friends of the fliers in Detroit to help finance an expedition to search for the airmen.

LEVINE PLANE FORGED DOWN AT AMSTERDAM

CROYDEN, England, Aug. 24—(AP)—A report was received here tonight that the "queen of the air," Charles A. Levine's Junkers plane, had landed at Amsterdam on the first stage of a proposed trans-Atlantic flight from Dessau, Germany.

Messages from Amsterdam said that bad weather had compelled the fliers to alight there and that they would remain there overnight. The flight to Croydon will be resumed tomorrow morning.

Before leaving Dessau, Levine declined to reveal his immediate plans but left the impression that he would take off for America from either an English or an Irish airport at the first favorable opportunity.

It was understood that Miss Mabel Boll would accompany him on his flight.

INTEREST IN DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY IN TEXAS TODAY

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 24—(AP)—Major interest in tomorrow's second democratic primary was centered in the spirited fight between Earle B. Mayfield, junior United States senator from Texas, candidate for election to a second term, and his opponent, Congressman Tom Connall.

Outside of the senatorial race Texas democratic voters have evinced little interest in the run off primary and political observers were predicting that less than 500,000 votes would be cast as compared to more than 700,000 in the first primary.

In Texas a runoff primary is required to determine democratic nominees in races where no candidate obtained a majority of the total vote cast in the first primary.

MERCHANTS REPORT GOOD BUSINESS ON THE SALE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 24—Today, the second day of the opportunity sale again drew large crowds to the business section where offerings of every description are being shown by over 80 retail merchants. Chairman Robert T. Newton of the Merchants' division stated that the automobile now on display at Lincoln square and which is to be given away in connection with the opportunity sale will be awarded at five o'clock. This hour has been set so that factory workers may have an opportunity to attend the exercises.

With the closing of the second day of the three-day community sale the success of the venture was assured. Saturday will be the banner day and in anticipation of this the merchants have replenished their stock of merchandise so as to extend the opportunity of the event to the last minute as near as possible. Special parking privileges are granted. The time limit has been temporarily lifted from the streets in the business section and the former Lincoln and Boss coal yards at the corner of Meadow and North streets are offered for free parking by M. E. Lincoln, the owner.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY ON MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 24—Judge and Mrs. George H. Andrews of The Ridges will observe their golden wedding anniversary next Monday at their home, a locality in which they have spent all of their married life with the exception of two years when they occupied the Stanton homestead in this city several years ago. The event will be one of note to the Mansfield, Willimantic and other friends of the couple. Three generations of the family will be present for the celebration Monday and Mr. and Mrs. Andrews will welcome visitors during the day. The reception is to be held from 2 to 5 p. m., and 7 to 10 p. m. At the family dinner at noon covers will be laid for 50 guests.

George Henry Andrews, 70, was born December 19, 1857, a son of James J. and Mary E. Brown Andrews, at Grant's Hill, Tolland. His wife was Minnie Ellsworth Jencks. She was born June 26, 1860, a daughter of James A., and Anna S. Darling Jencks, at Falls Village. They were married at West Wrentham, Mass., August 27, 1878, by Rev. B. P. Bryan. They have four sons: Winfield J. Andrews and Judge Russell A. Andrews, of this city; Dudley G. Andrews, of East Hartford, and Merton C. Andrews of The Ridges. Their grandchildren are: Stanley, Clayton, Winifred and Beatrice Andrews, sons and daughters of Winfield J. Andrews; Thelma and Malcom, daughter and son of Russell A. Andrews; Raymond, son of Dudley G. Andrews and Lucille, Arlene and Althea, daughters of Merton C. Andrews.

Judge Andrews was one of the organizers of Bordgr grange and was its first master, at the time that J. N. Hale was state master. The first meetings were held in the Andrews home. At the age of 14 years Mr. Andrews, with his parents and brothers and sisters, moved from Tolland to The Ridges, residing in the house now owned by Philip S. Hills. The present home has been occupied for the past 17 years. Mr. Andrews' vocation was that of farming and for some 40 years he operated a milk route, the business being carried on in the Andrews family for four generations.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews have been devout Baptists throughout their life and for 25 years Mr. Andrews was deacon of the First Baptist church of this city, he and Mrs. Andrews having been members of this church for over half a century. With the exception of Dudley G. Andrews and family who reside in East Hartford, all of the children and grandchildren are members of the same church. Mr. Andrews acquired his title of judge by virtue of holding the position of justice of the peace in the town of Mansfield for 28 years, retiring when he reached the age limit of 70 years. He was first selectman of the town of Mansfield for ten years and his political affiliations have always been as an old line democrat. Judge and Mrs. Andrews and their son, Russell A. Andrews and family, are on a two weeks' automobile tour through southern Canada but plan to return Sunday in preparation for the celebration.

While there is avowed interest in the coming elections there appears to be a peculiar lack of energy on the part of the voters or would-be voters in filing their names on the party lists, and securing applications to be made voters. Two sessions have already been held by the registras of the town of Windham, A. Linn Weatherhead and Thomas A. Shea, but only three names were received for the party caucus.

All three were registered as republicans. It is anticipated, however, that a large number of new voters will be added to the list for the town, satte and national elections, the latter to be held in November. The registrars today gave notice that the time will expire for the filing of applications to be made voters for the town election September 4. The board of selectmen and town clerk will be in session Saturday, September 15, from 9 a. m., to 9 p. m., to administer the oath. A later date may be set to receive applications for the November elections.

An open meeting of the chamber of commerce will be held in the assembly hall next Monday evening when Charles E. Adams, of the window service department of the Dennison Manufacturing company, Framingham, Mass., will deliver an address on window trimming. Women are invited to attend this meeting. Mr. Adams will use as his subject, How to Sell More Goods from Better Displays and he will demonstrate his talk with practical displays. Mr. Adams plans to show to advantage the use of crepe paper in window decorating in securing beautiful designs and effects for the display of merchandise.

Fryer, of this city, Miss Rachael Packer, of Hartford and Mrs. Dana Perry, of Shelton; and several nephews and nieces. This is the time of the year when several hundred citizens who are fraternized because they all from a common malady of hay-fever express the desire that property owners and the city authorities would be so kind as to cut down as much as possible of ragweed, timothy and golden rod as is to be found around the town. While no amount of cutting down would cure sufferers inasmuch as the vicious pollen is to be found everywhere, local riddance of the weed would serve well to abate the quantity of pollen prevaient. It is estimated that between four and five hundred people in the city suffer from hay-fever and they as well as their friends and neighbors would be appreciative of any cooperation given.

UNION

ANNUAL OLD HOME DAY HAD INTERESTING FEATURES

Although the weather was disappointing Saturday, Aug. 18, there was a very good attendance at Union's Old Home day and everybody seemed to be cheerful and heartily enjoying the events. It was impossible to use the grove, as had been planned, so the town hall was the meeting place throughout the morning, and the speaking program was held in the church in the afternoon. The Phoenix Liberty band of Stafford furnished music for the day. In the afternoon at the church Rev. Henry A. Coolidge, pastor of the church atUnion, was chairman and gave a humorous, kindly welcome to the guests, some of whom had journeyed long distances in the rain.

The first speaker called was Gilbert E. Willis of Manchester, a former resident of Union. Rev. Charles G. Fogg of Gloucester, Mass., a former pastor of Union church, who never misses a Union Old Home day. Mrs. Howard G. Barber of Union read letters from Rev. Henry Clinton Newell of Middlebury, Vt., and Attorney Harry E. Back of Danielson. The band gave a selection, after which Attorney Hartley Reed Walker of Orange, Mass. declared that he had not missed any Old Home days at Union. Edwin W Fogg of Gloucester, Mass., son of a former pastor, who recalled his boyhood in Union. Mrs. H. G. Barer read an interesting letter from Mrs. Elsi Curtiss Job, granddaughter of Rev. Samuel Ives Curtiss, pastor here for thirty odd years. Her father, the late Rev. George Curtiss, D. D., was also a pastor here for several years.

Prof. Charles Henry Thompson, the next speaker, a son of California, is now in Massachusetts Agricultural college, Amherst. Prof. Thompson's ancestors lived in Union in the early days of its history and were in the Continental army. Readings by Miss Evangeline Lawson, a daughter of Lydia and Union, and an accomplished reader were greatly enjoyed. The program closed with America by the band and audience.

Just after the speaking program ended the annual baseball game between married men and single men was played on Newell Hill. The married men won, 12 to 11. In the evening a dance was held in the town hall for Union people and their guests. Lanny Feigh's orchestra of Stafford Springs furnished music.

Old Home day, Sunday, Aug. 19, was a beautiful sunny day and a large audience gathered at the morning service at the church, some coming from long distances. The pastor, Rev. Henry Albert Coolidge, took for his text "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Mr. Coolidge in his address was at his best. The singing of two selections by a quartet, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Abbott, Alfred Long of Stafford Springs and Rev. H. A. Coolidge, was much appreciated. The selections were Homeland and All His Works Shall Praise Him. The closing hymn by quartet and congregation was There's a Wideness in God's Mercy. After the service, as usual on Old Home Sunday, the people gathered on the lawn and steps to greet friends before parting, some for a year and, perhaps, some not to meet again till they meet in the Great Beyond.

It was a pleasure to have Mrs. Ellen Kinney Beard (wife of Rev. Willard L. Beard, D. D.) present at this service in the church, in which she was baptized when a child, and where her father, Myron Kinney, was a deacon for several years. If the previous day had not been stormy in the morning, Mrs. Beard would have come from Shelton to take part in the Saturday speaking program. On Sept. 28 she expects to sail with Dr. Beard from California back to their mission work in Foochow, China. They will be leaving all of their family, one son and four daughters, and are going for a period of five years. Last Sunday she was accompanied by her two youngest daughters, Misses Kathleen and Marjorie Beard, students in Oberlin college. Her brother, Elbert Corbin Kinney, and her sister, Miss Emma J. Kinney, of Putnam, were with her also.

Rev. Henry A. Coolidge plans to take his annual vacation the first two Sundays in September.

DANIELSON

TOWN COURT SENDS MONEY TO STATE AFTER EACH CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 24—With Danielson's court on the list to be inspected by the auditors of the state department of motor vehicles an interview was had this morning with Judge William Fenner Woodward, of the court, who is also clerk of the town court, relative to the method in which payments are made to the department when fines are collected from violators of the motor vehicle laws.

At the close of each session of court Judge Woodward forwards to the department in Hartford the amount of fine imposed. The money is sent through check and a record of payment is also made in the court office. Since the announcement was made in a recent issue of The Bulletin several towns have published the manner in which the records are kept and the funds turned over to the state.

Only in instances where a violator is granted an appeal to a higher court or where he is sent to jail, no money is sent to the state motor vehicle department. All records in Judge Woodward's office are easily accessible and it is certain that none of the $61,000 of the unpaid fines will come from Danielson.

Opinion of many officials is that the state law demanding the motor fines to be directed to the state, is unfair to the town, as the town furnishes the funds to maintain the courts—the state collecting the revenue.

In the town court this morning before Judge William Fenner Woodward, John Despardin of the boro was fined two dollars and actual costs of the court, because he failed to produce a registration certificate for his car and was not a licensed operator. Despardin was arrested by State Officer Theodore Strand of the local barracks last evening. He pleaded guilty to the charge and promptly paid his fine—which in turn was promptly paid to the commissioner of motor vehicles.

Local lawyers will go to the Griswold, in Groton, on September 5, to attend the annual meeting of the Connecticut State Bar association.

In Brooklyn detours are still the predominating roads, although their popularity is beginning to wane as the contractors speed work on the new highway. The roadbed in East Brooklyn now contains a fresh covering of crushed stone, as does the stretch of road lying between the village and the postoffice. Indications are that the finishing touches on this road will be placed on it within the passing of another fortnight. There still remains another long stretch of roadway between the Quinebaug bridge and the center of the village which is in a torn-up condition leaving prospects for quick completion unfavorable.

The weekly meeting of the Danielson Rotary club was held yesterday at the Aswawaugan hotel. Allen Reed was the speaker. Mr. Reed addressed the Rotarians on the various subjects they have planned to work on during the coming year, which includes the boy's work movement. On next Thursday evening the Rotarians will meet and will be addressed by District Governor James A. Gunn, of Turner Falls, Mass. Mr. Gunn's presence at the meeting next week will constitute his annual visit to the club.

A death in Foster, R. I., Thursday, was that of Miss Caroline F. Hopkins. Miss Hopkins, although a resident of Foster, was well acquainted in Danielson. She was the daughter of Rev. R. C. Hopkins, for a number of years pastor of the Foster Congregational church. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker A. F. Wood, of Danielson, who will have charge of funeral arrangements.

A number of Danielson residents will go to West Woonsocket, Saturday, to attend the "Old Home Day" fete. The affair has attracted considerable attention in this section and it is thought many of dacquaintances will be renewed when the host of Danielson folks gather at the events.

Danielson friends of Officer Emil Castagna, now a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, are pleased to learn of the rapid recovery he is making from injuries received in an accident Tuesday evening. It was reported today that the policeman was still improved over his condition of yesterday. Hundreds of local friends of the officer visited the hospital Wednesday and Thursday and remained a few minutes with him.

It was said this afternoon by Treasurer Sidney W. Bard, of the Brooklyn Savings bank, that the new building now under construction will perhaps be ready for occupancy on or about December 1st. Mr. Bard said that unusually fast progress has been made on the structure on the exterior portions and soon the workmen will divert their attentions to the interior sections which, when completed, will be of great beauty. When operations were first begun, it was not expected that the work would be completed before February, 1929, but the remarkable progress made during the summer months has furthered hopes that the most beautiful building in eastern Connecticut will reach completion before the close of the present year.

In the towns of Dayville and Brooklyn renovated schoolhouses will open their doors to students in September at the opening of the new school year. In Dayville the little brick schoolhouse has been undergoing repairs, since the summer term closed in June, and with the work nearly completed the building now stands out as a civic improvement to the little village. In Brooklyn the town has expended funds for the repair of the old school building. Electricity has been connected with modern lavatories replacing the unsanitary out houses. Steam nine fittings have been installed and this winter steam heat will replace the uneven heat afforded by the old stove.

PUTNAM

OVER 400,000 GALLONS OF SEWAGE INTO QUINEBAUG

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, August 24—Sewage waste of 400,000 gallons each day constitutes Putnam's contribution to the Quinebaug river, according to figures obtained from City Engineer George W. Perry this afternoon. The amount of sewage material deposited into the river from the homes in Putnam was recorded today on the measuring instrument now in operation at the crib at the outlet of the sewers on Park street. Mr. Perry stated that Putnam deposits in the river more waste than any other town situated on the northern part of the river, and the unsanitary means of disposal now in operation should be remedied as soon as possible.

Waste of all descriptions passes over the weir of the measuring crib and the flow is being recorded each day, so that at the end of a year's time the exact daily average may be obtained and as previously stated the size of filtration plants may be determined.

In addition to the city sewage there is passing into the rivers waste from other large plants located near the streams which will also have to be taken into consideration before any steps can be taken to improve sewage disposal conditions in the city.

Putnam police scoured the city on Thursday evening and today in search of a Nash sedan, the property of Horace Hayes of Grove street, stolen from the home of his sister on Church street Thursday evening while he was visiting. The car was left in a darkened section of the yard and was thought to have been taken between 8 and 10 o'clock. He reported the theft to the Putnam police as soon as he discovered his car had been taken and alarms were dispatched to police departments in other cities.

An all night search by the local police, with assistance of police in Rhode Island, Willimantic, Danielson and Webster failed to throw any light on its mysterious disappearance. The search was continued today but until late this afternoon was fruitless. Captain Jarvis of the Putnam police stated that he inquired of the whereabouts of two boys, named suspects and was told that they had left town during the previous evening. Capt. Jarvis said he will endeavor to locate the boys as he believes from the past thefts they might be implicated in the stealing of the Hayes car.

Police are still conducting an investigation of the mysterious disappearance of Joseph Martineau of Woodstock avenue, Putnam, wanted for operating under the influence of liquor and also for operating without a license. Martineau was involved in an automobile collision on Park street, Sunday morning and when Officer Joseph Page of the Putnam police was about to place him under arrest he disappeared into the darkness. A thorough search of the surrounding property was made but the officers failed to disclose the whereabouts of the intoxicated driver. Police in surrounding cities have been notified to be on the lookout for the missing man, Captain Jarvis said today

With the opening of the fall term of schools in September many Putnam students will return to their studies at the various New England colleges.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Windham county Hoover Curtis republican club was held this afternoon at the Putnam Savings bank and a number of very important campaign matters were considered. A number of names of speakers who will speak at the planned mass meeting of the club to be at Woodstock hill on September 15, were submitted and a number of names were selected, but Clarence W. Bowen, secretary of the club failed to disclose any of the chosen speakers and requested that the press refrain from publishing the speakers names as the list is not yet complete.

The rumor circulated in Putnam at the first of the week, that vice presidential nominee, Charles Curtis, would be in Putnam and Woodstock hill on Sept. 15 to speak, was neither confirmed nor denied by Mr. Bowen.

This afternoon's meeting of the club was presided over by Miss Katherine Byrne of Putnam, chairman of the executive committee of the club and vice chairman of the state republican central committee. Reports were heard from members of the various committees and were all favorably received.

Putnam police were in receipt of a police alarm from the Danielson state police barracks, Thursday evening requesting them to assist in a search for a stolen Chevrolet roadster, the property of John Gomes of New Bedford, Mass. It is alleged the car was taken from the town garage between 6 and 9 o'clock. The car was registered in Massachusetts and carried numbers 274-703.

Saturday will be observed in West Woodstock as "Old Home Day." Scores of people in Putnam and vicinity were today planning to attend the long list of events scheduled to take place tomorrow. The fete will commence in the morning and will continue through the afternoon, with athletic games and other amusements to pass the day.

Captain of Police and Mrs. Jarvis had as their guests today Sergt. Theodore Goulet of Worcester. Sergeant Goulet is an officer of the Worcester police department's detective bureau and has devoted the past fifteen years of his life to the study of criminology. During the number of years spent in the Worcester police department Sergeant Goulet has figured in many of the large cases of the department. He is a native of Putnam, but left this city in his early life for Worcester where he received his education and later joined the police force.

Gilbert Perry, an official of the department of engineering, city of Worcester, and his sister Miss Gertrude Perry of Providence street Putnam, left this morning for an automobile trip through the White Mountains. They will also visit in Maine before returning to Putnam.

The body of Mrs. Joliet Surprise of Leominster, Mass., formerly of Putnam was received in Putnam today by local undertakers. Burial followed the arrival of the body in St. Joseph's cemetery in Dayville. Mrs. Surprise died Wednesday at her home in Leominster.

A number of Putnam ring fans were in Worcester today to witness the home coming welcome extended by the city of Worcester to Harry Devine, amateur pugilist and to Miss Albina Osipowich, Olympic stars, at Amsterdam. Devine has appeared on the Putnam Sporting club's card several times and has proved to be a favorite with the fans.

JEWETT CITY

CLIFFORD ST. JOHN'S JOY RIDE PROVES SERIOUS FOR HIM

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 25—Clifford St. John of Main street appeared in the town court Friday morning charged with 5 counts, operating motor vehicle without registration, operating without the owner's permission and breaking and entering in the night with intent to steal. He was bound over to the superior court under $500 bonds which were furnished by his father, Xavier St. John. The accused was arrested by Officer Henry Vegiard at 5 o'clock Friday morning. The machine is owned by John Gomes of New Bedford, a boarder at St. John's home, who works nights in the Ninigret Co., plant. Tuesday night his car was taken from the garage on No. Main street and returned. Thursday night he became suspicious, went to the garage about 9 o'clock, found the door broken open and the machine gone. He notified Officer Vegiard, who placed Supernumerary Sieteleaud on duty and he himself spent the night at the garage, waiting to see who returned with the machine. At 5 o'clock St John accompanied by George Cyr, returned with the machine in a most dilapidated condition. The officer placed them under arrest. Cyr's story was that St. John told him that his father had taken the machine in lieu of a board bill, and that he had bought the machine from his father for $50. St John went to Cyr's home and offered him a ride, telling the same story to Cyr's father, also offering him a ride. Cyr was allowed to go without trial.

VOTERS MAKE THE ISSUES

One of the early pronouncements of Chairman Work as he took up the direction of the republican national campaign was to the effect that tariff was to be the leading issue, but this calculation failed to take into account the fact that the democratic platform is as conclusively protective as the republican. Changed conditions vitally affecting the democratic party have made it impossible for that party to oppose the protective principle without losing more votes than it can afford to let go.

Only a brief glance backward is necessary to disclose the historical evidence indicative of this change. That old-fashioned democrat, Oscar W. Underwood, shaped the tariff act of 1913 which bears his name, as far as his own branch was concerned, and when it left the house he assured his colleagues in so many words that "There is not in it one seed of protection." The democratic party was then completely in control of the government; but when the Underwood-Simmons bill was signed by President Wilson, it was a fairly good protective measure, and has been claimed as such even in the present campaign, by the democratic party. True, it slaughtered the agricultural schedule, but even the democrats would be slow to make that mistake again.

Chairman Work, it is evident, fails to understand the psychology of the present campaign. Mr. Hoover must have realized something of this when he visited New Mexico; for, even in that small state, always a fighting ground, he found that the real issue, the only one in which the voters were expressing great interest, was constitutional prohibition. It is upon that issue, and that alone, that the Hoover workers expect to carry not only New Mexico, but also Arizona, and to send a few cold chills down into Texas. This same alignment runs throughout the country, and the very remote chance which Governor Smith has of carrying any of the New England states, if he has any chance, rests wholly upon the vote of men who are stout protectionists, but who are giving no more thought to the tariff issue than they are to prospective war with Patagonia. Abler men than Dr. Work discovered long ago that the voters make the issues not the chairmen of the political committees.

DIRIGIBLE PROGRESS

In view of the misfortunes that have beset the development of dirigibles, it is a matter of no small wonder that the United States gave the navy department approximately $4,000,000 to build two dirigibles of greater size and veiling radius than any operated by the navy before. From the fact that dirigibles have not proved airworthy under extreme conditions, it is assumed that the fault is fundamental. Their failure has been more pronounced in recent years by comparison with the development of the airplane. It is now known that airplanes can be built to do anything that can be done by a dirigible, and do it better and with a greater degree of safety.

The explanation of the federal government's continued interest in the dirigibles lies in two factors. European countries still are convinced that in certain fields of air transport, the dirigible has a substantial range of commercial usefulness. British and German companies have plans for a regular dirigible transport service to the United States, South America and Australia. Italy's Nobile expedition to the pole showed her faith in that method of air transportation. It is argued that the United States cannot afford to neglect an aircraft in which other nations are willing to invest huge sums in the hope of making a profit.

The second reason for advancing United States dirigible construction is the necessity for keeping the country's air defense on a basis that will permit of quick emergency expansion. It is felt that American factories should be kept prepared to make balloon fabric and that both army and navy should develop men skilled in balloon construction, maintenance and flying. It is probable that if the larger dirigibles now under construction do not give better service than their predecessors all the leading powers will be glad to do away with the dirigible entirely and concentrate their energies upon heavier-than-air craft.

NOT A PRIVILEGED CHARACTER

Even since "Bossy" Gillis was elected mayor of Newburyport, those who read of his exploits have been willing to admit that he is something of a character. But Bossy's apparent idea that he is a privileged character received a jolt this week when a Massachusetts district judge sentenced the Newburyport mayor to 30 days in prison and some $1,140 in fines for violating some of the laws and ordinances of the state and city in which he holds authority.

The judge is under the impression that Gillis in previous court proceedings promised to remove the gasoline tanks of his filling station from their site in a restricted neighborhood; it appears that the filling station still operates. The court holds that the mayor ought to remember that he has ceased to be a private individual; as a public figure defying the law, he gets what he would himself perhaps describe as the whole works.

He can and does appeal from the legality of the sentence; he cannot fairly complain of its spirit as set forth in the remarks from the bench. Disregard of the law takes on a worse appearance and has a worse moral effect when displayed by those intrusted with public duties under the law. When Mayor Gillis runs for governor, as he promises to do it is probable that he will find a good many Massachusetts voters hold this attitude against him.

PROHIBITION AS AN EXPERIMENT

Whether one agrees with Mr. Hoover that constitutional and statutory prohibition is an "experiment noble in purpose," or joins Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and other opponents of the eighteenth amendment and of the Volstead act in viewing it with alarm and abhorrence as corrupting and demoralizing, one is not likely to deny the appropriateness of the word "experiment" in Mr. Hoover's characterization of the enterprise.

The results of the second national poll of the clergy of the Protestant Episcopal church by a temperance society of that denomination are striking. Answers were requested to an explicit list of questions which were sent to the 5,301 ministers of the denomination in the United States. Of the 2,980 replies received, 1,250 favored modification of the Volstead act, but it was almost a tie vote on repealing the eighteenth amendment. Those favoring repeal were 959, those against it 984. That we have had the law long enough to give it a fair trial was the opinion of 1,329 as against 758 and there were 1,304 who answered in the negative to the question whether prohibition was a success from a practical point of view in the locality of which the minister had knowledge. Those who said it was a success in their localities numbered 501, while there were 1,691 who do not believe that a prohibition law offers the best solution for the problem of intemperance.

If advocates of temperance and moderation in all things are not satisfied with the fruits of prohibition, its experimental character admits of no denial. Manifestly it is the duty of all persons to divest themselves of all bias and preconception so that they can study prohibition with open minds both from a scientific and practical point of view. Dogmatic assertion will get the nation nowhere. What the situation calls for is light—all the light that can be applied to it.

Prohibition has become a leading issue in the present national political campaign. Every patriotic American wishes to vote at the November election in the manner that best will serve the interests of his country, which are his own interests and the interests of his fellow Americans. Careful study of the issue is essential if he is to fulfill his obligation as a citizen.

MR. ROBINSON'S JOB

Chairman Raskob announces that Senator Robinson will shortly start to fulfill the purpose for which he was put on the national democratic ticket—to serve as the antidote to Governor Smith in the once solid, but now less solid south. Mr. Smith's acceptance speech at Albany, coming out strongly for an amendment to the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act has made Mr Robinson's missionary efforts in the southern states more imperatively necessary than ever and has also rendered his task far more difficult.

Long before the Houston convention Josephus Danielson was on record as saying that he would never stand for an avowed "wet" as a candidate for president. Other southern "drys" such as Senators Glass and George, as well as Senator Walsh of Montana, who have been hobnobbing with Mr. Smith at Albany, were seasoned veterans of the "dry" democracy, but they have shown they are willing to compromise and they are "dry" only when their "dry" principles do not clash with their democracy.

But the rank and file of the "drys" down in Dixie are not so easily persuaded to play the game of "follow the leader," regardless of who that leader may be or whither he proposes to lead them. For that reason, Mr. Robinson, with his dozen speeches a week in the states of the south, will find his work cut out for him.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

By the time this issue of The Bulletin reaches the public, which we sincerely hope in the providence of God will be on Saturday, August 25, 1928, we shall have entered upon the last lap of our cruise of several weeks upon the delightful sea of rest and change. If wisdom has marked our action during this period, we have shut out the old affairs prior to August first, as far as this was humanly possible. It is a good thing to lock the door of our palatial mansion just as the last day of July is "dying in the west," and keep it locked until the genial September has arrived. When I say that we ought to make the vacation period a season of radical change in our mode of living, I do not mean that we ought to plunge into any silly, frivolous or unproductive pleasures, for that would defeat the real end in view. Now the really rich things of life that belong to vacation will come our way—if we only go after them.

When the first of the present month arrived, a good many of us gave heed to that fine literary gem: "Pack up your troubles in the old kit-bag, and smile, smile, smile!" As there was some room remaining in this literary bag we put in an extra pair of stockings, a night shirt, and a bottle of soda mints, and we have used all three, as we have been gone a month. But we can hardly realize where the month has gone to. It seems but yesterday that we gave (what seemed to us) wise counsel to a class of young graduates, and saw them grip their diplomas with pleasure. But the calendar, and it is really this year's one, tells us that Labor day is not far off. It seems but yesterday that we let the furnace fire out, but it really must have been the first of July rather than the first of August. At any rate Labor day is near, so also is the opening of the schools, and perhaps the starting of the steam heater.

Let us not be discouraged on our return from vacation if we do not have the physical exhuberance of a Samson when he gripped the jaw bone of an ass and slew a thousand Philistines. A good many of us will be called upon to make a considerable use of our jaw bones, but let us devoutly hope and pray that it will not remind any one of the Book of Judges, the fifteenth chapter and the fifteenth verse. Let us remember that the full benefit of a real vacation will not be fully felt for months to come. It is unfortunate if at first the feeling is that we can easily move the earth. In that case it would indicate that only the muscles are exhilarated, and that all of the energy is on the surface. But if we find that in October there is more reserved energy than a month earlier the indication is that we have come home with a full reservoir, and that our strength for the moment is all that is necessary.

Some one has put the real value of a vacation into words like these: "before vacation molehills loom up before us like mountains, but after vacation, provided it has been a good one, mountains are reduced to the size of molehills." It is certainly true that the size and difficulties of our tasks are to be measured in terms of physical and mental vitality. Our fitness of body, mind and soul acts as a camera that reveals to us the importance of the things we are to do, and gives us a certain insight into our ability to do them. Before a tired body and a languid mind things do not reveal themselves to us as they really are, but when we approach them with active faculties the impossible seems to disappear. Ten of the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land were weak and said "we cannot go up against the people for they are stronger than we." But Caleb who was strong said, "we are able."

It is not delightful in a world sense that "wars and rumors of wars" are constantly growing dimmer? There is no real war cloud on the political horizon today, unless possibly the turmoil in the Balkans may be regarded as such, but this is more like the constant mutterings of a volcano than a real outburst. It is hardly anything more than a "Tempest in a teapot." Even the internal disturbance in China has about worn itself out. The effort put forth by our Secretary Kellogg has had something more than a political effect: it has had a great moral influence on the leading countries of Europe, and these powerful nations have enough influence to curb the warlike instincts of the rest of the world. The peace loving world was gratified at the way in which Great Britain rose to the occasion, as well as Italy, France, Germany and Japan. The Kingdom of God is growing throughout the earth.

During the next several months we shall have extensive struggle here in the United States, but thank God it will not be war. The ordinary life of our people will go on with scarcely more than a surface ripple whichever party is victorious at the polls. Neither of the two great parties can do anything very outrageous, because if they do they will feel the awful nemesis of the people. It is a mighty good thing for the country at large that the two great parties are near enough alike in voting power that neither dares to insult the national sense of honor and decency. We have a perfect right to express our party alliance, and the principles that are, or, what we think, ought to be involved. Outside of some of the lowdown slums in our big cities no interference will be made to any man's expression of opinion at the polls.

Just what a person ought to do in vacation depends largely on what he does the rest of the year. The main object sought in vacation, or, at least, what ought to be, is rest and change. If a person for eleven months of the year follows a sedentary occupation, for such an individual it is not a hammock under the maple tree that is needed so much as trout fishing or mountain climbing, or swimming in the salt water every day for a month. If the weather is not too hot it is not bad to go for several miles a day in a canoe and do the paddling yourself. If, on the other hand, one's employment is hard, physical labor, for such a one the hammock is not out of place, neither is croquet and good books that will tend to brace up the mental side of the equasion. It is easy to see that the object to be sought is a radical change from the ordinary humdrum of life.

It seems to me that the most immediate satisfaction derived from a well-spent vacation comes just after your account with host or hostess has been settled, while your abundant luggage awaits transportation when your genial hosts gives you a gracious invitation to come again next season—and that has actually been known to happen Unless you have entered most heartily in creating and maintaining a genial atmosphere and especially if you have been grouchy, the strong probability is that you will get no very urgent call to spend your vacation there again. Remember that the summer outing presents a splendid opportunity for impressing your personality upon others. It is one way in which we are morally bound to call the attention of others to the great things we stand for. And this can be done by what we are and do rather than by what we say.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — Any Constant Reader, if there be one, of the Congressional Record must be bewildered as he observes the Frank B. Kellogg of today and recalls the same Kellogg as pictured in those endless pages these last three years or so.

Today he is tasting world acclaim with Aristide Briand as daddy of the fifteen-power anti-war pact. Yesterday he was under daily fire in senate and house as a bellicose, saber-rattling menace to peace, particularly in Latin America. His assailants were intent on prying him out of the state department as their own idea of the way to preserve peace.

In June, 1925, they made much of the Kellogg broadside putting the Calles government in Mexico under stern warning. Later, with the Nicaraguan and Chinese pots boiling over simultaneously, they clamored as the marines bustled to both fronts, replete with bayonets, machine guns and air bombs. The Washington effort to arbitrate the Tacna-Arica dispute broke up in a fine row it was difficult to disguise even partially. Kellogg's substitute mediation plan was about as effective as a flat tire. Panama wasn't having any of the war department doctored new treaty with Washington. Around the world the cry of American imperialism was being raised, mingling with the radical and liberal demands at home for Kellogg's cabinet scalp.

Yet now comes this same Kellogg, world acclaimed as a knight of the peace crusade. As he went to Paris on impressive mission he left behind him American-Mexico relations Morrowized to a veritable love feast; Nicaragua Stimsonized into abandonment of bullets for ballots; China with the same nationalists whose drive at Shanghai called out the marines now recognized in fact. Chile and Peru have healed their diplomatic gift by Kellogg persuasion and seem headed toward a Tacna-Arica settlement of their own. Panama has been told the United States won't mix in her politics, but will see to it that peace is kept.

How come? What has happened ad interim to bring about the change?

Several undtrlying developments provide the explanation. The outstanding one is the collapse of radical influence in China and Mexico.

Dwight Morrow's Lindbergh and Carranza good will flight promotions are an outward and visible sign of his genius for creating trust beyond the border in American protestations of non-imperialistic designs. He worked also in other small but very effective ways to the same end. For one thing—and it bore prompt fruit—he abandoned on reaching Mexico City the old double interpreter plan of checking up on conversations with high Mexican officials, including the president. He was content to accept the Mexican interpreter.

That little gesture won him at once the trust of President Calles that no tricky-tongued diplomacy was to be guarded against. It created an atmosphere of friendly discussion that has nurtured mightily the blossoming plant of mutual understanding between the governments.

IN TROMBONESE

Cautiously Jerry opened the door, slid in through the crack and murmured, "Maggie, darlin', I'm fired agin."

"Well, of all the useless, good-for-naughts!" Maggie settled her hands on her tall hips, the better to wither her already depreciated spouse.

"An' what, may I be askin', are you intendin' doin', now that you belong to the leisure class?"

"Well," Jerry's voice gathered volume as he talked, "I have long been wantin' to learn to play the trombone. I guess I'll be goin' down to Finestein's and gittin' me one." And he ducked out the door before Maggie could gather up her astonishment into adjectives.

There are those who consider the trombone a musical instrument. Maggie was not one of them. Nor were the neighbors. But Jerry practiced blandly through Maggie's assault of comment and the uncharitable sarcasm of the neighbors. He was knocking at the portal of art.

"You needn't be so fierce about it, Maggie," demurred Jerry, tenderly wiping the mouthpiece of his trombone. "Might happen that me and me trombone would bring you to ease an' riches yet."

"Ease an' riches," snorted Maggie. "'Twill be bringin' me to the madhouse or the poorhouse or both." And she launched into a tirade against Jerry and all his ancestors. For a moment Jerry listened speculatively. Then he raised his trombone and burst into an aw oom paa that sounded so much like "Aw, shut up!" that Maggie cried out furiously:

"You will be sassin' your own wife with your trombone, will you?"

"Oompety oompety oomp," responded Jerry. And there was a wicked gleam in his eye. It was the first time in his married life he had ever talked back.

"Get outa here with that thing or I'll be windin' it around your neck!" shrieked Maggie, and she reached for the flatiron, the one weapon she considered legal and dignified when words failed her, which wasn't often.

It was amateur night at the Empire. Somewhere half-way down the bill was the information that Jerry Malone would trombone a solo, the audience being willing. And somewhere in the shadows of back stage Jerry Malone nursed his trombone, swallowed hard and audibly and ran a perfumed handkerchief round and round between his collar and neck.

But Napoleon himself couldn't have swaggered across the first empire more convincingly than Jerry Malone swaggered out upon the Empire stage. Gayly he raised his trombone to his lips and trembled into something that sought to be melody. But at the same time rose the irate voice of Maggie Malone.

"That's my husband and I want him. Jerry Malone, you come down off that stage this minute and stop making a fool of yurself!" The audience crashed its neck. Jerry gulped; his knees knocked together; he drew a deep breath, licked his lips and from the throat of the trombone came the "aw oom paa" that said, plainer than words "Aw, shut up."

"I won't shut up!" snapped Maggie. The audience tittered and Jerry, spreading his feet like Napoleon, burst into "Somewhere a Voice is Calling, Calling Me." The titter became a shout of laughter and Maggie charged down the aisle.

"You will sass me!" she shrieked, brandishing the flatiron arm menacingly.

"Oompety, oompety, oomp" said the trombone with a rising inflection of pained surprise. The audience broke into joyful whoops, and above the din Jerry rollicked into "She's a Red-Hot Mamma."

"You stop that noise and come home this instant," from Maggie.

"Be it ever so hu-uu-mble, there's no place like ho-o-me," warbled Jerry. Maggie planted a firm foot on the astonished trap drummer and scrambled over the footlights. Jerry shot a startled look toward the exit and began backing toward it, braying lustily "Good-bye, boys, I'm through," at the top of his lungs. And with a final "tootey, toot," that was unmistakably trombonese for "Bye, Bye, Dearie," he disappeared into the wings.

With an impact that sent him spinning, Jerry ran head on into an expanse of white shirt front. And a heavy hand descended upon his shoulder from the front, just as Maggie caught up from the rear.

"Say, fella," said the White Shirt Front," that was some show. I'm Tinney of the Majestic circuit. What will you take to put it on the loop?"

"There, now, Maggie," Jerry reminded. "Didn't I tell you my trombone would be bringin' us riches?"

"Sure, an' I always believed in you, Jerry, darlin'," purred Maggie.—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Old Charcoal Peddlers

Mr. Editor:

Among some of the other vanishing Americans of other days may I remind the reader of the "Charcoal Peddlers" who would come into the city in the early hours from Voluntown, or what was called Volunteer Land. And in those early days with their box-shape wagons that were drawn by a horse that oftentimes was in as poor a condition as the wagon, with their musical cry of "Charcoal" they created a picturesque figure.

Perhaps the king pin of them all was a man named Rufus Daggett, whose turnout was always in a model condition and with a wonder team of two horses, a black and a gray, which as I recall them today, reminds me of Rosa Bonheur's wonderful picture of "The Horses in a Storm." Say old timers do you remember him?

A very dear friend of mine, Barney Keenan, who it is needless perhaps to mention, is your traffic officer at the Square, asks me if I remember Frank Holliday. And I say "yes" for he lived in somewhat of a secluded condition, and, to us boys, seemed something of a mystery man. And he lived at the foot of Seventh street, between the Shetucket Engine Co., fire house that stood, in those days, at the top of the Bleach House hill, and Moriarty's. He was seldom seen in public and was accessible only to a few intimates.

Do you, reader, realize there were many other vanishing Americans, and right where the whole town of Norwich is located today, with their beautiful homes, well kept lawns, fine flowers, and foliage, there were others whose stamping ground was within the nine miles square. The Indians roamed where you now live, surrounded by all the comforts of civilized life. No doubt the fields and woods were teeming with the wild life, and the rivers and ponds supplied those children of the forest, with everything necessary to sustain life.

Here they lived and looked up to the Great Spirit and looked forward to the day when time should take its toll to once again meet those who had gone before to the happy hunting grounds, that they, in their primitive minds, had pictured as flowing with everything that would be needed and with the forests filled with wild life, and with the hunter ever in pursuit of deer. But all this has passed and the only reminder, perhaps, is the memorial up on Sachem street, where we see a shaft with just this one word, "Uncas." And here, surrounded by his family, he sleeps, while his spirit is roaming the Elysian fields of the happy hunting grounds. And, after all, we people who followed after, believe very near the same and are only awaiting the call. And I often think of the thought that Charles Frohman handed to his fellow passenger, Elbert Hubbard, the Roy Crofter, when after the Lusitania had been topedoed, he said: "We are about to enter upon a most beautiful adventure." And also the words of one of the great southern generals during the Civil war, Thomas (Stonewall) Jackson, who it was said had been shot by one of his own men, told his aides: "Just carry me across the river and let me rest neath the shade of the trees." And so, too, these just ones who lived and had their being where now the whites are living, had their thoughts of other places, but they knew not where, and I might add, neither do we.

I can recall one who was supposed to have been, or at least, so it was said, a lineal descendant of Uncas, who used to hang around the docks at the landing and he always had a bow and arrows with him with which he was very expert, for he would put a split stick and one part was to put a coin in it and if he hit it with the arrow it was his. Well he would have it anyway. His name, if I remember correctly, was Sam Bragos. Is this correct? If not set me right. But, as a race they have turned their face toward the setting sun. And from the then almost unknown west, they looked back with wistful longing for their homes in the east. And they turned and read their fate in the fast setting sun. Such was life, a survival of the strongest.

H. "DAD" SHAW.

Sunday Morning Talk

Growing Old

What is it? The decay of physical strength and beauty, the loss of interest in life and its enjoyments, the looking-back upon our pleasures, the shrinking of all contemplation of the future.

No, no! Growing old should be to grow rich in contemplation and in memories; to grow strong in that enduring love which outlives the things of time and reaches beyond into that wonderful eternity where our dear ones have gone. Oh, no, it is no longer a strange land!

There is no growing old. The world is as fresh and beautiful today as in childhood; we are (if we will) as young in spirit as then. Simply the scenes have changed, and we are nearer that wondrous state which has been the favored theme of poets and thinkers since the world began.

So our dreams of ineffable sweetness and light grow more frequent, upon our aging faces comes a beauty which is the reflection of vision impossible to utter, and one day—God knows! But there is a smile upon our faces as they lay us away which fain would the mourners interpret as the realization of our hope, "I shall be satisfied," and they with faltering

I know not, O I know not
What joys await me there,
What radiance of glory,
What bliss beyond compare,
But soon we all shall know.

Market for Ratskins

Europe has discovered a scheme for holding in check the prolific rat. Various industries have created a demand in London alone for rat skins that amounts to very nearly $200,000 a year, and there is every indication that the consumption of the material will increase. Bookbinding, photograph frames, purses and thumbs for ladies' gloves are among the uses to which the skins are put.

After the passing of the rat act in Denmark some time ago, the great body of unemployed laborers took immediate advantage of the bill and the individual rat-catcher's earnings averaged between $1.75 and $1.90 a day. It is estimated that the damage by rats in England alone amounts annually to many millions of dollars, so that any inducement to promote their capture should be encouraged as far as possible.

THE WORKER CAPTURES FEATURE A SARATOGA

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—(AP)—The Dorwood stable's The Worker got a break today and cashed in on it by capturing the Adirondacks handicap, six furlong feature at Saratoga today.

The Worker's "break" came at the barrier when the field of five two year olds was being lined up. Chatover, 6 to 5 favorite, attacked by a sudden rush of too high spirits, threw his jockey, Leonard and ran away about a mile before he was caught and returned to the barrier. During his mad dash, an unscheduled event, Chatover bolted through the fence at the end of the seven furlong chute and ran around the training track beyond the back stretch.

Returned to the barrier somewhat weary, Chatover broke with the field but tired after the first three furlongs and finished fourth. His failure cost the big and little bettors a barrel of money for the R. T. Wilson colt was heavily supported. The Worker, a 5 to 2, stayed with the leaders to the stretch where he saved ground by coming through on the inside and drew away to win by four lengths. Sun Worship took the place by half a length from Hypoluxo. The race was worth $4,225, and The Worker ran the six furlongs in 1:15 2-5.

A $1,000 handicap for all ages feature at Hawthorne went to the Shadybrook farm's three year old gelding, Inquisitor. Inquisitor won driving by half a length with Mino second and Cayuga third.

SPEAKER SAYS LAYMEN CREATE THE CLERGY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC CAMP GROUND, Aug. 24—Dr. Goodell spoke Thursday evening on the subject "Laymen and the Church." He said some plain words. He said that ministers are created by the laity. No man can enter the ministry without a favorable vote on the part of the laity. No minister can continue in the ministry except the laity permit it. Hence, laymen, you are responsible for us. Sometimes the laymen, mourn that all the great preachers are dead. We ministers know all about that and we feel as bad about it as you do. But you have it in your power to make great preachers out of poor ones. Let your pastor see a great company of you in the news and see you with eyes uplifted asking God to speak through the minister today and the change will be evident.

A vocal duet was rendered at the Thursday evening service by Mrs. Florence Manuel the musical director and Delvin Martin of Jewett City.

The morning watch service was led by Rev. Luther Fallon, pastor at East Blackstone and Millville, Mass. He spoke from the sentence in "The Sermon on the Mount," (Matt. 6:22) "If therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light."

Dr. Goodell spoke at 9:30 on the subject "The Passion of Jesus." He said in part that the word "passion" has associated itself in our usage with much that is not good. However, as associated with Jesus it tells of much that draws him near to humanity. Sometimes I think when I get time I will write a book on the humor of Jesus. Someone says—"What do you want to do that for?" I never saw any humor in Jesus. Well, possible it is because there is no humor in you. But when I read some of the parables of Jesus I have to laugh. When I read for instance what Jesus says about a man with a big piece of wood in his eye going down the road to get a speck out of another man's eye. I cannot fail to detect the humor in it. Then there is the comradeship of Christ. He mingles with men as one of them. Notice his sympathy and compassion. Instance the woman who poured the costly ointment on his head. Simon and his wealthy friends knew only that she was a sinner. Jesus saw and knew her finer qualities and the virtue which had prompted her action. Gethsemane, Calvary, the Resurrection, and Pentecost all reveal passion. And his is the passion which may be reproduced in us through the power of His spirit.

Dr. Frick spoke at 11 o'clock giving the 5th of his series on "Finding God," this one being "Finding God in Jesus Christ." He referred to a question asked by a dying soldier, "What is God like?" as the question which man would always like to be able to answer. He referred to the various crude ideas of God and superstitious beliefs which have prevailed among men. He told of men who would not begin a voyage at sea on Friday believing if they did they would be likely to be shipwrecked. All these things reveal a wrong conception of God. Deism and materialism have harmed the world because they have a wrong conception of God. Only as man cultivates the higher faculties can he find God. We have seen how we find God in the lower creations and finally in human personality. In a sense in all men, but we must allow further that he can produce a unique human personality in whom he may reveal himself perfectly. In him we see moral values. He is called "Saviour" because he shall save his people from their sins. In Jesus Christ we find a full and complete answer to the dying soldier's question —"What is God like?"

Rev. O. E. Tourtellotte of East Hartford was in charge of the prayer meeting at the Stafford Springs house at one p. m., and Rev. J. M. Von Deck of Moodus was the leader at 6 p. m.

In the service at 2 p. m. on Friday, a special feature was another vocal duet by Mrs. Manuel and Mr. Martin which was rendered with fine effect entitled "Hiding In Thee."

Dr. Goodell spoke upon the subject "Holy Boldness in the Banishment of Fear." He said he had sympathy with people who are timid but timidity must be overcome if we are to become successful Christian workers.

He told interesting chapters from his own personal experience as a minister in which he could trace the source of many great successes to some moment when he gained a victory over his own timidity and went to do some personal work with certain men. He called attention to the words of Acts 4:13—"Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John .....they took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus." This service was held in the outdoor auditorium the first time it had been used since Sunday.

"John Bunyan the Hound of God," was Dr. Goodell's subject Friday evening.

The following are staying on the ground: At the New London house, with Mrs. Wm. Elwood in charge, Mrs. John Steward and James Riley of New London and Mrs. William Bruce of Stafford Springs.

At the Moosup house—Rev. and Mrs. L. P. McLenman, Miss Delia Williams, Miss Annie Williams, Miss Dorothy Beckwith and Miss Marion Whitford, all of Old Mystic; and Miss Lilla Millett and Miss Gertrude Preston, both of Moosup.

At the Niantic house—Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Pennepacker Scott, Elma Marion, Esther and Miriam Pennepacker, Miss Annie Payne, Miss Mabel Girvin and Miss Ruth Taylor, who is in charge of the house, all of Niantic; and Mrs. James Darcy of South Lyme and Harold Girvin of Westerly, R. I.

Mrs. Richard Carter and daughter Mildred, and her mother Mrs. Daniel Wheeler of Norwich Town, and little Katherine McLaughlin of Brooklyn, N. Y., are occupying the Rock Nook cottage on Panes avenue.

In one of Dr. Goodell's addresses on Thursday he paid his respects in the class opposed to prohibition as follows: "If any one tells you that prohibition is a failure you tell them that they are arrant prevaricators. I have travelled all over this country and I know it is not true."

District Superintendent Genter has a happy way of calling out a new set of men each time to receive the offering and no one ever refuses him. Friday afternoon he worked another surprise and drafted four surprised women who accepted the task as gracefully as the men had been doing it. The reports are that the number of pennies in the offering plate is growing less and that quarters and half dollars are more and more predominating. A continuation in that direction is very desirable.

Mrs. Florence Manuel, the musical director, is meriting the great praise which is being accorded her. She has enlisted a large chorus choir which is delighting the congregations each evening with its spirited singing. In addition she is getting some reputation as a soloist and yields gracefully to the general demand that she sing again.

Mr. Delwin H. Martin of Jewett City, a young man who is preparing to enter the Methodist ministry is here and soon after he arrived it was discovered that he has an excellent voice for singing. The result is the occasional rendering of a duet with Mrs. Manuel of a very pleasing nature.

Saturday's programme presents the following attractions: Morning watch at 8:15 led by Rev. M. Hollis French of Portland. Dr. Goodell speaks at 9:30 a. m. and at 2 p. m. Dr. Frick wil speak and Madame Ida Davenport the great soprano of New York will give a recital at 7:30. The annual meeting of the Camp Meeting association will be held at 4 p. m.

Sunday will be the closing day. The Love Feast led by Rev. F. C. Baker occurs at 9:00 a. m. Dr. Frick will preach at 10:30. Dr. Goodell will preach at 2 p. m. and at 7:30 p. m. Madame Davenport will sing at all the services on Sunday.

CRIMINAL ESCAPED FROM HOSPITAL IN BUFFALO

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 24—(AP)—John B. Day, 24, of Meddybemps, Maine, said to be wanted by the police of Bangor, Me., San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, Chicago and other cities for automobile thefts, escaped from the City hospital here today.

Day was wounded in both legs July 19, by detectives when he sought to flee after they questioned him about an automobile he was driving. He had been in the hospital ever since.

This morning, a nurse telephoned police headquarters and said that the man was sufficiently recovered to be turned over to the auto squad for arraignment. Day apparently overheard the message. He asked a patrolman who had been standing guard at his bedside to get him a drink of water. When the policeman returned with the drink, Day had vanished. Marks on the sill of an open window indicated how his escape had been made.

RECORD CROWD SEES PLENTY OF ACTION AT DUWELL AMATEUR BOUTS

A record crowd turned out for the second outdoor show of the Duwell A. A. and witnessed another snappy card of amateur bouts. In lieu of the Boston team's being absent the management put on twelve bouts instead of the regulation ten, and the twelve or thirteen hundred present were well rewardd.

As is usual two or three of the bouts overshadowed the others for down right action. For bitter fighting and real old fashion slugging the bouts between Frankie Adams and Chas. Beauvenent and that between Patsy Ferra and Chick Marra took the honors. The final bout brought together Jimmy Quinn and Happy Bontempo and Jimmy gave the fans a revelation in boxing.

The first go started off with some hard punches bring thrown by both lads, Phil Plante of the Duwell A. A. 118 pounds and Joe Dugas of Versailles, 115 pounds. Joe started off well but tired in the second and was pretty well all in the third. Phil being the survivor of the fittest was awarded the honors. It was a very good start of the card.

Stanley Snyder, a willing little boy from Jewett City, lost the decision to Joe Bishop of Danielson. Stanley took the offensive and bored in with rather wild swinging punches but missed a lot while Bishop fought a careful fight keeping out of harm's way and doing what little hitting there was. The fight and the decision didn't seem to particularly please the crowd. Stanley weighed 119 and Joe 116.

Joe Spasato of Westerly won over Boots Larry in the third go. Boots went out with intent to kill in his heart and started driving his haymakers in to the Westerly southpaw. The latter got going in the second took the lead and had Boots ready to say enough in the third, and easily won the decision. Larry weighed 122 and Spasoto 125.

After knocking him down in the first round Ernest Gauvin, the Taftville favorite, made Louis Leone of Norwich quit in the end of the first round, from a bad cut over the left eye. The way the fight was going it looked like Gauvin was about to put over the finisher as the bell sounded. As it was he won on a technical K. O. He weighed 128 and the local boy 125.

Larry Wakely of Jewett City gained the decision over Jack Boulay but had his hands full doing it. Boulav was dangerous every minute and sent in some hard rights to Wakely, but the latter, boxing prettily, outpointed Boulay. The latter weighed 128, three pounds more than the Jewett City lad.

The next encounter brought together Frankie Adams of the Duwell A. A. and Chas. Beauvenent of Westerly, and what a battle that was. Frankie was in the best shape of his career and after dropping the first round came into his stride in the second and fought a great battle to win the fight. Beauvenent (Young Chape) with his hard right hooks did not seem to faze Frankie a bit and the latter finally wore Chape down, and had him swinging aimlessly in the last few minutes of the bout. It was a fast bout and had the fans cheering lustily. Adams weighed 133, one pound less than Chape.

The next go ended in the first when Al Brouillard of Danielson unfortunately fouled Floyd Magri of Jewett City. Both boys were rather wild and the go lasted longer than was expected. Both weighed 136.

The eighth was a return bout between Clyde Brouillard of Danielson and James Meringello of Westerly, but it turned out quite different from their last go here. There wasn't much to it but Meringello. He tore into Brouillard with both arms swinging and planted terrific rights and lefts which completely overwhelmed the Danielson lad and drove him to the canvas in the first, a badly beaten fighter, and Frankie Busch gave the Westerly boy the award on a technical K. O.

Phil Gingerella, erstwhile Young Phillips, the Westerly fat boy who has fought here often, wore Herman Joly of Danielson down in the second and had him out on his feet, and going down. Joly started off good but tired and the good looking Westerly boy took advantage of his weariness. Gingerella tipped the scales at 160 and Joly 159.

Bobby Stone of New London, a newcomer here, looked like a whirlwind (and he is), and made short work of Bobby Nash of Danielson. He completely outclassed the latter and had him on the way to dreamland after dropping him in the first. The referee stepped in and declared enough, thereby giving Stone his sixth K. O. in as many starts. It is hoped that he will show here again against a more experienced opponent. Both weighed 137.

Frankie Ferra, fighting the best fight in his career, surprised the fans by out-slugging and almost K. O.-ing "Chick" Marra in one of the best gos of the card. He got on top of Marra and shook off the latter's hard rights to the midsection. He took one to get his in and took the honors about all the way. Marra went down under a fusillade in the first and again in the second and was a tired boy. He tried to come back in the last few minutes of the last round but it was too late. Ferra put up a great fight and deserves a lot of credit. Chick, although showing plenty of gameness, was out-fought and will have to start over agai now to regain his prestige.

The final bout showed Jimmy Quinn giving a pretty boxing lesson to "Happy" Bontempo of Jewett City. That is about all that can be said. Jimmy left handed "Happy" at will and crossed his right any time he wanted to and won all the way easily. Jimmy weighed 124 and "Happy" 126.

Mike Kelly and Jackie Wilson were the judges while Jack Carney kept time. Bill Pedace did the announcing and Frankie Busch the gilt edge refereeing.

MISS WILLS MEETS STIFF OPPOSITION IN MRS. CHAPIN

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 24—(AP)—Drama in three acts was staged in the women's national tennis championship today as the games famous playing mothers, Mrs. Mary Sutton Bundy and Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, were eliminated after a memorable struggle between themselves, and Miss Helen Wills fought off the first real challenge she has received this year.

H. N. S. vs. Putnam Sunday

Sunday, the H. N. S. plays the fast Putnam team at Ashland park. This team has already shown their ability in this town when the H. N. S. defeated them by a 3 to 2 score only after a battle that proved to the H. N. S. that this Putnam team was not to be taken lightly.

This coming game should prove interesting to the H. N. S. followers as the previous score will indicate.

The probable battery for the H. N. S. will be Bernal and Pizzo.

BROWNS CUT INTO LEAD OF YANKS WITH TWIN WIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—The lead of the world champion Yankees was reduced to three games here today when the New York defenders found their citadel sacked twice in the same afternoon by the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 2 and 3 to 1, as the Athletics nipped the Cleveland Indians by 1 to 0.

The Yankees were unable to hit Alvin Crowder with any vigor in the opener and were even more helpless against George Blaeholder in the second game. The former Tulsa star had the champions shut out until the ninth when Tony Lazzeri collected his tenth home run. Bill Dickey followed with a triple but Huggins permitted Heimach to bat for himself. He rolled to Blaeholder for the final cut.

The Browns profited by the unearned runs off Heimach in the first round of the second game, but they pounded them out honestly off George Pipgras in the opener. Wally Schang started the scoring in the third with a homer, and hits were bunched for a total of four more in the sixth and seventh. Pipgras fanned nine men but had to have Wilcy Moore finish the game.

CUBS HAND BRAVES A DOUBLE DEFEAT

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—(AP)—The Cubs won a double header from Boston, 4 to 1, and 4 to 3, today and climbed back into third place in the National league race and only three and a half games from the leading St. Louis Cardinals.

Boston errors and great pitching by Pat Malone and Charlie Root gave the Cubs their victories. In the first contest, Malone limited the Braves to six hits while the Cubs got eight off Delaney, Barnes and Palmero, winning 4 to 1. In that game the Braves made four errors at crucial moments.

In the second, Bob Smith outpitched Charlie Root, but the Boston defense was again shaky and the Cubs made each of their six hits count. Stephenson's single with two men on in the fifth sewed up the game. Scoe:

ORSATTI'S HOMER GIVES CARDS LEAGUE LEAD AGAIN

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24—(AP)—St. Louis Cardinal National league pennant chances boomed today when Ernest Orsatti crashed out a home run in the first inning to give the Cards the necessary margin for a 1 to 0 victory over Philadelphia.

With the Giants bowing to the Pirates, the Red Birds' edge in the pennant race was increased to nine percentage points and one and one-half games. Orsatti's circuit wallop was his third in the six games he has played since being recalled from the minors.

Philadelphia threatened to score once, in the seventh when with the bases loaded Hurst, who was pinch hitting for Benge, popped to High for the third out. Haines was trounced for five hits, to four given up by Benge and Walsh, but it was the first full game he has pitched for almost a month. Score:

VELVETMEN MEET NEW BRITAIN SUNDAY

J. B. Martin meets one of the strongest opponents yet to appear on the schedule when the West End club of New Britain will oppose the Velvetmen at the J. B. Martin grounds Sunday afternoon. The West Ends are one of the fastest semi-pro teams in the state and the lineup includes some of the most prominent players in semi-pro ball.

Manager Sadino of the West End club will bring down the strongest team to the J. B. Martin grounds for the week-en din an effort to chalk another defeat on the Velvetmen's slate. This club is now leading the New Britain Twilight league, having won six games and only being defeated once.

This club in September is starting a five-game series with the Falcons, to decide the city championship. They also have defeated the following clubs: Simsbury, Windsor Locks and Willimantic All-Stars. A glance at the New Britain lineup will convince the fans that this visiting team has some mighty good ball players on its roster. For mound duty, Manager Sadino will use Gray, first-string pitcher from New York university and leading pitcher of New Britain Twilight league, or Kania, who was the mainstay of the Falcons' pitching staff for the past four seasons, and is well known throughout the state; Wozack, also a former Falcon star; Lefty Haber, a former Falcon and Kensington player; Fitzpatrick of the Corbin Red Sox and another star, being Basil, the one-arm wonder, playing center field, and swings the heaviest bat in the outfit. The remainder of the team is made up of New Britain Twilight ball players, which is enough to say that they are top-notch ball tossers, for this league is one of the fastest semi-pro circuits operating in Connecticut.

Manager Erlbeck of the Velvetmen has made a few slight changes in the lineup for Sunday's exhibition. Smith and Ryan will be seen again in the outfield. Barry of New London, noted for his fast fielding and also for his hitting ability, will be seen at second. Jim Murphy will again take care of the backstop work, Joubert will be taken in from the garden and will be seen covering the initial sack with Fisher assigned for mound duty.

A record-breaking crowd is expected at this game and the grounds will be in the best of condition for Sunday's battle. Cars run to the grounds every 15 minutes and also the buses will run to and from the game as usual. The game is scheduled to start at 2:15 o'clock sharp. All roads lead to the J. B. Martin grounds Sunday afternoon. Simcox and Taft will officiate. The lineup follows:

LOTT AND VAN RYN REACH THE FINALS

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 24—(AP)—George Lott, Chicago member of the American Davis cup team, and John Van Ryn, Princeton star from Orange, N. J., swept into the final round of singles competition in the annual casino invitation tennis tournament here today.

Yergans Vs. Baltic A. A.

Sunday afternoon at the Sayles field diamond in Baltic the fast Yergan club of New London, an aggregation of colored ball players, clash with the Baltic A. A. in what is expected as a fast game. Pepin of the J. B. Martin club will pitch for Baltic.

FINISHERS TOP DUSTY LEAGUE AGAIN

The Finishers displaced the Y. M. C. A. in the Industrial league lead Friday evening when they beat the Thermos at the Academy, 7 to 4, while the Insilcos were springing an upset and beating the Yers at Hollyhock, 7 to 3. This puts the Bleachery into a half-game lead with one more week to go.

Lefty Dugas again went to the mound for the Bleachery and aided by some heavy stickwork by his mates in the first inning off Johnny Dudek for five runs he had little trouble in stopping the Boilers. Lefty, himself and Walter Dabrowski led with the stick for the winners while Neil featured in the field for the losers, jumping up and catching Crowe's liners into right that was labeled for three bases.

At Hollyhock the Insilcos, behind Leo Jarvis' nice pitching took advantage of Y mispiays to put over a decisive win. Pete Tombari's long home run into the left field was the hitting feature while Fitzgerald furnished the fielding feature with a shoestring catch of Mish's fly. Cummings played a nice game at third for the Silvers and hit well. Score:

Petrolle Whips Berg

CHICAGO, August 24—(AP)—Billy Petrolle, the "Fargo Express," stopped Jack Berg, British lightweight invader, in the fifth round of their scheduled ten round fight at Mills stadium tonight, after knocking the Englishman down ten times in two rounds. Berg was floored nine times in the first round and once again in the third.

After two vicious rights to the jaw which knocked him reeling and helpless in the fifth round, his seconds humanely sent a towel flying into the ring, and the victory goes into the record books as a technical knockout for the Fargo lightweight challenger.

ATHLETICS GET BIG GAIN BY BEATING CLEVELAND

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24—(AP)—The Athletics cut into the New Yorkers' lead again today when Rube Walberg bested Joe Shaute in a pitching duel and gave the Mackmen a clean sweep of the four games with Cleveland by winning the final, 1 to 0.

Walberg only allowed six hits but two of these, following a base on balls to Pinch Hitter George Uhle, filled the bags in the ninth with two out. Homer Summa, whose hitting featured the series and who made two of the first four hits off Walberg, came up in this situation but ended the game with a line drive to Boley.

Walberg carried the only run of the game across the plate in the third inning which he opened with a single. Mickey Cochrane followed with a hit to center and his battery mate rushed home with the tally that gave him victory. Score:

WESTERLY

OUTBOARD MOTOR BOAT RACES AT THOMPSON'S COVE TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 24—Outboard motor boat enthusiasts will gather in Westerly Saturday afternoon for the regatta at Thompson's Cove. The many high grade entrants assure a sporting event never equalled in Westerly. The committees of the Westerly Boat club have been working since the club was organized to put this regatta over big. Among entries received was that of Slater Washburn, of Worcester, who will race in all three classes. It is certain that the one who wins the Class A event will have to be very close to the Commodore Howe of Newport and Mr. Washburn in the running. The officials for the race are: Judges, Al Leon of Westerly Boat club, H. P. Summons and S. Pangborn of R. I. O. M. B. A., timers, R. Mitchell of Westerly boat club, William E. Cheever and George Darling of R. I. O. M. B. A.

The starter will be Arthur Miller and the clock will be operated by E. Porter, both of R. I. O. M. B. A.

The starting line will be about 100 yards north of the clubhouse dock, and the course will be about the same as that in previous races, except that the turns have been widened and will be exactly one mile around. Class A boats will run two laps to a heat, Class B, three and Class C four.

The last event, the grand free-for-all, will be 10 miles or 10 laps.

People coming up the river in boats are to get their anchorages from the coast guard patrol that will be stationed near Pawcatuck Rock. Boats will not be allowed in motion during the races.

There will be ample parking space at the Boat club for all who wish it and as there are high sloping banks at this point, it will be an ideal place from which to watch.

An additional race was put in by the committee last night to take care of boys under sixteen, who will not be allowed to race in the regular classes. This race will be called the Junior Free for all and will be started at one o'clock. It will be for two laps. Entries will be in charge of Bing Byers of Watch Hill.

NEIGHBOR THOUGHT BURGLAR WAS IN CAMPBELL RESIDENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 24—The police were called upon in the early hours of this morning to search for an intruder reported by Mrs Harold S. Barber, 12 Elm street, a neighbor, as being in the town house of Representative Clifford W. Campbell, 14 Elm street. It was about 1.45 when Lieutenant George H. Champlin, on night duty in Dixon square was informed by telephone that apparently someone had broken into the Campbell residence. Lieut. Champlin, with Officers Joseph Owens and Robert Kessel, surrounded the house and searched it. Soon Officer Frank Knight arrived in answer to a summons

A telephone call to the Campbell cottage at Weekapaug Dunes failing to arouse any one, due apparently to the Campbell phone being out of order, Officer Kessel was dispatched by motorcycle to notify the owner of the house and to bring back a key. After conferring with Mr. Campbell he obtained a key and returned to the other officers, whose watch of the building had proved fruitless.

The policemen entered the house and made a thorough search of the interior, but without finding any signs of an intruder Nothing had been disturbed, so far as they were able to ascertain, although some of the rooms presented a rather disorderly condition because of the fact that interior alterations are being carried on while Mr. Campbell and his family are at the beach.

NOANK

ENTERPRISING BOYS REVAMP THE OLD HOTEL

Ye Tavern, Noank hotel, was the leading hotel in the village during the war and had guests from California, in fact, from all parts of the world. Once it had 450 people staying there. It was on the English plan and was run by Mrs. Jane Jennings. Things went wrong after a while and the people did not come any more, so the hotel went to pieces. All the windows were broken by boys, the doors taken away and it was a wreck. It was sold to a man in New London who was going to open a pool room and dance hall. But the shipyard was not running and had only a handful of men working, so the buyer got cold feet. Four young men of the village went down to look at the hotel which they got almost for a song. They worked day and night and Sundays to fix it up in first-class shape; it took them seven months. They are going to have a dance hall, basketball and shows. There is a fine maple floor, the ceiling has electric, shaded lights that came from Italy and is painted yellow on the outside. In another week one of the leading dance halls of the state will be opening. The four men who own the building are Roy and Frank Abate, Alfred Bruno and Patsy Fiorino.

Rollin Rathbun has returned from a swordfishing trip around Block Island.

The big hop given by Groton Long Point club to the employes of the Point and their Noank friends, Thursday night, held in the Casino, drew a big crowd. Ted Moore's Singing orchestra of Norwich played for the dance. The hall had blue and purple bunting draperies on the walls. A Paul Jones was put on, so the sheiks could pick out a dancing mate for the evening. Louis Roath of the West Side prompted for the Paul Jones dance, which was more fun than eating peanuts at a circus. Fox trots were then enjoyed until intermission. As floor manager, Stretch Morrison had a short program up his sleeve for the crowd that sat around the hall. Noank's Song Bird, George White, who has made a big hit over the radio for several weeks, sang two songs, "10,000 Years Ago" and "Mother Machree," with Ted Moore at the piano. He received a big hand from the crowd. Charles Ellis, Noank's smallest fireman, put on his dancing shoes and with the orchestra going full speed he did the Black Bottom with new steps, also the Harvard Hop. He danced with a snot light shining, giving the best exhibition of dancing seen in that hall this summer, receiving a real ovation. Everybody had a good time at the hop.

Airplanes and sea planes are flying around where the four young students were drowned, trying to find the bodies, around Watch Hill and Fishers Island. The planes have been over to Groton Long Point and Mumford cove

Billie Banks has returned from a short visit in Edgartown, Mass.

Capt. Elmer Hewitt of the boat Ethel H. came into the harbor with a small catch of swordfish, after being gone two weeks.

Last Thursday proved a most propitious day for the annual lawn party and sale which took place in the afternoon and evening on the church lawn. Many were in attendance from this and surrounding towns. Mrs. Frank Nelson and assistants served a roast beef supper in the church to over a hundred, while others patronized the various booths outside. Hot dogs were sold by Mrs. Sager; candy, Mrs. Bushnell; ice cream, Mrs. Edgar; lemonade, Mrs Merritt Hawes; fancy work and aprons, Mrs. Paetsch; grabs, Lewis Saord; fortune telling, Mrs. Dorothy Bennett. A table at which Mrs. Lathrop presided displayed articles, some in leather work, sent for sale by Rev. Ralph Knight, a former pastor, at present at a sanatorium in Iowa. Baskets and other work made by a class of girls under Mrs. Knight's instruction during her residence here were also sold. This table netted $17 which will be sent to Mr. Knight. An entertainment committee, Mrs Clinton Frink, Mrs. Lathrop and Miss Elise Hawes, presented in the evening from the church porch a pleasing program of vocal and instrumental music and exercises by the children. An apple blossom drill by eight girls with fancy parasols and pink and white costumes was a spectacular feature. Mrs. Fred Willoughby of Scotland and her sister, Mrs. Taylor, sang two duets which were well received. The bazaar added a handsome sum to the treasury of the Ladies' Aid society.

MONTGOMERY-WARD ROSE 17 POINTS SENSATIONAL FEATURE OF MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—The unexpected drop of nearly $23,000,00 in federal reserve brokers' loans, coupled with a series of favorable trade reports and excellent earnings statements, started a wild outburst of buying which carried nearly two score issues to record high prices in today's stock market. Final quotations disclosed a long list of net gains ranging from 2 to 16 1-2 points.

The average of 20 leading industrial issues, compiled by the Associated Press, advanced nearly 3 points to within 1-10 of 1 point of the record high level established last spring. Total sales of 3,825,000 shares were the largest of any session since June 4 when the 4,000,000 share mark was crossed.

In view of the brisk advance in prices last week, Wall street was taken completely by surprise by the drop in loans. "Bear" traders who had sold stocks heavily early in the week in the belief that the loan total would increase $100,000,000 or more, were caught in a trap, and forced to bid high to cover their commitments.

Several reasons were advanced for the drop in loans, the most plausible being the dissolution of several bond syndicates which paid off large borrowings on unsold securities. The heavy buying of securities without recourse to bank borrowing and the arrangement of loans through non-member banks also were a factor.

Montgomery-Ward was the sensational individual feature, soaring 17 points to a new high record at 219 1-2, and closing within a fraction of the top. This compares with a low price of 117 earlier in the year and a low of 21 3-4 in 1924. Sears Roebuck ran up more than 6 points to a new peak at 150 7-8.

Copper showed impressive group strength under the leadership of American Smelting, which climbed more than 10 points to a record top at 240, closing at 238 1-2. The 1928 low is 169. Kennecott, Granby, Calumet & Hecla and International Nickel also were pushed into new high ground. Greene Cananea jumped 9 points.

Adams Express ran up 14 points. Wright Aeronautical 10 3-8, and Allied Chemical, Atlantic Refining, A. M. Byers, Case Threshing, Curtiss Aeroplane, Houston Oil, R. H. Macy, Purity Baking preferred, Reynolds Tobacco B, Warner Bros. Pictures common and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe sold 5 to 8 points higher. Initial blocks of 10,000 shares each changed hands in Armour A, Chrysler and National Cash Register, all of which attained record high prices.

Rails failed to participate as extensively as the industrials, although Texas & Pacific and Rock Island established new high prices. Gains in the others ranged from 1 to 4 points.

Call money held steady at 7 per cent all day and there was no change in time money and commercial paper rates. Bankers estimate that between $30,000,000 and $50,000,000 in currency will be withdrawn from the banks next week in connection with Labor day holiday requirements, and this is likely to cause another flurry in call money rates.

Commodity markets were mixed. Wheat dropped about 2 cents a bushel when the expected frosts in Canada failed to develop. Cotton rallied about 50 cents a bale. Sugar and coffee quotations were slightly firmer.

A brisk rally of 35 points in Japanese yen, which were quoted around 45.10 cents, was the only development of consequence in the foreign exchange market. Sterling cables were slightly firmer around $4.85 5-16.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

DRIFTING WITH THE TIDE LANDS ON THE ROCKS.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY.

The Comfortless Comforter.

"A cow belonging to Thomas McGlone of Harrodsburg, Ky., died suddenly," says the Boston Globe. "Post-mortem examination revealed that she had swallowed a quilt."

Hey diddle diddle, the cat and the fiddle,
The cow she swallowed a quilt.
She thought she could fatten on plain cotton batten,
Regardless of how she was built.

'Twas a "crazy-work" comforter grandma had made
Which the crazy cow chewed with disdain.
And while poor granny in discomfort laid,
The cow died in comfortless pain.

The moral, dear child, which we would affirm
By Einstein was proven and tried.
"Comforter" is naught but a relative term,
Whenever it's viewed from inside.

The Pet Pig.

Said Hiram, a farmer in one of our towns—
A rustic who generous acreage owns:
"No farm is complete, be it little or biz,
Unless it is graced by a family piz.
A piz in the pen means an ample supply
Of pork, ham and bacon for winter laid by.
A store of these victuals for our simple life,"
So Hiram declared—so said Betsey, his wife.

So piglet forthwith in the pen took his place—
Squealed, grounted and feasted with pork-u-lent grace;
Such wonders of swill did its appetite jog
That piggy expanded and soon was a hog;
The hog ate with such quantitudinous will
It soon was in proper condition to kill.

Came autumn—came Christmas—when country folks know
Fat hogs, not to heavy, but to pork-barrels go;
But not for this hog was such dreadful fate laid.
For Hiram a pet of his Hogship had made.

"No, no, we can't kill him, though wonderful biz,"
Said Hiram. "Our farm must be graced by a piz
And since we must keep one, 'twould give too much pain
To kill this one off, just to raise one again."

Yet some folks says Hiram and Betsey are queer,
To keep the same pet of a pig every year.

—W. E. S.

(The moral of this little poem is obvious. Pigs are pigs, and not automobiles. If they were, Hiram would "trade in" every year, for one with "better lines.")

SEPTEMBER FAVORITE MONTH

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: Another month is fast slipping by; it hardly seems possible that summer is nearly gone for this year but cool September will soon be here to greet us. She always wears a pleasant smile such as children like to see on their mother's face when they, her smile have won. Let others choose their love—September pleases me for on the first day of this particular month I first saw the light of day (some less than a hundred years ago) therefore it has always been a day for me to smile. My first yellow slip came to me on that day with greeting cards and useful things to make me smile and be happy. If you want to meet a smile take it with you all the while.

ART IN MANICURING NAILS

Dear Social Cornerites: With a short orange stick, a sandpaper and a bit of chamois—all of which may be conveniently carried in an ordinary shopping bag—the finger nails may be kept in an ideal condition without the aid of a professional manicurist. But they should be attended to directly after the hands are washed, no matter how often that may seem to be necessary, and the process requires three minutes' time and drying the hands, take time to press the cuticle at the nails base as far back as possible. This will develop the desirable white crescents, which are a distinguishable mark of the regularly cared for hands, and as nail cultivation begins at this base one should avoid bruising the cuticle at that place, lest hang nails ensure.

When the fingers are thoroughly dry, probe and clean the upper portion of the nails, with the orange stick, taking pains not to tear the flesh from the fingers or to scratch the inside of the nails, as the white border at the top to be beautiful must be transparent and absolutely flawless.

Even if the surface of the nails is slightly discolored or stained, do not be tempted in using the end of the orange stick on them. They should never be scraped with any hard instruments, as their enamel is so exceedingly delicate that it may not resume its normal condition for a long time. Far better to have patience and scrub them with a soap or pumice and endure the temporary mortification then to run the risk of permanently injuring them. Likewise, if the quick is pressed into their base and under the flesh it will cause a soft place in the growing portion of the nail and in time an unsightly scar will appear on the part above the moon, which should be kept a delicate pink. To keep the nails any longer than the finger tips is a mistake as they will rather break or crack. Neither is it a good plan to point them. They would be better to gradually curve to follow the natural shape of the finger tips. This may be accomplished by running the sandpaper chip over them once or twice after each hand washing. It will be found that this practise will do away with the necessity of using the scissors, which in the hand of an amateur manicurist, and even one supposed to be an expert, often works more evil than good, as there is always a temptation to shape the tips of the nails with them. This habit will soon render them tough and brittle rather than thin and flexible; nor should bits of semi-detached cuticles be clipped, for that will thicken the flesh at the top of the fingers. The chamois, used regularly, will polish the nails quite as satisfactorily as the manicure powders, and by inducing circulation will bring blood to the finger tips that will cause them to grow prettily and deliciously color nails that are maintained in the correct state of tissue paper transparency.

HOW TO SUCCEED.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: "If you want your dreams to come true don't oversleep." There is no one knows that better than your humble servant. Every morning at 6 o'clock when my gong goes off I am up; at 15 minutes past 6 I am on my way down stairs to coffee, at 6.45 on my way to work at 7. Should I "oversleep," I should lose my job so my dreams would surely be on the rampage and I would be looking for another place to earn my bread and butter.

Norwich has so few facilities for a girl to earn her living, she can't afford to sleep, although sleep is my middle name. I have always been a telephone operator, sometimes in hotels but about two and a half years in the telephone office, in New York, but I would never go to work in a telephone office again after having switchboard work. I do love it. Of course it seems rather slow here in Norwich as New York is more lively. But we can't always do as we like to and succeed.

You know John G. Johnson, Philadelphia's famous lawyer, was talking in the smoking room of a liner about—work. In my youth, said Mr. Johnson, "I was ambitious, ambitious to an aimless and desultory way. In early youth of course one understands neither life nor oneself. An aged millionaire questioned me one day good humoredly, 'You are ambitious,' he said. 'I am,' I agreed.

"Why, said the millionaire, do you want to rise"?

"So that I can do as I like," I answered. The millionaire smiled and shook his head.

"Ah! my boy," he said, "it is only when we do as we don't like we succeed."

I wonder if the readers of The Bulletin know how useful the common pure glycerine is in a house. I really thing it is an unappreciated substance by most housekeepers. For laundry purposes it is invaluable, especially in washing blankets, flannels and indeed all materials for which softened water is imperative. The quantity to be used for such purposes is practically infinitesimal, so that it is not extravagant, for instance a tablespoonful to a large bucketful of water, into which such large and cumberous things as blankets would be washed, will prove exceedingly well and useful; applied to boots, when these have been impared and hardened by damp, wet or mud, it prevents cracks and untimely signs of wear.

It should be put on with a rag overnight and wiped off with a cloth before blacking is applied in the morning. A teaspoonful of glycerine added to every pound of flour used in bread or cake is a great improvement. Both doughs will be "shorter" and the articles when baked will keep fresh much longer. Finally one tablespoonful of glycerine to every pound of fruit used in making jam, will often do away with the early crystalization which is the bane of the thrifty housewife.

USING ODDS AND ENDS

Dear Social Cornerites: Will send in a few lines to help fill the Corner page. I do enjoy reading the letters so much and if I could write such good letters as some of our Social Corner members do, perhaps I would write more often. Was interested in the sister who wrote about making handkerchiefs from old linen window shades. I have made aprons from the shades and find them quite satisfactory; have also used the old shades for cleaning and dust cloths. For a number of years I have been obliged to manage in every way to save the pennies by "working over" anything and everything in the house which could be made over and "do duty" a bit longer, and I am always thinking about using the "odds and ends" and getting them into use again, and what I can't use I pass along to somebody who can use it. For instance, I had a serge coat and skirt which I could not use in any way (too good to cut up for rugs), so I gave the garments to a friend who has seven children. She used every scrap of the serge and even made bathing suits of some of it for her three youngest children. It's a satisfaction and pleasure to me to see something which somebody has made from what appeared to be useless. I had a long-handled silk umbrella and I wanted to use it, but felt that I was the only person in town carrying such an old fashioned umbrella, so the good man of the house got to work on it and after taking off the fancy end of the handle cut off a good bit of it, then fastened the fancy head on again, cut off some inches on ferrule and Lo! and behold, I have an umbrella which is quite good looking and didn't cost anything to remodel. I am wondering if all the Cornerites read the Eastern Voluntown news. I do enjoy it so much, though I do not know any of the people whom I read about; but the correspondent is very original and it's a pleasure to me to read the items from that village. Noank news is pretty good also (I wonder if either of those correspondents are Social Corner members?) Will end this with a few lines to one of our faithful members:

Now, Social Corner sisters, and Corner brothers, too,
Can you or will you tell me how ever we could get along without our Kitty Lou?
It makes no difference what the question is, she can answer every time,
And never is too busy to send us all a line.
She certainly has a heart of gold
And is a friend indeed to young and old.
She is a friend both tried and true,
Is our dear sister, Kitty Lou.

With all good wishes to the editor and Social Corner friends.

A CAPE COD TRIP

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: I have recently returned from a trip to Cape Cod, so will contribute a few items. With Sister Theoda as my companion, we went to Boston, arriving about noon on Aug. 8th. We had dinner near by the South station, and soon after took the train for Plymouth, which was due at 1.23 p. m. After leaving our luggage at the house where we had engaged a room, we started out on sightseeing. First of all, our stopping place was adjoining the beautiful park where stands the National Pilgrim memorial. We went to Burial Hill, where the ancient stones still mark the graves of those early settlers of Plymouth colony, the oldest of which is dated 1681. We enjoyed the beautiful view over the city and far out on the harbor. We saw the Howland house, which is the oldest house still standing wherein were heard Pilgrim voices. Memorials to the Pilgrim women, Massasoit, the Indian chief and many other things, including the famous rock, which is interesting in Plymouth history, all were visited and greatly admired. In the Pilgrim Hall we saw many relics of three centuries ago, all too numerous to mention. We staid that night in Plymouth and said just referred to our location, it so happened our room was very near the monument. In the night I awoke, got up and looked out the window, and could see that beautiful feminine figure of grey granite, with her uplifted hand, in quietude and deep silence in the surroundings. Oh! how impressive with historic significance! There is so much to be seen in and around Plymouth, to those who are interested, but as our time was limited we could only spend about 24 hours, which included sleep and eats, so had to leave there on Thursday at 1.30 p. m. by bus, for Sandwich. It was a very pretty ride, sometimes near the coast line, and again through the wooded country. We crossed the Cape Cod canal at Sagamore, at which point makes Cape Cod an island, severed from the mainland of the state of Massachusetts. After this 14 miles of bus ride, we arrived at Sandwich and went to the Daniel Webster inn, where we had previously engaged a room. My special object in visiting this quaint old town was to attend two family reunions. Not being of my kith and kin, Sister Theoda found other interest and recreation while I attended the family gatherings. We both enjoyed a three days' stay in Sandwich and the time passed quickly. We had delightful weather. On Sunday morning, Aug. 12, we took the train for Provincetown which is called the tip of Cape Cod, a distance of 60 miles farther on. I will close at this point and tell you later about the rest of our trip.

Some of the sisters say they have nothing to write about; may I suggest all those who have hollyhocks growing about their homes (perhaps Ann Tenna and Aries) get busy with a yardstick or other device for measuring, and report the height of your tallest hollyhock, and let us see who has the champion in the Social Corner garden contest. I have a few hollyhocks at my back porch, of the single pink variety, and some of them are extra tall this year. One has especially outdone its companions and by careful measurement it towers 10 feet and 8 inches. Hope to hear from others in next week's Corner page.

HELPFUL ADVICE AND RECIPES

Dear Editor and Members: When cutting the ends of flower stems, if they are placed in a dish of water and cut under the water, the hollow stems will be filled with water instead of air, and it will aid in keeping them.

For fruit stains: Wet fresh stains with camphor and they will disappear. A squeeze of lemon juice and a quarter of a teaspoon of olive oil added to the water with which pastry is mixed will make it light and flaky.

Try this on your gas stove: When baking potatoes, take a cover from your range, put it over burner, lay potatoes on cover and cover with an agate pan. This saves gas and they bake well. Do not turn gas too high.

To mend aluminum ware, tap lightly around the leak with a small hammer, using the bald head. This will draw the edges together and close it.

Pickles can be kept sweet by laying a little dry mustard on the top of the pickle jar.

Stuffed Hamburg: In a two-quart dish put two pounds of hamburg steak, sal add two eggs, piece butter, two large or four small onions ground fine; add bread crumbs (about three slices, ground), one tablespoon milk; add poultry seasoning to season well; salt and pepper; add one can of tomato soup; smooth over the top; at intervals on top place a few pieces of salt pork or butter as preferred; will serve six or seven persons.

Sour Cream Cup Cakes: Break two eggs into a cup; fill up with sour cream; add one cup sugar, three-fourths teaspoon soda, salt, one and one-half cups of flour; flavor with nutmeg; bake in gem pans. If made with swee cream, add one and a half teaspoons cream tartar.

SENDS LIMERICKS

Dear Social Corner: Having read this page for years, am wondering if the shut-in readers would like to have some limericks printed. About every other subject has been in print but I do not remember of having seen any limericks. Let's see who can send in the wittiest, most absurd, or most original one (or many if editor approves) Here are three from a recent newspaper.

A peculiar bird is the Guinea,
Its cry is most deafningly duinea;
It struts all around and eats from the ground,
And doesn't know Plato from Pluinea!

There is a young lady of Kent,
Who never has paid a month's rent,
She spends all her money—and oh ain't it funny?
When rent day arrives she has went.

They say that the Venus of yore
Was careless about what she wore
Her statues we find had no clothes behind—
And even for fewer before!

BRICK TOP

OVER 100 AT PICNIC

Dear Social Corner Members: We had a fine day for our picnic and over 100 in attendance. Every one seemed to have a good time. Little Rhody and Crescent worked hard to make it a success. There was an abundance of good food, with watermelon as a finish.

Hoot Owl: I wonder if you had something for the kiddies? I couldn't find your daughter to see if she had fixed something so I fixed a paper plate, but couldn't find you, either. No doubt she found your plate and fixed that. I hope so, anyway. I sure envy you for being able to make such a delicious cake as you brought.

Catnip: Such a nice surprise to have you with us; also to meet Ink from Vermont. I hope to go to Aunty No. 1's next week. We were all glad to have Melissa with us again.

REMINDER FOR THE 29TH

Dear Sisters and Brothers of the Corner: Just a few words this morning to whet up your memory a little. The 29th will soon be here and I don't want any of you to forget it. You all know where you came last year. Come to the same place and you will find Ready and I all ready for you. Forget all cares and worry and come for a good time, as usual. Bring something for the table, and your dishes, as usual. Remember, Wednesday, the 29th. If stormy, the next day.

THE ECONOMICS OF BED MAKING.

Dear Social Corner Members: You may think everyone knows how to make a bed, yet our grave and reverend neighbors in legislative body assembled have deemed it a matter of serious debate, and have issued specific instructions in the art for the behoof of those whose business it is to purvey sleeping accommodations to the traveling public. Although the long arm of the law has not reached into our private sleeping rooms; it has pointed out to us the way of righteousness. The edict for those threeyard long sheets, for instance, was not a mere scheme for benefitting the cotton manufacturers by compelling the sleeping-car company to lay in an entirely new stock of bed-linen.

Few of us are fortunate enough to have missed the experience of sleeping between sheets so short that, if they have adequate anchorage at the bottom, leave the face and neck in direct contact with the blankets at the top; or, if folded over at the head sufficiently far to cover the heavier bedding, are foot-loose and allow the lower extremities of the sleeper to be exposed in the same way.

Three yards of sheeting are sufficient for an ordinary household sheet, which when finished will be, short of that length by the width of the hems, sheets made at home although they may cost more than those bought ready-made are really less expensive, for a firmer quality of sheeting is obtained for the same price per yard, and it is possible to economize, by making the two hems the same width, thus allowing the sheet to be reversed so distributing the wear more evenly. In connection with long sheets may be mentioned a way of circumventing the peculiar masculine habit of uprooting the entire outfit of bed-coverings and dragging them up to the top of the bed, to serve merely as a chest-protector and muffler.

Seeing that the sheets are already sufficiently long, but have not been able to hold their own against determined assault, the bed is to be made as usual; but before putting on the spread, lay a small quilt smoothing on the bed, with the top edge reaching only half-way, leaving the other half loose at the foot. Raise the mattress bodily, and draw the loose covering under it and as far up as it allows. This leaves the lower part of the bedclothes and mattress sandwiched between the two halves of the extra sheet, and the sleeper's weight holds them in place automatically.

We spend a third of our lives in bed, and an appreciable amount of time in bed making and care; so anything that gives more comfort and renders a bed cleaner and easier to keep in order, I consider is well worth learning. Mattresses are hard to handle, to clean, to keep clean and alas, sometimes hard to sleep on. To simplify handling, all mattresses, except those for single beds, should be in two pieces. Owing to the greater ease with which they may be turned, this will be done oftener, so will wear more evenly. Avoid the false economy of buying a mattress with a soft top and hard bottom, for it never can be turned, and with wear the hard filling gathers into lumps. In these days of high nervous tension, we need all recuperation and reposeful sleep a smooth bed will afford.

Cover each mattress with a cover made of unbleached muslin. This should be machine-stitched, with one side left open for slipping over the mattress then be tightly sewed together.

This will protect your mattress from dust and invasion by any intruders which may by chance be brought into the house from public vehicles, where objectionable organisms are too often in evidence. If the mattress has been in use, it should be gone over carefully with a whisk broom, and all dust and lint brushed from crannies and tufts before cover is put on.

ORIGINAL RECIPES

Dear Editor of the Social Corner: To the sister who enjoys my recipes. These are original.

Baked Royal: Chop fine 1-2 cup of cold ham, 1-2 cup cold chicken, 1-2 cup smoked tongue and six hard boiled eggs. Make a white sauce with tablespoon flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 cupsfuls of milk and a little pepper and salt. Butter a number of small cups and into each one put a spoonful of sauce, then a spoonful of chopped ingredients and cover with a spoonful of the sauce and scatter dried bread crumbs. Bake until the crumbs are brown.

Baked Bean Rabbit: Mash your cold baked bean pulp (I put mine through potato ricer) season with 1-2 teaspoon salt, a little black peper. Put in fry pan with 2 tablespoons butter and when hot add 1-2 cupful milk, 2-3 cup chopped cheese, 1 teaspoon Worcester sauce. Stir until thoroughly blended. Serve on slices of toast on hot plates.

Meat Loaf: Butter a long cake tin and line it with mashed potatoes about an inch thick. Chop some cold roast beef rather coarse; season with salt and pepper, a little onion juice and moisten it with gravy. Fill the center with this meat and cover with mashed potatoes. Bake in hot oven 30 minutes and turn on a long platter. It will look like a crusted loaf and may be cut in neat slices for supper.

Ragout of Mutton: Take 2 pounds of any cheap part of mutton, six tablespoons of butter, 3 of flour, large onion, one large turnip cut in small pieces, salt, pepper, 1 quart of water. Cut the meat in small pieces. Put 3 tablespoons each of butter and flour in a stew pan and when hot and smooth add the meat; stir until rich brown, add the water, let simmer. Put 3 tablespoons of butter in a frying pan, and when hot put in the turnips and onions with a teaspoon of flour. Stir all the time until a light brown, then put with the meat. Simmer for 6 hours.

Stuffed Baked Potatoes: Bake eight large potatoes (you want perfect ones) chop cold lamb enough to fill one cup and sufficient cold chicken or ham to make 4 tablespoonsful. When the potatoes are done cut a slice from the end of each and scoop out the inside; mash it thoroughly and set it where it will keep warm. Seat the meat with salt and pepper and a little white sauce. Fill the potatoes almost to the top with the meat mixture. Take a cupful of mashed potato and add to it 2 tablespoons of cream and the beaten white of an egg. On the top of each potato put a spoonful, leaving it in a small rocky mound. Bake until the top is a delicate brown. Serve the potatoes piled on their ends in a shallow dish and garnish with parsley.

GUESS WHO

WAYS TO USE HADDOCK

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am sending a number of recipes which I have found excellent in preparing haddock in a variety of ways:

Haddock Pie: Two and one-half cups of flaked haddock, two cups of white sauce, three teaspoons lemon juice, one tablespoon anchovy essence, one-half teaspoon of Worcester sauce.

Mix the fish with white sauce, then add the remainder together; that seasons it well. Butter baking dish, place in baking dish, and cover the top with macaroni (after boiling in water 20 minutes, drain), wash off and fill in the top, dot over the top with melted butter and grated cheese; bake in oven until browned, about 20 minutes. This serves five.

Served with tomato sliced and cucumbers.

Haddock Puffs: One cup flour, one egg, two teaspoon (level) baking powder, two-thirds cup of milk, one cup of picked up haddock, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-fourth teaspoon salt.

Prepare a batter by sifting together the flour and baking powder, adding the well beaten egg and milk and stirring in the fish. Drop by spoonfuls into bacon fat and cook until golden brown. Garnish with strips of bacon.

Haddock Turbot: Pick over two cups of haddock and break into small pieces in a baking dish. Pour cream over it and sprinkle with cracker crumbs. Bake 30 minutes.

Serve with lettuce and orange juice.

Haddock a la Mushrooms: Three cups of haddock (chopped), one cup fresh mushrooms, three tablespoons of flour, one teaspoon paprika, two and one-quarter cups strained tomato (canned), one teaspoon salt; one-quarter teaspoon pepper.

Saute mushrooms (after skinning and slicing them) in butter five minutes; add flour and seasoning and stir in gradually the strained tomato; cook until smooth; add the chopped cooked haddock; cook three minutes longer and serve on buttered toast. This recipe serves five. Toast five large slices of bread.

Haddock Timbales: One pound haddock, one-third cup of cream, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one and one-half teaspoons of orange juice, one teaspoon lemon juice, whites three eggs.

Cook haddock, run through sieve, season with salt, cayene, orange and lemon juice, add cream beaten stiff; turn into slightly buttered moulds; place in a pan, half surrounded by hot water; cover with buttered paper and bake 25 minutes in moderate oven; remove from moulds and arrange on hot platter, pour around the hollandaise sauce and garnish with cut oranges and lemons.

Hollandaise Sauce: Four tablespoons butter, four tablespoons cream, three egg yolks, salt, juice one-half orange.

Place ingredients in top of double boiler and stir constantly until it thickens; then immediately remove from the fire.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Every red-blooded American who has read of the grand old warrior vessels of the sea, should not miss seeing James Cruze's new Paramount picture, "Old Ironsides," which opens at the Palace theatre Sunday for 3 days.

All the heroes and famous naval commodores who lived during the stirring days of 1804, live and take part in the famous battle of Tripoli bay when the United States made the declaration, "Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute."

In the production one sees Lieutenant Stephen Decatur, Commodore Edward Preble, Commodore Richard Somers and a score of other men whose names are forever engraved in the hall of fame.

James Cruze has produced many excellent pictures in the past, but none of them, not even "The Covered Wagon," can compare with the thrilling, pulse-hurrying romance of "Old Ironsides." It is his supreme achievement.

Among the cast members who give an excellent account of themselves are Esther Ralston, Wallace Beery, George Bancroft, Charles Farrell and Johnnie Walker. The picture was filmed under the supervision of B. P. Schulberg, associate Paramount producer.

The added feature is more than entertaining by the fact that even seasoned film critics found themselves all but swept away by the tide of melody which carried "Mademoiselle from Armentieres" to a popular triumph in London and New York; they found it impossible to resist the spell, stirring so many intimate memories of "Pack Up Your Troubles," "Madelon," "Hinky, Dinky, Parley Vous," and a succession of other wartime marching songs.

All these were heard again when "Mademoiselle from Armentieres," the British Gaumont film production distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, opens Sunday night to popular applause at the Palace theatre. "Mademoiselle from Armentieres" is one of the finest war melodramas yet produced.

The film provides stirring pictures of the boys at the front, their optimism on the march, their simple love affairs, and the stark realism of the trenches and big and little guns, tanks and aeroplanes hurling death across the lines.

There are moments of jolly good fun that will recall to old soldiers memories of the lighter side of the war, but there are also moments of great poignancy and deepest pathos, notably in the comradeship of the men, and especially the incident of the old soldier and the raw recruit passing through his baptism of fire to the tune of "Old Soldiers Never Die."

Above all, these things have been blended into a most satisfying and romantically intriguing story.

Estelle Brody is very fascinating and natural as Mademoiselle. John Stuart makes an ideal soldier lover, while Al Goddard is a picture of good humor in all sorts of situations, and Humberstrom Wright and John Hamilton are magnificent as the old soldier and the young soldier respectively.

Broadway Theatre.

The management of the Broadway theatre is pleased to announce that on next Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 27 and 28, the Garrick Players will present Grant Mitchell's sensational mystery thriller that played for one year at the 48th street theatre, N. Y.—"Spooks," the play that has created a sensation all over the country. Local playgoers are indeed fortunate to have the opportunity of seeing this smashing success in stock at so early a date.

"Spooks," like the "Cat and the Canary," "The Last Warning," etc., is compounded of hair raising chills and thrills, an abundance of rollicking comedy and an unusually strong and gripping love theme.

The author has turned out a splendid plot, which calls forth all the dramatic and comedy ability of the actors. It is promised that the audience will be thrilled every moment of the play except at those frequent intervals when they are not roaring with gleeful mirth at the side-splitting lines and comical situations which have been cleverly interwoven with the main plot. Pete Ferguson as Douglas, the stuttering boy, and Bob Stevens in the black face role of Sam Morgan, two of the most funniest roles ever written, will make you howl with glee.

There is no entertainment on earth more popular with local playgoers than a good, stirring mystery story that keeps winding and twisting and turning into more and more of a maze until to save your life you can't guess who committed the crime and it seems as if there is no possible way to unravel the tangle. Then with a swift, surprising, dramatic denouement, you suddenly find out that the last person you'd imagine is really the one who is guilty.

That, folks, is the sort of fascinating night's entertainment you will get when you see "Spooks" as presented by the Garrick Players at the Broadway theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

All patrons are requested to be in their seats at 8.15 for the evening performance and at 2.20 for the Tuesday matinee.

No matter what happens—hold your seat!

Broadway Theatre.

Enhancing its reputation as the leading and most modern of the theatres in this city is the announcement of the Broadway theatre that very shortly it will introduce to the people of Norwich the greatest scientific invention of our day, Vitaphone talking pictures.

More important even than the introduction of the motion picture, itself, was the discovery of Vitaphone. Its culture value, aside from its basic principle of giving the best in the way of entertainment, is untold and impossible of measurement. On all sides this was recognized, but from the nominal head of the motion picture industry came the most glowing tribute to Vitaphone. Appearing in the initial Vitaphone presentation program at the Warner theatre, New York city, Will H. Hays said:

"No story ever written for the screen is as dramatic as the story of the screen itself. Now we write another chapter to that story.

"The future of motion pictures is as far-flung as all the tomorrows, rendering greater and still greater service as the chief amusement of the majority of our people and the sole amusement of millions and millions, exercising an immeasurable influence as a living, breathing thing of ideas and ideals, the hopes and the ambitions of countless men, women and children.

"In the presentation of these pictures, music plays an invaluable part. The motion picture is a most potent factor in the development of national appreciation of good music. That service will now be extended as the Vitaphone shall carry symphony orchestras to the town halls of the hamlets. It has been and the instrumentalist is ephemeral, that he creates but for the moment. Now, neither the artist nor his work will ever wholly die."

The opening Vitaphone program will be announced soon.

Breed Theatre

Lloyd Hughes might have been called "the perfect lover of the screen" if the public hadn't insisted upon his always making cinematic love to the same woman.

As it is, he is "faithful" in celluloid dramas to Mary Astor. The famous romantic duo have been paired in nine successful pictures, the latest of which, "Heart to Heart," is coming Sunday to head the entertainment bill at the Breed theatre.

Lloyd Hughes

In this lively comedy-romance, produced by First National, Louise Fazenda is also featured. Thelma Todd, Lucien Littlefield and Raymond McKee head the supporting players. William Beaudine directed.

Of course, Mr. Hughes has played opposite many other celebrated film actresses. His first outstanding film was the lead in Mary Pickford's "Tess of the Storm Country." He has also done some fine work as leading man opposite Billie Dove. The combination of Hughes and Mary Astor, however, is so familiar to the screen-loving public that the cinema "couple" frequently receives letters addressed to them jointly.

RUM RUNNERS IN NEW LONDON JAIL--SET FIRE TO CRAFT WHEN SPOTTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 24—John Washburn, William Tibidan and Ed-Hune are locked up at police headquarters tonight, charged with rum-running. It is also claimed by the United States coast guard that the boat in which the men were transporting liquor through Block Island sound, was destroyed for the purpose of covering up the evidence of the illegal handling of liquor.

About 2 o'clock this afternoon one of the coast guard patrol boats that was patrolling Fishers Island and Block Island sounds, sighted a craft about ten miles east of Block Island which appeared auspicious. The patrol boat gave chase to the craft and as the government boat was detected approaching, it is claimed, the crew set fire to the rum-runner in order to destroy the evidence. When the boat was aflame the three men leaped into the water and swam alongside another craft and were taken aboard. When the coast guard patrol boat reached the burning launch the crew was able to procure three pints of liquor and this was seized as evidence that the burned craft was carrying liquor when the patrol boat happened along. Washburn, Tibidan and Hunt were taken from the rescue boat and placed aboard the patrol boat, later being brought to port and landed at the state pier. About 5 o'clock the three were taken to the office of United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran, where a preliminary hearing took place, each of the men being held in bail of $3,000 for trial in two weeks. In default of a surety on their respective bonds, Washburn, Tibidan and Hunt were committed to jail. An employe of the men in Boston, however, was communicated with and will arrive here Saturday morning to arrange for bail.

TEACHER OF THE DEAF, MISS MARY McGUIRE, DIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 24—Miss Mary McGuire, 71, a retired teacher, died at her country home in Groton early this morning. She was the daughter of the late John and Sally Whipple McGuire and received her education in the public schools and in Mystic Valley institute. For years she was a teacher in the public schools of Groton. She resigned to train for instructing the deaf, teaching under Frank Whipple, principal of Whipple Home school, for several years. Finally she became connected with the state school for the deaf at Frederick, Md., and afterwards taught in schools of Alabama and Pennsylvania. Her last years of teaching were spent in Albany, N. Y., she retiring from the school upon the death of her brother, who was principal there. She had talent also as a poetess and authoress. She is survived by a sister Mrs. Eliza Whipple, of Providence; a brother, Daniel McGuire, of Mystic; two nieces, Mrs. Charles Clark and Miss Marjorie Whipple of Providence, and a nephew, Ritchie McGuire, of Albany.

The funeral of Charles H. Miller was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at his residence, 328 Williams street, and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The service was read by Rev. Philip A. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

H., and three companions were injured slightly last night when the automobile in which they were riding crashed against a tree, corner of Montauk and Pequot avenues. The car was damaged, but Sip and his friends sustained only bruises and scratches. Sip apparently lost control of the steering wheel. The car was towed to a garage for repairs.

Mrs. Peter Orlandi, of Niles Hill road, made complaint to the police today that an automobile driven by Guiseppi Miceli, 20 Jefferson avenue, hit her pet dog yesterday and that Miceli, instead of stopping to determine whether the animal was injured, speeded away. The dog was painfully injured and is now at a canine hospital.

WATERFORD CANDIDATE AFTER PROBATE JUDGESHIP

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 24—From all indications there will be a warm contest at a meeting of the republican assembly in Jordan hall, Waterford, next Monday night. The caucus is called for the purpose of selecting delegates to represent the party at dierent conventions this fall. The New London district includes the town of Waterford and this city sends four delegates to the probate convention, while Waterford sends only two. For a number of years, Judge Arthur B. Calkins, democrat, has been the only candidate for the judgeship of this district. The main reason for this condition being that the republican party had no candidate to put in the field. This year, however, Attorney James Floyd, prosecutor of Waterford town court, has declared himself a candidate for the nomination on the republican ticket. Many republicans are understood to favor Judge Calkins. However, if Attorney Floyd can secure the support of the two republicans who are delegates at next Monday's meeting he will have to be recognized as a contestant for the place.

Following the opening ceremony which included the salute of the flag, repeating the scout oath and laws, the scoutmaster gave a few minutes of instruction. A scout law contest followed, which proved to be interesting as well as instructive. A game period of about thirty minutes was enjoyed on the lawn. The meeting closed with the scout benediction. The next meeting will be held about the middle of September.

Wolf Cub pack of scouts is to meet this (Saturday) afternoon at 3 at the parsonage with the Cubmaster, Rev. Potter.

RAIN HAS DELAYED HIGHWAY WORK IN STATE

Road construction and reconstruction work of the Connecticut highway department was delayed approximately one month by rain during the spring and summer months, according to a statement made by Highway Commission John A. Macdonald. This does not mean that the work is a month behind the usual schedule, but it does mean that all of the time gained because of the open winter of 1927-1928 was completely offset by the excessive rainfall of the past few months.

Taking advantage of the abnormally mild winter, Commissioner Macdonald issued instructions to all contractors in January to proceed with the work of grading and of making such preparations as they could for the summer paving season. Lack of snowfall and absence of cold weather enabled a good start on this work, and upon April first the work was so far progressed that completion of practically all paving at least a month in advance of the usual time seemed assured. It was believed that nearly all contracts on main arteries of travel would be finished in July, long before the start of the August motoring season.

Between April 1 and August 15 however, the state suffered 74 days of rain. In other words, it has rained more than every other day during the last four and one-half months. The rainfall on many of those days was not sufficient to make a suspension of paving activities necessary, but on the large majority of them contractors were forced to discontinue operations until the rain had ceased. Exactly how many hours were lost on individual jobs because of rain is not known, but the total delay approximated a complete month.

One example of the delays caused by rainfall is found on a road building job now under way in Salisbury. The contractor has attempted on five separate occasions to enter one particular location to start grading operations on a cut-off. Each time, he has been foiled by the soggy condition of the soil created by the rain. It was impossible to bring the heavy road building machinery anywhere near the spot where the grading was necessary, and as it was stated by department officials, "if the rain doesn't cease soon, it will be necessary to do the grading by hand and to carry the soil away in wheel barrows."

The heavy rains have also increased the cost of many highway operations. An extraordinary amount of gravel and ballast has been used upon roads where little would ordinarily be needed in order to provide for local traffic and the continuous movement of contractors' equipment. Practically all roads have been kept on one way traffic for longer periods than would be usual and detours have necessarily been subject to additional maintenance costs.

STORRS BOASTS BEST PEN OF TEN BIRDS

Storrs is boasting the best pen of ten birds anywhere in the United tates, including some 30 laying trials all over the country from Connecticut on the east, to California and Washington on the Pacific coast. Official reports, dated Aug. 1, show that George Lowry's pen of Leghorns from West Willington, were then only eight eggs behind the outstanding pen in the country, the M. Johnson Poultry Ranch of Bowie, Texas, an entry in the contest conducted by the John Tarleton Agricultural college at Stephenville, Texas.

A telegram last Saturday to E. C. Johnson, superintendent of the Texas contest, indicates that the Lowry Leghorns have meanwhile climbed to the top of the world. It must be understood, however, that the Connecticut birds have barely squeezed by, and that the least little slip anywhere along the line means the loss of the lead. In the first 42 rounds of the fight, these two pens from Connecticut and Texas have just about battled to a tie. The important question is which can put the other down for a count of ten before the end of the 51st round that concludes the contest year.

In the 42nd week of the contest the total lay for all pens was 4,669 eggs or a yield of nearly 48 per cent. This is a let-up of 236 eggs as compared to the previous week and is 591 eggs less than the corresponding week of yesteryear.

On the weekly honor roll three of the pens that appeared last week are again entitled to be starred. George Lowry's leading pen heads the list with a lay of 60 eggs. Clarence E. Lee's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Auburn, N. Y., has maintained its same relative position, and was second under the wire with a tally of 56 eggs. Globus Poultry Farm at Attleboro, Mass., owns the Leghorns that ran third for the week with a mark of 55 eggs, and as happened last week George Lowry's second-string pen was in fourth position with a net of 54 eggs.

In the list of leading pens from Nov. 1 until the close of the 42nd week changes are noted in two of the breeds. A pen of White Rocks entered by Granite Springs Farm at Granite Springs, N. Y., managed to relegate to second place E. A. Hirt's pen from South Weymouth, Mass., but by the very minute margin of one egg. In the Leghorn class George B. Ferris from Grand Rapids, Mich., climbed to sixth place, thus putting this pen ahead of Hanson's Leghorn Farm from Corvallis, Ore.

For the first time in the history of the Storrs contest two hens, a Rhode Island Red and a White Leghorn, have each come through with scores of more than 100 eggs in 100 days, new records for consistent, consecutive laying. The Red, pullet No. 436, entered by George B. Treadwell of Spencer, Mass., began her marathon on April 17 and concluded on Aug. 15, thereby hanging up the remarkably high record of 121 eggs in 121 consecutive days. This bird is not now resting on her laurels, but instead is still plugging away. Her score from Nov. 1 to date, is 274 eggs, and she bids fair at the moment to be the high hen in the contest when the project is concluded in October.

The record of George Lowry's Leghorn, No. 663, was set forth in this column last week. Strangely enough this bird missed the following day so that she cannot now better her record of 108 eggs in 108 days. What is worse, a defective trap nest was responsible for this pullet breaking her leg, close up to the hip—that is, if hens have hips. Shortly after the accident this hen, accompanied by her owner and the supervisor of the contest, was hurried to Willimantic where she was X-rayed, spectroscoped and the bone set by Drs. Ottenheimer and Kinney. She returned to Storrs done up in a plaster cast. In the five days following this unfortunate incident, this bird has had spunk enough to lay three eggs.

SALAMUCHA BOUND OVER TO SUPERIOR COURT

Found guilty of violation of the liquor laws for the fourth time at the city court session Friday morning, Paul Salamucha, of Greenville, was bound over to the next term of the superior court by Judge Arthur F. Libby. The bonds were set at $2,000 and unable to furnish a bondsman, Salamucha was locked up.

Salamucha was arrested Thursday morning following the city court session at which Michael Bogdanski, who was charged with intoxication, stated that he had purchased two drinks of alleged liquor from Salamucha at his store at North Main and Sixth streets, Monday. Bogdanski stated that after buying two drinks which made him ill he was thrown out of the store by Salamucha, receiving injuries to his head and bruises to his body. The liquor made him so sick that he required the attention of a doctor, he claimed.

The accused, in his story, admits that Bogdanski was in the store Monday, but he purchased a bottle of soda. Salamucha closed the store to go to the city on an errand and upon returning found Bogdanski drunk on the doorstep of the store. He told Bogdanski to move, but he did not and when he tried to pick him up Bogdanski fell to the sidewalk.

Bogdanski was later arrested by Officer John Carroll. That evening Salamucha received a call from Mrs. Bogdanski, who wanted him to settle for her husband's condition or she would report the matter to the police. Salamucha refused to pay the money demanded by Mrs. Bogdanski.

NEW SCHOOL ERECTED WITHIN THE APPROPRIATION

Announcement has been made by Walter F. Lester, chairman of the town school board, and Edward J. Graham, superintendent of schools, that the new Samuel Huntington school at Norwich Town has been erected by Contractor Patrick F. Sweeney within the $225,000 appropriated for this work at a special town meeting. As previously announced, the school will open with the other schools on Tuesday, Sept. 4, and will have eight grades, preparing pupils for high school courses.

The first, second, third and fourth grades are to be held at the Town street and at the Yantic schools as in the past, but the remainder of the classes, including the kindergarten, will be taught at the new school. The pupils in the Yantic district are to be transported to the new school. A program is being arranged by Mr. Lester and Mr. Graham to be carried out at the official opening of the new school to be held some time after the school opens.

The building, which is located off the Norwich and Yantic highway, covers an area of approximately 19,000 square feet, having a frontage on West Town street of 160 feet and a depth of 120 feet. The building has a reinforced roof, hollow tile walls throughout the interior and tapestry brick exterior with cast stone trimmings.

The new school is named after Samuel Huntington, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and chief justice of the state in 1784, lieutenant-governor in 1785 and governor from 1786 to 1796. Naming the school, the Samuel Huntington school, was done on suggestion of the Founders' society of this city. Displayed in the school will be a framed picture of Governor Huntington with a copy of the Declaration of Independence.

There will probably be ten or 11 teachers at the new school. Seven of them, who have been teaching in the Norwich Town district, will be transferred to the new school, and three or four new teachers will be appointed to teach there.

Permit to Erect Gas Station

Permission to erect a gasoline station at No. 56 High street has been granted Gabriel Romanowski of this city by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins at a hearing in the mayor's office. No opposition was offered against granting the application.

"Wolf-Stone" at Preston City

The Wolfstone picture above was found by Harold Muttart of Preston City in the Safford family cemetery located on the Voluntown turnpike in Preston City. The grave is that of John Safford, who died on March 29, 1736, over 192 years ago. In olden days, as a protection against the wolves, it is claimed the bodies were interred in a grave with walls of rock on four sides, the foundation projecting above the ground about a foot. Over the top of this was placed a slab of rock. The above slab is about seven feet long and three feet wide.

FINDS WOMAN DRIVER NOT CRIMINALLY RESPONSIBLE

Former Coroner J. J. Desmond has exonerated from criminal responsibility Mrs. Johanna Wood of Durfee Hill, Waterford, whose machine struck and fatally injured Frederick Carlson, 8, in Waterford, last March. When the fatal accident occurred Mr. Desmond held the office of coroner for this county and in that capacity conducted an investigation. Recently Mr. Desmond was succeeded as coroner by Edward J. McKay. However, Mr. Desmond continued his investigation of the accident, announcing his finding Wednesday. In the finding Mr. Desmond says:

On said 13th day of March, 1928, about 6:30 p. m., said Mrs. Wood was driving her Packard open truck in a westerly direction on the public road, in said town of Waterford her 13-year-old son was with her in the truck. It was a foggy evening, and Mrs. Wood drove along on her left hand side of the road, in order to watch the sand on said side, and to keep on the road by this means; as she went up Lorger Hill, in said town of Waterford, she shifted into second gear, and proceeded slowly up the hill, passing a man named Joseph Baum, of said Waterford, on the hill; he was walking on the left hand side of the road in the same direction as the truck was moving; just after passing Baum Mrs. Wood felt a jar of her truck, indicating to her that she had struck some object in the road; she stopped at once, and let her car roll a short distance down the hill, then found the Carlson boy lying on the ground near the edge of the road on the side which her truck had been proceeding. Mr. Baum, whose home is near by, and almost directly across the road from the home of the Carlson child, observing that the truck which passed him, had stopped, walked back to the truck, and inquired of Mrs. Wood what was wrong, and she said she had hit something; the body of the injured boy was then found lying on the road, and Mr. Baum carried him into the decedent's home, and stayed there until Medical Examiner Ross E. Black, M. D., of New London, arrived.

Just before the accident, Mr. Baum had noticed the Carlson boy running along the dirt shoulder of the road, on the same side on which the truck was moving; but did not see him when he was struck.

Apparently on account of the fog Mrs. Wood did not see the Carlson boy until after the truck had struck him. The truck, and its brakes were in good condition. Its wind shield wiper was not in working condition, but because of the fog, this fact does not seem to be material.

The evidence in this case fails to disclose any criminal negligence on part of the operator of the auto truck.

I am satisfied, and find that the death of said Frederick Carlson was not caused by the criminal act, omission or negligence of any other person, or persons.

CLAIMS NEIGHBORS ERECTED FENCE ON RIGHT OF WAY

Daniel O'Connell has brought suit in the court of common pleas against his neighbors, William and Henrietta Witschekowski of Otrobando road, claiming that they have obstructed a right of way by maintaining a high fence across it. The plaintiff asks a mandatory injunction commanding the defendants to remove the fence. Damages of $100 are also asked.

Mr. O'Connell sets up the claim that he has a right of way from his land across the land of the defendants to the highway. The defendants erected the fence the 11th of this month, thus obstructing the right of way.

POETRY

Moth-Song

What dost thou here,
Thou dusky courtier,
Within the pinky palace of the rose?
Here is no bed for thee,
No honeyed spicery—
But for the golden bee,
And the gay wind, and me,
Its sweetness grows.
Rover, thou dost forget;
Seek thou the passion flower
Bloom of one twilight hour,
Haste, thou art late
Its hidden savors wait,
For thee is spread
Its soft, purple coverlet;
Moth, art thou sped?
—Dim as a ghost he flies
Through the night mysteries.

—Eliot. Mackay Hutchinson Cortissoz.

A Moral in Sevres

Upon my mantelpiece they stand,
While all its length between them lies;
He throws a kiss with graceful hand
She glances back with bashful eyes.

The China Shepherdess is fair,
The Shepherd's face denotes a heart
Burning with ardor and despair,
Alas, they stand so far apart!

And yet, perhaps, if they were moved,
And stood together day by day,
Their love had not so constant proved,
Nor would they still have smiled so gay.

His hand the Shepherd might have kissed
The matchbox Angel's heart to win;
The Shepherdess, his love have missed,
And flirted with the Mandarin.

But on my mantelpiece they stand,
While all its length between them lies;
He throws a kiss with graceful hand,
She glances back with bashful eyes

PACT RENOUNCING WAR TO BE SIGNED IN PARIS TODAY

The Ceremony Will Be Closely Akin to Regal Pomp—Secretary Kellogg Gave a Dinner Last Night to the Signers of the Treaty—Herr Stresemann is in Paris and Will Sign For Germany—He is the First Member of the German Cabinet to Enter the City of Paris in 57 Years—The Pact Will Be Signed by 15 Nations.

PARIS, Aug. 26—(AP)—The stage is in readiness for the momentous ceremony tomorrow which will link for all time the names of Frank B. Kellogg and Aristide Briand with efforts to put an end to armed conflicts between nations.

Lord Cushenden, the British delegate, and Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany, arrived this afternoon, completing the list of actors who will appear on the international stage and affix their signatures to a document renouncing war—a document which is the product of long and tedious labor by the American secretary of state and the veteran French minister of foreig naffairs.

The arrival of Herr Stresemann, who was greeted with great deference at the North station, brought the significance of the anti-war pact to the attention of the French people with great force. He is the first member of the German cabinet to enter the city of Paris in 57 years. Two wars have been waged between France and Germany since that time and despite improved relations between the former enemies, his presence here, it is thought, still would be inopportune had not Kellogg and Briand furnished a fitting occasion. Herr Stresemann himself expressed this sentiment, declaring:

"The fact that this pact is to be signed in Paris and that I have the honor of affixing to it the first signature in the name of German gives it symbolic value. It is a new step of great importance in bringing together France and Germany."

The German foreign minister's mission here, it is authoritatively learned, will be limited to the signature of the pact. There will be no talk of evacuation of the Rhineland or of a revision of reparations. It is the opinion in French government circles that discussion of these important questions requires careful preparation and that it ought not to be connected with or subordinated to any other question. Moreover, the diplomatic protocol is regarded here as precluding the opening of negotiations between signers of the peace pact or any other question.

The desire is to bring out in all its force the moral effect of the pact against war and Herr Stresemann's presence is regarded as helping greatly to that end. This also is the reason why in a confirmed republic tomorrow's ceremony will take on the pomp of regal functions with ushers closely resembling royal minions in their dress and their employ.

The stage properties for the memorable scene have been carefully chosen to the same end and the pact will be signed by Kellogg's massive pen which is new and modern, but however, will be dipped into an inkstand that belonged to Vergennes and into which Benjamin Franklin dipped the goose quill with which he signed the treaty that made the United States free.

For the same reason that will limit Herr Stresemann's activities here, Premier Poincare and M. Briand will abstain from raising the question of debts or any other subject than world peace with Secretary Kellogg. It is pointed out, moreover, that revision of reparations and allied questions require several months more of preparation which means that any eventual reopening of the debt question must necessarily be deferred to the same extent.

Paris, already beflagged in honor of the occasion, burst into a profusion of light this evening when all public buildings were illuminated and people who generally showed ignorance of the pact or indifference to it, began to show a lively interest. A considerable crowd went to the North station to see Herr Stresemann and their greeting of the German statesman showed their awakening to the importance of the occasion.

Secretary Kellogg gave a dinner tonight at the embassy to the signers of the pact with M. Poincare and the diplomatic representatives of all signatory countries as additional guests. The menu was distinctly French and as given out at the embassy was absolutely dry.

The German minister made a call on M. Briand soon after his arrival at the German embassy. A considerable crowd assembled around the foreign office and cheered him lustily when he arrived and departed.

Secretary Kellogg started his Sunday in Paris at the American church where, with members of his party, he listened to a peace sermon. He lunched at Versailles with Ambassador Herrick, after which he took advantage of the opportunity to look over the chateau, visiting the famous Mirror gallery where the Treaty of Versailles was signed.

15 NATIONS WILL SIGN PEACE TREATY TODAY

PARIS, Aug. 26—(AP)—The Kellogg pact, which is to be signed by 15 nations tomorrow, is the fifth solemn agreement of the kind that has been signed in the past six years.

At Genoa, in May, 1922, 30 nations adopted a resolution whereby they undertook not to commit aggressions upon one another.

At Geneva, in September, 1924, the assembly of the League of Nations adopted a protocol which bound the members to substitute arbitration for violence in the settlement of disputes.

At Locarno, in 1925, France, Belgium and Germany signed a pact which bound them never to make war upon one another but settle their controversies by arbitration.

At Havana, in 1927, the Pan-American congress adopted a resolution to tabor war as a means of furthering national policy.

"PEACE PACT" SUNDAY OBSERVED IN CHURCHES

LONDON, Aug. 26—(AP)—Today was "Peace Pact" Sunday and worshippers of all denominations, obeying the desir expressed by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Free Church council, listened to sermons preached from pulpits throughout the kingdom on tomorrow's historic ceremony of signing the Kellogg pact.

Final ratification of the agreement was referred to universally as mankind's most impressive effort to attain the greatest of all Christian ideals, peace on earth and good will toward men.

King George, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Gloucester, who are staying at Balmoral, joined the king's loyal subjects in this tribute to American initiative. They attended morning service at Crathie church, where the sermon was preached by the Rev. Charles Warr, minister of St. Giles cathedral in Edinburgh.

In London, distinguished American preachers visiting the capital were invited to occupy pulpits. Many American tourists attended services at St. Paul's cathedral, Westminster Abbey and other noted London churches.

INVESTIGATING ACCIDENT ON ROLLER COASTER

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 26—(AP)—Two official investigations into the cause of the accident on a roller coaster in an amusement park here late yesterday which resulted in one death and injury to twenty boys and girls was started today.

Sixteen of the injured left the city hospital today. Physicians said the condition of the four others still was critical. The one fatality was Nellie White, 17, who died last night of internal injuries.

Corner C. H. Keever, said the accident was the result of "gross negligence" on the part of Jerry Jones, manager of the roller coaster. Jones who was arrested yesterday on a charge of manslaughter was released on $2,000 bond today. He will be given a hearing in municipal court tomorrow.

W. F. Hurd, city building inspector also said the accident was caused by Jones negligence.

The coaster, a three car train, failed to stop at the end of its up and down run, jumped the track in a wooden tunnel, three feet above the ground, and crashed through the structure. The first two cars piled up, scattering the occupants right and left.

PALLOTTI CANDIDATE FOR LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR

NORWALK, Aug. 26—(AP)—Francis A. Pallotti, secretary of state, announced here today his candidacy for the office of lieutenant-governor. He stated that he had intended holding off the announcement for a few days, but in view of the enthusiastic gathering present at the Italian-American Republican club's outing, he felt the time was opportune.

"This is my first announcement that I am a candidate for lieutenant-governor of the state of Connecticut," Pallotti said. "I will further say that being a good republican, I will abide by the result of the republican convention September 6 and 7."

Pallotti reaffirmed his stand that he would not accept the nomination for the office of secretary of state which he now holds. "Evidently some people did not understand me clearly when I announced a few days ago that I would not accept nomination to the office of secretary of state. I wish to make that clear now."

At the suggestion of Edmund E. Crowe, postmaster of South Norwalk, each town represented at the outing, will send communications to J. Henry Roraback, asking that Pallotti be given the nomination.

11 PERSONS WERE AFLOAT TWO HOURS IN SEAPLANE

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—Tossing about on the choppy waves of the upper bay in the vicinity of the Statue of Liberty, 11 persons aboard a large seaplane today spent more than two hours vainly signalling for help before they were towed to safety from a gathering storm.

The plane, designed and equipped for the showing of talking movies while in the air, was forced down on the bay by a burned-out engine bearing shortly after it had taken off on a proposed trip to Atlantic City.

A ferry boat finally recognized the distress signals from the seaplane and sent a launch which towed it to the Battery at the tip of Manhattan.

In addition to the crew of three, the plane carried Phelps Phelps, member of the New York state assembly; Fred Roche, public relations director for First National Pictures; T. D. Juste, president of the Atlantic Aldways Corp., a photographer and a group of newspaper men.

Liquor Padlock Law For Residences

Applications Are on File to Close 26 Homes in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 26—(AP)—Bootleggers in the twin cities today faced a new threat—the padlocking by the federal government of homes where the liquor law is violated.

Because padlocking activities of the United States district attorney's office and the prohibition department have closed several hundred soft drink bars and driven bootleggers to homes and apartments to vend liquor, an abatement drive against the residences has been instituted in the twin cities.

Applications for injunctions to close 26 homes in St. Paul and Minneapolis for a period of a year are on file in federal courts in the twin cities by J. H. S. Gifford, assistant United States district attorney. Of this number ten are in St. Paul and 16 in Minneapolis.

Government officials took this drastic action when they found that bootleggers had turned to the use of private homes as a "blind" for their illicit liquor vending, Mr. Gifford said. "The procedure against the homes is not new," Mr. Gifford said, "but the drive has been made necessary by the hiatus of bootleggers from soft drink bars, stores and like places to houses and apartments.

"The homes give the added advantage to the liquor vending business because of the presence of women and children. The offenders hide behind them and attempt to cloud the issue and obtain leniency, whereas in a soft drink bar, the case would be a clear cut one of law violation, without mitigating circumstances.

"We do not intend to be unduly harsh. But we do want landlords to be certain that their property is not being used for law violations."

Mr. Gifford said that in cases where landlords are unaware of the illicit business carried on, they could be offered the option of closing the building or of placing a $1,000 bond that there would be no further violations on the premises.

Such a step would need the recommendations to the court of the district attorney or A. J. Volstead, author of the prohibition enforcement law, now legal adviser for the northwest prohibition department.

Evidence against the 26 homes was obtained in raids and showed sales of liquor, possession for sale or maintenance of a liquor nuisance.

PRIZE FOR MOST PRACTICAL PLAN TO ENFORCE DRY LAW

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—A prize of $25,000 for "the best and most practicable plan to make the eighteenth amendment effective" has been offered by W. C. Durant, motor car magnate and capitalist.

"We are imperilled by the widespread violation of the liquor law embodied in the eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, the highest law of the land," a statement issued from Mr. Durant's office today declared.

"Big business leaders who have the largest stake in law observance publicly and privately violate this law and countenance its violation by others. Instead of using their wealth and influence to create public opinion demanding law enforcement, our business men of character and position are the chief support of the master criminal class, the bootlegger.

"It is my belief that the majority of our people do not want the eighteenth amendment abandoned. The people want it enforced and obeyed.

"In order to give expression to the soundest thought in the country on the subject, I offer a prize of $25,000 for the best and most practicable plan to make the eighteenth amendment effective."

The statement said the prize would be awarded by a committee of prominent men and women now being selected, competitive offerings must be submitted prior to December next.

SEAPLANE WITH FOUR PASSENGERS MISSING

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 26—(AP)—Fog hampered the search today for a passenger seaplane which left here yesterday on its regular run to Seattle, Wash., with four passengers and a crew of two and has not been heard from since.

Seaplanes have flown over the route it should have taken but found no trace of the craft. On the water opposite Port Townsend, Wash., the searchers observed a large patch of oil. Two hats drifted ashore not far from where the oil was seen. The searchers feared that the ship had fallen and that its passengers and crew had lost their lives.

Aboard the plane when it left Victoria were Thomas E. Lake, of California; Dr. D. B. Holden of Victoria, and two others believed to be Alexander McCallum Scott, British M. P., and Mrs. Scott, Harold Walker, veteran air mail pilot, was at the controls. L. Carson, of Seattle, was aboard as co-pilot.

The plane was owned by the British Columbia Airways, Ltd., and was in regular operation on a passenger route from Vancouver to Victoria and Semattle. The Victoria-Seattle run usually is completed in an hour.

Bomb Exploded In Newspaper Office

Chicago Semi-Weekly Had Been Attacking Activities of Gangsters.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—(AP)—Explosion of a bomb today caused damages of $5,000 in the office of the Chicago Heights Star, semi-weekly newspaper of Chicago Heights, a suburb. The bomb was placed in the doorway of the building and the blast wrecked the front of the two story brick structure.

King Williams, editor of the Star, said the paper had been attacking the activities of gangsters and bootleggers around Chicago Heights and that he regarded the bombing as an attempt to suppress the publicity of under world activities.

The explosion shattered windows in the business district for a block around.

"The bombing will only inconvenience next Tuesday's publication," said the Star's youthful editor. "I carried bomb insurance, so the paper isn't out a cent."

Tonight there was offered proof that his community won't see to it that the Star would continue publication, for various citizens have offered any needed financial aid to Williams and the city commission has posted a reward of $1,000 to the person who gives any information leading to the arrest of the bombers.

"Wrecking the building really doesn't matter much," says the optimistic editor. "We're going to move into a new plant in a couple of weeks anyway.

"The bootleggers and other gangsters don't like it when I tell about them being arrested and fined, but the rest of the community has a right to know these things, so I tell them. For the last few months, the anonymous threats have been coming frequently."

CONG. CONNALLY WINS RUN-OFF PRIMARY IN TEXAS

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 26—(AP)—Congressman Tom Connally of Texas will return to Washington as senator at the expiration of his term, barring contingencies. The voters of the state tendered him the democratic nomination to the upper house of congress in the run-off primary yesterday, at the same time wiping the name of his opponent, Senator Earle B. Mayfield, off the senate rolls by a majority of more than 50,000 votes. The democratic nomination in Texas is considered equivalent to election.

Mayfield's defeat sends Texas political alignments into another one of the curious convolutions which have marked them since the family of former Governor James E. Ferguson first became prominent in politics.

R. Q. Lee of Cisco won the congressional seat now occupied by Congressman Tom Blanton of Texas in the only other race of national interest. Blanton with Connally, Mayfield and three others entered the senatorial race but was eliminated in the July primary. Lee was leading his opponent, Oscar Calloway, of Commanche, by approximately 5,000 votes.

Although the count was not quite complete today, the few votes still untabulated could not change the results materially.

GARFIELD, N. J., Aug. 26—(AP)—After shooting the girl he had met during the World war and had courted for ten years, Walter Sobyck, 33-year-old ex-officer of the Polish army, placed his service revolver to his temple and mortally wounded himself. Shortly before midnight last night, Sobyck met Mary Skura, a Red Cross nurse serving in the Polish army, at the home of her brother and repeated his proposal of marriage. It was rejected, according to Mrs. Alojzy Skura, the girl's sister-in-law. The shoo ing followed.

Miss Skura was employed as a nurse at the Cripple and Rupture hospital of New York. Sobyck was said to have been an instructor in a Pennsylvania school.

DISPROVED THEORY ABOUT FALL FROM GREAT HEIGHT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—(AP)—The army air corps, after a large number of experiments, declares it has disproved the theory long held by scientists and others that a person falling from a great altitude either would be rendered unconscious or would travel at such a terrific speed as to be killed before reaching earth.

A definite statement is made by the experimental department of the corps that a man falling from any altitude with a parachute pack attached never attains a velocity greater than 118 miles an hour and does not lose consciousness. Experiments in determining these facts disclosed that a dummy the size and weight of a 180 pound man attains that velocity within 11 seconds and after falling 1,200 feet in quiet air. From then on down no increase in speed is attained.

YEAR'S TREASURY DEFICIT OF $94,279,346 FORECAST

Estimate Given in the Annual Report of Director Lord of the Budget—Estimate is Based on an Increase in Prospective Government Expenditures, Due to Increased Activities of Bureaus During the Fiscal Year 1929 and to a Prospective Decrease in Revenue.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—A treasury deficit of $94,279,346 for this fiscal year is estimated in the annual report of Director Lord of the budget made public today.

It is the first time since the war the government's estimators have definitely forecast a deficit in their annual reports and they base their contention on an increase in prospective government exdenditures, due to increased activities of bureaus during the fiscal year 1929 and to a prospective decrease in revenue.

This switch in estimates has converted the estimated surplus of $252,540,255 figured upon when the 1929 budget was first fixed into the deficit. The deficit estimate was arrived at by calculations made in June.

In estimating the cost of operating the government for the year on December 5 1927, the bureau placed the total of probable expenditures at $3,556,957,031. The estimate made on June 30, however, set probable expenditures at $3,801,922 and the probable receipts at $3,707,501,576.

The June 30 estimate of probable revenues was $101,995,738 less than that made last December. Customs receipts in the last estimate were placed at $557,000,000 a decrease of $15,000,000 over the December estimate while the internal revenue receipts were set at $2,590,000,000 a decrease of $115,545,000. The collections from miscellaneous taxes in the last estimate were set at $530,501,576 an increase of $28,549,262 over the previous estimate.

The budget submitted to congress in 1928 for 1929 called for total appropriations of $3,505,793,765, and supplemental estimates brought it up to $3,569,589,295. Congress appropriated a total of $3,563,033,922.

The new estimates show an increase of $137,109,530 in the general expenditures: $44,779,000 in postal deficiency; $10,000 for the Panama canal; $27,300,000 for the shipping board; $13,015,000 for the government life insurance fund and $25,000,000 for the alien property fund.

The report contained detailed accounts of savings effected by various bureaus and departments through the inauguration of an economy program. During the last year, the report says, savings effected through the interdepartmental co-ordinating service alone amounted to $1,641,563.

SHRINKAGE OF $75,147,592 IN YEAR'S TAX COLLECTIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Tax collections by the government were less by $75,147,592 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928, than in the year preceding, on the basis of the annual preliminary statement of the internal revenue bureau.

The report, made public today, shows that in 1928 total tax collections amounted to $2,790,535,537 while the year before the total reached $2,865,682,129. Of the amount $2,174,572,305 in 1928 were income taxes. In 1927 the income taxes amounted to $2,219,952,443.

The principal increase in revenue from the miscellaneous taxes was that collected from tobacco manufacturers and was due chiefly to more money received from the cigarette tax. The total collected from tobacco manufacturers was $396,450,041 of which cigarettes accounted for $291,826,844, an increase of $22,812,788 over that collected in 1927. The tax received from cigars decreased approximately $716,000 while that on manufactured tobacco decreased approximately $2,000,000 but that on snuff increased approximately $654,000.

There was a decrease of $14,906,651 in collections from tax on automobiles and motorcycles which amounted to $51,628,265 in 1928 with Michigan leading the states with $37,372,668.

Collections from tax on admissions to theaters and other places of amusement decreased $215,684 to $47,724,905 while the tax on distilled spirits and cereal beverages decreased $5,947,091 to $15,447,064. The tax collected from documentary stamps increased $268,243 bringing the total of stamp taxes to $48,829,205.

Of the income tax collections in 1928, $1,292,845,668 were from corporations and $882,727,123 from individuals. The individual income tax for the year 1927 amounted to $911,929,910.

During the fiscal year refunds for taxes illegally collected in 1926, 1927 and 1928 and prior years amounting to $142,398,567 were made, while interest allowed on refunds amounted to $23,258,170.

The internal revenue tax collected from New England states was: Connecticut, $36,114,139.76; Maine, $8,469,596.97; Massachusetts, $105,417,862.22; New Hampshire, $3,984,449.81; Rhode Island, $14,770,484.43; Vermont, $2,302,703.03.

WESTFIELD RIVER FIVE FEET ABOVE NORMAL

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 26—(AP)—Torrents of rain that swelled the Westfield river about five feet above its normal height, inundating trees and meadows today, buried the road at Frog Hollow near here under 20 inches of water and tied up traffic for more than eight hours. Fear that the road may be undermined by current rushing beneath it led Westfield police to investigate the condition of the macadam before traffic was allowed to use the highway.

No lives were lost but several were endangered before police guarded the road to prevent automobilists from crossing the 75-foot stretch of deep, rapidly moving water. Other local livers rose several feet above their normal height, but transportation was not hindered.

FEUD IN MACEDONIA HAS LED TO MASSACRE

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 26—(AP)—A new feud in the Macedonian revolutionary organization resulting from the murder of Gen. Alexander Protogerhoff by alleged partisans of Ivan Michailoff last month, led to the massacre of 15 Protogerhoff followers in a mountain pass near Philippovo last Wednesday, according to a report released today by the government censor.

The band of Protogerhoff partisans was lured to the pass where they were set upon and shot down, only two of 17 escaping. The result of the affray, it is believed, will be to give Michailoff complete control of the revolutionary organization.

SEES PROHIBITION AS THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—Henry Morgenthau, former minister to Turkey and now vice-chairman of the democratic finance committee, returned from Europe today to take an active part in Governor Smith's campaign.

"Prohibition is the paramount issue," he said. "There are other important issues, but this is the one about which the battle will center.

"The democratic party has become the progressive party of America and it will automatically attract many republican progressives who rebelled against the stand-pat policies of their party in the campaigns of Roosevelt and LaFollette."

FOOTBRIDGE WAS SWEPT AWAY AT BECKET, MASS.

BECKET, Mass., Aug. 26—(AP)—Becket experienced a reminder of the big flood of last November today, when owing to a heavy all-night rain the streams were higher than at any time since the flood. A footbridge spanning the Depot brook was washed away and false work under the new concrete bridge being built on the Main street and under the new bridge of the Boston & Albany railroad below the town, was carried away. (Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 26—Captain Frank P. Fenton formally announced today that he has thrown his hat into the state political ring as a candidate for lieutenant governor of Connecticut on the democratic ticket in the coming election. His announcement follows a report of his candidacy in a state newspaper some time ago. In an interview on the subject today Captain Fenton stated that he has gone out for the office at the urgent request of his supporters from various sections of the state. He has already been assured the support of the delegations from this section. Captain Fenton, more familiarly known as Town Clerk Fenton because of his long term of about 30 years as clerk of the town of Windham is a veteran politician and holds an enviable record of achievement in both politics and civic affairs throughout eastern Connecticut. He was a member of the General Assembly during the terms of 1917 and 1923 and during the latter term was minority leader of the house. Although he is a native of Mansfield, Windham has been the town of his adoption for nearly half a century. He has succeeded himself for 15 consecutive two-year terms as town clerk and with but few exceptions has been endorsed by both parties at election time. While politics are his life work his interest is manifest in many organizations for civic, business and social welfare. He was highly instrumental in the reorganization of the chamber of commerce about one year ago and at present is president of the organization. He has been chairman of the local Red Cross chapter for many years. He is department judge advocate of the Spanish War veterans state organization and is a past department commander. SWORDFISH THAT GOT AWAY WAS A WHALE OF A-ONE

Boat Ethel H. with Capt. Elmer Hewitt at the wheel, Engineer Walter Palmer and Mate Billie Banks, came in from a sword fishing trip of two weeks, 80 miles southeast of Block Island. They had eight large sword fish, the largest 340 pounds. Capt. Hewitt said the weather has been against him and he had had only six days of fishing. The fish are uncertain on account of the cool weather that has hit the ocean. Engineer Palmer went to take a shot at the fish and Mast Head Banks saw a large fish about one-fourth of a mile away that looked like a big steamer on its way to France coming fast. He gave Sharpshooter Palmer the signal the way the fish was coming and he made a long throw, about 55 feet, with the iron, which sank in the monster of the sea. But some how the large fish got tangled in the wheel, broke off a piece and got away. Up went the flag, up side down, calling for help. The craft was towed into Block Island by boat Shorty, of New York. Sharpshooter Palmer was mad to lose the largest swordfish seen around this part of the ocean in 30 years. They claim it weighed 1,000 pounds and seemed about 9 feet around. If the good ship Ethel H. got that fish it would have had a record to be proud of and the old time sword fishermen could have put that in the ship's log. Capt. Hewitt said "We might see it again, fishing there!" Putting aboard supplies and 125 gallons of gasoline, the Ethel H. has left for another trip.

He was gone for eight hours, came back with a smile, having 27 quarts of huckleberries. It had a white ring around its neck. Looking around the garden she found two more snakes hanging together. The snakes thought they had a good hunting place. In size they were from 1 foot to 3 feet. This made 11 snakes the housewife from Buff street killed in one day, making her the champion snake charmer of the village.

OLD OUF WOMEN CLING TO ANCIENT REMEDIES

OUF, Turkey, (AP)—The old ladies of Ouf have declared war on the new Turkey's public health inspectors.

The cause of the feud lies in the latter's banning of the local Turkish crones' practice of "making themselves brides" as a cure for rheumatism, gout and the painful swellings of old age. In the good old days, a crone thus suffering was bedecked by her friends in the traditional Turkish bridal gown of white scrim and silver tinsel and was then given a convex mirror, known as the "Monster's Glass," carefully guarded for such occasions by the village priest.

She was made to stare in this glass at her monstrously distorted reflection while all the villagers, one by one looked at her in the mirror and hissed at the ridiculous picture of a distorted old woman dressed in youth's bridal gown. After an hour or two of hissing, the mirror was removed and with the removal of the artificially swollen lage, the actual swelling of rheumatic arm or leg was declared to have disappeared, too.

Scores of the old ladies of Ouf now alive swear they have been cured thus, while they shake their fists at the new-fangled doctors from Angora who have deprived them of the ridal gowns and their Monster's Mirror

HAVANA USES PADLOCK TO CURB NIGHT LIFE

HAVANA, Cuba, (AP)—The municipal authorities have started padlock proceedings against several cabarets whost operation has been held offensive.

The action is part of a general movement to improve the moral atmosphere of Cuba's chief city. The increasing popularity of Cuba as a tourish center has been accompanied by a corresponding increase in "night life" facilities.

To the Housewives of Norwich:

Fifty years ago every home manager used to weave cloth, make soap, and bake the family bread. Nowadays you turn such tasks over to people who make a business of doing these things

In our modern Laundry the TROY makes a business of Wash Day. We wash more clothes each month than your laundress could wash in a century of scrubbing. What's more the TROY keeps pace with progress. Each season brings new fabrics, new colors, that must be given carcful, scientific study to make sure that each receives the washing process best suited to it.

To make certain we are always up-to-date. The laundry Owners National Association has a research Fellowship at the Mellon Institute, and a proving station at the American Institute of Laundering. The TROY belongs to these associations and is the ONLY laundry in this territory who has this service. This is where they take the theory—the guess and gamble—out of this business.

So it really isn't surprising that clothes washed at the TROY LAUNDRY in this scientific way DO last longer.

Give our service a practical trial this week. Just phone 831 and our driver will call.

DANIELSON

FOUR IN CAR IN WHICH THORNTON WAS KILLED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 26—It has been definitely established that there were four persons in the roadster driven by Joseph C. Austin of Glasgo and Greeneville, R. I., when it plunged backward down an embankment on a detour at Sterling during the early hours of last Thursday morning, instantly killing William Thornton, who was employed with Austin in a finishing plant at Glasgo Mill whose home was in Edgwood, R. I. Austin told Coroner Arthur G. Bill that only he and Thornton were in the car when the fatal accident occurred, making this statement originally at where the accident occurred, and repeated under oath before the coroner here in Danielson on Thursday. However, it has been established that Francis Burton and Harry Hines of Sterling were in the car when the car took the plunge.

Coroner Bill said this afternoon that he has not completed his inquest in the case. Meanwhile Austin is at liberty under bonds of $5,000, until such time as the coroner directs what shall be done in the affair.

From the first the coroner and state police were suspicious that persons in addition to Austin and Thornton were in the car when it went over the bank. This suspicion was based largely on the fact that Thornton was riding in the rumble seat of the roadster when he was killed, while Austin was in the driver's seat. Such an arrangement is very unusual when only two persons are riding in such a roadster as the one that went through the wreck. A few hours after the accident information began to seep through to officials that two other young men were in the car when the smash came and an investigation established that the tips received were accurate. The investigation uncovered the fact that Burton and Ide were the other passengers, one of them having jumped, it is said, when he realized the car was going backward, and both escaping from the affair without any serious injury.

Austin came here at the week end for an interview, self sought, with Coroner Bill, but the latter took no further official statements from the driver of the death car.

Ions it is equally good for them all.

Harry Peabody of East Killingly was today facing the prospect of being recommitted to the state hospital at Norwich, from which institution he was released the past winter as a patient regarded as much improved. Peabody was in the hands of officials here Saturday charged with assaulting his wife and mother of his several children. His case was continued in the town court until next Wednesday. Today he took another fling at chastising his wife physically and again was taken into custody by the state police. Officials here understand that Mrs. Peabody was married to her husband when she was but 15 years of age, and she is only 20 years old at the present writing. Peabody is a few years her senior.

Herbert Lindell, father of 11 children, will be presented in the town court of Griswold on Monday to face a charge of stealing about 100 yards of cloth from the plant of the finishing company at Glasgo. Lindell was placed under arrest by a state officer from the Danielson barracks.

A sudden death at Wauregan last night was that of Frederick Bedard, 58 for years resident in Wauregan. Mr. Bedard was a brother of Mutty Bedard of Danielson and an uncle of Frank M. Bedard of this place. Mr. Bedard leaves his wife and several children.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Flora A. Pellett

At the home on North Main street Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock funeral services for Mrs. Flora A. Pellett, who died suddenly at Burlington, Vt., the past week while she was attending the New England Grange Lecturers' conference were conducted by Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, pastor of the Westfield Congregational church, and Rev. Charles A. Downs of Goodyear. The esteem in which Mrs. Pellett was held was attested by the large number attending the services, among those who came being many members of the Patrons of Husbandry and of Dorcas Rebekah lodge of Danielson and other nearby communities. There was a wealth of floral pieces. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Hosea Greene, Harold Moriarty, Walter Bruce, Stanley Brown, Roger Brown and Rodney Lloyd. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

During the services Earle F. Winslow sang Sometime We Will Understand and Face to Face.

Mrs. Virginia Plankey

Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, the funeral held from the home in Wauregan, there was a funeral service at the Sacred Heart church in that place for Mrs. Virginia Plankey, Rev. John H. Quinn, the pastor, being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Many relatives and friends were in attendance. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery. The bearers were Philip Plankey, Noe Plankey, Henry Plankey, Adelard Champagne, Joseph Daignault and Ernest Martel. Members of the Ste. Anne society of which Mrs. Plankey was a member, were honorary bearers.

Democratic delegations from Killingly to conventions of the party to be held in the near future named at a week end caucus over which F. E. Bitgood presided as chairman with A. J. Cavanaugh of Dayville as secretary are as follows: State, Frederick E. Bitgood, A. J. Cavanaugh, P. J. Sheridan, James P. Aldrich, Patrick Roley; congressional, James R. Walsh, Alcott D. Sayles, John Flood, Francis Gagnon, Joseph Haile; senatorial, Frank J. Gorman, Claude Moran, A. J. Cavanaugh, John Walsh and Amos E. Hall.

In contrast to the previous week, there were no arrests in Danielson or vicinity over the week end up to late this afternoon. Last week's prosecutions of youths who had formed a habit of coming into Danielson during the early hours of Sunday and staging noisy demonstrations over nothing at all appear to have been completely squelched through the salutary treatment of such cases as come before the town court last Monday. There were no more cries during the early hours of this Sabbath day that "We are not afraid of the cops". It would appear that even the speedster youths of this lively generation can be taught a wholesome lesson in deportment.

This is the last full week of the long summer vacation for hundreds of young people of the town of Killingly who continue to be concerned, during the greater part of the year, with getting the rudiments of an education. On Tuesday of next week—the day after Labor day—the town's schools will reopen for another year. Little remains to be done relative to the opening. The schools are ready, the teachers will be on hand, and rapid organization and getting down to routine is assured. Incident to the reopening of the schools, it may be mentioned that family vacations will some instances come to an abrupt end in order that parents be at home when the study periods are resumed.

Rev. and Mrs. James H. George are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Reed. Rev. Mr. George was for several years rector of St. Alban's church at Danielson.

This week Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Terwilliger and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Terwilliger of South Killingly are to motor about Long Island, from whence they came, a number of years ago, into this section of southern New England.

This morning Mr. and Mrs. George J. Heneault and Edmond Heneault, Mrs. Heneault's father, left for a motor trip that will take them during the course of the next four weeks to the Adirondacks, where they will visit with D. E. Jette and Miss Georgette Jette of Danielson, and thence for a tour of the province of Quebec.

Miss Marion D. Cholla has returned from a visit with friends in New Haven.

Rain on Saturday night interfered with the K. of C. carnival on the St. James parish property on Franklin street. The carnival, starting last Thursday evening, has attracted many people and has been a success.

George A. Robitaille of Valley Falls spent the week end visiting with relatives in Danielson and vicinity.

Michael Cronin, now employed in Providence, was a visitor with relatives here over Sunday.

There is to be no special observance in Danielson on Labor day, though a nearby attraction is the annual Old Home day festivities at South Killingly.

Outwardly, just about nothing at all has been accomplished by the contractor who took over the abandoned job of building the Providence cut-off, which state highway construction job was originally undertaken by the missing Eugene Gobeille of Worcester. Looks like this important traffic route out of Danielson will be torn up until the snow flies again, maybe longer.

Benjamin Weisberg of New York is visiting here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Geisberg of Academy street.

Miss Aurilla A. St. Clair of Holyoke is in Danielson visiting with relatives for a few days.

Parked end to end in the business section Saturday, purely as a matter of chance, were two automobiles, one bearing a Montana registration, the other that of the distant state of Oregon.

Radio dealers here say that the promise of much of the national campaign oratory through broadcasting stations until the election in November is boosting the sale of sets, and that the business is better than ever.

Republicans in town here and hereabouts are to have caucuses this Monday evening to name delegates to the state conventions of the party and to congressional and senatorial district conventions.

PUTNAM

YOUNG WOMAN ESCAPES BEFORE TRAIN HITS AUTO

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, August 26—The Church crossing in North Grosvenordale again was the scene of an automobile and train collision, when early Saturday evening a Ford coupe operated by Miss Almyria Austin of 23 Prospect street, Webster, was struck by an extra Bar Harbor special. According to the operator of the vehicle, she was not familiar with the highway and when she came to the grade, she turned her coupe south and proceeded along the track. Operating between the rails for a short distance she discovered her danger. With Charles Zukowski, 11, also of Webster, who was a passenger in the car, she left the car stranded in the tracks. Within a few minutes the Bar Harbor extra rounded the curve at full speed and hit the car, carrying it north for a distance of 100 feet and finally depositing it between the crossing warning bell and a telegraph pole—a mass of crumpled steel.

The crash was investigated by State Policeman Donald E. Geddes of Danielson barracks. When asked for her license, Miss Austin produced a 1926 Connecticut operator's license. She was taken to the police station in Putnam and charged with operating without a license. She will be arraigned in North Grosvenordale justice court Monday afternoon.

The New Haven railroad suffered no damage, as the locomotive cleared the vehicle from its path as if it were none heavier than a feather. Signal Maintainer Arthur Loomis of Putnam was called to the scene to make an investigation of the warning signals. His test of the equipment stationed at the crossing, indicated that the bells were ringing and all lights were illuminated.

Charles Breault, for many years a resident of Putnam, died at his home on Marshall street this morning at the age of 69. Mr. Breault is a native of Canada, but came to Putnam at an early age and has since resided here. He is a member of the local society of St John Bantist and is also affiliated with many of the other French organizations in the north end of the city. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. A. Gregoire of Putnam.

A death in Pomfret Friday evening was that of Thomas L. Kempf, eight year old son of Thomas J. and Mary Scanlon Kempf. He was born on January 11, 1920 and had been ill for many weeks before his death.

The Putnam police recovered a Nash coach, the property of Horace Hayes of Grove street, stolen on Thursday evening from its parking place on the northern end of Church street. The car was found on the Providence road near the Baker Kennels Friday evening by Officer Joseph Page, apparently abandoned by the thieves. Mr. Hayes reported the theft of his car to the police a short while after he discovered it gone, and warnings were sent to police departments in Connecticut Massachusetts and Rhode Island towns. When Officer Page found the car he was was informed by Jacob Baker, that it had been deserted for several hours. A tire and a few tools were taken, thought to have been sold to purchase fuel, as the gasoline tank was exhausted when found by the police.

Captain Jarvis of the Putnam police said this morning that he received from Baker a description of two persons who were around the car before it was found and he believes them to be Putnam youths. The captain said that a search is being made of the city for the boys, but until late this afternoon, they had not been apprehended.

The local republican voters will meet in caucus Monday evening at the municipal building for the purpose of appointing delegates to the state congressional and senatorial conventions to be held in September. This morning a leading republican of the town said that rumors of contests have circulated and it is expected a number of contests will be seen. The story was checked at other sources and the same information was obtain and further predictions of a large gathering from all corners of the town. Other towns in Windham county will hold caucuses Monday evening for the selection of their candidates, but no word of contests have been received.

Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's church, returned Saturday from Joliliette, Canada, where he assisted at the coronation of a new bishop of the Joliette diocese. Father Bellerose announced at all the masses this morning that both he and Father Casey will leave Monday for their annual retreat. During their absence Rev. W. A. Routhier will be in charge of the parish work.

Miss Edna Rhodes of Plainville, Conn., formerly of Putnam, was a visitor in this city Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Murphy, who have been visiting during the past two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bulger of Farrows street, returned Saturday to their home in Northampton, Mass.

Theodore Brunell of Van Den Noort street, Putnam, was arrested Saturday evening by Sergeant George Liard and Officer Joseph Page of the Putnam police, charged with violation of the motor vehicle laws and operating under the influence of liquor. Brunell's arrest was brought about after he had lost control of his car and had crashed into the embankment at the edge of the highway on Woodstock avenue. He will be arraigned in police court Monday morning to answer the charges.

Miss Katherine Byrne of Seward street, vice chairman of the state central committee of the republican party will go to New Britain on Tuesday where she will deliver the pre-organization speech of the 6th Senatorial district Hoover-Curtis club. Miss Byrne said this afternoon that it is expected the New Britain club will enroll over 2500 members, and will be one of the largest in the state. Since the republican national convention held in Kansas City last July, Miss Byrne has organized several clubs for the support of the party throughout the entire state. She said today that visits will be paid to a number of other towns and cities in the state in the interests of organization, before her state will be complete.

Residents of the Thompsons and those of Mechanicsville rest satisfied now that the state highway department has taken steps towards the erection of suitable warnings to be placed in the Mechanicsville curve, which has been the scene of many serious accidents.

A few weeks ago, a group of citizens living in Thompson made a complaint to town officials as to the conditions existing near this dangerous bend in the highway, but claimed they received no satisfaction. Recently the state erected on dangerous sites on all the highways in this section, large signboards, forecasting warning and containing a diagram outlay of the road ahead. The posting of these signs at Mechanicsville, it is claimed, has greatly lessened the danger.

Within a few days, one may drive from Putnam almost to Dayville on a concrete highway. This will come about when the road builders place the finishing touches upon the new stretch of highway at Attawaugan which has recently been completed. All of the bulky machinery that has been in use on the road since construction began several weeks ago, has been removed and there remains only a short stretch of concrete not opened to traffic. As soon as the last pour reaches suitable condition the burlap coverings will be removed and the entire roadway will be opened. Saturday the construction gangs were engaged in removing stones, batters and pipes from the side of the highway. Beautification work will soon be started by the landscape bureau of the highway department, consisting of grading and planting of shrubbery.

The antiquated iron and wooden bridge, spanning the Assawauga river in Attawaugan, is to be removed and a new concrete span erected in its place. The men have not as yet begun work on the new structure, although it is believed little time will be consumed in the construction, since it is to be in a new position, slightly west of the present bridge and considerably wider.

Onslaughts of bargain hunters centered their attentions in the Putnam business houses Saturday as that day was dollar day. The fruits of prosperity seemed to be lodged in the retail stores of the city, until late afternoon when a sudden downfall of rain that continued for the remainder of the day squelched the rush of the patrons and inflicted a bruise on the evening trade. The day was planned by the merchants in conjunction with the chamber of commerce.

The national committee on site choosing for the United States Veteran hospital to be located somewhere in southern New England will meet in Washington in September, according to information received here and will award to all cities and towns submitting bids, consideration. The various committees in Putnam working for the interests of the city have not met recently and will not rather again until a few days before the national committee meets. J. Dyer Potter, chairman of the committee of the chamber of commerce, stated that he was informed by the authorities in Washington that further effort on the part of the local committee will be useless, as each city will be considered before the site is chosen. The Putnam committees have submitted their sites and feel they are equally good as those of any other city in the territory where the hospital will be erected.

Major Goodrich, physician and surgeon and ex-army officer, of Pomfret was present at the dedication of a veterans hospital in Long Island recently and before leaving Pomfret, promised the local American Legion post committee that he would personally interview Major General Hines, who is commanding the government hospital work. It was thought that Major Goodrich's boast of Putnam would greatly aid in the attempt to bring the hospital to Putnam. A member of the committee stated this afternoon that Major Goodrich had not returned from his visit and no information relative to his errand was available.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward McKenna of North Chelmsford, Mass., formerly of Putnam, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. McKenna's mother, Mrs. Hector Duvert of Woodstock avenue.

Edward Keefe of New Haven, spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Keefe of Ring street.

West Woodstock was the scene of the villages annual "Old Home Day" affair, Saturday. Events began in the morning, with a clam bake at noon, and the continuance of field games in the afternoon. The merriment was silenced about three o'clock, due to sudden rain.

The sudden change of weather conditions, from extreme heat to a fall condition has driven many Putnam residents, enjoying the summer season at the beaches and surrounding lakes back to their homes in the city. Many said that the weather at the beaches and in the mountains of New Hampshire and Vermont was that of late autumn and to enjoy comfort one must resort to the seasonal garments.

Final preparations for the opening of the fall term of school will be made on Tuesday September 4, when a combined meeting of all the faculties of the schools in the city and town is held at the Putnam high school. Superintendent of Schools Leon N. Farrin announced.

Officer Emil Castagna, of the Danielson state police barracks, now a patient at the Day Kimball hospital was reported as considerably improved today. An official of the hospital stated this afternoon that Officer Castagna's health condition had returned to normal. He will be confined to the institution for several days yet. Since his committal to the hospital, scores of his friends have paid visits to him.

Palmer, owner of the power fishing schooner Bertha E. has been engaged in the search for the bodies of the four young men who were drowned off Watch Hill Reef some time during the night of Aug. 12th, when their sailboat capsized in Fishers Island sound at the entrance to Little Narragansett Bay. There were five in the party, one being rescued by Capt. George Adams of Noank who picked him up at daylight five miles south of Watch Hill light, Monday morning, Aug. 13th after being in the water for twelve hours. When picked up he was practically unconscious from exposure after clinging to the hull of the capsized craft for so long a time.

Relatives have instituted a search for the bodies regardless of the cost, but as yet to no avail. MULES LUG MOTOR CAR TO HILL-LOCKED CITY

BOGOTA, Columbia —(AP)—The world's most inaccessible city, Bucaramanga, has lately celebrated an addition to its automobile population.

High in the center of a prosperous coffee and tobacco region, this clean and progressive city of 25,000 has never had its share of motor cars because each one must be brought in from the outside world on the backs of mules. A caravan of 20 mules, each carrying a part, and a dangerous journey over the mountains lasting from 3 to 10 days, are required to bring one car to Bacaramanga.

There is no road and no railroad. Only two ways are available to reach the capital of the state of Santander, the air and mule-back. The air journey requires only 45 minutes but nothing heavier than small parcels can be carried by this route.

FRENCH PLAN LUXURIOUS HOME FOR OLD WRITERS

SCEAUX, France, (AP)—The historic castle of Sceaux is to be transformed into a home for aged authors and men-of-letters, if the plans of the municipal council of Sceaux are successful.

The idea is backed by such men as Marcel Pervost, of the French Academy, and Roland Dorgeles, one of the most popular young novelists in France.

Although a bolt of lightning tore his clothing to shreds, splintered a hoe handle in his hands and rendered him unconscious for an hour, Dave Shively, forty-four, a farmer living near Idaho Falls, Idaho, apparently suffered no ill effects. His cap was destroyed, his overalls and undo wear were torn to strips, one shoe was ripped off and his socks were set on fire.

NEW YORK'S SUBWAY WRECK

New York has reason to be much wrought up over the frightful accident on the Interborough lines at the Times square subway. It was not so bad but what it might have been much worse but it was so bad that it shouldn't be repeated and from such reports as have been given of it it does appear that it should not have occurred at all.

Considering the tremendous number of persons carried it is probable that there is a high degree of safety on the subway lines of New York city, and of the particular company that is concerned with this wreck, but the need of getting at the full facts concerning the tragic affair and placing the responsibility is full realized. Thus far there appears to have been no such complications but what the placing of the responsibility where it belongs can be readily accomplished. It is, however, upon all the circumstances that the decision must rest.

According to reports which have been given out for publication the trouble centered about a defective switch and the subsequent use of it. After trouble developed the repairmen got it into operation to the extent that most of the train, crowded with passengers, passed over it only to have the eighth car thrown against pillars which ripped it in two. The fact that the car was of steel afforded protection against fire but little else. It was torn to pieces and left a mass of wrecked and twisted material. That this could have happened indicated that the train must have been going at fast speed, and faster than might have been expected at that particular point in view of the trouble that was being experienced with the switch.

Time will tell, but the impression is gained that had the train been taken over that bothersome switch at a slow speed, at a snail's pace if necessary, there would have been no such disaster. The car might have been derailed but it would not have suffered the impact it received. Speed there might be justified under normal conditions, but in view of the trouble it could hardly be regarded as a normal situation, and whether it was the fault of the repaired switch or of some human agent a little less speed at that particular point at that time would have been a valuable protective measure.

BYRD'S SHIP STARTS

More than one ship is going to be required to get the entire expedition of Commander Byrd underway, but the departure of the first of them furnishes real evidence that a start has been made, that the preparations which have long been underway are more than something to talk about and that it will not be long before all concerned will be on their way.

Commander Byrd goes to find out all that he can about the region about the south pole. He will put great dependence in flying machines but vessels are necessary for the movement of his equipment and stores. His campaign is being marked out with a thoroughness that should insure success. If that depends upon preparations there should be no question about it.

It is an undertaking, however, that means no end of hardships and sacrifice. Those who have enlisted for the trip, covering as it will a period of three years, understand what they are facing. They go because they are anxious to participate in the quest. There is a fascination about it in spite of the difficulties that are certain to be encountered and the perils that must be met.

Those who have gone into the polar regions and returned have seldom been satisfied. There is an attraction about such expeditions which continues to call them. They are constantly seeking fields to conquer. They follow that old saying "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again," when conditions have prevented them from accomplishing all that was desired on the initial trip, while the urge to add to their laurels and to make new contributions to science leads them into new and more ambitious undertakings.

Commander Byrd has demonstrated his ability in polar and long distance ocean flying. He has had a most valuable experience in navigating the air under conditions similar to what he can expect. To back that ability he is being given an equipment and a personnel for his expedition that is of the best. It is a trip that few would care to take, knowing what must be faced, but it is a well known fact that such expeditions never suffer from a shortage of men.

PAYING THE PENALTY

After a lull, for which there was much gratification, Mayor Gillis is once more back in the public eye, and as might be expected it is the result of his methods of running the city of Newburyport and his evident determination not to respect the law unless he is made to do so.

Mayor Gillis has been a critic of the manner in which the city of his birth has been run. He has taken the attitude of "I'll show 'em what's what" with the result that he has not only gotten a lot of cheap publicity but he has brought upon himself a stiff jail sentence and fine and this week faces injunction proceedings. But penalization is not falling solely on the mayor.

To the people of Newburyport it must be a sickening mess for the publicity that Gillis is getting for himself is certainly not reacting to the benefit of that city. It directs attention to a state of affairs for which the people of that community must be held responsible. Gillis is a Newburyport product. He wasn't taken on as a stranger. He was well known when his name was put forth as a candidate for mayor. Even though it was regarded as a joke, it was accepted by the electorate as the election result showed and now Newburyport is getting what it ordered.

If it doesn't like it, it is simply a repetition of an experience which other cities have gone through. It nevertheless calls attention to a situation which each and every community should anticipate and avoid when electing city officials. If elections are going to be treated as jokes it is a logical conclusion that the outcome will be in keeping therewith. If a careful and conscientious administration of affairs is desired, sufficient thought on the part of the voters to meet such requirements when picking and electing candidates is to be expected.

If Newburyport deplores the fact that Gillis is in office and its inability to get him out until his term expires it is probably a valuable lesson to the community which so far forgot its responsibilities as to permit his election. But it will be a serious mistake if the citizens of every other community do not profit from the antics of the Newburyport mayor and make it certain that nothing like that is permitted to occur within their midst.

ELIMINATING WAR

By the signing of the treaty to outlaw war, the leading nations of the world are taking a forward step today at Paris. There will remain the ratification by congress but there cannot fail to be appreciated the fact that so many nations are ready to join hands in this endeavor to strengthen international peace by looking to other methods of adjusting disputes instead of rushing into war.

Apparently only a part of the nations which are in sympathy with the pact are to be included in the first group of signers. Their example has, however, stimulated others to participate and the announcement that all other nations will be given a chance to affix their signatures at a later date is in keeping with the sentiment of the treaty itself. If such a move is a good thing for a few of the nations to thinking in channels of peace This includes Russia among the rest, for while the non-existence of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia stands in the way of this country inviting Russia to sign there is nothing to prevent France or some other nation from doing so.

There will be criticisms of the treaty and there will be efforts made to show that it fails to improve the situation that now exists, because of the reservations which the nations have made, but until something tangible in the way of proof is submitted it must be regarded as a move in the right direction.

It is entirely probable that it will not mean the elimination of all war. That would be a remarkable accomplishment but if it serves to get nations o thinking in channels of peace and reducing suspicion through the adjustment of problems according to facts it will be found well worth while. To get international thought directed in the way of war prevention is in itself highly desirable.

TILDEN AND TENNIS

There can be no surprise over the fact that William T. Tilden 2nd, seeks reinstatement in the United States Lawn Tennis association. That is the next move that is necessary if Mr. Tilden is to remain in the amateur ranks. The time would be ripe for his swing to the professionals provided he was inclined to such action, but such has never been the desire of the tennis star.

He finds himself dropped by the tennis association because of his method of interpreting the rules, the drafting of which he participated in. He encountered the provisions concerning the player who also writes. He drew the distinction in his case that he was not reporting but commenting on the matches in England but the organization could not accept any such interpretation and in view of his persistence in his violations found it impossible to do anything else than exclude him under the rules.

Perhaps the rule is far fetched. Possibly there are others who are doing the same thing. Nevertheless for one who had a hand in drafting the rule it should be expected that he would not be found trying to overstep it or traveling so close to the line that he would be bound to go over. As long as the rule exists it should apply to all including the best. If it is not a wise rule it should be eliminated, but that is not a matter for the individual but the organization to accomplish. Tilden is the country's greatest tennis player. He has done much for the game but that doesn't entitle him to disregard rules which are intended for all. He hasn't set a commendable example and he must change his attitude if he is to be reinstated.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: The last week of the long vacation is no sweeter than the first.

New York is a big city that does things in a big way even to crime waves and subway wrecks.

Aviators planning a westward flight over the Atlantic continue to encounter discouraging difficulties.

All nations are to be given a chance to sign the treaty against war, which is, of course, only as it should be.

The republicans of Norwich have an interest in the selection of delegates to coming conventions and should manifest it at tonight's caucus for their choice.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Hardwood floors should be waxed and polished once a month in order to keep them in good condition.

Sandwiches wrapped in oiled paper and put on a plate in the refrigerator until time for serving will keep fresh and soft.

When emptying your vacuum sweeper use a large paper bag such as groceries come in for the accumulated dust. This will prevent the scattering of dust when the sweeper is being cleaned.

Baked potatoes will be more mealy if one end is cut off before putting them into the oven. By putting them in this way the moisture is let out.

Milk bottles and glasses in which milk has been served should be rinsed in cold water before washing in hot soapsuds if you wish them to be clean and bright.

To poach an egg daintily break it into a greased cup and set in a covered pan of hot water.

Canned peaches topped with whipped cream are good to use on individual biscuit short cakes.

Meat for sandwich fillings is better chopped than sliced.

Serve Boston brown bread and fried apples with spare ribs.

To clean dried currants roll them first in flour, wash in cold water and drain, then spread out to dry. Roll again in flour before using.

A good floor stain that goes right into the wood and is very durable is made of linseed oil, colored with ground burnt umber. Rub thoroughly into the boards with a flannel pad and next day polish with beeswax and turpentine.

Vinegar and yeast should never be kept in stone jars. They possess an acid that attacks the glazing and causes a chemical change which renders the vinegar or yeast harmful.

When making jam rub the bottom of the preserving pan with a little oil. It prevents burning and leaves no disagreeable taste.

When making salad dressing, if you find that you are out of olive oil, melted butter may be used as a substitute.

PROTEIN AND MINERALS.

Food for growing boys and girls should contain a full allowance of protein and minerals. At certain ages boys and girls need from one to one and a half times as much protein and minerals as a man. The always hungry boy or girl between nine and 18 needs plenty of milk, butter, cereals, potatoes and cookies. Many diets are incorrect because of this lack of protein and mineral body-building foods.

CARE OF BROOMS.

Soft brooms last longer if dipped occasionally in hot water and salt.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

The all white coat for summer wear continues to be extremely smart and is shown in many variations. One of the most beautiful coats seen recently was of white material of a kashmir weave and was belted across the front only.

Heavy silver crosses, imitative of medieval church crosses, are appearing as the latest in jewelry. Some are heavily incrusted with jewels.

Women are buying large hats. The canelines are usually wide at the sides, the crowns high and round and the smartest trimming is cire ribbon. But they are difficult for many profiles. One usually has to be slim and tall to stand the larger shapes. The short woman looks snuffed out and the stout woman looks puffed out by them.

Rows of graduated little composition elephants are seen walking around the crowns of new black and black and white fall hats. Usually there are from five to six in a string and as a novelty they are rather attractive.

MODERN TREATMENT OF WOOD.

Much is to be said for the modern treatment of wood. Seldom is stain applied nowadays and thus one sees the wood in all its original beauty.

FOR A VERY GOOD GIRL

Yes, indeed, it is worth while being a very good girl, if one can receive a small pocket book of pink or blue silk completely covered with small silk rosebuds.

USES OF COTTAGE CHEESE.

Cottage chees is good in a great many ways. Serve it with rich cream and a little salt, or with sugar and cream or whole milk. Try combining it with pears, peaches, or other fresh fruits; raisins, cut dates, or figs; brown sugar, maple sugar or sirup, honey, jam, marmalade, or chopped nuts. It may be mixed with broken nut meats, chopped pimentos, finely cut green peppers, diced cucumbers, or other crisp vegetables. Horseradish, onion juice, and parsley make a good combination with cottage cheese.

SAVORY PUDDINGS.

To change bread or rice pudding, add some broken macaroons or some chopped, preserved ginger, with cocoanut, instead of raisins.

FRESH LETTUCE.

Lettuce is crisper if washed, separated and drapped in a lettuce bag of cheesecloth. Sprinkle thoroughly and put on ice.

LEMON PIE FOR ALL.

A delicious one-egg lemon cream pie can be made with the aid of a lemon-flavored custard paste; quarter-cup of sugar and a pint of water. The yolk is beaten into the preparation and the white used to make the meringue.

CONVERTIBLE SUNSHADE

A new colorful beach sunshade on a long handle is found to fold up and slide away and be converted into a walking stick.

FLOWERED GLOVES.

Paris sends us delicately colored kid gloves that have pansies, forget-me-nots and other colored kid flowers appliqued on their cuffs.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

In Louisiana women are not drawn for jury service unless they have filed with the court voluntary offer to serve.

The French national order of the Legion of Honor now has 693 women members, including nearly 50 Americans.

Though she is past 113 years of age, Mrs. Delina Filkins of Jordanville, N. Y., is still able to read without the use of glasses.

Mrs. John Krebs, aged 80 years, is city park superintendent at Hiawatha, Kan.

Mrs. Mary A. Brown, aged 88 years, of Portland, Me., is one of the few women who were on the firing lines in either army during the Civil war.

New Zealand girls are famous for their clear complexions, and these are due in a great measure to the open-air life everyone leads in New Zealand.

Within four years after being graduated in law, Miss Lelia Russell has advanced to the position of United States assistant attorney and president of the Florida League of Women Voters.

FROZEN TEA PUNCH.

Four one pint of boiling water over two teaspoonsful of tea, or use a tea ball if preferred. Let stand a minute and then strain. The water must not be allowed to stand on the leaves long enough to draw out the astringency in the tea. Make a heavy sirup with sugar and water and while hot, add one cupful of pineapple juice and half a cupful of red cherry juice, then the water and tea, and thoroughly chill. Pour into a freezer and freeze to a mushy consistency, and serve in tall glasses. If preferred, this may be served as a beverage instead of freezing. If so, add a cupful of chopped ice.

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS.

Sift together two cups of flour, one-half teaspoon of salt, three teaspoons of baking powder and two tablespoons of sugar. Beat one egg, add two-thirds cup of milk, two tablespoons of melted shortening. Stir the liquid into the dry mixture and beat until smooth. Then add one and one-half cups of ripe blueberries that have been picked over, washed over and thoroughly drained. Pour into well greased muffin pans and bake in a hot oven—400 degrees—for twenty minutes or until brown. This makes 9 large or 12 small muffins.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON—One aspect of the new Kellogg anti-war treaty is giving much concern in official circles. It may give new impetus to that always active element of public opinion generally grouped under the term pacifists.

Peace moves of this sort have been followed before by renewal of efforts sometimes embarrassing for political reasons to cut or restrict drastically the size and nature of the armed forces of the country.

Neither White House nor state department puts in with any idea that the treaty can alter national defense requirements, however hopeful may be the outlook that it will act as a further deterrent to war. Their motto is still 'keep your powder dry.'

It is a trifle difficult for a government to explain fully its national defense policies in view of necessary diplomatic reticences. Those very restrictions on too free discussion of possibilities that involve other countries' motives and the like are sometimes even more potent for peace than public declarations of peaceful purposes could be. Every language recognizes that as between individuals. Each has its equivalent of "least said, soonest mended."

By nature and training military folk are scoffers at the efficacy of peace-by-scraps-of-paper endeavors. In Washington they scoff privately rather than publicly as a rule.

But the point is, in so far as the new peace treaty and its possible reactions at home are concerned, that the men who made it agree with the military folk that it does not justify any change in the size or nature of Uncle Sam's warlike equipment, maintained for his own protection. They have no illusions about that.

Incidentally, now that Secretary Kellogg has rendered service to the cause of peace, not only in the new treaty, but also in fostering a termination of the long diplomatic estrangement between Chile and Peru, possibly he could be induced to try his hand on a snarl at home that needs attention. There is the rupture of football amity between West Point and Annapolis still getting nowhere fast. An adroit and skillful diplomat seems called for.

Privately, many officers of both services who are long enough out of the academies for their natural alma mater ardor to have cooled a bit admit that the row which put the great interservice football classic down and out for this year at least was a silly affair. Army contends it was Navy manners—bad manners—that caused the break. The soldiers take the position that their sailor colleagues made a scrap of paper out of the four year playing treaty and tried to force adoption of the intercollegiate three year player rule by tactics equivalent to holding a gun at Army's head.

Be that as it may, if the player rule itself, or some player rule, is not the real bone of contention, a solution of the difficulty and restoration of the great, colorful Army-Navy game to the sporting and social calendar ought to be apparent to a skilled negotiator of suitable standing.

Stories That Recall Others

Solo Honeymoon.

They were soon to be married and were planning their honeymoon, a fishing trip, the bridegroom's suggestion. As he enthusiastically described his new equipment, the umbrella tent, the folding radio and smokeless stove, the mother of Charlotte, the bride-to-be spoke up emphatically: "I didn't know that you meant to camp. If it's a camping trip, Charlotte can't go."

The Limit.

Little Ned, a guest at lunch, ate very heartily of the soup, which chanced to be his favorite kind. After his second plate, his hostess, amused and delighted at his gusto, asked him to have some more. Ned responded in all politeness and seriousness: "No, thank you, Mrs. Jackson. I've had all I can stand."

IN THE DAYS NEWS

Some Sacred Animals of the World.

"Reports from the Zuni Indian tribe of New Mexico that many of the tribesmen possess sacred toads which they carry in hollow reeds, recall the sacred character of many animals in various parts of the world," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Benares, India, the holy city of the Hindus, might be called 'the capital' of sacred animal world. In the narrow congested streets travelers are jostled about by the crowds who bow and give way to sacred overfed cows and white bulls.

"Pious Hindus please their gods by throwing clothing, trinkets and other offerings upon the animals until all but their roofs are concealed. Now and then a sacred ape passes and is accorded the same respect; and in the so-called Monkey Temple and its courtyard, swarms of sacred monkeys are fed and petted by visiting pilgrims. Perhaps the fruit and vegetable stands bordering the city sidewalks suffer most from the pious quadrupeds. As the animals consume the merchandise the owner must permit it with a smile. He dares not mistreat the sacred beasts.

"Creeping things such as lizards and snakes are held sacred by the natives of the South Sea islands. Snakes are also 'holy' among the natives of Nigeria whose three gods are the serpent, the tall tree and the sea. The serpent, however, is the most honored among them. They build snake temples in its honor and the tribesmen's bodies are marked with crude figures of reptiles.

"Since ancient times the Cambodians of French Indo-China have lined their highways and adorned their temples with monumental figures of Naga, a sacred seven-headed cobra. Wagging tails of the huge reptile extending from the gables of many Cambodian buildings resemble spiral lightning rods.

"Among the natives of Madagascar there is class distinction of the deceased. It is believed that the souls of fellow tribesmen are reborn in boa constrictors, crocodiles and eels. The boa constrictor represents the soul of a nobleman. Instead of killing the reptile, the natives go down on their knees when they encounter one in the wilderness. Natives have been known to spread silk cloth in the path of boa constrictors that have come into villages.

"The souls of Madagasco commoners, according to the belief of some tribes, are reborn in crocodiles while a low class tribesman must be content with the life of an eel after death. Eels are also held sacred by some tribes of the Philippines. Other Filipinos believe their souls are reborn in the form of scorpions and insects. These are never killed.

"The American would lead a miserable existence in Assam. Here some of the natives dare not kill the house fly for fear of destroying some of their ancestors. They likewise respect the butterfly. Some of the rivers in Upper Burma would make splendid fishing grounds, but one fish might mean death to the fisherman for the natives in this region believe their dead relatives come to life in a fishy form. Rodents and climbing animals are held sacred in eastern Cochin, China.

"'Poor pussy' is not 'poor' nor does she need nine lives among the Mangs, a low Indian caste who regard the cat as a sacred animal. Their most solemn oath is sworn 'by the sacred cat.' Another caste of India called the Naodas swear by the sacred dog or cow.

"The Solomon Islanders can make any animal sacred among their relatives. When a tribesman is about to die he calls his relatives to his death bed and tells them what sort of an animal he wishes to receive his soul. It may be a bird, a butterfly or a shark. Whatever it is, the creature named henceforth is held sacred.

"Tigers are seldom killed by certain Sumatran tribes. If one is killed accidentally or in self defense, the dead animal receives an apology for it might have contained the soul of one of the killer's relatives. The deer is a sacred animal among some of the Borneo tribesmen while in New Guinea fish and pigs are shown the same respect. Among the Todas of southern Indian, a sacred buffalo is killed during an elaborate ceremony, roasted on a sacred fire, and his carcass ceremoniously feasted upon.

"The Valans, a fishing caste in southern India hold a cock festival when they offer up sacred cocks, seeking immunity from disease. In Malabar, India, the devout Hindus carry sacred cocks on pilgrimages as the worshipers of Kali carry sacred goats. The more sacred animals they can deliver at the holy places, the greater will be their religious reward.

"Camels were sacred among the Arabs in ancient times. Squawking geese once frustrated an attack upon Rome and the fowls were later held in a certain veneration.

"The owl symbolized one of the gods of the Mayans. Among the Syrians the dove was the holiest of birds. Sacred doves are said to be kept at Mecca today. In Russia the peasants call the dove the bird of the Holy Ghost.

"The famous white elephants of Siam which were supposed to embody the spirit of some ancient king or hero were once worshiped by the Siamese. When a white elephant was captured, it was tied to a tree with a silk rope until tamed and taught 'elephant etiquette' of the royal household. The floating wooden palace on which the sacred beast was brought to Bangkok was handsomely decorated and there were attendants who bathed and perfumed it throughout the journey. Tender grasses, sugar cane and other choice elephant foods were served on gold and silver trays. The remainder of the ceremony of induction into the royal herd compared with the gorgeousness of a coronation ceremony of an eastern potentate."

Health Thoughts for Summer Wayfarers

By Alice G. Bryant, M. D., Boston, Mass. Member Gorgas Memorial

Present day methods of camping were unknown half a century ago. During the years the leaders of the organized and private camps have drawn from the well of experience. They have recognized the necessity of making these camps houses for health, education, and spiritual uplift. To obtain best results, the leaders have realized the need to work together for the common good. So they subjected themselves to the control of health boards. The states are forehanded in their public health work and they carry on a feverish search for newer scientific methods in sanitation. The public health doctors have taught the public to think, to act in a sanitary manner. It is a vital necessity to safeguard food, water and milk. Everybody medical knows how to make war on mosquitoes and flies. The ambulatory campers, picnic sojourners, and summer boarders are more poverty-stricken in their sanitation contacts, as their habitations are not always under the helpful, vigilant, and sanitary eye of the law.

As summer advances, many of the dwellers in our twenty-six million homes are thinking of vacations and outings. They have, for the most part, a hunger for the less restricted and the more unconventional areas. Many of them have no mons to waste or even to spend beyond the bare or ordinary necessities of life. Their enthusiastic quest for the open ways and places intensifies their silent searching wish to remain in cordial and close touch with nature. A cool gurgling brook may harbor typhoid germs. It may be a drainage stream for near or distant human evacuations. Avoid swampy waters. If water is unsafe to drink, it is also unsafe to cleanse the cooking and table utensils. Foods should be fresh, clean, and protected. Flies have a passion for human beings and food. The milkers and caretakers of the cows should be free from disease. Boil or pasteurize the milk. Keep milk containers clean and covered. Fruit and vegetables should be washed to avoid insects, insect powders, and fertilizers.

Do not turn the camp into a refuse heap. Community interest and sanitation forbid it. It is a gross offence against the charm of rural pride. Prepare to meet the problems of sanitation. When in doubt, consult the board of health. Develop a health conscience. It is a calamity not to know, to think, and to practice sanitation.

The Roller Water Remover of the NEW MAYTAG

For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor.

THE Maytag, which originated the cast-aluminum tub and the gyrafoam water-washing action, now gives you a method of soap and water removal years in advance of the times—the safest, handiest and most efficient known.

The Safety Feed makes it much easier to start the clothes through the rolls. The large soft rolls hug every lump, seam and fold of the clothes, removing both soap and water evenly and without pressing hard-to-iron wrinkles into the clothes. Buttons, ornaments and laces go through unharmed.

This remarkable water remover is compact, close to the water line; swings and locks in seven different positions. The tension adjusts itself, the drainboard reverses itself and the handy safety release instantly separates the rolls five inches apart.

Mother and Son Very Weak After Sickness

Put On Weight, Gain Rapidly and Now Out of Danger.

To McCoy Laboratories:

Two years ago my 12-year-old son and I both had diphtheria, after which we were both left very anemic. My boy had to quit school and got so weak he could not walk across the room; after finding he was anemic he took bottles and bottles of blood medicine without any results, so having seen your McCoy's Tablets advertising so much I decided to try them, it was but a short time after doing so that he was out playing and going to school. I also started taking them. At the time I weighed 103 pounds and when I had taken three boxes I weighed 126 pounds. Now weigh 132 and it is the first in years I have felt real well. We are greatly indebted to McCoy's. I have recommended them to ever so many friends and in every instance they have become very beneficial.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 Sixty Cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—the purchase price will be refunded.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at Lee & Osgood Co. or any drug store in America.

THERE is nothing that has ever taken the place of Bayer Aspirin as an antidote for pain. Safe, or physicians wouldn't use it, and endorse its use by others. Sure, or several million users would have turned to something else. But get real Bayer Aspirin (at any drugstore) with Bayer on the box, and the word genuine printed in red:

NORWICH TOWN

At the Sacred Heart church, Saturday morning at 7:30, the pastor, Rev. Edward J. Quinn, celebrated an anniversary requiem high mass for the repose of the soul of John F. Burns, at his death a resident of Peck's Corner. Mrs. William A. Murphy directed the choir. At the offertory, Miss Mary Buckley sang De Profundis, and at the conclusion of the mass she sang Jesus, Lover of My Soul. There was a large attendance of relatives, family friends and neighbors.

During this week, Rev. Edward J. Quinn, pastor of Sacred Heart church, will be absent from town on his annual retreat, as announced at the masses Sunday morning at this church.

Norwich Town friends are in receipt of cards from Mrs. Althea Brown, sent from Burlington, Vt., while in company with others for a week, they having attended the Grange conference in session there. During her absence, Mrs. Brown and party went through Ausable Chasm, also Grand Isle. Several nights were spent in Burlington, one at Lake George, also at Pittsfield. Fort Henry was visited and an interesting feature of the return trip which was by way of Lake George, Pittsfield, Jacob's Ladder and Springfield, was the stop for the races at Saratoga Springs.

Crosby Peck of Norwich Town, who with Robert Main of Ledyard left several days ago for a motor trip to Provincetown, Cape Cod, has returned home.

While Mrs. Michael Farrell, organist at St. Mary's Memorial church, Greeneville, was having two weeks' vacation, her place was supplied by Mrs. Williams A. Murphy of Norwich Town several times.

Deposits on Cylinders

It is a common belief among motorists that the hard carbon residue found in the cylinders and on the valves is the result of too great a quantity of lubricating oil. This is true to a certain extent, but the hard deposit may be formed even when the proper amount of the best quality of oil is used.

It has been found that the nucleus of this deposit consists of the products of imperfect combustion of the mixture, which collect on the piston head and walls of the top of the cylinder in the form of a sticky mass. This catches the dirt and dust from the road as it is "breathed" into the motor through the carburetor, and the resulting compound gradually hardens until a sufficient deposit is collected to make a thorough over-hauling and valve-grinding necessary. It is consequently important not only that the proper grade and amount of lubricant should be used in the cylinder, but that the carburetor should be regulated to deliver the proportion of air and gasoline vapor that forms the most perfect burning charge for each explosion.

HARTFORD MAN FATALLY INJURED IN AUTO CRASH AT UNCASVILLE

About five hours after he was admitted to the Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospitals in New London following an automobile accident on the Norwich-New London highway in the town of Montville at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, Abner Tilton of Norfolk street, Hartford, died from concussion of the brain and a fracture of the left leg. Two other occupants of the machine, Gilbert Doyle and Charles Terry, also of Hartford, escaped serious injury. The former received a few scratches on his wrist.

It is said that the Buick touring car, in which the three Hartford men were riding, was driven by Tilton and was traveling at a rapid rate in the direction of Norwich. After passing the intersection of the Norwich and New London and Palmertown-Oakdale highways at Uncasville, it is believed that the driver thought that the cement wall, on the left hand side of the road, was the highway. Marks in the highway show the course of the machine after passing Pappas Bros. restaurant at the intersection, the machine striking the wall at the curve and continuing for about 80 feet, coming to a stop almost opposite the Uncas lunch.

Dr. John J. Donohue of Montville, who had just returned from acting as medical examiner for the town of Montville in a drowning case at Wheeler's pond, found the highway for a distance of 75 or 80 feet strewn with glass and parts of the machine. The occupants were thrown from the machine into the highway, where Tilton was found by Dr. Donohue on his arrival. After an examination of Tilton, Dr. Donohue notified the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals at New London, and he was taken there in the ambulance.

Just before the ambulance arrived, Mr. Doyle, who was examined by Dr. Donohue and showed no evidence of injury, collapsed and complained of a pain in his stomach. He was taken in the ambulance along with Tilton, but he was not kept at the hospital for treatment. Terry received a few scratches about the wrist. It was stated by Dr. Donohue that the men showed no signs of liquor, and he advanced the opinion that the wall had been misleading to the driver, who evidently thought that it was the cement highway.

The wall was erected at the time of the construction of the new cement road. It was built as a protection to the dam and its apron and is located between the railroad tracks which cross the highway and the intersection of the two roads.

George Sisson, newly appointed traffic officer of the town of Montville, was notified and directed traffic until after the machine was removed to a garage. The machine was a complete wreck.

NORWICH PASTOR VICE PRES. CAMP MEETING ASSOCIATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 26—The annual meeting of the Camp Meeting association was held at 4 p. m. yesterday. The former officers were all re-elected. Rev. Myron E. Genter, the superintendent of Norwich district by virtue of his office, continues as president; vice president, Rev. Joseph Cooper of Norwich; secretary, Rev. F. C. Baker; treasurer, Edward M. Wheeler of Providence.

On Sunday at 9 a. m. occurred the annual "love feast" led by the Rev. F. C. Baker of North Grosvenordale. As usual this was a very interesting service. Especially interesting are the testimonies of some of the older people some of whom make great effort to attend the camp meeting. Some who testified at this service have been attending here for more than fifty years.

The morning service of public worship was held in the outdoor auditorium at 10:30. Prayer was offered by Rev. H. H. Critchlow of Willimantic, Rev. F. W. Gray of Burnside led the congregation in repeating the first psalm. Rev. W. D. Hamilton of Thompsonville read the New Testament lesson. The large chorus choir led by Mrs. Manuel rendered a selection. Madame Davenport sang two choice selections, viz.: "The Voice Crying in the Wilderness" and "How Lovely Are Thy Tabernacles." The preacher was Rev. Philip L. Frick, D. D., of Schenectady, N. Y., who has made for himself a warm place in the hearts of the people here who have had the privilege of listening to him on this grounds for the past four summers. His subject was "Peter's Shadow" as suggested in Acts 5:15 where it is recorded that people brought their sick to Peter hoping that if, nothing more, his shadow might fall upon them believing that even this would be helpful to them. Dr. Frick found in this incident a lofty tribute to the powerful influence of a great and good life.

The prayer meeting at the Stafford Springs house at 1 p. m. was led by Rev. A. E. Potter of Leonardsville, Long Island.

Again at 2 p. m. the outdoor auditorium was used and there was an increased audience. Rev. Albert Abbott read the scripture lesson. Prayer was offered by Rev. Jones of Mansfield Center. The choir rendered a selection.

Madame Davenport sang with effect two selections, viz: "Come Unto Me" and "Teach Me to Pray." Dr. Chas. L. Goodell was the preacher of the afternoon. His subject was "The Greatest Story in the World." His text was in the 119th Psalm and the Bible was identified as the "Greatest Story." Among other things, he said that it was one of the temples of history that in the same house, in which Voltaire prophesied that in one hundred years the Bible would not be read, there was being sold at the end of that hundred years the same Bible that house being a depot for the sale of the scriptures. The preacher presented with panoramic effect some the striking portions of this book portraying it astory, history, poetry, allegory, etc., in outline holding the close interest of the great audience to the end.

The program Saturday evening included a group of songs by Madame Ida Davenport of New York city followed by an address by Dr. Frick on the topic "The Fall of Gold." Following the address Madame Davenport presented another group of songs. Miss Roberta Bitzood of New London acted as piano accompanist. The program was greatly appreciated and enjoyed, each number receiving a hearty encore.

The "morning watch" Saturday was in charge of Rev. Hollis M. French of Portland. His talk was based upon the vision of Isaiah, the prophet found in Isa. 6:1-8. He urged that God gives visions to people only that they may translate them into action.

At 9:30, Dr. Goodell spoke on "Personal Work." He said that a personal gospel must precede the social gospel. Some stress the importance of methods. Others say the consecrated life is most importance. If forced to choose between the two, I would choose the latter but both are important.

MAKING SURVEY OF PATRONAGE ON BUS

A. C. Stewart, superintendent of buses of the New England Transportation Co., writes Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the chamber of commerce that he has conferred with the traffic department of the company in regard to a change in the 10 a. m. trip of the buses. He also writes that "beginning Friday morning we are making a survey of the patronage on this trip for a few days to ascertain if the proposed change would affect any other local travel off and on between Norwich and New London on the east side."

Superintendent Stewart was appealed to by Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the chamber of commerce after several complaints had been received by the chamber from salesmen and merchants of this city and other places relative to that trip. They claimed that the buses used the east side of the river and oftentimes were held up at the drawbridge when open, making it impossible to make train connections at New London with New York and other places.

Surrounded by his family in the quiet of his home in Little Rock, Ark., Senator Robinson of Arkansas celebrated his 56th birthday

GEN. AIKEN TALKED WITH LINCOLN EIGHT TIMES

William A. Aiken of Washington street remembers Lincoln. He talked with him eight times; he heard him nominated in the Wigwam in Chicago and he saw him lying dead from an assassin's bullet five years later. His business with the president was concerned with arming and otherwise equipping the volunteer regiments of Connecticut. He went as the private messenger of the governor of the state and how it came about is bound up with his courtship of that governor's only daughter.

Eliza Buckingham went to Milwaukee in the late fifties to visit relatives and there she met a young man, who, though he had been born in Vermont and educated at Dummer academy and Phillips Andover, was already established in a business in that city. He soon afterwards moved to Chicago where he was a partner in the firm of Lanman & Aiken, wholesale grocers. Perhaps he was being drawn east in short stages for he soon made a visit to Norwich and asked William A. Buckingham for his only daughter's hand in marriage.

While he was yet her fiance and eager to make a good impression on the governor, as he put it the other day, the first gun was fired on Sumter. The fort fell, Lincoln called for troops and the Civil war began. Governor Buckingham, eager both to bring back the rebel states into the union and to free the slaves, sent the young man who was soon to enter the family, to Lincoln with messages of loyalty and eagerness for action.

General Aiken—he won this title as quarter-master general for Connecticut in the latter part of the war—has now reached his 96th year.

STATE IS SAFEGUARDING INSURANCE BUYING PUBLIC

A marked decrease in the proportion of unsuccessful applicants for licenses to sell insurance in Connecticut is indicated by the results of the agents' qualifying examinations covering the first seven months of this year, which has been made public by Insurance Commissioner Howard F. Dunham. The Connecticut insurance department was one of the first in the country to safeguard the insurance-buying public by requiring that each prospective agent pass an examination as a prerequisite to obtaining a license to sell insurance.

Out of the 1,290 applicants examined this year up to Aug. 1, the number of failures was 132, or 10.2 per cent, as against 17 per cent for the corresponding period last year. This decrease in the percentage of failures is attributed to the fact that more companies are training prospective agents at their home offices.

Many of the men who fail to pass the test the first time try again and succeed, some taking the test three or four times. On June 20 last, there were 27,321 licenses to sell insurance in force and 5,892 agents in Connecticut. A man may be licensed as agent for several companies, and may handle more than one type of insurance. Under a new ruling of the department persons who solicit for firms, partnerships or corporations must have individual licenses, whereas previously they were allowed to operate under the license of an agency.

The questions asked in the test are the result of careful scientific study. While not necessarily highly technical or difficult, they are designed to cover the essentials which every agent should know for the protection of the public against ignorant misrepresentation of insurance contracts.
